of a family shall be allowed as his own head right, and without any other or further charges than the office and surveying fees, two hundred acres; and such person shall also be permitted to purchase* at the rate of fifty acres for each and every head right in his family, on the following terms, that is to say, one shilling per acre for the first hundred acres, and one shilling and sixpence per acre for the second hundred acres, two shillings per acre for the third hundred acres, and two shillings and sixpence per acre for the fourth hundred acres, and so on, in the same progression, according to the number of head rights in such family: Provided the quantity of land granted and sold to any one person shall not exceed one thousand acres,† and that such person do live on and cultivate a part of the said land, twelve months before he or she shall be entitled to a grant for the same; And also further provided, That such person hath not heretofore received the head right for which he or she then applies, either under the present or former government of this State.

And whereas this State hath made engagements to the soldiery and other troops, which in justice they ought to fulfil;

33. Sec. II. Be it therefore enacted, That in case any officer or soldier, or other person, claiming under such engagements as aforesaid, shall produce a certificate from his honor the governor, for the time being, that a tract or tracts of land is, or are due to him, that then such officer, soldier, or other person, shall be entitled to a warrant and grant for any unlocated lands (agreeable to the quantity contained in his certificate) within this State.

34. Sec. III. Every person applying by head rights, as aforesaid, shall previous to his obtaining a grant for his land, or having it in his power to dispose of the same, (otherwise than by will,) settle and improve a part of such tract or tracts, as he may obtain a warrant and survey of, for the space of twelve months as aforesaid, and actually cultivate and clear at the rate of three acres at least for every hundred acres of the said land.

35. Sec. IV. There shall be a surveyor general for the State, and also a surveyor for each county, annually chosen by the legislature; ‡ and such county surveyors, so elected, shall have power to appoint one or more assistants if necessary, and the aforesaid county surveyor or his assistant or assistants are hereby authorized to lay out and survey, to any person or persons who shall apply, all such lands as he, she, or they may have obtained a warrant for, and the said county surveyor is hereby required to keep an office in that part of the county where the superior court is holden, in which said office shall be recorded all such plats or surveys belonging to such county, as shall be made within two months from the date of the warrant; and the said county surveyor shall also transmit to the surveyor general a fair copy of the same, together with the warrant, within three months from the date of the latter; and the surveyor general shall record such plat in his office, and when and as soon as the full consideration money for the said land, (if granted on purchase as aforesaid,) together with office fees shall be paid, the said surveyor general shall record such plat in his office, and pass the original into the secretary's office for a grant thereof, to be made out and signed by the governor, or in his absence by the president for the time being, when the party shall be entitled thereto, under the terms aforesaid; and the said grant, when signed as aforesaid, shall be returned into the secretary's office, to be

But lands to be lapsed, if the purchase money and office fees are not paid in twelve months.

Grant not to issue if caveat is filed.

36. Sec. V. All caveats against the passing of grants, shall be entered in the office of the county surveyor where the land lies, who shall give notice thereof by advertisement in the most public place of the said county, at least thirty days before a final determination is had on such caveat. And the manner of trying such caveat shall be as follows: The justices of the county, or any three or more of them, shall, on the day succeeding the day on which they meet for the purpose of granting warrants for lands, cause to be drawn and summoned out of the bystanders (being freeholders within this State) a jury of twelve men, who being duly sworn to try the matter according to law and equity, shall immediately proceed to try and give their verdict thereon, which shall be final and conclusive.† And the said county surveyors shall once in every month, when they respectively transmit to the surveyor general fair copies of plats, together with warrants as before directed, also transmit and send to the said surveyor general a regular account of all caveats depending or determined in their respective counties, in order that the same may from time to time be laid before his honor the governor and executive council, as a guide in respect to the signing of grants.

Caveats shall be entered in the county surveyor's office, and advertised thirty days. Mode of trial.

The county surveyor shall send monthly an account of caveats descending to the surveyor general.

37. Sec. VI. A majority of the justices belonging to each county ‡ shall be empowered, and they are hereby required, on the first Monday in each month, and for as many days immediately following as they shall find it necessary, to hold a court (at the place where the superior courts of such county are usually held) for the purpose of receiving applications for lands, according to justice and the true intent and meaning of this act; they the said justices, or a majority of them, shall order warrants to issue, and the same shall be signed by the senior justice then present, and attested by the clerk, commanding and requiring the county surveyor to lay out and admeasure such tract or tracts of land, within their respective counties, as they shall think fit to grant, under the terms and directions contained in this law.

Warrants may be granted on the first Monday in every month.

38. Sec. VII. All and every person and persons, before he, she, or they, shall obtain a warrant or warrants for any land within this State, shall on oath declare, before the said justices holding a court as aforesaid, that he, she, or they, hath or have not taken up or obtained land in this State for the head rights, or any of them, at that time applied for; and also that he, she, or they, doth or do not hold, nor have had granted, under the present or former government, to him, her, or them, on head rights as aforesaid, any quantity of land exceeding one thousand acres, nor more land than, together with what is at that time applied for, will make a quantity exceeding one thousand acres; and such person or persons shall also at the same time produce a certificate, signed by two or more justices of the county, he, she, or they last resided in, or such other credentials as will satisfy the court of the honesty and integrity of the person or persons so applying; and thereafter the said warrant shall issue, signed and attested as aforesaid, and run in the following form: "By the court of justices for the county of _____. To A. B. county surveyor of said county: You are hereby authorized and required to admeasure and lay out, or cause to be admeasured and laid out, unto C. D. a tract of land, which shall contain _____ acres, in the said county of ____ (here describe the buttings and boundings of the land as particularly as may be) taking special care that the same has not heretofore been laid out to any other person or persons: And you are also hereby directed and required, to record the plat of the same in your office, and transmit a copy thereof, together with this warrant, to the surveyor general, within the term of three months* from this date. Given under my hand, as senior justice of the said court, this ____ day of ____ 178 .

39. Sec. VIII. The clerk of the said court of justices shall keep a regular book of entries, of all applications made and warrants issued, specifying the buttings and boundings of the lands contained in the same; and the several county surveyors shall, previous to their entering on the execution of their office, take and subscribe the following oath, before two or more of the justices of the county to which they respectively belong; "I, A. B. do solemnly swear, that I will, to the best of my skill and knowledge, discharge the duty of surveyor for the county of _____, and that I will not admeasure, survey, or lay out, or knowingly admit of or cause to be admeasured, surveyed, or laid out, any land, without a warrant first obtained for that purpose." And such county surveyors respectively shall give bond, with approved security, in the penal sum of five hundred pounds† specie, to his honor the governor for the time being, conditioned for the good behavior in office, and true performance of the trust reposed in such surveyor; which said bond shall be taken in and by the first court of justices which shall convene and sit after the appointment of such county surveyors respectively, and the same shall be immediately transmitted to his honor the governor, liable to be put in suit, in case of any misbehavior in the said county surveyor; and it shall be a part of the duty of such county surveyors, punctually to observe and carry into execution all such orders and instructions, as they shall from time to time receive from the surveyor general, and to swear, or cause to be sworn, all chain carriers within their respective counties.

40. Sec. IX. All warrants heretofore (that is to say, since the revolution) obtained for vacant lands, and surveys, that have been made in consequence of such warrants, within the present temporary boundary line between the white inhabitants of this State and the Indians, shall be delivered into the court of justices of the county where such land lies, who shall make such order to the county surveyor respecting the same as the nature of the case may require, and as to justice shall appertain. And it shall be a standing rule with the said court of justices and county surveyors, and all others concerned in the execution of this law, that in all and every case where any person or persons whatsoever, or his legal representative or representatives (being at this time a free citizen or citizens of America) was or were, on the twenty-ninth day of December, in the year of our Lord 1778, entitled by any law or order of the present government, to a grant of lands already run and located by such person or persons, that in all and every such case the said grant shall now actually pass, and be signed and sealed without any further or other additional charges or incumbrances (in consequence of this law) upon the same, except office fees.

And whereas, in the year of our Lord 1778, there was issued by the authority of this State a proclamation, inviting settlers to migrate into the same; in consequence whereof many persons did actually come into the State, and sat down on pieces or parcels of vacant land, for which they meant to apply for grants under the terms of the said proclamation, but by reason of the confusions which have since taken place, they the said persons have not been able as yet to obtain or take out such grants:

41. Sec. X. Be it therefore enacted, That in all and every case, where it shall appear that any person or persons is or are really and bona fide entitled, under the terms of the said proclamation, to any grant or grants whereon he, she, or they, have fixed some mark of possession, within the present temporary division line between the white inhabitants and the Indians, that he, she, or they, so entitled as aforesaid, or his, her, or their legal representative or representatives, shall have the preference on application for the said land, to all and every other person or persons whatsoever. And there shall not be any other or further charge (except office fees) on the said land, than was to have been paid on the same at the time such person or persons took possession thereof as aforesaid, any thing in this act contained to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding.

42. Sec. XI. All surveys which have, or may have been made, or lines run by any means, or under any pretence whatsoever, beyond the present temporary line within this State, between the white inhabitants and the Indians belonging to the same, or on any part of the lands not already laid out into counties, but allowed to remain as hunting ground for the Indians at present, shall and the same is, and are hereby declared to be null and void, to all intents and purposes, as though such surveys or lines had never been made. And all and every person and persons whatsoever who shall hereafter survey, or assist in surveying, or procure to be surveyed and marked with lines, any of the lands above described, whereon the Indians are allowed to hunt for their support, or who shall obtain, or attempt to obtain a grant for the same, before such lands are taken within the boundary of the white inhabitants of this State, and the mode of granting such lands so to be taken in be agreed and determined on by the legislature, and published by proclamation, all and every such person and persons shall forfeit and pay a penalty of twenty shillings for every acre of land* he, she, or they, shall so run, or attempt to run, or obtain, or attempt to obtain a grant for, which said penalty shall be recovered in any court of record or conscience (according to the amount thereof) within this State, and shall be for the use of any person or persons, who shall inform of, and sue for the same, either by way of information or action. And if the person or persons against whom a judgment shall be obtained for any penalty as aforesaid, shall be unable

Surveyor general and county surveyors, how to be governed.

44. Sec. XIV. The surveyor general and all county surveyors shall, as nearly as may be, be governed and directed in the execution of all warrants, and in making their surveys, by the known rules, laws, and customs of this State in regard to such business, in so far as the same may be made to consist with this law, the revolution in government, and the true interest of the republic, as shall from time to time be expressed by its legislature or executive body.

An Act to repeal and amend some parts of an act entitled "An act for opening the land office."—Approved August 1, 1783. Vol. I. 328.

Sec. I. [Repeals that clause in the foregoing act, [sec. 37.] which requires a majority of the justices in the county to act in granting land warrants.]

Five justices, including an assistant justice, shall hold land court on the first Monday in every month.

45. Sec. II. The justices of the several counties, or any five* of them, as hereafter mentioned, shall meet in their respective counties on the first Monday in each month, and for as many days following as they shall find it necessary, to hold a court at the place where the superior courts of such counties respectively are held: And the said justices so met, or any number of them not under five, (and of which five or greater number, one or more of the assistant justices of the county shall be a part,) shall constitute a board, and be competent to do and transact all and singular the business pointed out and required by the said act to be done by a board of justices.

Sec. III. [Directs that audited certificates (if brought in within one year,) shall be received as specie in the purchase of lands—temporary.]

And whereas many persons now residents of other States have formerly obtained warrants, under which they have surveyed lands in the different counties of this State, and have never obtained grants for the same.

The governor to issue a proclamation for non-resident holders of surveys on old warrants not granted, to come and settle the same in 12 months, or the surveys shall be void.

46. Sec. IV. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That his honor the governor be empowered and required to issue his proclamation immediately after the passing of this act, and cause the same to be published in the several gazettes of the United States, requesting all and every such person or persons, residents of other States, who hold lands by surveys as aforesaid, or other claims, that he, she, or they, shall come in within the space of twelve months after the issuing of the said proclamation, and settle their respective claims according to the laws of this State; and on default of their not coming in within the time limited, every such survey or claim is hereby declared null and void, and any other person or persons entitled to land, shall be at liberty to apply and obtain grants for the said land, the same as for any other unlocated lands within this State, notwithstanding said surveys or claims; provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall extend to affect or injure the right of any person or persons, who is, or are at present in his, her, or their minority, until one year after such person or persons shall arrive at the age of twenty-one years.

Proviso.

The rights of infants not to be affected.

47. Sec. V. In all and every case where it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of his honor the governor, that the party applying for and entitled to any grant, (to which the father or husband of him, her, or them, was entitled at any time before the twenty-ninth day of December, which was in the year of our Lord 1778,) is a minor under the age of twenty-one years, or a widow, and that such widow became so since that period; and that the father of such minor, or the husband of such widow did actually in his life-time pay the costs or fees of his grant in the proper offices; that in all and every such case, the said minor or widow shall be exempted from all fees or costs; and his or her grant shall be passed, and signed, sealed and delivered gratis.* And his honor the governor and the other officers concerned in the signing and making out grants shall charge their respective fees to the public.

Office fees on certain grants to be paid by the public.

48. Sec. VI. Nothing in this act contained shall extend, or be construed to extend to authorize and empower the justices, (in number before mentioned,) who shall be met and convened for the purpose of granting lands, to hold more than one court, at one and the same place and time: And the assistant justice then present, who shall be the senior, either by an older commission or by being first named in the same commission with others, shall preside in that said court, and shall be invested with all and singular the powers given to, and be under the directions pointed out for the president of the board of justices in and by the "Act for opening the Land Office," before mentioned.

Not more than one land court to be held in a county at one time and place.

An Act for laying out two or more counties to the westward, and pointing out the mode of granting the same.—Approved Feb. 25, 1784. Vol. I. 330.

Whereas it is necessary in order to strengthen this State, and for the convenience of the inhabitants, that new counties should be laid out and properly settled,

49. Sec. I. Therefore be it enacted, &c. That the present temporary line, circumscribing the Indian hunting ground, shall be marked by a line drawn from that part of the north branch of Savannah river, known by the name of Keowee,† which shall be intersected by a line running northeast from the Okenna mountain, thence in the same direction to Tugalo river, from thence on a direct line to the top of the Cunokee mountain, thence to the head or source of the most southern stream of the Oconee river,‡ including all the waters of the same, thence down the said river to the old line, thence along the said line.

* This act not taking effect throughout the other counties of the State until the next year. [see the act next in order, sec. 11.] it follows, that lands taken up in any other part of the State between the 25th of February, 1784, and the 22d of February, 1785, were granted under the laws passed prior to this. A more intelligible designation of these lines may therefore be not unacceptable. It is ascertained by documents in the possession of the surveyor general, and is endeavored to be so described, as that it may be traced with tolerable certainty on Sturges' map of the State.

Beginning on the Tugalo river two miles below the mouth of the Keowee, and running about the course of the line between Elbert and Franklin, and about two miles to the westward of it until it strikes the county of Madison, say about a mile above the junction of the North and Hudson's forks of Broad river. Thence with the old Tulalo path, which is not laid down in the map, but curves a little to the west so as to leave Danielsville about half a mile on the left, and which, after passing through Madison, forms the dividing line between Oglethorpe and Clarke as far as the Cherokee corner. From the Cherokee corner in a direct line to the head of the North fork of Ogeechee, about seven miles N. E. of Greensborough. Thence down the Ogeechee to the Indian bluff in Bulloch. Thence with the old Indian trail, not marked on the map, but leading nearly direct to Beard's bluff on the Alatanaha in Liberty county. Sec. VI. [Cultivation of three acres in the hundred, the first year, exempts the lands from taxes for three years thereafter.—Obsolete.]

54. Sec. VII. A county surveyor shall be appointed for each county, who shall have the power of appointing assistant surveyors, not exceeding six in number, in each county. And the said county surveyors are hereby required to lay out and appoint a district for each and every such assistant surveyor, who shall be authorized to survey within such district only, and shall make his returns to the county surveyor, who shall keep a record thereof and transmit the same to the surveyor general, as the law directs. And the said surveyors are required distinctly to mark the lines round each and every tract which shall be by them surveyed, and make at least two stations on each line, except such lines as are marked by natural boundaries.

County surveyors to be appointed for each county; may appoint six deputies.

Lines shall be distinctly marked with two stations on each. Except natural boundaries.

And whereas, the general assembly of this State, in consequence of petitions from sundry inhabitants of the State of Virginia, did, on the thirteenth day of February, in the year of our Lord 1783, order that two hundred thousand acres of land be reserved to the use of the said petitioners, which land was intended to be located in the aforesaid counties, or either of them; and for the convenience and interest of the individuals so concerned, it is but consonant to justice that they be permitted, and they are hereby authorized to fix on the county and place wherein they would settle.

55. Sec. VIII. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That such of the said petitioners as personally apply in the manner hereinbefore pointed out, shall be entitled to a warrant of reserve for fifteen months from the passing of this act. But if at or before the expiration of that time, such person or persons shall not actually become residents of this State, and remove their families, and settle and cultivate their lands, agreeable to the terms pointed out by this act, then and in that case, the said warrant shall become null and void, and the said land revert to the State, and be granted to any person or persons applying for and entitled to the same.

Virginia petitioners may have a warrant of reserve for fifteen months. But must reside upon, and cultivate the same, or the warrant to be void.

20,000 acres of land in each county laid off for the endowment of a college.

58. Sec. XI. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That the county surveyors, immediately after passing of this act, shall proceed to lay out in each county, twenty thousand acres of land of the first quality, in separate tracts of five thousand acres each, for the endowment of a college or seminary of learning, and which said lands shall be vested in and granted in trust to his honor the governor for the time being.

And vested in the trustees and their successors.

And [seven persons named] and their successors in office, who are hereby nominated and appointed trustees for the said college or seminary of learning, and empowered to do all such things as to them shall appear requisite and necessary, to forward the establishment and progress of the same, and all vacancies shall be filled up by the said trustees.* And the said county surveyors shall, in six months after passing of this act, make return to the trustees hereinbefore mentioned, of regular plats of all such tracts as he shall have laid out and surveyed by virtue of this act.

Exempted from taxation.

Sec. XII. The land granted as aforesaid shall be exempted from taxes.

Citizens of other states may obtain reserve warrants for twelve months.

59. Sec. XIII. If any citizen of any other of the United States, shall apply to the justices as aforesaid, or to the governor and executive council for the time being, and produce to them sufficient evidence of his, her, or their honesty and fidelity; and also take an oath that it is his, her, or their intention to remove and become an inhabitant of this State; and the said justices do certify the same, then, and in that case, his honor the governor and council are hereby authorized to grant such person, or persons, so applying, a warrant of survey for any quantity of land, not above one thousand acres, on reserve for twelve months:

To be void if not settled and cultivated within that time.

Provided nevertheless, and it is hereby enacted, That if it shall so happen, that any citizen who may have obtained such warrant of reserve, and doth not actually settle and cultivate the same, within the time before mentioned, according to the true intent and meaning of this act, the said warrant shall be, and the same is hereby made null and void, and the said land shall revert to the State.

Fifteen acres in the hundred added to military bounties, in lieu of exemption from taxes.

60. Sec. XIV. All the officers and soldiers, all the officers and mariners of the navy, officers of the medical department, refugees, and citizens, who are entitled to land in this State, as bounties for their services, in manner as above mentioned, shall be entitled to have included in their grants, an additional quantity of fifteen acres to each hundred acres, in full for, and in lieu of any exemption of taxes. And every act, and clause of an act, allowing such exemption from taxation, shall be, and the same is hereby repealed, and declared null and void, any thing to the contrary hereof notwithstanding.

The governor or president, with three or more of the council, to open a land

61. Sec. XV. A land court shall be opened at Augusta, on the first Tuesday in April next, by his honor the governor, or the honorable president, with any three or more of the executive council, for the purpose of granting out lands under and by virtue of this act: which said court, (to be composed of his honor the governor, or the honorable the president, with any three or more of the executive council as court at Augusta, to grant lands. (aforesaid,) shall continue sitting from the said first Tuesday in April for and during the space of three months, thence next ensuing, on every Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, of each week, in said term, for the purpose of granting lands, and signing grants; and on every Thursday and Friday of each week in the said term, for the purpose of hearing caveats under this act. And it shall and may be lawful for his honor the governor, the honorable the president, with any three or more of the executive council, to sit month about, in the said court, so that whilst the one shall be at Augusta, with three of the council, holding a land court, the other shall be at Savannah, with a constitutional number of the council, holding and exercising all the other executive powers of government. [The proviso, requiring the attendance of all, at the next ensuing session of the legislature—Temporary.]

62. Sec. XVI. That his honor the governor be requested to sign grants for all surveys of lands that are or may be legally made within the late temporary line, any requisition to cultivate the same, or law or custom to the contrary, notwithstanding: Provided only, That such person, or persons, as may apply for the same, actually reside within this State.

63. Sec. XVII. All refugees, and citizens of this State, who are by any act or resolve of this State, entitled to land as a bounty, and shall choose to take the same in either of the aforesaid counties, on obtaining the warrant and survey thereof, and paying the office fees, shall be entitled to a grant, without any restrictions or delay whatsoever.

64. Sec. XVIII. Every part of any act already passed, in any wise contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, shall be, and the same is hereby repealed.

An Act to amend and alter some parts, and repeal other parts of the several Land Acts in this State.—Approved February 22, 1785. Vol. I. 334.

Whereas, it hath become necessary to make some alterations in the several land acts of this State:

65. Sec. I. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That from and after the passing of this act, all such lands as remain unsurveyed, or not taken up by some person, or persons, under a lawful warrant for that purpose, in the counties of Washington and Franklin, shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be put upon the following footing, that is to say: the said lands shall be granted out to any person or persons applying for the same, in the like manner, by the like rights, and under the like restrictions, as are pointed out for disposing of lands, under the land act, passed the 17th day of February, 1783, and the supplemental act thereto, passed on the 1st day of August, in the year of our Lord 1783, except only, that the person, or persons, applying for and obtaining such lands, as far as the quantity of one thousand acres, shall not be liable or obliged to pay any purchase money or consideration for the same, office fees only excepted: Provided notwithstanding, That for all lands heretofore surveyed by virtue of an act, entitled, "An act for opening the land office, and for other purposes therein mentioned," the owner thereof shall pay the valuation of said lands, agreeable to said acts.

66. Sec. II. All other vacant lands, in the counties of Chatham, Effingham, Burke, Richmond, Wilkes, Liberty, Glynn, and Camden, shall be, and the same are hereby directed to be granted out, in the same manner.

Applicants

same manner as before mentioned, in respect to the said counties of Washington and Franklin, that is to say: on head rights, gratuitously, as far as the quantity fixed by law, and without any purchase money or consideration for the same: Provided also, That such persons, so applying, shall take the following oath or affirmation: "I, A. B. do solemnly and sincerely swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that the head rights delivered in by me are just and true, and that I have not, nor hath any person for me, or in my name, taken up or located the head right, or head rights of my family, now applied for, either in this, or any other county within this State; nor have I, or any other person for me, disposed of, or sold the same, so as the head rights of my family may be illegally obtained."

Persons convicted of perjury shall, besides the legal punishment of perjury, forfeit the land. Lands must be settled and cultivated within 18 months, or liable to treble tax.

67. Sec. III. Any time hereafter, if any person, or persons, convicted of having acted contrary to the above oath, after having taken the same, exclusive of the pains and penalties annexed to perjury, shall forfeit the land so fraudulently obtained, and the same shall be from thence considered as revested in the State; and that no person, or persons applying, shall obtain any warrant, survey, or grant, unless for himself, or themselves, or for his, her, or their own family, or families; and that any person, or persons, who shall obtain lands under and by virtue of this act, shall, in eighteen months thereafter, settle on and cultivate three acres for every hundred acres of the same; and in case of non-compliance, he, she, or they shall be subject to treble tax for said lands.

Land courts to be held in Washington and Franklin as in other counties.

68. Sec. IV. The justices of the peace for the counties of Washington and Franklin shall, in future, form a land court, and shall grant land, try caveats, and otherwise proceed in the same manner as the justices do in other counties of this State; and shall in all respects have the same powers committed to them over the county surveyor, and others concerned in the land business, as the said other justices have.

All surveys and grants of land, not in the limits of some county, void. Offenders, how to be prosecuted.

69. Sec. V. In case any surveys have been made, or grants obtained for any lands, lying, or being without or beyond the lines of some one of the counties of this State, already laid out; all and every such survey or grant shall be considered as fraudulent, and the same is hereby declared null and void; and the person or persons making such surveys, or obtaining such grants, shall be prosecuted and punished agreeable to the eleventh section of the land act, passed on the 17th day of February, A. D. 1783. No grants shall be signed till the survey has been advertised by the surveyor of the county, at least three months after it has been recorded by the said county surveyor; and that the surveyor be allowed one shilling and two pence for every such advertisement, to be paid by the grantee.

No grants to be signed till the survey is registered and advertised by the county surveyor. His fee.

A surveyor knowingly running across other lines, or surveying land before surveyed, the last survey void, and surveyor to forfeit 50*l*. How recovered and applied. Grants, how to be recorded.

70. Sec. VI. Where it shall appear that any surveyor has knowingly run across another's line, or surveyed land before surveyed, the last mentioned survey shall be deemed null and void, and such surveyor liable to a fine of fifty pounds for every offence, to be recovered by action of debt in the superior court of the county where the said lands shall lie, one half whereof shall go to the party who shall inform and sue for the same, and the other half to be paid into the public treasury. All grants when registered in the books of the county surveyors* agreeable to law, shall be registered, not only in the name of the person to whom it is granted, but also in the name of the person who then holds the same; and unless it is so registered in the books of the said county surveyor, within one year after passing the grant, it shall be deemed vacant land, and be liable to be surveyed for any person who shall apply for the same; and every county surveyor who shall fail to register such grant, within three months after the same is delivered into his office, shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty pounds specie, to be recovered and applied in manner aforesaid, and shall pay all damages to the party injured by such neglect.

Penalty for omission.

71. Sec. VII. In case two grants shall be given for one and the same tract of land, each of them obtained within the time allowed by law, that in such case the eldest survey shall be deemed valid in law, in so far as to entitle the party who made the first survey to an action of damages against the other, and the said land shall be subject to an execution founded on any judgment in such suit, in preference to any other incumbrance or claim whatsoever. Provided the said suit be brought within five years after the date of the said survey; and when it shall appear by sufficient evidence to a court and jury, that any person hath obtained a grant, the right of preference to which lands was at the time of obtaining the said grant, by law vested in any other person, then, and in that case, such person so offending shall forfeit and pay the injured party a sum equal to twice the value of the said lands, or relinquish the same.

Oldest grantee liable to the youngest, in certain cases in twice the value of the land.

72. Sec. VIII. All warrants already granted shall be, and the same are hereby renewed for the term of six months, instead of three, as had been heretofore used, bounty warrants excepted; which shall not be out of date at any time before they are located.

Warrants renewed for six months. Bounty warrants never out of date.

And whereas it is apprehended, that great abuses have happened in regard to bounties:

73. Sec. IX. Be it enacted, &c. That in future all and every person and persons whatsoever, who conceive himself and themselves entitled to bounty, shall lay his or their vouchers or credentials before the said land court, where they apply for the same, who shall, on a full consideration of all circumstances respecting the petitioner, either grant or reject the application, as coming or not coming within the scope and intention of the several laws of this State for granting bounties; and no surveys of land due as bounties from this State shall be allowed, unless brought in and claimed within one year from and after the passing this act.

Persons claiming bounties to lay their vouchers before the land court.

One year allowed to put in such claims.

And in order to ascertain and determine the line between the white people and the Indians of this State,

74. Sec. X. Be it enacted, &c. That his honor the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the executive council, shall nominate and appoint three fit and discreet persons on the side and in behalf of this State, and shall send up to the Creek nation, and invite them to appoint persons on their side, and in behalf of their nation; which said commissioners, on both sides, shall, as soon as possible, meet, and in conjunction run the said line, agreeable to treaty, and according to law, endeavoring to obtain for the white people as large a compass of ground as they can; and in case the said commissioners extend the said line as far as the branch of the Oconee, called the Little River, that then the two forks of Oconee, the one made by Little River, and the other by the branch next above the same, on the south side of the said river Oconee, shall be deemed a reserve to make good the engagements to the continental soldiery, and seamen, and officers of the medical department of this State; and no surveys or grants, (except such as have been already made to the said soldiery, seamen, and officers of the medical department,) within the said forks, shall be held and considered as good and valid, unless the same shall appear to be agreeable to the terms of this act; and after the said line shall be run

Line between the white people and Indians to be ascertained.

Should it extend to Little River, the two forks to be reserved for the continental soldiery, &c.

Allowed one year to make their surveys and take out grants. as aforesaid, there shall be one year allowed to the said soldiery and seamen, and officers of the medical department, to make their surveys, and take out grants for their respective bounties to which they are entitled within the said reserve.

Surveyors of Washington and Franklin. 75. Sec. XI. The surveyors of Washington and Franklin counties shall be under the same regulations as the surveyors of the other counties within this State.

County surveyors to run their own county lines. 76. Sec. XII. The county surveyors of each county are hereby authorized and required to ascertain and run their respective county lines, according to the constitution and laws of this State, except such as are already ascertained, the expense whereof shall be equally borne and discharged by the two counties whose division line it is.

An Act to prevent persons from settling or surveying any part of the late cession of Lands, between the Rivers Alatomaha and St. Mary's.—Approved Feb. 13, 1786. Vol. I. 337.

Whereas it is not proper that any of the late cession of land, between the Alatomaha and St. Mary's river, should be settled or located at present.

Any person surveying the lands between the Alatomaha, St. Mary's, and Ocmulgee, without permission of the legislature, shall forfeit one pound for every acre. 77. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That no person shall presume to survey or settle on any land lying between the Alatomaha and Ocmulgee and St. Mary's rivers, above the old Indian boundary line, being lands lately ceded to this State;* and if any survey shall be made, it shall be of no effect, and the person making such survey shall forfeit and pay the sum of one pound for every acre of land so surveyed: And all warrants for surveying lands within the above boundaries, and all grants of lands therein are hereby declared void, null, and of no effect; and all such lands shall still be deemed vacant land, and shall be liable to be surveyed as such, when the legislature shall give permission to locate the lands above-mentioned: Provided that nothing herein contained shall extend to the counties of Glynn and Camden, the vacant lands of which may be surveyed as formerly.

Settlement thereon to give no right. And if any person shall settle on the said lands before the legislature shall give permission to locate the same, such settlement shall not give any right of pre-emption or preference whatever.

Unnecessary to record grants in the county surveyor's office. 78. Sec. II. So much of the late land law as requires all persons to register their grants in the office of the county surveyor, within twelve months from the date thereof, shall be, and the same is hereby repealed.

Warrants not to be out of date in two years. 79. Sec. III. No warrant shall ever be out of date, if surveyed within two years from the date of said warrant.

An Act for the appointment of Commissioners to run the Line designating the Indian Hunting Ground.—Approved Feb. 10, 1787. Vol. I. 258.

Persons surveying Indian lands liable to further punishment at discretion, from 100 to 500 lashes for the first offence. 80. Sec. II.† Any person or persons, who shall hereafter be guilty of marking, surveying, or attempting to survey, or obtain grants for

* Locations in the county of Tallisee were by the act of 1794 forbidden until the assent of the general government should be obtained, [Vol. I. 267.] As this county was never organized, no surveys were ever legally made therein until they were made under the authority of the lottery act of 1818.

† The residue of this act, and the whole of the other acts in Vol. I. from p. 259 to 269 inclusive, the compiler ventures to omit. They relate; to running a temporary line, which is now within our boundary. 2dly, To the organization and discharge of the State troops and collection of the public arms—temporary; 3dly, Head rights in Tallisee (as to which see Note to Sec. 77,) and between the Oconee and Ocmulgee rivers—none of which provisions have been ever acted on, and have any lands beyond the temporary line designating the Indian hunting ground, in addition to the pains and penalties provided in the land law of 1783,* to which they are subject, shall be liable to fine and corporeal punishment, at the discretion of the court before whom they are convicted: Provided the same shall not exceed five hundred, nor be less than one hundred lashes for the first offence, and for the second offence shall be held and adjudged guilty of felony.

The second offence felony.

And whereas, notwithstanding the most positive laws to the contrary, many persons, from design or accident, have run large quantities of land, and obtained grants for the same, southward of the present temporary line between the good citizens of this State and the Indians, and expect to hold the same when a cession of said land can be obtained :

81. Sec. III. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That the surveys or grants for such land be considered, and they are hereby declared to be null and void, and of no effect whatever; and the persons who, from design as aforesaid, have been guilty of running the said lands, or any wise concerned therein, are hereby declared to have incurred all the pains, penalties, and forfeitures, mentioned in the land acts of 1783* and 1784;† and in all surveys that may or shall hereafter be made within the temporary line of this State, the name or names of the surveyor and chain carriers shall be annexed to each plat.

All such surveys and grants declared void, and the offenders liable to the penalties of the acts of 1783 and 1784. The names of the surveyors and chain carriers to be annexed to each plat to be made within the line.

A Supplement to the several Land Laws of this State.—Approved Dec. 23, 1789. Vol. I. 338.

82. Sec. I. That the governor be, and he is hereby empowered to direct the form‡ and manner of passing grants for land through the secretary of the state's office, any law, custom, or usage, to the contrary notwithstanding.

The governor shall direct the form and manner of passing grants.

83. Sec. II. That the governor be, and he is hereby vested with all the powers of governor and executive council, under the late constitution, so far as the said powers extend to the hearing or determining on caveats and signing of grants.||

He shall sign the same, and hear and determine caveats.

84. Sec. III. Any three or more justices of the peace in their respective counties shall use and exercise the powers given to four justices, and an assistant justice, by an act, entitled "An Act to repeal and amend some part of an Act, entitled an Act for opening the Land Office; passed the first day of August, 1783." Provided, that the said three or more justices shall each of them sign all warrants for land by them granted.

Three justices shall form a land court,

And each of them shall sign the land warrants.

85. Sec. IV. No plat of any survey shall hereafter be allowed to pass the office of the surveyor-general, or any county surveyor, which does not clearly set forth the beginning corner of such survey, and no county surveyor shall be allowed to proceed in the duties of his office without first giving bond, and approved security, in the sum of two

An Act to add a number of Plats, collected by the Secretary of State, to the Surveyor General's Office.—Approved Feb. 2, 1798. Vol. I. 341.

Whereas the secretary of state hath produced a book, wherein he hath copied 664 plats from the originals, found among loose papers in his office, which have been examined by the surveyor-general, and by him certified to be accurately copied from the said originals; and it is proper that all such old plats as have been lost or destroyed during the late war, should be replaced whenever opportunity offers.

88. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That the said 664 plats or surveys be, and the same are hereby attached to the office of surveyor-general, and are hereby declared to constitute a part of the records of that office.

664 plats collected by the secretary, added to the surveyor general's office.

An Act to authorize persons having Grants to Lands without Plats thereof, to have those Lands re-surveyed, and the Plats thereof recorded in the County and Surveyor General's Office.—Approved Dec. 8, 1815. Vol. III. 414.

Whereas it is found from experience that there are many grants of land of record, in the secretary of state's office of this State, the plats whereof were during the revolutionary war destroyed or taken from the office of the surveyor general, and no evidence thereof remains therein. And whereas it is both expedient and essential to preserve and perpetuate the title to real estate thus acquired;

89. Sec. I. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That from and after the passage of this act, all and every person and persons, who may be possessed of, or claim titles to any lands in this State, and to which land grants have been passed by authority thereof, and are of record in the office of secretary of state, but plats thereof are not of record in the surveyor general's office; that then and in that case, the person or persons so interested and claiming lands thus situated, is, and are hereby authorized, by obtaining a copy of such grant from the office of secretary of state, to apply to, and it shall be the duty of the county surveyor of the county in which the lands may be situate, to proceed to admeasure, ascertain, and describe the same in the best manner he can from the said copy grant, and such other evidence as he may be able to procure, either from persons or papers; and after ascertaining the same, to make a record thereof in a book, by him to be kept for that purpose, and advertise the same for the term of three months, specifying therein to whom granted and by whom claimed; and it shall be the duty of the said county surveyor to make a return thereof to the surveyor general's office, within twelve months thereafter; and the surveyor general shall then record the same in his office: Provided nevertheless, that any person interested therein may at any time, within the said term of three months, enter in the office of the said county surveyor, or in the surveyor general's office, before the same shall be there recorded, a caveat against such record, which caveat shall be tried in the usual way of trying caveats against the passing of grants in the first instance; from which an appeal may be had by either party to the governor, as heretofore practised.

Holders of grants without plats may have the lands surveyed by the county surveyor, who shall record the same and advertise it three months, and return it to the surveyor general within 12 months, who shall record it in his office, unless a caveat is entered within the 12 months, to be tried as other caveats.

90. Sec. II. In all cases where persons interested in, or claim titles to land already granted, the copy of which plats are not of record, but the plats annexed to the original grants are in the possession of such person or persons claiming the same; it shall be lawful for such person or persons at any time to present the same to the surveyor general, whose duty it shall be to record the same in his office; a copy from which, as well as a copy from those plats recorded in the surveyor general's office, in pursuance of the foregoing section, (where the original plat cannot be had,) shall be held and deemed as legal evidence in all courts where the title to the said lands may be called in question.

The usual fees to be paid.

91. Sec. III. It shall be lawful for the said county surveyor and the surveyor general, for all services required of them by this act, to charge and receive the same fees as they receive for like services in other cases.

An Act to limit the time for persons to take out their Grants in this State, so far as relates to land surveyed on Head Rights and Bounty Warrants.—Approved December 19, 1818. Vol. III. 426.

92. Sec. I. From and after the term of two years from the passing of this act, all persons who have heretofore had any tract or tracts of land surveyed in this State on head rights or bounty, shall take out the grant for the same, otherwise it shall revert to and become the property of the State, and be subject to be surveyed by any other person, who is authorized to survey the same, and obtain a grant from the State; Provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to operate against or prejudice the claim of any orphan or orphans.

Proviso.

Future grants three
the survey,

93. Sec. II. The time hereafter to be allowed to persons who may hereafter have any land surveyed in this State, on head right or bounty, shall be three years from the time of making such survey; and in case of failure or neglect to take out the grant, it shall revert to and become the property of the State, and be subject to be surveyed and granted to any person or persons, who are hereby authorized to survey the same, with the same proviso as contained in the above section.

Proviso.

The act of December 13, 1820, [Vol. IV. 246.] amendatory of this, allows persons who may have failed to comply with this act, to take out their grants at any time within one year.—By act of Dec. 7, 1821, [Ib. 303] the time is enlarged to 25th Dec. ensuing; and further extended to five days after the commencement of the ensuing session, [Act of 1822. Ib. 309.]

An Act to revive, amend, and continue in force an act, entitled An Act to extend the Time of taking out Grants on Surveys made on Head Rights and Bounty Warrants.—Approved Dec. 2, 1823. Vol. IV. 252.

Time extended to 25th
Oct. 1824.

94. Where any person or persons have heretofore had surveys made on head rights or bounty warrants, and grants thereon have not been obtained, it shall and may be lawful for such person or persons to apply for and obtain such grant or grants at any time previous to the 25th of October, 1824, on payment of the usual fees.

Where no grant, land shall not be subject to re-survey for three months,
&c.

95. Sec. II. Where any surveys have heretofore been made on head rights or bounty warrants, and grants thereon have not been obtained, such land shall not be subject to a resurvey until the expiration of the time herein limited, and until three months from and after the person or persons claiming under the original survey shall have been notified that such resurvey is intended to be made, and that in all cases the person or persons claiming under the original survey shall be entitled to the preference of making such resurvey, until the expiration of three months from the time of such notification; and in the event of there being no claimant residing on or near the land to be thus resurveyed, such notice shall be perfected by giving three months' notice by public advertisement at the court-house of the county where such land may lie, and in one of the public gazettes of this State.

96. Sec. III. It shall be the duty of all surveyors who shall make any such resurvey, to certify on his return to the surveyor general, that due notice according to the provisions of this act had been given; and no grant obtained on such resurvey shall be valid, unless accompanied with such certificate; Provided, that nothing in this act shall affect the rights of orphans or persons under the age of twenty-one years, and that all such persons shall be allowed one year after they arrive at the age of twenty-one years to take out their grants.

The duty of the Surveyor making the resurvey, &c.

PARTITION.

An Act to empower the General Court of Pleas to grant writs of partition of lands and tenements held in coparcenary, joint tenancy, and tenancy in common, in this province, and appointing the method of proceeding therein.
—Approved March 26, 1767. Vol. I. 315.

Whereas it would be inconvenient in this province to pursue the method of dividing lands and tenements by writ of partition as practised in Great Britain; and it appears necessary to provide a more easy and less expensive manner of obtaining partitions:

102. Sec. I. Be it therefore enacted, That in all cases where any persons being of full age are seized of lands in coparcenary, joint tenancy, or tenancy in common, or where any lands or tenements shall descend, or be given to any person or persons whatever in coparcenary, joint tenancy, or tenancy in common, and no provision shall be made by will or otherwise, how such lands or tenements shall be divided; it shall and may be lawful for such persons, being of full age, or either of them, immediately, and also for any one of such coparceners, joint tenants, or tenants in common, who may be under age, when, and so soon as he or she shall attain the age of twenty-one years, to apply to the general court of pleas, for a writ of partition, (to be devised and framed in the said court according to the nature of the case,) and in case he or she, so coming of age, shall neglect so to do, within the space of twelve months, that then the guardian or guardians of him, her, or them, remaining under age, shall be, and he, she, or they, is and are hereby empowered, if he, she, or they shall think fit, to apply to the said court for a writ of partition; of which application twenty days' notice shall be given to the other parties concerned, their agents or attorneys; and upon any such application, and affidavit made of due notice having been given as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for the said court to examine the petitioner's title and part or share of the premises to be divided, and thereupon to issue a writ of partition, directed to any eleven* persons whom the court shall think fit, requiring and commanding them, or a majority of them, to make partition accordingly; they being first sworn in court, or before one of the judges, or any magistrate, or other person or persons for this purpose nominated and appointed by order of court, duly and impartially to execute such writ: And such partitioners, or persons named in such writ, shall give eight days' notice of the time of executing thereof, to all the parties concerned, their attorneys or agents; and thereupon shall proceed to make a just and equal partition and division of all such lands and tenements, either in entire tracts or parcels, as they shall judge to be in proportion to the shares claimed, and most beneficial to the several coparceners, joint tenants, or tenants in common, according to the best of their knowledge: and shall make return thereof under their hands and seals to the said court within three months after the issuing of such writ, there to remain of record; which partition or division so to be made shall, by the judgment of the said court, be final and conclusive to all the parties concerned, any law, statute, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding. Provided always, That if the defendant or defendants, or person concerned, or either of them, against whom, or their right or title, any judgment is given, shall within the space of twelve months after such judgment is entered; or in case of infancy, coverture, insanity of mind, or absence out of the province, within one year after his, her, or their return, on the determination of such inability, apply themselves to the court where such judgment is entered, by motion, and show a good and probable matter in bar of such partition, or that the demandant hath not title to so much as he hath recovered; then and in such case the court may suspend, or set aside such judgment, and admit the tenant or tenants to appear and plead; and the cause shall proceed according to the due course of law, as if no such judgment had been given. And if the court, upon hearing thereof, shall adjudge for the first demandant, then the said first judgment shall stand confirmed, and be good against all persons whatsoever, except such other persons as shall be absent or disabled as aforesaid; and the person or persons so appealing shall be awarded thereupon to pay costs, or if within such time or times aforesaid, the tenants or persons concerned, admitting the demandant's title, parts, and purparts, shall show to the court any inequality in the partition, the court may award a new partition to be made in presence of all parties concerned, (if they will appear,) notwithstanding the return and filing upon record the former; which said second partition returned and filed shall be good and firm for ever, against all persons whatsoever, except as before excepted.

103. Sec. II. That the persons making such partitions shall be allowed and paid a reasonable charge for the same. And in case the party or parties applying for such writ of partition shall neglect or refuse to allow and pay such charge, the same shall, upon application, be settled and awarded by the court.

An Act to amend an act, entitled an act to empower the general court of pleas to grant writs of partition of lands and tenements held in coparcenary, joint tenancy, and tenancy in common, in this province; and appointing the method of proceeding therein, passed the 26th March, 1767.—Approved Dec. 22, 1827. Vol. IV. 219.

Whereas, by the before-recited act it is made the duty of the superior courts in this State, on application for a writ of partition, to appoint eleven persons to perform such duty, which from experience to be unnecessarily expensive;

How land hereafter shall be partitioned, and by whom.

104. Be it enacted, &c. That from and immediately after the passing of this act, that whenever a writ of partition shall be granted in terms of the before-recited act, it shall be directed to five freeholders of the county where such writ shall issue, and the said freeholders, or a majority of them, shall have full power to perform all the duties required by the before-recited act in cases of partition; and the said freeholders, or a majority of them, shall have power to select a surveyor to aid them in the discharge of their duties, and the said freeholders shall be subject to the same rules, regulations, and restrictions, as are prescribed by the before-recited acts in all cases of partition; any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Act to prevent the surveying or granting of certain lands, either under head rights or in any other way; and for other purposes.—Approved Dec. 24, 1827. Vol. IV. 266.

105. [Prohibits all surveys on the Florida line, until provision shall be made by law.]

PROCESSIONING.

An Act for preventing controversies concerning the bounds of land, and for processioning the same.—Approved Feb. 2, 1798. Vol. I. 339.

106. Sec. I. Once in every ten years the bounds of every person's land shall be processioned or gone round, and the land-marks renewed in manner following, that is to say : it shall be the duty of every captain or commanding officer in each militia company district throughout this State, at their respective company musters, after the first day of June next, to hold an election for three persons, who shall be appointed processioners of land for each district;* and all and every person in this State are hereby required to procession and go round their respective tracts of land, in manner and form as is hereafter pointed out by this act, that is to say, whenever two persons' lines join, they are directed and required to meet and chop or plainly mark the same, with one or more persons disinterested, to see that they do not disagree respecting the land-marks, and make new line trees; but whenever a dispute shall arise about such line, the commissioners or processioners appointed as aforesaid, shall come forward with the county surveyor, to assist in ascertaining and determining the true line between the parties, and mark out the same, each commissioner receiving for such service one dollar per day, and the surveyor two dollars per day, which shall be paid equally by the parties disagreeing as aforesaid; and where one of the parties concerned, or his agent or representative, after being duly summoned sixty days before the day for processioning the same, shall fail or refuse to attend, it shall and may be lawful for the other party to call on the processioners, who shall then proceed to mark out the line, at the expense of the party refusing or failing to attend as aforesaid.

Three processioners shall be elected in each company district.

Party present may proceed at the expense of the party in default.

107. Sec. II. All lands throughout this State shall be processioned, or gone round, in manner and form as pointed out by this act, in twelve months from and after the first day of June next, under the penalty of one hundred dollars for the omission or refusal of every person or persons so refusing, one half to go to the informer, and the other to county uses, to be recovered by bill, plaint, or information, in any court having cognizance thereof.

All lands to be processioned within 12 months, from 1st June, 1798.

Sec. III. [Repeals all former laws on this subject.]

An Act to revise and amend the foregoing.—Approved Feb. 18, 1799. Vol. I. 340.

108. Sec. I. The time allowed for processioning lands [by the foregoing act,] shall be, and the same is hereby extended to the first day of July, in the year of our Lord 1800: and any person failing to procession, and new mark the tree lines of their land, in manner therein pointed out, shall be subject to the fines and penalties therein mentioned.

Time for processioning lands extended.

109. Sec. II. Whenever any person intends to procession his lands, which adjoin lands belonging to any other person or persons, who may reside in the county in which the lands lie, then, and in that case, written notice shall be given to such person or persons at least ten days before, that he will, on a day specified in the notice, proceed to procession the lands adjoining such person; and if the person so notified shall fail to attend at the time appointed, then the opposite party may,

Any person intending to procession his lands must give ten days' notice to those adjoining, if they live in the county, and may proceed, if the other party fails to attend.

* It is much to be regretted that these excellent acts are defeated of their salutary operation from the general failure to hold such elections.

in presence of any two or more of the neighbors, or inhabitants contiguous to the land, go round and new mark his tree lines, which shall be considered on his part as fully complying with the before-recited act.

If out of the county, notice must be given in the public gazette for six months.

110. Sec. III. Whenever any persons own lands in this State, adjoining land of another who resides out of the county in which the lands may be intended to be processioned, then, and in such case, notice shall be given by advertisement in one of the public gazettes of this State, that he will, on a day therein mentioned, proceed to procession his own lands as hereinbefore directed, which shall be published at least six months previous to the time appointed for processioning the lands, and the expense of advertising shall be paid by the owner or owners of the land intended to be notified.

Agents may procession lands.

111. Sec. IV. Any person or persons may, as agent or attorney for the owner of any lands to be processioned, on producing a plat or plats, and grant or grants thereof, proceed to procession the same for and in behalf of the proprietors, in like manner as if they were themselves present, and had done the same.

In case of disputes, a plat shall be made out by the surveyor, and recorded in his office. Provido, Not to affect land sold under the confiscation acts, where the plats are not of record. And where plats of land granted prior to 4th July, 1776, are lost, the processioners shall proceed on the best evidence they can obtain. Returns of electors of processioners to be filed in the clerk's office. Vacancies, how to be filled.

112. Sec. V. Whenever the lines of lands are disputed, and are resurveyed as directed by the before-recited act, that then and in every such case, a plat of such lands be made out by the county surveyor, or his legal deputy, and certified by him and the processioners of the district, and shall be by said surveyor recorded in his office. Provided, that nothing in this act contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to affect the tracts of land sold under the confiscation act, where the plats shall not appear of record in the surveyor general's office, so as to give a preference of title for want of processioning. And provided also, that where plats for lands, granted or surveyed for any person or persons, prior to the fourth day of July, 1776, shall not appear of record in the surveyor general's office, and the loss of the original plat shall be satisfactorily proven to the processioners by the person holding or claiming any tract or tracts of land as aforesaid, the said processioners shall proceed to procession from the best evidence in their power to obtain.

113. Sec. VI. The returns of the electors of all processioners heretofore or hereafter to be made, shall be deposited on record in the clerk's office of the superior court, in the county wherein they shall or may be so appointed; and where any vacancy shall happen in the appointment of processioners, either by death, resignation, removal out of the districts, or otherwise, such vacancy shall be filled in manner pointed out by the said recited act, and return thereof made as hereinbefore directed.

An Act more effectually to secure the good citizens of this State in their titles to their lands, on the several streams and water-courses in the same.—Approved Nov. 26, 1818. Vol. III. 415.

Where a water course being a boundary, shall alter its course, both parts may be surveyed and recorded.

114. Sec. I. Where any stream or water-course is the boundary line of any tract or parcel of land, and shall or may have changed its route, or formed its bed or channel through any tract or tracts of land, or be changed or altered by nature or art, so as to leave a part or the whole of any tract or tracts of land on the opposite side from that on which it was at the time of survey, then and in that case it shall be lawful for the proper owner of said land, either by himself or agent, to call upon the county surveyor or his deputy of the county in which the land lay prior to such change, who is hereby authorized and required to make an accurate survey of each part of a tract so cut off, separately, including the bed that such water-course formerly occupied, and make out a plat of the same, plainly designating the land to which it was formerly attached, and record the same in the county surveyor's office of the county in which the land originally lay, which said plat, when recorded and certified by the county surveyor as aforesaid, shall be received as evidence of title in any court of record in this State having competent jurisdiction.

Which plat shall be legal evidence.

115. Sec. II. The surveyor, when called on to perform any such survey, shall be entitled to receive from the person for whom the land was so surveyed, the same fees as are allowed in the fee bill now in force.

Surveyors shall be paid by the established fee bill.

LOTTERIES.

An Act to make distribution of the late cession of lands, obtained from the Creek nation by the United States' commissioners, in a treaty entered into at or near Fort Wilkinson, on the 16th day of June, 1802.—Approved May 11, 1803. Vol. II. 100.*

116. Sec. I. [Designates the lines of two tracts of territory,—the one including about half the lands from the Oconee to the Ocmulgee, as far down as to Palmetto Creek, in Laurens county; the other portion lying south of the Alatamaha, a part of which now forms the county of Wayne.]

117. Sec. II. The lands contained in the several districts shall be divided by lines running parallel with the dividing lines of districts, and by others crossing them at right angles, so as to form tracts of forty-five chains square, containing 202½ acres each, plainly and distinctly marked, in a manner different from the ordinary mode heretofore pursued, for marking lines in this State, to be pointed out by the surveyor general; except the county of Wayne, which shall be laid off into tracts of seventy chains square, and to contain 490 acres each, unless where the line which is to form a temporary boundary between the said territory and Creek Indians, or the course of navigable rivers, may render it impracticable, and then this rule shall be departed from no further than such particular circumstances may require; and all fractional parts of surveys, which may be created by the courses of navigable rivers, by the temporary boundary line, or other unavoidable circumstances, and all islands within the limits of the said territory, and lying southwest of the middle or main source of the Oconee or Alatamaha rivers, shall be reserved and sold, and the funds arising therefrom, be appropriated in such manner as a future legislature may direct.

Districts laid off into square tracts of 202 1-2 acres, and of 490 acres.

Fractions.

[The residue of this section giving to fortunate drawers a twelve months' pre-emption in the purchase of the fractions adjoining them, repealed. Vol. II. 255.]

Sec. IV. [Respects the appointment and qualification of the surveyors.]

118. Sec. V. It shall be the duties of the surveyors appointed in pursuance of this act, to make the surveys of the districts to which they may respectively be appointed in their own proper persons; to mark or cause to be marked, plainly and distinctly, upon trees, if practicable, otherwise stakes may suffice, all lines which it may be required of them to run, for the purpose of making the surveys in their respective districts, immediately after the boundary line shall have been run by the proper authority, to cause all such lines to be run with the utmost possible exactness, with a half chain, containing two perches of sixteen feet and one half each, consisting of fifty equal links, which shall be adjusted by a standard, to be kept for that purpose in the surveyor general's office; to take as accurately as possible, the meanders of all water-courses which shall form natural boundaries to any of the surveys, and of all navigable rivers, whereby any of such surveys may happen to be divided; to note, in field books to be kept by them respectively, the names of the corner and other station trees, which shall be marked and numbered in such manner as the surveyor general shall direct; also all rivers, creeks and other water-courses, which may be touched upon or crossed in running and measuring any of the lines aforesaid; transcripts of which field books after being examined with the originals, by the surveyor general, and certified and signed on every page by the district surveyors returning the same, shall be deposited in the surveyor general's office, there to be preserved as a record; to make a return to the surveyor general, within ninety days after the running the boundary line as aforesaid, of a map of the district to which they may respectively be appointed, in which shall be correctly delineated, represented and numbered, in such order as the surveyor general shall prescribe, all the surveys within such district, and also to return at the same time, a detached plat of every such survey of land certified and signed by them, which plats shall be filed among the other records in the surveyor general's office, and from which copies shall be made to be annexed to grants; and to conform to such instructions as they may receive from the surveyor general, from time to time during their continuance in office, and progress in the duties thereof, not militating with this act.

119. [The rest of the act prescribes the oaths and pay of surveyors; who shall be entitled to draws, and how ascertained and returned; how drawn and granted; locates and names Milledgeville; and includes several miscellaneous particulars, all of which were either temporary, or have been re-enacted or repealed by subsequent acts.]

Vol. III. 416.

123. Sec. I. The territory lying south of and southwest of the Ocmulgee and Alatomaha rivers, and bounding on the counties of Wayne, Camden, and the East Florida line, the Chatahouchie river, and the Creek temporary boundary line, do form three counties, viz.

All that part of said territory which lies west of a line to commence on the above temporary line and two and three-fourth miles on the east side of Flint river, and running south to the southern boundary of this State, shall form one county, to be called Early county. And all the balance of said territory, which lies west of a line to commence at the ford of the Ocmulgee, commonly called Blackshear's Ford, and running south to the same boundary, shall form a county called Irwin county. And the balance of said territory shall form one other county called Appling county. The county of Early shall be laid off into districts of twelve miles and forty chains square, as near as convenience will admit, by running lines parallel with the dividing line between said county and the county of Irwin, and others crossing them at right angles, and numbered from one to twenty-three. The districts shall be divided into squares of fifty chains, containing 250 acres, by lines parallel with the district lines, and others crossing them at right angles, and the parts of tracts bounding on Flint river, and on all other water-courses within the territory to be disposed of by this act, containing 160 acres and under, shall be considered as fractions, and disposed of accordingly; that fractions not lying on water-courses, containing less than a full section or square, shall be considered fractions and be disposed of by the State as other fractions not drawn for. The counties of Irwin and Appling shall be laid off into districts of twenty miles and ten chains square, as near as can conveniently be, by lines running parallel with the line dividing said counties, and others crossing them at right angles; and those of Irwin county, numbered from one to sixteen inclusive, and those in the county of Appling, from thirty six to fifty inclusive, and divided into lots of seventy chains each way, containing 490 acres each. And the surveyor general shall give to each district surveyor, the necessary instructions for surveying, marking and numbering, in a clear and perspicuous manner, the squares and fractions in his district, in conformity with the spirit and meaning of this act.

* The line of cession in this treaty strikes the Chattahouchie at the mouth of Summocho Creek, thence due east to the former Indian line, running from the mouth of Goose Creek to the head of the St. Mary's, being the Wayne county line.—See Sturges' Map. This territory comprises the present counties of Early, Decatur, Baker, Thomas, Irwin, and Lowndes. For the treaty, see acts of the 3d session of the 13th Congress, 189.

† "Beginning at the High Shoals of the Appalachee river, and running thence along the boundary line between the Creek and Cherokee nations, westwardly to the Chattahouchie river; thence up the Chattahouchie river to the mouth of Souque [or Seeque] creek; thence, continuing with the general course of the river until it reaches the Indian boundary line, and, should it strike the Turrur [or Telula] river, thence, with its meanders, down said river to its mouth." For the treaty, see acts of the 1st session of the 15th Congress, 135.

‡ This treaty embraces two tracts. First Tract. Beginning at the mouth of Goose creek on the Alatomaha river, thence along the line leading to the mounts, at the head of St. Mary's river, to the point where it is intersected by the line run under the treaty at Fort Jackson, thence along the last-mentioned line, to a point where a line, leaving the same, shall run the nearest and a direct course, by the head of a creek called by the Indians Alcasalekie, to the Oakmulgee river, thence down the Oakmulgee and the Alatomaha to the beginning, embracing the present counties of Ware, Appling, and that part of Telfair south of the Oakmulgee. Second Tract. Beginning at the High Shoals of the Appalachee river, and from thence along the line designated by the treaty made at the city of Washington on the 14th day of November, 1805, to the Ulocofouhatchie, it being the first large branch, or fork, of the Oakmulgee, above the Seven Islands; thence, up the eastern branch of the Ulocofouhatchie, by the water's edge, to where the path, leading from the High Shoals of the Appalachee to the Shallow Ford on the Chatahouchie, crosses the same; and from thence, along the said path, to the Shallow Ford on the Chatahouchie river; thence up the Chatahouchie river by the water's edge, on the eastern side, to Suwannee old town; thence by a direct line, to the head of Appalachee; and thence down the same to the beginning.—For the treaty, see acts of the 1st session of the 15th Congress, 142.

124. Sec. II. All that part of said territory which lies south and southwest of the Appalachee river, and adjoining the counties Morgan, Jasper, the Alkafahatchee river, and the present temporary boundary between this State and the Creek Indians, and lying on the southeast side of the Chatahouchie river and southwest of the Terreover [or Telula] and Tugalo rivers, down the latter to the line of Franklin county, and bounded by Franklin and Jackson counties, shall form four counties, and be divided as follows, viz.—All that part of said territory which lies south and southeast of a line to begin on the temporary boundary line where the same crosses Yellow river, and running north sixty degrees east to the Appalachee river, shall form one county, and be known and called Walton county; and all that part of said territory which lies southwest of a line to begin at the mouth of Big Creek, and running south thirty degrees west to the top of the ridge and line of the county of Jackson, thence along said line to the head of Appalachee river, thence down the same to the corner of Walton county, shall form one county, and be called Gwinnett county; and all that part of said territory which lies southwest of a line to begin at a place where captain John Miller now lives, on the line of Franklin county, and running north thirty degrees west to the Chatahouchie river, and down the same to Gwinnett county line, shall form one county, and be called Hall county; and all the balance of said territory shall form one other county, and be called Habersham: and the said territory shall be divided into thirteen districts, as equally as conveniently can be, by running lines parallel with the lines dividing the county of Walton and Gwinnett, and others crossing them at right angles, and subdivided into tracts of fifty chains, containing 250 acres each, by lines running as prescribed for subdividing the county of Early.

[The parts omitted out of this, as well as the other lottery acts, relate to the business of the lottery; i. e. defining, and receiving, and returning draws—surveying, drawing, granting, &c. No fraction to be formed on any stream, except the Flint, and such as may bound the territory; and all fractions of 160 acres or more, put into the wheel, (Sec. 16 of this act.) By Sec. 22 and 23, all lots numbered 10 and

100, and all the proceeds of the fractions beyond the expenses of the lottery, are appropriated to the education of poor children.]

An Act amendatory and revisory of an act, passed the 15th day of Dec. 1818, [the last lottery act] and to dispose of the territory lately acquired of the Cherokee Indians, by a treaty held by the honourable John C. Calhoun, at the city of Washington, on the 27th day of Feb., in the year of our Lord 1819.—Approved Dec. 16, 1819. Vol. III. 429.

125. Sec. I. All that part of the territory aforesaid,* which lies in the fork of the Chatahouchee and Chestatee rivers, and southwest of a line beginning on the Chatahouchee river, where the line dividing the counties of Hall and Habersham corners on the same, and running thence a due west course, until the same strikes the Chestatee river, be added to and become a part of Hall county, and that the same be laid out into three districts as nearly equal as practicable; and that all the said territory which lies northeast of the before-recited line, and northwest of the Chatahouchee and Blair's line, until the same strikes the top of the Blue Ridge, be, and the same is hereby added to and become a part of Habersham county, which shall be laid out into six districts as nearly equal as practicable; and all the balance of the said territory shall form one county, to be called and known by the name of Rabun, and be laid off into five districts as nearly equal as practicable.

Part added to Hall county, and laid out in three districts.

A part to Habersham county, and laid off into six surveying districts.

The residue to form Rabun county, and laid off into five surveying districts.

Certain districts to be surveyed in tracts of 490 acres.

And certain others in tracts of 250 acres.

Fractions on certain water courses.

On dry lines.

Squares and prize fractions, how drawn for.

126. Sec. II. The districts, numbers five and six, in the county of Habersham, and districts numbers one, three, four and five, in the county of Rabun, be laid off into tracts of seventy chains each way, containing 490 acres each, by lines running north and south, intersected by others at right angles. The districts numbers ten, eleven and twelve, in the county of Hall, and the districts numbers one, two, three, and four, in the county of Habersham, and district number two, in the county of Rabun, be laid off into tracts of fifty chains each way, containing 250 acres, by lines running due north and south, intersecting others at right angles; and that all tracts or lots which shall contain less than one hundred and sixty acres, and lying on the Chatahouchee, the Chestatee, the Chatauga, and the Terrura rivers, shall be considered fractional tracts, and disposed of accordingly; and that all other tracts or fractions lying on the dry lines, containing less than full squares, shall be considered as fractions, and shall be disposed of accordingly; and all other fractions containing above one hundred and sixty acres, except on the dry lines, shall be drawn for as squares, and all the squares and such fractions shall be put into the wheel and drawn at the same time as the squares and fractions in the act to which this is a supplement.

127. Whereas, it may so happen that persons have surveyed lands, in the territory now contemplated to be disposed of, contrary to law, and on which grants may have been issued :

Sec. XV. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That all such surveys or grants are hereby declared to be null and void to all intents and pur-

All grants void, but those under this act.

* Extract of the treaty.—“Along the ridge which divides the waters of the Highwassee and Little Tellico, to the Tennessee river, at Tallassee; thence, along the main channel, to the junction of the Cowee and Nanteyalee; thence, along the ridge in the fork of said river to the top of the Blue Ridge; thence along the Blue Ridge to the Unicoy turnpike-road; thence by a straight line, to the nearest main source of the Chestatee; thence along its main channel to the Chatahouchee; and thence to the Creek boundary; it being understood that all the islands in the Chestatee, and the parts of the Tennessee and Highwassee [except Jolly's Island in the Tennessee] which constitute a portion of the present boundary, belong to the Cherokee nation.” [For the treaty see acts of the second session of the 15th Congress, 89.]

poses as though the same had never been made or issued, nor shall any survey or grant in the aforesaid cession be admitted to a jury as evidence of title to the lands in this act described, except those obtained by virtue and under the authority of this act, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

A reference to the late act.

128. Sec. XVI. The territory before laid out and defined agreeably to the provisions of this act, shall be disposed of in the same manner, and under the same restrictions as contemplated by the before recited act. [The rest of the act obsolete.]

An Act to authorize certain commissioners to sell and dispose of the fractional parts of surveys not drawn or authorized to be drawn for in the present land lottery, lying in the counties of Appling, Irwin, Early, Telfair, Walton, Gwinnett, Hall, Habersham, and Rabun; and to rent out the lots number ten and one hundred, heretofore set apart as a fund for free schools.—Approved Dec. 22, 1820. Vol. IV. 244.

Fractions in Walton, Gwinnett, Hall, Habersham, and Rabun to be sold by three Commissioners to be elected by Legislature. Grants for fractions to be made out, with a blank for the name of the purchaser, and placed in the hands of the Commissioners.

129. All the fractional parts of surveys not drawn or authorized to be drawn for in the present land lottery, lying in the counties of Walton, Gwinnett, Hall, Habersham, and Rabun, shall be sold by three commissioners, to be hereafter elected by joint ballot of both branches of the general assembly.

Proviso.

130. Sec. V. It shall be the duty of his excellency the governor to cause grants to be made out for all the fractional parts of surveys authorized to be sold by this act, leaving a blank for the name of the person to whom the same may issue; which grants shall be placed in the hands of the commissioners appointed to dispose of the fractions as aforesaid, and by them filled up, and delivered to the purchaser or the purchasers depositing the moneys and bonds, with securities, as is required in the preceding section; and it shall be the duty of the surveyor general and secretary of state to insert the name of each purchaser in the record of such plat and grant remaining in their offices; and it shall be the duty of the commissioners to lay a correct statement of their proceedings under this act before the next legislature immediately succeeding such sale; Provided, nevertheless, that the said grants shall contain in the face of them, that the land therein granted shall be subject to the payment of the purchase-money due the State therefor, in preference to all other liens whatever, whether by judgments existing before or entered after the date of such grant; but the land shall not be sold to satisfy the first instalment which may become due on the bond, provided there is any other property of the purchaser or his securities to be found, out of which may be made the amount of said instalments.

An Act (passed May 16, 1821) supplementary to the foregoing.—Vol. IV. 250. [Temporary.]

*An Act to dispose of and distribute the Lands lately acquired by the United States for the use of Georgia, of the Creek nation of Indians, by a Treaty made and concluded at the Indian Springs, on the 8th day of January, 1821; and to add the reserve at Fort Hawkins to the county of Jones.—Approved May 15, 1821. Vol. IV. 246.

131. Sec. I. The territory acquired of the Creek nation of Indians

* This embraces the territory between the Ocmulgee and Flint, above Irwin and below Cobb county.

by the United States for the use of Georgia, as described in articles of a treaty entered into and concluded between commissioners on the part of the United States and the chiefs, headmen, and warriors of the Creek nation of Indians, at the Indian Spring, on the 8th day of January, 1821, shall form and be divided into five counties as follows, to wit:

Said territory divided into five counties.

All that part of said territory which lies south of a line commencing on the Ocmulgee river, opposite the town of Hartford, and running due west to the Flint river, shall form one county to be called Dooly.

Dooly county defined.

All that part of said territory lying between a line commencing on the Ocmulgee river, opposite Fort Hawkins, and running due west to Flint river, and the line first above-described shall form one other county, to be called Houston.

Houston county defined.

All that part of said territory lying between the last-mentioned line and a line commencing at the seven islands on the Ocmulgee river, and running due west forty miles, thence due south to the Flint river, shall form one other county, to be called Monroe.

Monroe county defined.

All that part of said territory which lies west of the last-mentioned line, and a line commencing at the corner of Monroe county as above described, and running north to the Chattahoochee, shall form one other county, to be called Fayette.

Fayette county defined.

All that part of said territory which lies east of the last-mentioned line, running from the corner of Monroe county to the Chattahoochee, shall form one other county, to be called Henry.

Henry county defined.

132. Sec. II. Each of the counties hereinbefore laid out and described shall be divided into districts of nine miles square, as near as practicable, the district lines running parallel to the lines dividing counties and crossed by other lines at right angles; and said districts so laid out shall be again subdivided, by lines to be run in like directions, into square tracts, containing each two hundred two and a half acres, marked and numbered according to the plan heretofore pursued under the instructions of the surveyor general.

Districts 9 miles square.

Lots of two hundred two and a half acres.

133. Sec. III. The fractional parts of surveys which may be created by the divisions and subdivisions aforesaid shall be reserved for public uses, to be disposed of as a future legislature may direct.

Fractions reserved.

134. Sec. VIII. It shall be the duty of the surveyors appointed in pursuance of this act to make the surveys of the counties and districts to which they may be appointed in their own proper persons; to mark or cause to be marked plainly and distinctly upon trees, if practicable, otherwise on posts, all corners and stations, and all lines which they may be required to run, for the purpose of making the surveys of their respective counties and districts, immediately upon being required so to do by the surveyor general; to cause all such lines to be measured with all possible exactness with a half-chain containing thirty-three feet, divided into fifty equal links, which shall be adjusted by the surveyor general according to the standard in his office; to take, as accurately as possible, the meanders of all water courses which shall form natural boundaries to any of the surveys; to note in field-books, to be kept by them respectively, the names of the corners and station-trees, which shall be marked and numbered under the direction of the surveyor general; also all rivers, creeks, and other water courses, which may be touched upon or crossed in running any of the lines aforesaid; transcripts of which field-books, after being compared with the originals by the surveyor general, and certified and signed on every page by the surveyor returning the same, shall be deposited in the surveyor general's office, and become a record; and the district surveyors shall make a return of their surveys and works within ninety days from the time they are notified to enter upon the discharge of their duties, containing a map of their district, in which shall be correctly represented and numbered all lots and fractions of said district, and waters therein delineated, as the surveyor general may direct; and also return at the same time a detached plat of each lot and fraction which each district may contain, certified and signed by such surveyor, which plat shall be filed among the records of the surveyor general's office, and from which copies shall be taken to be annexed to grants.

Grants.

135. Sec. XX. All persons who may draw lands under this act shall be entitled to receive grants for the same conveying fee-simple titles.

Reserve at Fort Hawkins.

The reserve at Fort Hawkins, and a reserve of like extent on the opposite side of the Ocmulgee river, commencing on the Upper Federal road, crossing at Fort Hawkins, and lying below the same, be set apart for the State, to be disposed of as a future legislature may direct.

An Act to indemnify the creditors of fortunate drawers in the several land lotteries of this State, in taking out the grants for the land which shall have been, or may be drawn by such fortunate drawers.—
 Approved May 16, 1821. Vol. IV. 301.

Judgment creditors of fortunate drawers authorized to take out grants.

136. Sec. I. From and immediately after the passing of this act, in all cases where there shall be a subsisting judgment against any person or persons who has drawn, or may draw, a lot or lots of land, and no other property can be found, it shall be lawful for the judgment creditor to take out the grant or grants for such tract or tracts of land, so that the same may be subject to such judgment; and the cost of taking out such grant or grants shall be, by the officer levying on such land, charged on the bill of costs, which shall be paid next in order after the costs which may have already accrued.

Attaching creditors allowed to do the same.
Proviso.

137. Sec. II. When any fortunate drawer in any of the land lotteries of this State shall place himself in such situation that his property would be subject to attachment; and no other property can be found, it shall and may be lawful for any creditor of such fortunate drawer to take out the grant or grants of such fortunate drawer, so as to subject the land so drawn to the process of attachment; and the cost of taking out such grant shall, after judgment, be by the proper officer taxed in the bill of costs, and shall be charged and payable in the manner pointed out in the first section of this act: Provided, that the creditor shall in all cases produce to the proper officer a receipt or certificate from the treasurer of this State, specifying that such creditor has paid the grant fees.

An Act to point out a more expeditious method of partitioning such Lots of Land as have or may be declared fraudulent draws by judgment of Court, pursuant to an Act passed the 15th of December, 1818; and to vest the titles to the same in the several County Academies in this State.— Approved Dec. 7, 1821. square tracts, containing each two hundred two and one-half acres, marked and numbered according to the plan heretofore pursued under the instructions of the surveyor general. The districts into squares of 202 1-2 acres each.

The fractional parts of surveys, which may be created by the divisions and subdivisions aforesaid, shall be reserved for public uses, and be disposed of as a future legislature may direct. Fractions to be reserved.

145. Sec. VIII. It shall be the duty of the surveyors appointed in pursuance of this act to make the surveys of the sections, reserves, and districts to which they may be appointed in their own proper person; to mark, or cause to be marked, plainly and distinctly upon trees, if practicable, otherwise on posts, all stations and all lines which they may be required to run for the purpose of making the surveys of their respective sections, reserves, and districts, immediately upon being required so to do by the surveyor general; to cause all such lines to be measured with all possible exactness, with a half chain containing thirty-three feet, divided into fifty equal links, which shall be adjusted by the surveyor general according to the standard in his office; to take as accurate as possible the meanders of all water courses which shall form natural boundaries to any of the surveys; to note in field books, to be kept by them respectively, the names of the corner and station trees, which shall be marked and numbered under the direction of the surveyor general; also, all rivers, creeks, and other water courses which may be touched upon or crossed in running any of the lines aforesaid; transcripts of which field books, after being compared with the originals by the surveyor general, and certified and signed on every page by the surveyor returning the same, shall be deposited in the surveyor general's office, and become a record; and the district surveyors shall make a return of their surveys and works, within ninety days from the time they are notified to enter upon the discharge of their duties, containing a map of their district, in which shall be correctly represented and numbered all lots and fractions of said district, and waters therein delineated, as the surveyor general may direct; and also return at the same time a detached plat of each lot and fraction which said district may contain, certified and signed by such surveyor; which plat shall be filed among the records of the surveyor general's office, and from which copies shall be taken to be annexed to grants. Duties of the Surveyors in measuring, marking, noting, &c. Filed as evidence.

146. Sec. XXI. All persons who may draw lands under this act shall be entitled to receive grants for the same conveying fee-simple titles, on paying into the treasury of this State the sum of eighteen dollars; and any person drawing and failing to take out his grant within two years from the date of said draw, shall forfeit his or her right to receive a grant to the land so drawn, and the same shall revert to the State,—orphans, lunatics, and idiots excepted; and all persons who shall draw lands in the lottery authorized by this act shall, whether the same be granted or not, pay taxes thereon, at the same rates as for other lands of similar qualities, until they shall relinquish the same to the use of the State, by writing, to be filed in the office of the secretary of state. Grants on payment of $18 within two years. Taxed whether granted or not.

147. Sec. XXIV. A quantity of land on Flint river, opposite the old Agency, and equal in size to the reserve on the east side of the same, one mile square at Marshall's Ferry on Flint river including the ferry, one mile square at McIntosh's on the Chattahoochee including the ferry, and a reserve of five miles square on the Chattahoochee river at the Coweta Falls, and including the same; the northern boundary to cross the river at a point one mile above the lower shoal, be, and the same is hereby set apart for public purposes. Reserves for public purposes.

teen, in the fourth section; shall, by the surveyors heretofore pointed out by law, be subdivided into lots of forty acres each, by lines running parallel with the district lines, at the distance of twenty chains apart, and crossed by other lines, at right angles, and of the like distance from each other, marked and numbered according to the plan prescribed by the surveyor general.

Grants.

Sec. V. [Directs that this lottery be drawn with, and under the same regulations as, the other, and that]—all persons who may draw land by authority of this act, shall in like manner receive a grant for the same, on payment of the ten dollars.

An Act to alter and amend the sixth section of an act entitled "an act to sell and dispose of the State's interest in lots of land which have been or may hereafter be condemned as fraudulently drawn, in the counties of Lee, Muscogee, Marion, Harris, Talbot, Troup, Meriwether, Coweta, and Carroll," passed the 20th day of Dec. 1828.—Approved Dec. 27, 1831. Pam. 147.

181. [Extending the former act (as respects the sheriff's pay, and duty of making returns) to all the other counties west of the Flint.]

An Act to sell lots No. ten and one hundred, in the several districts in the county of Lowndes, reserved for academical purposes.—Approved Dec. 22, 1832. Pam. 118.

182. [By the Sheriff.]

An Act to dispose of and distribute by lotteries, all the fractional parts of surveys in the counties of Union, Lumpkin, Forsyth, Cobb, Paulding, Cherokee, Floyd, Cass, Gilmer, and Murray.—Approved Nov. 29, 1833. Pam. 126.

All fractions
kee territory.

183. His excellency, the governor, is authorized and required to appoint three fit and proper persons, as commissioners, who, after having given bond, and taken the oath as prescribed by an act of the general assembly, passed December, 1832, for the governing of the late land and gold lottery, [shall] proceed to make out tickets of all the fractions in the counties aforesaid, as nearly equal in size as possible, and deposit them in the wheels which contained the prizes of the late land and gold lotteries, placing the fractions in the districts surveyed into forty-acre lots, into the gold lottery wheel, and the fractions in the districts surveyed into one hundred and sixty-acre lots, into the land lottery wheel.

Drawn for,

184. Sec. II. So soon as the whole number of tickets, or prizes, shall be made out and placed in the respective wheels, it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to unseal and open the wheels containing the residue of the names or tickets that were received, made out, and deposited in the said wheels, in preparing for the late land and gold lotteries, and proceed to drawing and conducting in the same manner as was prescribed for the drawing and conducting the late land and gold lotteries, and published in the same order.

And granted.

185. Sec. III. The persons to whose names fractional lots may be drawn, in the aforesaid contemplated lotteries, shall be entitled to grants for them, upon the same terms that the fortunate drawers in the late land and gold lotteries are entitled to grants for the lots by them respectively drawn.

An Act to reduce the fees on grants to fortunate drawers in the late land and gold lotteries of the lands of this State in the Cherokee country.—Approved Dec. 13, 1833. Pam. 99.

186. From and after the passage of this act, the fees on grants for lands drawn in the late land and gold lotteries, shall be ten dollars on each grant of a land lot, and five dollars on each grant of a gold lot, to be paid into the treasury of this State.

Sec. II. [Repealing clause.]

An act to prescribe the mode of selling land at Sheriff's sale in the counties of Lumpkin, Paulding, Cobb, Gilmer, Union, Cass, Murray, Cherokee, Floyd, Forsyth and other counties that may hereafter be made of a part or parts of said counties, and to make valid certain sales of land in said counties.—Approved Dec. 23, 1833. Pam. 121.

187. From and after the passage of this act, the sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables and other levying officers, in and for the counties aforesaid, shall not be required, nor shall it be their duty, to levy on any lot or lots, parcel or parcels of land in said counties, until the grant from the State for the same, or a certificate from the executive office that the same has been duly granted, shall be exhibited to him or them.

188. Sec. II. No lot or lots, parcel or parcels of land situate or being in said counties, which have been heretofore levied on, shall by the officers aforesaid be sold or exposed to sale, until the grant for the same, or an executive certificate that the same has been granted, shall be exhibited to the officers whose duty it shall be to sell, or expose to sale the said lot or lots, parcel or parcels of land.

189. Sec. III. Any sheriff, deputy sheriff, or other ministerial officer, who shall hereafter sell any lot or lots, parcel or parcels of land situated in said counties, until the evidences aforesaid, that the same has been granted, shall be exhibited to him, shall be compelled by rule (of or from the superior court of his county) to refund to the purchaser at said sale, the money that he may have paid by reason of, or in consequence of said sale.

190. Sec. IV. From and after the passage of this act, sales or mortgages of land, situated in said counties, that may be hereafter made, either by sheriffs, or other person or persons, before the grant for the same shall have issued, shall be void and of no effect, either in law or equity.

Sec. V. [Temporary.]

Sec. VI. [Repeals all repugnant laws.]

An Act to place purchasers of the State's interest in lots of land, condemned and sold as fraudulent, on the same footing with purchasers of fractions, in certain cases.—Approved Dec. 23, 1833. Pam. 123.

191. From and after the passage of this act, in cases where purchasers of the State's interest in lots of land which have heretofore been, or may hereafter be condemned and sold as fraudulent, may have failed, or may hereafter fail to pay the instalment or instalments within sixty days after the same may have become, or may hereafter become due, as required by law, it shall be lawful for, and it is hereby made the duty of the treasurer to receive such instalment or instalments with interest thereon, under the same laws, rules, and regulations as to limitation of time and rates of interest, as are observed by the Central Bank in collecting instalments on fractions in similar circumstances, and upon the payment of all the instalments according to the above provisions, the purchaser or purchasers shall be placed upon the same footing as if the payments had been made punctually as they severally fell due, and shall be entitled to receive the grant or grants upon the payment of the usual fees.

Sec. II. [Repealing clause.]

An Act to sell, with the consent of the informer, all lots of land drawn in the Gold Lottery in the Cherokee territory returned and condemned as fraudulently drawn.—Passed Dec. 19, 1834. Pam. 160.

192. Whereas, it has been found impracticable to make an equal division between the State and informer of lots of land returned and condemned as fraudulently drawn in the late gold lottery, by the ordinary mode of partition and division as prescribed by the act in that case made and provided—

division.

Be it therefore enacted, That from and immediately after the passage of this act, where any lot or lots of land drawn in the gold districts of the Cherokee territory in the late land lottery have been or shall hereafter be condemned as fraudulently drawn, it shall be the duty of the judge of the superior court of the county wherein the said lot or lots shall have been or may be condemned, to order the sheriff of the county to sell the same at public sale to the highest bidder: Provided, the informer will give his consent, which shall be in writing under his hand and seal, attested by two witnesses as in cases of deeds to real estate, and filed in office at or before the granting of said order.

How sold and
vided.

193. Sec. II. It shall be the duty of the sheriff to proceed, in obedience to said order, to advertise and sell said lot or lots as in cases under execution, and to pay over to the informer the one half of the net proceeds of the sale of the lot or lots after paying expenses of sale, and the other half to be paid to the treasurer of the State, to be attached to and form a part of the academic fund of this State.

full title.

194. Sec. III. The sheriff shall execute to the purchaser a deed in due form for said lot or lots, which shall vest in him the absolute and entire legal interest in and to said lot or lots sold as aforesaid.*

An Act to regulate the fees on grants for lots 10 and 100, heretofore set apart for academic purposes.—Passed Dec. 20, 1834. Pam. 120.

Grant fee on

195. From and after the passage of this act the fees for grants on lots 10 and 100, heretofore reserved by the State for academic purposes, shall be two dollars, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Act to authorize and permit such persons as may have drawn lots in the late Land and Gold Lotteries in this State, which may be in the occupancy of Cherokee Indians, or other persons claiming in right of Indian families, to test the same for gold and operate thereon, under certain restrictions, either by themselves or persons legally authorized thereto by said drawers.—Approved Dec. 22, 1834. Pam. 159.

196. [This act may be considered as abrogated by the act of 1835. See Indians, Sec. 23, 24, 25.]

* See act of Dec. 21, 1835, pam. 144, which is a transcript of this, substituting Land for Gold Lottery, and appropriating the State part of the proceeds to the Poor school, instead of the Academic fund.

An Act for the relief of purchasers of lots of land, numbers ten and one hundred, heretofore reserved by the State for the education of poor children.—Approved Dec. 24, 1835. Pam. 244.

197. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act it shall and may be lawful for the purchaser or purchasers of lot or lots of land, number or numbers ten and one hundred, in any of the counties in this State, reserved for the education of poor children, and heretofore sold by the authority of this State, whose right to the same may have become forfeited by a failure to pay any instalment agreeably to the provisions of the acts of the legislature authorizing the sale of said lots, to be, and they are hereby reinvested with the right to said lot or lots, except such as may have been sold by the authority of the State subsequent to such forfeiture: Provided, said purchaser or purchasers shall pay all or any instalments due and unpaid, with interest due thereon, on or before the first day of June next.

Sec. II. [Repeals all conflicting acts.]

An Act, to vest in persons who paid for the same, the title to Lots of Land and Fractions, which were advertised in May and June in the year 1834, as forfeited.—Approved Dec. 24, 1836. Pam. 226.

198. Whereas, at the sale of forfeited lots of land and fractions in the months of May and June, in the year 1834, many of the lots and fractions so advertised, were paid for by persons not holding certificates for the same, and are unable, under existing laws, to obtain titles to the same, for remedy whereof:

Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the proper officers, to issue grants for said lots and fractions, on the payment of the usual fees, to persons who paid for the same, on producing a certificate from the agent who received the money, that there was no attempt made by the original purchasers, or persons holding under them, to redeem said lots or fractions, and that the same were paid for by the persons applying for said grants; and in cases where the money was received by the late Henry W. Malone, and no receipt given for the same, the grants shall issue upon the applicant making oath, that he paid the same: Provided, said oath is corroborated by memoranda in the books kept by the said Henry W. Malone, as agent for the Central Bank.

Two districts in Ocfenoka Swamp authorized to be surveyed, [1820, Vol. iv. p. 5 of Res.]

To refund any payments on fractions that may previously have been sold and paid for, [1829, lb. 146.]

Respecting ten lots that had been relinquished by the drawers, and asserting the right in a government as undisputed, "to vacate its grants that issue through ignorance, mistake, or upon fraudulent representation," [Pam. of 1830, 235.]

To put into the lottery wheel, any lots formerly left out by mistake, or relinquished by the drawers, [Pam. of 1833, 392.]

On the appropriation of the public lands by Congress to the purposes of education, [1821, vol. iv. 13 of Res.]

Against the distribution among the States, by Congress, of the proceeds of the public lands, [Pam. of 1833, 347.]

Fees on Grants. Although a period was fixed in each Lottery act within which the grants must be taken out or the land would be forfeited to the State, the privilege of taking out grants has been continued by annual revivals down to the present time.

Lands included in the old lotteries of 1803 and 1805, embracing the territory between the Oconee and Ocmulgee; and lands in Wayne county, may, since 1826 be granted to any person in his own name, on the payment of $5. This is a perpetual act, [Vol. iv. 261, Sec. 111.]

The lottery of 1818 and its amendments, embrace the lower new counties; that is, Ware, Appling and all west of them below the Lee and Randolph lines: and also the counties of Walton, Gwinnett, Hall and Habersham as then laid out. The grant fee, from the drawing, till November 1823, was $18. Thence till December 1826, it was $12, [Vol. iv. 275, 252, 258.] Thence till November 1830, $8, [lb. 261, 339, 269, 345.] Thence till November 1831, $6, [Act of 1830, Pam. 147.] And thence till December 1837, $5, [Act of 1831, Pam. 149.] Any citizen of the State was allowed to take a grant in his own name, of lands in this lottery, at any time, on paying—from December 5, 1828, $100—from April 1829, $50—and from August 1829, $25. With a saving in favor of orphans, decedents, and of lands given for purposes of education, [Act of Dec. 1827, vol. iv. 339, re-enacted and extended the next year, lb. 269.]

The grant fee for lands disposed of by the lottery of 1821, being the territory between the Ocmulgee and Flint rivers, extending from Dooly to DeKalb counties inclusive, was, till November 1823, $19, [Vol. iv. 249, Sec. 20.] Thence till December 1826, it was $12, [lb. 275, 252, 258.] Thence till December 1827, $10, [lb. 261.] Thence till December 1830, $3, [lb. 329, 269, 345.] Thence till December 1831, $6, [Pam. of 1830, p. 147.] And thence till December 1837, $5, [Pam. of 1831, p. 149.]

The lottery of 1825 covered all the territory in the State, west of the Flint, above the Baker and Early line, and below Paulding and Cobb. The grant fee by the act, (Sec. 21,) was $18, which in 1829, [Vol. iv. 346.] was reduced to $12; and in 1830, [Pam. 148,] the time was enlarged to Dec. 25, 1837, and the fee reduced to $8.

Grants for Cherokee lands under the Land lottery of 1830 and its amendments, and the Gold lottery of 1831, and the subsequent Fraction lottery, pay $18 for whole or fractional lots; and $10 for Gold lots or fractions: to be taken out within five years from the drawing. The Land and Gold lotteries were drawn in the winter of 1832-3, and the Fractions in the ensuing December. A Resolution of December 1823, [Vol. iv. p. 36 of Res.] prescribes the fees, ($4 50,) on fractions sold by the State.

Grant Fee on Academical lots, No. 10 and 100, $2. [See Sec. 195 of this title.]

Grants on Gold lots reduced to $2 50 by act of 1836, pam. 140.

LAWS. (REVIVAL.)

*An Act to continue the several laws of this State, near expiring, and for other purposes therein mentioned.—Approved July 30th, 1783.
Vol. I. 402.

Whereas several necessary laws of this State passed before the revolution are near expiring, and it is expedient for the welfare thereof that they should be further continued:

I. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That an act passed the 7th day of April, 1763,† to prevent persons throwing ballast or rubbish, or falling trees into the rivers and navigable creeks within this State, then province, and for keeping clear the channels of the same; and also an act to amend the said act, passed the 25th day of March, 1765.†

Act of 7th April, 1763, respecting ballast and rubbish.

And also an act passed the sixth day of March, 1766, for punishing seamen and mariners, neglecting or deserting their duty on board their respective ships or vessels, and for preventing seamen or mariners from being harbored or running in debt.‡

Act of 6th of Mar. 1766, to punish seamen.

And also an act to prevent frauds and deceits in selling beef, pork, pitch, tar, turpentine and firewood, passed the 6th day of March, 1766; also an act for amending [the foregoing] passed the 24th day of December, 1768.§

Acts of 1766 and 1768, to prev't frauds in selling beef, pork, &c.

And also an act passed the 18th day of November, 1765, for the establishing and regulating patrols, and for preventing any person from purchasing provisions or any other commodities from or selling such to any slave, unless such slave shall produce a ticket from his or her owner, manager, or employer.||

Act of 18th Nov. 1765, to establish patrols, &c.

And also an act to prevent stealing of horses and neat cattle, and unlawfully branding, marking, killing, or driving the same, passed the 29th day of September, 1773,¶ shall severally and respectively be, and they are hereby continued in full force until repealed by this or some future general assembly.

And the act of 30th Sept. 1773, as to horses and other cattle. Perpetuated.

And whereas, at the time of the invasion of this State by the British troops in the year 1778, the public records were sent away to prevent

* The several revival acts were for the most part passed in a season of alarm and confusion; and when, in the absence of the public records it could not be known with certainty what laws needed revival, or what was the extent and operation of former acts passed for that purpose. It was a natural consequence, that some of those acts were wholly or partly superfluous at the time of their enactment; and that others were rendered so by later laws on the same subject.

To publish the whole would, it is conceived, tend to distract the attention and to embarrass rather than assist the inquirer. Convenience, therefore, as well as the plan of this work, suggests the propriety of including no more than such as are now practically in force; omitting such as have been superseded and rendered nugatory. It will on examination be found.

1st. That the acts here recited, were reinstated in their operation, by virtue either of the first or second section of the present; and that all other temporary laws, prior to the 29th December, 1778, stand revived by the second section.

2d. That there were no laws passed after the 29th December, 1778, and before the date of this, that needed revival, for the amnesty of 1781, (if that should be considered as an exception,) is recited in a subsequent permanent act; and

3d. That the operation of the English laws is deducible from the act of 1784, [Sec. 3d of this title.]

their falling into the hands of the enemy, and have not yet been returned into this State, from which cause the several laws heretofore passed and which may be now expiring, cannot with precision be known, and if no remedy be applied, there is reason to believe great injury may accrue to the citizens of this State, for the prevention thereof:

All laws passed prior to 29th Dec. 1778, near expiring, not repugnant, &c. Perpetuated.

2. Sec. II. Be it enacted, &c. That all laws passed before the 29th day of December, 1778,* which are or may be near expiring, and that are not repugnant to the constitution of this State, or in their nature temporary, be and they are hereby declared to be in full force, and that they shall continue in force until repealed by this or some future legislature.

Sec. III. [Respecting embargoes by the governor—abrogated by the constitution of the United States.]

An Act for reviving and enforcing certain Laws therein mentioned.—
Approved February 25, 1784. Vol. I. 404.

Whereas, during the late convulsions in this State, several salutary laws were lost and destroyed, that had from time to time been enacted by the general assembly of the same; and among others an act reviving and putting in force such and so much of the laws of the province of Georgia, as were adjudged necessary to be in force in this State: And whereas the said laws are for the most part suited to the circumstances of the people: And whereas, it is absolutely necessary for the well governing every State, that laws properly adapted to the circumstances of the inhabitants be at all times in force.

All laws in force on the 14th May, 1776, not repugnant to the constitution, &c. Perpetuated.

3. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That all and singular the several acts, clauses, and parts of acts, that were in force and binding on the inhabitants of the said province, on the 14th day of May, A. D. 1776, so far as they are not contrary to the constitution, laws, and form of government now established in this State, shall be, and are hereby declared to be in full force, virtue, and effect, and binding on the inhabitants of this State, immediately from and after the passing of this act, as fully and effectually, to all intents and purposes, as if the said acts, and each of them, had been made and enacted by this general assembly, until the same shall be repealed, amended, or otherwise altered by the legislature: And also the common laws of England, and such of the statute laws as were usually in force in the said province, except as before excepted.

Also such common and statute laws of England as are not repugnant, &c. All fines, &c. by those acts payable to the king, to be paid into the treasury. Public officers have the same powers as before.

4. Sec. II. All fines, penalties, and forfeitures, inflicted or made payable by any of the aforementioned acts to the king of Great Britain, are hereby directed to be paid into the public treasury of this State, for the use of the same: And that all authorities given and enjoined by any of the said acts to any public officer, are hereby given and enjoined to such public officers, appointed under the constitution or form of government established in this State, and agreeable to the same.

An Act to carry into effect the Eighth Section of the Third Article of the Constitution.—Approved December 6, 1799. Vol. I. 190.

Laws in force to be arranged and report.

5. Sec. I. For the more general promulgation of the laws of this State, the secretary of state, with two commissioners who shall be appointed by the legislature for that purpose, shall examine into, digest, and arrange the several laws thereof now in force, and report the same to his excellency the governor, who shall approve or disapprove of the same.

6. Sec. II. If his excellency the governor shall approve of such digest of the laws of the State as may be reported to him in pursuance of this act, that then the secretary of state shall, under the direction of the executive thereof, cause to be printed, in a quarto bound volume or volumes, 1,000 copies of such digest of the laws of this State, as may be reported by the aforesaid commissioners and secretary of state in terms of this act.

If approved, 1,000 copies to be printed.

7. Sec. III. Eight hundred copies of the aforesaid volumes of the digest of the laws of this State, so reported and approved of as aforesaid, shall be distributed by the executive among the respective counties of this State, agreeably to the rule laid down by the constitution for apportioning the representatives among the several counties: And the proportion which shall be so assigned to the respective counties, shall be transmitted by the executive to the justices of the inferior court of such county, by whom the same shall be distributed, in such manner as the said justices may deem most proper for the general information of the citizens.

800 copies to be distributed among the several counties of the State.

8. Sec. IV. The remaining 200 volumes of the aforesaid digest of the laws of this State, so reported and approved of as aforesaid, shall be reserved by the executive for the future disposition of this State.

The 200 remaining copies reserved for future disposition.

9. Sec. V. The laws of this State which shall in future be passed shall, at the end of each succeeding session, be printed and distributed in manner and form aforesaid.

Laws in future to be printed and distributed in the same manner.

It was resolved, on the 6th December, 1799, that a former appropriation of $2,000, in favor of Robert and George Watkins, was intended as an advance towards carrying on their digest, but not to sanction the same as a code of the laws of this State. On the 27th November, 1800, that two commissioners should be appointed, who, with the secretary of state, should arrange the laws of this State, pursuant to the foregoing act. On the 2d December, 1800, it was further resolved, that the commissioners, before proceeding in their duties, should be sworn to the faithful and constitutional discharge of their duty; and that they would not insert the Yazoo act. [Vol. I. 190, 1, 2.]

The executive declaration of March 3, 1801, reciting, among other things, the foregoing matters; and that a digest had been reported by H. Marbury, secretary of state, and William H. Crawford, one of the commissioners, "confirms and establishes" the same "as the digest of the State." Vol. I. 599.

An Act to compile and arrange the Laws and Resolutions of this State, passed since the political year 1800.—Approved December 12, 1809. Vol. II. 528.

10. Sec. I. During the year 1810, the laws of this State, passed since the political year 1800, and the concurred and approved resolutions, except such as relate to elections by the general assembly, and every tenth year thereafter, shall be compiled, arranged, and printed.

Laws and resolutions since 1800 to be compiled.

11. Sec. II. The legislature shall, by joint ballot of both branches, appoint some fit and proper person to compile and arrange the laws of this State, in pursuance of this act, and report the same to his excellency the governor.

A person to be appointed for that purpose, who is to report the same to the governor.

lency the governor, who shall approve or disapprove of the same : And when the work shall be thus performed, and approved of by his excellency the governor, he shall pay out of the contingent fund, to the person thus performing the work, a sum of money, which he shall deem an adequate compensation for the work.*

2,000 volumes to be printed.

12. Sec. III. If his excellency the governor shall approve of such compilation of the laws of the State, as may be reported in conformity to this act, that then he shall cause to be printed, in quarto or octavo bound volumes, 2,000 copies of the laws, as shall be reported to and approved of by his excellency, in terms of this act.

The manner of distributing them.

13. Sec. IV. After the said laws are compiled, arranged, and printed, his excellency the governor shall cause the same to be distributed in the respective counties of this State, agreeably to the rules laid down by the constitution for the apportioning the representatives in the respective counties ; and the proportion which shall be assigned to the different counties, shall be transmitted by the governor to the justices of the inferior courts, who shall distribute the same in proportion to the number of civil officers in such county.

500 volumes reserved for future distribution.

14. Sec. V. As often as the laws of this State shall be compiled, arranged, and printed, in pursuance of this act, his excellency the governor shall reserve 500 volumes, for such further distribution as the legislature may think proper.†

An Act prescribing the form of a Digest or Manual of the Laws of Georgia.‡—Approved Dec. 21, 1819. Vol. III. 250.

Digest of all the public and general laws to be formed.

15. Sec. I. During the year 1820§ a digest of the laws of this State shall be formed and arranged, which shall include all acts and resolutions of the legislature heretofore passed, and which may be passed during the present session, which are public and general, and excluding such as are private or local, and also such as have been repealed.

What it shall contain in the appendix.

16. Sec. II. To said digest shall be added an appendix, which shall contain the constitution of the United States and the State of Georgia as amended ; the statute of frauds and perjuries, passed in the 29th year of the reign of Charles the 2d ; also all acts relating to writs of habeas corpus.

How to be reported, examined, and paid for.

17. Sec. III. The legislature shall by joint ballot appoint some fit and proper person to form and arrange a digest in pursuance of this act, who shall report the same to his excellency the governor, who, after the same has been examined by a committee appointed for that purpose, shall approve or disapprove the same : and when the work shall be so performed and approved by the governor, he shall pay out of the contingent fund, to the person appointed as aforesaid, a sum which he may deem an adequate compensation for the work.

* Under the act of 1799, as has been seen, Marbury's and Crawford's digest was compiled. This act of 1809 is of permanent operation ; under which, first Clayton's, and lately Lamar's, digests, have been already compiled ; and one will appear every ten years hereafter. These decennial volumes of the statutes at large, and those in future to appear, the compiler of this work conceives will be most conveniently referred to, not by the names of their compilers, (which afford no idea of the order in which they stand,) but numerically, as Vol. I, II, III, &c. and has quoted the present three volumes accordingly.

18. Sec. IV. Three fit and proper persons shall be appointed by the governor to examine said work, and on their favorable report he shall be authorized to contract for the printing* of 3,000 copies in convenient bound volumes, a part to be distributed pursuant to the act of the legislature, passed 12th December, 1809, and the remainder reserved for future disposition of the legislature.

2. Sec. II. Be it enacted, That all and every person and persons whatsoever, now in possession of any lots, lands, tenements, or hereditaments whatsoever, within this province, derived from any grant, allotment, or other power or authority whatsoever, by, from, or under the late trustees for establishing this colony, or their president and assistants, or from any other person or persons whatsoever under their authority, or by or from any grant from his late majesty, (of blessed memory,) or from his present majesty, or by or under any last will and testament, purchase or purchases, whether by deed of gift, bill of sale, or other conveyance whatsoever, for lawful or valuable consideration, and where the person or persons now in the possession of the said lands, tenements, or hereditaments, do possess, hold, and claim the same, as of his, her, or their own proper right in fee simple, and the person or persons so in possession, or the person or persons under whom they claim, have severally or successively been quietly possessed of the same under any of the titles, ways, or means aforesaid, and without lawful interruption by suit or action at law actually commenced, enjoyed the same for the space of twenty years before the passing of this act, that then such person and persons so in possession as aforesaid, shall have good right and title to the same, and shall have, hold, and enjoy the said lands, tenements, and hereditaments unto him, her, or them, his, her, or their heirs or assigns for ever in fee simple, against all and every other person and persons whatsoever, any thing hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

3. Sec. III. Not only the person or persons who are or shall be hereafter barred, by not suing or prosecuting his or their claims to any lands, tenements, or hereditaments in this province within the time limited by this act, but also all manner of persons whatsoever, that shall at any time claim under such person or persons, who have lost or may hereafter lose their right, by neglecting to sue and prosecute his or their claim as aforesaid, shall be in like manner barred by this act, as his, her, or their ancestor or ancestors, or those under whom they claim, were or would have hereby been, and that this act, and such clause or clauses herein as relate to the matters aforesaid, may be given in evidence to a jury upon a trial of any claim, matter, or right to any lands or tenements in question between party and party, and that the chief justice and judges upon all such trials shall allow the same to be given in evidence, so far as concerns the said matter in difference.

And to prevent any disputes how claims are to be made to lands, and what claims shall be allowed to be good and effectual in this province, and that the possessors of lands may know how and in what manner other persons having or laying claim to any lands or tenements in their possession must claim the same, and also that persons having right or title to lands or tenements possessed by others may the better know how to claim or demand their right in such case,

4. Sec. IV. Be it enacted, That all and every person and persons whatsoever, making claim to any lands or tenements in this province, in order to make such claim effectual, shall and are to make the same by action at law, duly entered in the general court of pleas in this province,* and that the chief justice and judges of the said court do allow of no claim to any lands or tenements, for or by any person or persons, in any suit or suits that may be brought, sued, or prosecuted in the said court, other than what is or has been made by action or suit on record as aforesaid, any law, custom, usage, or practice to the contrary notwithstanding.

5. Sec. V. All actions of trespass, quare clausum fregit, all actions of trespass, detinue, actions of trover and replevin, for taking away goods and cattle, all actions upon account and upon the case, (other than such accounts as concern the trade of merchandize between merchant and merchant, their factors or servants,† all actions of debt grounded upon any lending or contract without specialty, all actions of debt for arrearages of rent,) and all actions of assault, menace, and battery, wounding, and imprisonment, or any of them, which shall be sued or brought at any time after the passing of this act, shall be commenced and sued within the time and limitation hereinafter expressed, and not afterwards, that is to say, the said actions upon the case, (other than for slander,) and the said actions for account, and the said actions for trespass, debt, detinue, and replevin for goods and cattle, and the said actions of trespass, quare clausum fregit, within three years next after the passing of this act, or within four years next after the cause of such actions or suits, and not after; and the said actions of trespass, assault, battery, wounding, imprisonment, or any of them, within one year after the passing of this act, or within two years next after the cause of such action or suit, and not after; and the said actions upon the case for words, within six months after the passing of this act, or within six months next after the words spoken, and not after.‡

6. Sec. VI. If in any of the said actions or suits, judgment shall be given for the plaintiff, and the same be reversed by error, or a verdict pass for the plaintiff, and upon matter alleged in arrest of judgment, the judgment be given against the plaintiff, that he take nothing by his plaint, writ, or bill, or if any the said actions shall be brought by original, and the defendants therein be outlawed, and shall after reverse the outlawry, that in all such cases the party plaintiff, his heirs, executors, or administrators, as the case shall require, may commence a new action or suit from time to time, within a year after such judgment reversed, or such judgment given against the plaintiff, or out-lawry reversed, and not after.

In trespass, disclaimer and tender of amends when to be a bar to future actions.

7. Sec. VII. In all actions of trespass, quare clausum fregit, hereafter to be brought, wherein the defendant or defendants shall disclaim in his or their plea, to make any title or claim to the land in which the trespass is by the declaration supposed to be done, and the trespass be by negligence, or involuntary, the defendant or defendants shall be admitted to plead a disclaimer, and that the trespass was by negligence or involuntary, and a tender or offer of sufficient amends for such trespass before the action brought, whereupon, or upon some of them, the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall be enforced to join issue, and if the said issue be found for the defendant or defendants, or the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall be nonsuited, the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall be clearly barred from the said actions, and all other suit concerning the same.

In slander, damages under forty shillings no more costs than damages.

8. Sec. VIII. In all actions upon the case for slanderous words, to be sued or prosecuted by any person or persons in the general court in this province, or in any other court having power to hold plea of the same, after the passing of this act, if the jury upon the trial of the issue in such action, or the jury that shall inquire of the damages, do find or assess the damage under forty shillings, then the plaintiff or plaintiffs in such action shall have and recover only so much costs as the damages so given or assessed amount unto, without any further increase of the same, any law, statute, custom, or usage to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

Sec. IX. [Allowing further time to bring actions after the removal of plaintiff's disability—transcribed into the act of 1816, with a slight alteration. See Sec 12.]

Limitation for the recovery of fines and forfeitures not otherwise provided for.

9. Sec. X. In all and every case where any penalty, fine, or forfeiture whatsoever, hath been, or shall hereafter be inflicted or imposed by any act or acts of the general assembly of this province already passed, or hereafter to be passed, and the time of suing or prosecuting the offender or offenders, against such acts not thereby provided, no information, action, suit, or prosecution shall be had, brought, issued, or commenced against the offender or offenders, against any such act or acts, for or in respect of any such penalty, fine, or forfeiture, unless the same be done within six months after the passing of this act, if the offence hath been already committed, and within the like space of time after the offence committed, for the future; and all and every offender and offenders against any such act or acts, shall not from thenceforth be subject or liable to any penalty, fine, or forfeiture which may thereby be inflicted or imposed, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

Sec. XI. [Respecting a claim of Sir William Baker—private.]

10. The act next in order of time is that of the 7th December, 1805, [Vol. II. 269.] amended 26th June thereafter, [ibid. 303.] This act (of 7th December, 1805,) limits actions of ejectment to seven years from the commencement of the title, and to three years after infancy, discovery, insanity, or imprisonment of the plaintiff.

Actions of trespass, assault, battery, wounding, and imprisonment must be brought within one year after the cause of action accrues, or after the removal of such disabilities.

Actions of detinue, trover, debt (other than on judgments,) within four years from the accrual of the action, or two years from the disabilities ceasing.

Actions of debt on judgments obtained in courts, other than the courts of this State, within five years after the judgment obtained.

Actions on the case for words, within one year from the speaking the words; and other actions on the case, within four years after the cause of action accrues.

Persons absconding, or removing their property out of the State, not to be entitled to the benefit of the act.

A nonsuit or discontinuance of a suit commenced within time, not to defeat the operation of the act; but by the amendatory act (of June, 1806,) the plaintiff may in such case renew his action (once only,) within six months thereafter.

The foregoing statute of 1767 is repealed by the former of these acts, but revived by the latter as to all causes of action which originated under it; and was fully revived on the 8th December thereafter. See next section.

† This is a mistake. The act of 7th Dec. 1805, having stood repealed from the 8th Dec. 1806, (see sec. 13,) was not in force as the "statute of limitations in this struction given to the before-recited act, by which the savings and exceptions in favor of idiots, lunatics, and infants, mentioned in said act, are totally defeated, and manifest injustice done thereby :

18. Sec. 1. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passage of this act, no court of justice in this State, before whom the plea of the statute of limitations may be relied on or plead by any defendant or defendants, shall be permitted to construe said act against idiots, lunatics, or infants, as heretofore construed; but said statute of limitations, when it has commenced running, shall not so operate as to defeat the interest acquired by idiots, lunatics, or infants, after its commencement, but the operation of said statute shall cease until the disability or disabilities of such persons are removed, or from the time of the arrival of such infant to the age of twenty-one years; any law, custom, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

19. Sec. II. No proviso or part of the above-recited act, or any other part or parts of any statute of limitations, which are or heretofore have been of force in this State, shall be so construed as to grant any privilege, right, or exemption, to any person or persons, who may reside in either of the United States, or the territories thereof, or beyond seas, or elsewhere, other than those enjoyed by the citizens resident within the limits of this State.

State," at the date of the present act, and therefore could not have been the subject of amendment. The provisions of this statute are, however, equally applicable to the limitation acts which were then in force.

SUSPENSIONS OF THE ACTS OF LIMITATION.

The act of limitation was suspended from the 1st of July, 1775, down to the 1st of February, 1793. See vol. I. 36, 7.

The first alleviating act [Vol. II. 426,] was passed 23d May, 1808, and repealed the 20th Dec. of the same year, by the act called the thirding law, [Vol. II. 448.] If we exclude the day the act was passed, and include that of its repeal, we have 211 days during which the statutes of limitation of actions was totally suspended, except for the recovery of taxes and penalties, and in attachment and claim cases.

By sec. 5. of the alleviation law of 27th Nov. 1812, (Vol. III. 34.) the acts of limitation were suspended, "except as relates to real estate," from the 30th of that month, (sec. 1.) to 6th Dec. 1813, 1 year and 6 days.

This act, however, allowed suits to be brought,

Against persons refusing to liquidate their accounts, sec. 4;

Against principals and sureties, at the instance of the latter, sec. 6;

Against debtors, who were squandering their estate, sec. 7;

Against delinquent executors, administrators, or guardians, sec. 13;

By attachment against absconding debtors, sec. 12;

By bill in chancery for certain purposes;

And for fines, forfeitures, and other moneys due the public, or due to banks; for rent, and for tuition money, sec. 8.

By the supplementary act of 6th December, 1813, (Vol. III. 36.) there was a further suspension until 25th December, 1814, when the act expired; say 1 year and 19 days.

This statute enlarged the list of exceptions in the last, and allowed actions to be brought also for slanderous words, sec. 2; and on written instruments given for titles to land, sec. 5.

LOTTERIES AND GAMING.

An Act to suppress Lotteries, and prevent other excessive and deceitful Gaming.—Approved Feb. 29, 1764. Vol. I. 248.

Whereas many good and wholesome statutes of Great Britain have, from time to time, been enacted and established to prevent lotteries and gaming, and great mischiefs are daily found to arise from such practices, both to trade and the community in general, as many idle, loose, and disorderly persons find means thereby to support themselves in a dishonest, dissolute course of life, and the younger sort of people, and others, are frequently drawn in and deceived, to the loss of their time and ruin of their fortunes :

Persons establishing

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passing of this act, if any person or persons shall erect, set up, or expose to be played, drawn, or thrown at, or shall cause or procure to be erected, set up, exposed to be played, drawn, or thrown at, any lottery, under the denomination of a sale, or sales of houses, lands, plate, jewels, ships, goods, or other things, or for money, or any undertaking whatsoever in the nature of a lottery, by way of chances, either by dice, lots, cards, numbers, figures, or tickets, or shall make, print, advertise, or publish, or cause to be made, printed, advertised, or published, proposals or schemes for advancing small sums of money, by several persons, amounting in the whole to large sums, to be divided among them by chances of prizes, or shall deliver out, or cause, or procure to be delivered out, tickets to the persons advancing such sums, to entitle them to a share of the money so advanced, according to such proposals or schemes, or shall expose to sale any houses, lands, plate, jewels, ships, or other goods, or chattels, by any game, method, or device, whatsoever, depending upon, or to be determined by any lot or drawing, whether it be out of a box or wheel, or by cards, or dice, or by any machine, engine, or device of chance of any kind whatsoever, or shall be adventurers in, or pay any moneys or other consideration, or any ways contribute unto any of the said games, lottery or lotteries, sale or sales, such person or persons, and every, or either of them, on being convicted thereof, on the oath or oaths of one or more credible witness or witnesses, or on the confession of the party or parties accused, shall forfeit and lose the sum of five hundred pounds lawful money of this province, to be recovered by action of debt, or information, in the general court of pleas, the one moiety of such forfeiture to be to his majesty, for the support of the government of this province, and the other moiety to the informer : And all and every such sale or sales of houses, lands, plate, jewels, ships, goods, and other things, by any game, lottery or lotteries, machine, engine or other device whatsoever, depending upon, or to be determined by chance, or lot, shall, and are hereby declared to be void, to all intents and purposes ; and whatever shall be so set up, and exposed to sale, shall be forfeited to such person or persons who shall sue for the same, by action, bill, plaint, or information, in his majesty's general court of pleas of this province, wherein no essoign, protection, wager of law, or more than one imparlance shall be allowed : And in case of any offender against this act, not having sufficient goods and chattels, whereon to levy the penalty hereby inflicted, or not immediately paying the said penalty, or giving security for payment thereof, it shall and may be lawful for the justices, before whom such person or persons shall be convicted, to commit him or them to prison, there to continue and remain for any time not exceeding twelve months.

2. Sec. II. From and after the passing of this act, all bills, bonds, judgments, mortgages, notes of hand, or other securities or conveyances whatsoever, given, granted, drawn, or entered into, or executed by any person or persons whatsoever, where the consideration of such conveyance or securities shall be for any moneys or other valuable things whatsoever, won by gaming, or playing at cards, dice, tables, tennis, bowls, or other game or games, bet or bets, chance or chances, of any kind whatsoever, or by betting on the sides or hands of such as do game at any of the games aforesaid, or for reimbursing or repaying any money knowingly lent or advanced at the time and place of such play to any person or persons so gaming, or betting as aforesaid, or who shall during such game so play or bet, shall be utterly void and of none effect to all intents and purposes whatsoever, any statute or usage to the contrary thereof notwithstanding; and where such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances, shall be of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or shall be such as encumber or affect the same, such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances, shall inure, and be to and for the sole use and benefit of, and shall devolve upon such person or persons as should or might have, or be entitled to such lands, tenements, or hereditaments, in case the said grantor or grantors thereof, or the person or persons so encumbering the same, had been naturally dead, and as if such mortgages, securities, or other conveyances, had been made to such person or persons so to be entitled after the decease of the person or persons so encumbering the same; and all grants and conveyances to be made for the preventing such lands, tenements, or hereditaments, from coming to, or devolving upon such person or persons hereby intended to enjoy the same as aforesaid, shall be deemed fraudulent and void, and of none effect.

Bonds, bills, notes, &c. given to secure gaming debts, void.

Encumbrances of land, to inure to the heirs of the maker.

Sec. III. [Directing how money lost at play shall be recovered back—re-enacted with amendments, by act of 1765. See Sec. 5.]

3. Sec. IV. And for the better discovery of the moneys or things so won and received, and to be sued for and recovered as aforesaid, It is further enacted, that all and every the person or persons who, by virtue of this present act, shall or may be liable to be sued for the same, shall also be obliged, and compellable to answer upon oath such bill or bills in equity, as shall be preferred against him or them, for discovering the sum or sums of money, or other things, so won and received at play as aforesaid: Provided nevertheless, that upon the discovery and repayment of the money, or other thing, so to be discovered and repaid as aforesaid, together with the costs that may have accrued, such person or persons shall be acquitted, indemnified, and discharged from any further or other punishment, forfeiture, or penalty, inflicted by this act.

Gamesters sued to recover back money won at play, compelled to discover the amount on oath.

4. Sec. VI. And for preventing such quarrels as shall or may happen upon the account of gaming, Be it further enacted, that in case any person or persons, upon account of any money won by gaming, playing, or betting, at any of the games aforesaid, shall assault and beat, or challenge, or provoke to fight, any other person or persons, such person or persons so assaulting, beating, challenging, or provoking to fight, on being thereof convicted, upon an indictment or information to be exhibited against him or them for that purpose, shall forfeit to his majesty, his heirs, and successors, the sum of twenty pounds lawful money of this province, for the use of the said province, and shall

The military committee, in their report of 1824, recommend—"That all voluntary corps in the State at any time be furnished with the arms they may require on such conditions as his excellency the governor may impose." Approved Dec. 18th, 1824. [Vol. IV. p. 47 of Res.]

Resolved, That his excellency the governor, or his successors in office be, and he is hereby authorized and empowered, to furnish to the different volunteer companies of this State with the necessary arms, on its appearing that they are full and complete.

Resolved, That the commanding officer of each volunteer company shall, at the time of receiving such arms, give a bond with security, to the governor, to be approved by him and his successors in office, in a sum equal to double the estimated value of such, to return the same in good order, when the company is dissolved, or required by the governor for the time being: Provided, that the governor do always retain in each arsenal such amount of arms as he may deem expedient and prudent [Pam. of 1831, p. 299.]

and mate; and shall also have attached to it a lieutenant colonel and major, a sergeant major, a quartermaster sergeant, and a drum and fife major; each company shall consist of one captain, a first and second lieutenant and ensign, four sergeants, and four corporals, a drummer and fifer, and sixty-four privates.

Of the company.

4. Sec. II. When it shall be found necessary to create any new division or brigade district, or make alterations in any of those already laid off and defined, such new definitions or alterations, shall be made by the legislature, and a record made of the same in the adjutant general's office, as well as of the organization of the divisions and brigades heretofore created and defined.

Laying off new, or altering old divisions or brigade districts to be done by the legislature.

5. Sec. III. When it shall be necessary to create any new regimental, battalion, or company district, or make alterations in any such as have heretofore been laid off, the commanding officers of regiments, shall assemble the commanding officers of battalions and companies, at some fit and convenient place, and shall proceed to lay off, or alter any such regimental, battalion, or company district or districts, which districts shall, in all cases, be designated by lines and bounds, and recorded by the clerk of the respective regimental courts of inquiry; that in all creation or divisions of the aforesaid districts, a due regard shall be had to the number of effective men organized for each corps by the militia laws of the United States,* and that in case of the creation of any new company district, any subaltern officer or officers, falling within the bounds thereof, shall hold his or their rank and grade, his or their respective commissions being made to bear the number of the said new district, and that in case of the organization of any additional acquisition of territory, the regimental, battalion, and company districts therein, shall in the first instance, be defined in such manner and by such officers of the militia as the commander in chief may order and direct.

Reg. batt. or company districts, how to be laid off or altered.

Subaltern officers falling within the bounds of new districts. New territory, how to be organized.

6. Sec. IV. A regiment shall not contain less than two, nor more than three battalions; and in a regiment composed of two or more counties, battalion musters and battalion courts of inquiry only, shall be had; and regimental and battalion districts shall be so arranged as not to embrace parts of two or more counties; and the brigadier general, and field officers, shall determine the several counties which shall form a regiment. [But see sec. 46.]

How many battalions to a regiment. Musters and courts in certain counties. Reg. and batt. districts.

7. Sec. V. Every division, brigade, regimental, battalion, and company district, shall be numbered throughout the State by order of the commander in chief, in such manner, that every corps of the same denomination, shall bear a different number; by which number every district shall be designated in the commissions of officers commanding them; and when in the field, for the purpose of exercise, officers of the same grades shall take rank agreeably to the date of their respective commissions, their respective commands following the same; regiments being told into regular battalions—battalions into divisions, companies, platoons, and sections.

Who shall determine what counties form a regiment. Districts shall be numbered, and officers to be commissioned accordingly, to rank by the date of their commissions.

8. Sec. VI. All vacancies which may happen by death, resignation, or otherwise, of any major general, brigadier general, or quarter-master general, shall be filled by the general assembly, by joint ballot of both branches, and a list of the names of the person or persons so appointed, under the signature of the president of the senate and speaker of the house of representatives, shall be transmitted to his excellency the governor, within two days thereafter, who is hereby required to issue commissions to each and every person so appointed, within two days thereafter.

shall be transmitted to the commander in chief, who shall, within ten days after the said transmission, commission the person or persons so elected; and in regimental districts, the brigadier general shall appoint the time and place at which said elections shall be held; Provided nevertheless, that if two or more counties compose a regiment, in that case the elections shall be held at the several battalion muster grounds on the same day, and the result of each election be sent to the governor, who shall commission as aforesaid. [See Sec. 47.]

Where two or more counties compose a regiment.

11. Sec. IX. Each major general, brigadier general, and colonel, shall have the appointment of their own respective aids-de-camp, division inspectors, division quarter-masters, brigade inspectors, brigade quarter-masters, and the regimental staff.

General officers and colonels to appoint their own staff.

12. Sec. X. Each and every officer, appointed, or who may hereafter be appointed, and commissioned or brevetted, not having heretofore done the same, shall previous to entering on the duties of his office, take the following oath, to be administered by a justice of the peace or the regimental court of inquiry of the county in which such officer resides, to wit: I — do swear that I will support the constitution of the United States, and faithfully discharge the duties — in the — of militia of the State of Georgia, to the best of my skill and judgment — so help me God. If the said oath be administered by a justice of the peace, the justice of the peace before whom such oath shall be taken, shall transmit the same, within a reasonable time, to the clerk of the regiment to which such officer may belong, to be entered of record by said clerk.

Each officer shall take an oath.

The oath.

13. Sec. XI. The commanding officers of companies shall enrol every able-bodied white male citizen, as well as aliens,* between the age of eighteen and forty-five years, except such as are exempt by the laws of the United States and this present act,† residing within his district; and in all cases of doubt respecting the age of any person enrolled, entitled to be enrolled, or pleading incapacity, to serve in any company, the party questioned shall prove his age or inability to the regimental (or battalion courts of inquiry, in counties containing but one battalion) within whose bounds he may reside; and it shall at all times hereafter be the duty of every such captain or commanding officer of a company, to enrol every such white male as aforesaid, as shall from time to time arrive at the age of eighteen years, and be under forty-five, except as before excepted, or who shall come to reside within his bounds, and shall without delay notify such person of the said enrolment by a proper non-commissioned officer, by whom such notice may be proved.

What persons are subject to be enrolled.

14. Sec. XII. The captain or commanding officer of each company shall divide his company as nearly equal as possible, into four squads; and annually shall nominate one fit and proper person in each squad as sergeant, and another fit and proper person as corporal; but in case of refusal of all or any such persons to act as sergeant or corporal, the commanding officer of such company shall deposit the names of the men in each squad in separate hats, and call some disinterested person to draw two names from each hat, and the person whose name shall be first drawn, shall be a sergeant; and the person whose name shall be next drawn, shall be a corporal; and such persons shall be responsible for the duties required of such non-commissioned officers by law, for the term of one year thereafter; but such person shall not be compelled to serve again until the names of all the other persons in the respective squads shall have been so drawn.

Non-commissioned officers, how appointed.

If they refuse to serve, they may be appointed by lot.

commissioned officer or soldier, by the adjutant to said officers, and by sergeants to non-commissioned officers and privates, of the time and place the court of inquiry shall sit; and a written or verbal declaration before the court of inquiry by said adjutant and sergeants, or any other officer or soldier, shall be sufficient evidence to such courts of such notices and services; and the commanding officers of regiments and battalions, shall, at their respective regimental and battalion musters, take notice of all delinquent officers, and shall lay the same, together with the returns of delinquencies of the commanding officers of companies, at company, battalion, and regimental musters, before the court of inquiry appointed under this act, to take cognizance of, and determine on them; and to each of the said returns shall be annexed the following certificate, to wit: "I do certify that the return hereunto annexed, contains all the delinquencies which have occurred since my last return, having duly examined the same."

Sec. XXII. [Act of 1831 substitutes a section for this. See sec. 84 of this title.]

23. Sec. XXIII. That majors of battalions, in counties containing but one battalion, shall be allowed to nominate two fit and proper persons to act as adjutant and paymaster in his county, who shall be appointed by the lieutenant colonel commandant, and which shall be so construed as to supersede the necessity of having a regimental adjutant and paymaster in such cases.

Sec. XXIV. [See a substitution for this section in the act of 1831. Sec. 85 of this title.]

24. Sec. XXV. The paymaster of a regiment, previous to his entering on the duties herein required, shall give bond and security to the court of inquiry, for the faithful discharge of his duty, under such pecuniary penalty as they may think proper; he shall keep fair accounts of the receipts and disbursements of all moneys which may come into his hands by virtue of this act, which accounts shall at all times be subject to the inspection and examination of said court, or of any member thereof; and all accounts passed by said court, or appropriations made by them, and certified by the presiding officer, shall be sufficient to authorize the paymaster to pay the same; and should such paymaster fail to render a true and just account of all money by him received, at any time when required so to do by the court of inquiry, he shall forfeit double the sum which he so fails to account for, to be recovered by motion in the name of the commanding officer of the regiment, in any court having jurisdiction of the same, in the county where he may reside, giving such paymaster ten days' previous notice of such motion; and he shall moreover be dismissed from the office of paymaster of the regiment.

25. Sec. XXVI. The moneys arising from fines and forfeitures by virtue of this act, shall be considered as a fund to defray the expenses arising under the same, to provide standards and colors for the battalions and regiments, musical instruments for companies, ammunition for field days, and every other kind of warlike arms, implements, or equipage, which, in the opinion of the court of inquiry, may tend to the advancement of the militia service, and moreover the court of inquiry shall, from time to time, appropriate such sums as they shall think just and right, as a compensation to their clerks and paymasters, and any other person necessarily employed in carrying the militia law into effect, within the bounds of their respective regiments.

26. Sec. XXVII. The commander in chief of the State, upon complaint for misconduct or neglect of duty, lodged in writing in the executive office, by five or more of the commissioned officers, shall cause to be arrested any major general, brigadier general, the adjutant, or quartermaster general, and order a court martial of all the other generals, field officers, or captains, or so many of them (having a regard to seniority) as shall amount to thirteen, which court martial shall proceed in the same way, and under the same restrictions, as is hereinafter provided for the trial of field officers; and any major general, or brigadier general, for misconduct within their own knowledge, or upon complaint lodged in writing by two commissioned officers, shall have power to arrest any colonel, lieutenant colonel, major of battalion, or any other officer attached to their respective staffs; and the commanding officer of the division shall order a court martial for such colonel, lieutenant colonel, major of battalion, major of brigade, or inspector, to be composed of one brigadier general, and of as many field officers and captains as shall make up a number of not less than thirteen; and such court martial shall proceed to hear and determine on all offences against military order and decorum, and may censure, fine, or cashier such officer, which sentence shall be final when approved by the commander in chief of the State; and any brigadier general, colonel, lieutenant colonel, or major, for misconduct in any captain, subaltern, or regimental staff officer, within his own knowledge, or upon complaint lodged in writing by any commissioned officer, may arrest such captain, subaltern, or regimental staff officer, and the brigadier or commanding officer of a brigade, shall order a brigade court martial for the trial of any such offender, to be composed of one or more field officers, and as many captains and subalterns as will make up a number of not less than thirteen; and such court martial shall proceed to hear and determine on all offences against military order and decorum, and may censure, fine, and cashier every officer so tried, which sentence shall be final when approved by the officer ordering such court;* and before any court martial shall proceed to hear and determine on any case, they shall take the following oath, to be administered by the presiding officer to every other member, and then by the officer next in rank to him, to wit: "I, —, do solemnly swear, that I will well and truly try the case now before me, according to the evidence and the opinion I entertain of the spirit and intention of the laws of this State, and of the United States, and that I will not divulge the vote or opinion of any member of this court, unless required to give evidence thereof in a court of justice, in a due course of law, until the sentence shall be approved of by the proper authority—so help me God;" and for obtaining the necessary evidence for the trial aforesaid, the commander in chief of the State, or the presiding officer of the court martial, shall issue his summons, and every person so summoned failing to attend and give evidence, shall be subject to be tried by a court martial, and if an officer, may, at the discretion of such court, be cashiered, or fined not exceeding six months' pay, as by the law of the United States is allowed to such officer when in service; and if a non-commissioned officer or soldier, or person not enrolled, to be reported to a court of inquiry of the regimental district, in whose bounds he shall reside, and be then subject to such fines and penalties as they may think proper to inflict, not exceeding twenty dollars; and all persons summoned or called to give evidence before any court martial, shall take the following oath, to be administered by the president, or judge advocate, to wit: "I, —, do solemnly swear, that the evidence I will give in the case now in hearing, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth—so help me God;" and when any militia

When a rifle corps shall contain 126 privates, it may have 3d and 4th lieutenants.

57. When any militia-company district shall contain more than sixty-three effective men, it shall be lawful for any volunteer rifle corps established in the same county to enlist all above that number, together with one-fifth of that number; and when any militia-company district shall not contain more than sixty-three effective men, it shall be lawful for any volunteer rifle corps established in the same county to enlist one-fifth of the number which such militia-company district may contain; no volunteer rifle corps shall contain a larger proportion than the above-mentioned, and no other limits shall be affixed to their number; Provided nevertheless, that this law shall not be allowed so to operate as to reduce the number of effective men in any militia company below forty.

58. Sec. II. There shall not be more than one volunteer rifle corps in any county: in counties containing more than one regiment, the volunteer rifle corps may enlist men from either or any of the regiments of the county, and shall be subject to the command of the oldest colonel of the county.

59. Sec. III. When any volunteer rifle corps shall contain as many as one hundred and twenty-six privates, it shall be lawful for said volunteer rifle corps to elect a third and fourth lieutenant, and a second lieutenant, to be commissioned by the governor: in this case the second lieutenant shall rank as first lieutenant, the third and fourth lieutenants shall rank as second lieutenant, and the second ensign shall rank as an ensign.

* And several cavalry companies may be created in any one county. See Act of 1835, Sec. of this title, 94 &c.

60. Sec. IV. When any volunteer rifle corps, containing the additional officers authorized by the third section, shall for six months together have fewer than one hundred and twenty-six privates, the commissions of such additional officers shall be deemed to be vacated, and it shall be the duty of the colonel commanding to enforce this section of the law.

Whenever less than that, their commissions vacated.

Sec. V. [Repealing clause.]

An Act to authorise, upon certain conditions, the organization of squadrons of cavalry in the first military division of this State, and for the encouragement of volunteer corps of cavalry within the same.
—Approved Dec. 28, 1822. Vol. IV. 280.

64. Whereas, it is important to encourage the formation and discipline of a competent body of volunteer cavalry in this State, and experience has proved that the present laws are inadequate to this purpose; and whereas, in certain sections of this State, from the peculiar character of a portion of its population, this species of force is more particularly essential to the defence and protection of the inhabitants thereof;

Be it therefore enacted, That it shall and may be lawful from and after the passing of this act, and on the conditions therein expressed, to organize squadrons of volunteer cavalry within the first military division of this State, and to recruit the companies which compose any squadron within the division in which they are raised; which squadron, when so organized, shall be attached to such division, and the officer commanding such squadron shall report immediately to the major-general commanding the division to which he is attached.

Squadrons of cavalry authorized in the 1st division of this State.

Attached to the division.

65. Sec. II. It shall and may be lawful for the major-general of the first division of the militia of this State, upon the application of the commanding officer of any volunteer corps of cavalry within such division, and it shall be his duty so to do, if in his opinion the good of the service and the protection of the inhabitants living within his division or any brigade thereof shall require the same.

Major-general may authorize a squadron, &c on application, &c.

66. Sec. III. If the major-general of the first division of the militia of this State shall, upon such application as is provided for in the preceding section, determine to authorize the establishment of a squadron of cavalry within his division, he shall proceed without delay to the organization of the same; and for this purpose he shall issue his order to the senior officer of cavalry in his division, authorizing and requiring him to proceed to hold an election for a major to command the same upon forty days' notice thereof, at a convenient place to be designated in the said order; at which time and place the commissioned officers of cavalry shall attend and give their votes, and the person having the highest number of votes shall be commissioned by the governor as major of said squadron; Provided, that the return of the said election shall be certified by a commissioned officer of cavalry within the said division who is not a candidate, and one justice of the peace, who shall jointly preside at the same.

Election of major to command the squadron.

Proviso.

67. Sec. IV. Each troop of cavalry in the first division of the militia of this State shall consist of not less than forty men, officers included, who shall be uniformed, mounted, and armed with broadswords, and also with pistols, as soon as pistols shall be provided by the State; and no troop of cavalry in said first division shall be entitled to the benefits of this act, nor shall the commissions of its officers be valid, unless it shall consist of such number of men, who are so uniformed, mounted, and armed; Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to deprive the Liberty Independent Troop of Cavalry of any privilege which they enjoy under the laws now in force.

No troop of cavalry to contain less than 40 men. Commissions of the officers not valid unless the number of men are uniformed. Proviso.

68. Sec. V. A squadron of cavalry in said first division shall consist of not less than two, nor more than five troops; and the major commanding the same shall appoint his own staff.

Troop shall parade at least four times annually, and the squadron at least once, not exceeding 3 days.

69. Sec. VI. Each captain of a troop of cavalry in said first division, whether attached to a squadron or not, shall parade and exercise his men at least four times in each year; and that the major commanding any squadron of cavalry shall parade and exercise the same either in squadron or detachment, as he may think proper, at least once in each year, for a period not exceeding three days at any one parade, after the arrival of the squadron or detachment at its place of rendezvous; Provided, that all orders for any muster or rendezvous, except in cases of special emergency, shall be given verbally on parade, or elsewhere in writing; and, with the above exception, captains and subalterns shall be entitled to twenty, and non-commissioned officers and troopers to ten days' notice.

Proviso.

Each troop may make by-laws, &c.

70. Sec. VII. Each troop of cavalry in said first division shall have the power of making by-laws, and may prescribe the manner of imposing, collecting, and applying fines for non-attendance at parades or musters of such troop; and fines for non-attendance at any parade, muster, or rendezvous of the squadron, or any detachment thereof, may be imposed by a court of inquiry, to be appointed by the officer commanding such squadron or detachment for the time being; Provided, they shall not be more than double the fines imposed in such case by the rules of the troop to which the defaulter may belong, for each day's absence from such squadron or detachment parade, muster, or rendezvous; And provided, also, that such fines, when so imposed, may in every case be collected by execution, under the hand and seal of the officer commanding such troop, detachment, or squadron, directed to some fit and proper person to be designated by him in such execution, which may be enforced against the goods and chattels of such defaulter in like manner as executions issued by justices of the peace are enforced.

Proviso.

Each troop may determine its own uniform, &c.

71. Sec. VIII. Such troop in said division shall be allowed to determine the uniform of its members; and the uniform of the commanding officer and his staff shall be fixed by him, with the approbation of the major-general of the division to which he is attached; Provided, that in all cases the uniform shall be blue: and all powers given to, or duties imposed on the major of any squadron shall, if that office be vacant, devolve upon the next in command.

Proviso.

Exemptions and privileges on ten years' service in a volunteer cavalry company.

72. Sec. IX. And for the purpose of encouraging the formation of volunteer cavalry in said division, and as a compensation for the expense incurred in maintaining the same, Be it further enacted, That all persons duly enrolled in any corps of cavalry in said division, who shall, after the passing of this act, have faithfully served in the volunteer cavalry in the said division for ten years shall, upon a certificate thereof from his commanding officer or officers, verified by his own oath, be entitled to receive from the major-general commanding the division to which he is attached, a discharge from militia duty in future in time of peace, and except in cases of alarm or insurrection: And provided further, that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to exempt cavalry corps from duty, or the command of the colonels or commandants of regiments, whenever the civil authority may call upon the same for a military force.

Sec X. [Repeals all repugnant laws]

An Act to alter and amend an act more effectually to define the duties of the adjutant-general, division and brigade inspectors, and to regulate their pay, &c., passed the 23d day of December, 1822.—Approved Dec. 17, 1823. Vol. IV. 282.

73. From and after the passage of this act, that division and brigade inspectors shall receive, while in actual service, four dollars per day; Provided, that no division or brigade inspector shall charge for more than twenty days in any one year.*

Division and brigade inspectors, $4 per day while in service.

74. Sec. II. All accounts shall be made out according to the foregoing section, for the year 1823, and paid according to the provisions of the above-recited act.

How accounts shall be made out.

Sec. III. [Repealing clause.]

An Act to exempt all aliens residing or at any time being within the State of Georgia from the performance of ordinary militia or other military duty, except the duties hereinafter specified.—Approved Dec. 9, 1824. Vol. IV. 321.

75. From and after the passage of this act, all aliens residing or at any time being within the State of Georgia shall be exempt from the performance of all ordinary militia duty and other military duty, except patrol duty, alarm duty, and duties required for the suppression of insurrection, invasion, or conflagration.

Aliens exempt from military duty.

76. Sec. II. Every alien claiming the exemption as aforesaid shall, before he is entitled to the same, make oath before a judge of the superior or justice of the inferior court of this State, or justice of the peace, that he is an alien, and that it is not his intention to become a citizen of the United States; which oath he shall present to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which he resides or may be, who shall file in his office the said oath, and register the name of the said alien in a book for that purpose, and shall furnish the said alien with a certificate under his hand and the seal of the said court of such registry being made, for which certificate the said clerk shall be entitled to receive the sum of three dollars.

Aliens claiming the exemption to take an oath.

Sec. III. [Repeals all repugnant laws.]

An Act to extend the time heretofore allowed by law for division and brigade inspectors to perform their military duties.—Approved Dec. 20, 1824. Vol. IV. 282.

77. From and after the passing of this act, the several division and brigade inspectors of Georgia militia shall be allowed to charge for any length of time not exceeding forty days in any one year, for the actual military services required of them by law.

Inspectors allowed to charge for forty days.

An Act to alter and amend a part of the fourteenth and twenty-first sections of the militia laws of this State, passed the 19th day of December, 1818, so as to permit the company officers of the militia to uniform in homespun; and to alter the present mode of notifying defaulting officers to courts of inquiry.—Approved Dec. 19, 1828. Vol. IV. 285.

78. From and immediately after the passage of this act, the uniform of the company officers of the militia shall or may be composed of homespun, deep blue cotton and wool, and made to correspond with the uniform at present worn by the militia officers, with plated bullet buttons.

Company officers may uniform in homespun, &c.

What notice to attend a court of inquiry.

79. Sec. II. Ten days' previous notice shall be served in writing to any delinquent officer, non-commissioned officer or private, by the adjutant or sergeant-major, to all field and staff officers, and to the commanding officers of the different companies, whose duty it shall be to issue orders to their respective sergeants to serve a notification on all subaltern officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates of the time and place the court of inquiry shall sit.

Sec. III. [Repeals all laws conflicting with this.]

An Act to amend the eighth section of an act, entitled an act to revise and consolidate the militia laws of this State, and to repeal the cavalry laws now in force, passed the 19th day of December, 1818.—Approved Dec. 22, 1829. Vol. IV. 285.

80. Whereas, the eighth section of the above-recited act requires two captains and two justices of the peace, or two justices of the inferior court, to superintend the elections of field officers; and whereas, it is many times found inconvenient to procure the attendance of said captains, from their being themselves candidates, or non-attendance; for remedy whereof,

Who may superintend said elections.

Be it enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, it shall and may be lawful for any two justices of the inferior court, or justices of the peace of the county, together with two freeholders, or a majority of them, to superintend said elections and make return of the same, as pointed out in said section, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Act to alter and amend the 38th section of an act entitled "An act to revise and consolidate the militia laws of this State, and to repeal the cavalry laws now in force, passed Dec. 19th, 1818, so far as respects the appointment of judge advocates."—Approved Dec. 21, 1831. Pam. 163.

81. Whereas by the aforesaid section there is but one Judge Advocate appointed for each division, who is required to attend all courts martial in the division for which he may be appointed; and whereas that mode of appointment has failed to secure the attention of such officer on the courts martial aforesaid; for remedy whereof,

Colonel to no-

Be it enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, it is hereby made the duty of the colonel commandant of each regiment of the militia, to nominate and appoint one fit and proper person, who shall bear the title of lieutenant, to act as judge advocate, whose duty it shall be to attend all courts martial held in the regiment for which he may be appointed, and to any other court-martial in the division, on which he may be detailed, who shall be considered as part of the colonel's staff.

An Act amendatory of the 15th, 22d and 24th sections of an act passed on the 19th day of Dec. 1818, entitled an act to revise, and consolidate, the militia laws of this State, and to repeal the cavalry laws now in force, and to regulate the number of reviews.—Approved Dec. 23d, 1831. Pam. 159.

82. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act, the 15th, 22d, and 24th sections of an act, passed on the 19th day of December, 1818, entitled an act to revise and consolidate the militia laws of this State, shall be in the words following: viz.

83. Sec. XV. The commanding officers of volunteer companies of every description, shall muster their companies at least four times in each year, at such times as may be ordered by the commanding officer of said company, and at such place as shall have been established by the members of said company, or a majority thereof, as the muster ground of said company; and the commanding officers of companies of every description, shall once in each year, by order of the commanding officer of the regiment or of the battalion in counties containing but one battalion, take an exact account of the arms and accoutrements in possession of his company, designating public from private, and also the number of each particular description of arms and accoutrements, and the number of effective men composing his command as well those absent as they who are present, at the time of taking said enumeration, and shall make a true return thereof to the commanding officer of the regiment or battalion, as the case may be, in such form as they may receive from the commanding officer, or adjutant, which returns shall be ready on the days of review and inspection, and handed to the inspector, on his arriving at the head of each company, for his use, during the inspection, and then to be handed to the commanding officer of the battalion or regiment, or their adjutant, for consolidation, which consolidated return shall be handed or forwarded to the Brigade Inspector, to which the regiment or battalion belongs.*

Companies to muster 4 times a year.

Annual acct taken of the arms and men to be returned

84. Sec. XXII. There shall be regimental, battalion, and volunteer company Courts of Inquiry, to be appointed and ordered by the commanding officers of regiments, battalions, and companies, under the following rules and regulations: Regimental Courts of Inquiry, shall be held within sixty days after each review or regimental muster, to consist of at least seven and not more than eleven of the commissioned or brevetted officers of the regiment. Battalion Courts of Inquiry shall be held within thirty days after each battalion muster or review, in counties containing but one battalion, to consist of at least five and not more than seven of the commissioned or brevetted officers of the battalion, which officers in both cases shall be regularly detailed by the commanding officer of the battalion or regiment, as the case may be, and notified thereof on the day of muster or review, or by a citation under his hand, delivered by the adjutant, or left at their place of abode, two days previous to the sitting of the Court, and designating the time and place of holding such Court, and the officer highest in rank, shall preside; but in case of equality of rank, seniority shall give a preference; and the several regimental and battalion Courts of Inquiry, when convened at the time and place appointed shall have power to assess fines on all delinquent officers and soldiers within their regimental or battalion districts; and all defaulters at regimental or battalion musters or reviews, shall be tried at the Courts which may next happen. Volunteer company Courts of Inquiry shall be held within twenty days after each muster, or on the next muster day, to be composed of at least three of the commissioned or brevetted officers of said company, and the officer highest in rank shall preside, and may have a clerk, who shall keep a record of their proceedings, and receive the fines that any delinquent may voluntarily pay within ten days after each court, without cost, and after the expiration of ten days, he shall issue execution against all persons on whom fines may have been assessed, who have failed to pay the same, and shall be allowed to

Election of clerk and provost-marshal.	85. Sec. XXIV. The commissioned officers of the respective regiments and of battalions, in counties containing but one battalion, shall at their first convention, after the first day of March next, that may be occasioned by brigade, regimental, (or battalion as above provided,) orders, shall proceed under the superintendence of three or more of the officers of the battalion or regiment, to the election of a clerk and provost-marshal, and after ascertaining the persons elected, grant to each of them a certificate of the same, and the persons thus elected shall attend the regimental or battalion court of inquiry, which may next happen within their respective districts, and on producing the certificate herein before directed to be given, the presiding officer shall administer, or cause to be administered, the following oath or affirmation: viz.
Oath.	I, A. B. do solemnly swear, (or affirm,) that I will faithfully discharge the duties of clerk (or provost-marshal) of the (insert the number of the) regiment (or battalion) Georgia Militia, to the best of my understanding—so help me God. Which oath shall be entered on the minutes of said court, and subscribed by the persons taking the same, and when thus qualified they may continue to discharge the duties assigned them during their residence within the regimental or battalion district for which they may have been elected, unless removed by the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of any regimental or battalion court of inquiry, on a charge and proof of mal-practice; and it shall be the duty of said clerks to attend all the battalion and regimental courts of inquiry thereafter to be held in their respective districts, and to keep a fair record of the proceedings of said courts, and within ten days after each court make out a list of all fines assessed thereat, designating the districts in which each delinquent resides, and also of the appropriations made by said court, and forward it to the paymaster of the regiment or of the battalion, in counties containing but one battalion, who is authorised to receive and receipt for the fines that any delinquent may voluntarily pay. And the commanding officer of regiments or battalions, upon receiving the affidavit of any delinquent, (previous to the issuing of execution,) properly attested by any officer authorised to administer the same, and showing good cause why he should not have been fined, may direct the clerk to stay the issuing of execution until the sitting of the succeeding court, when said affidavit shall be laid before the court, who may upon the merits thereof remit or continue said fine, and direct that it be collected forthwith—and the clerk shall immediately after the expiration of thirty days issue execution against each delinquent, who has failed to pay the fine assessed against him, or to file the affidavit herein before required; signed by himself and countersigned by the presiding officer of the court, or in his absence by any other officer who was a member

An Act to regulate the returns of Division and Brigade Inspectors.— Approved Dec. 22, 1832. Pam. 135.

88. From and after the passage of this act, his excellency the governor shall not issue his warrant to any division or brigade inspector for services performed by him at the annual review and inspection of the militia of the State, until such inspector shall have made out a full return of the effective militia force of his division or brigade, and returned the same, or certified to the governor according to law, or that the same has been impracticable, together with the reasons of his failure—any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

Inspector make full returns before he is paid.

*An Act to alter the seventh section of an act, to revise and consolidate the Militia Laws of this State, and to repeal the Cavalry Laws now in force, passed December 19th, 1818, and to amend the fifteenth, twenty-second and twenty-fourth sections of an act, passed the 23d day of December, 1831, amendatory of the above recited act.—*Approved Dec. 23, 1833. Pam. 132.

89. From and after the passage of this act, the seventh section of the above recited act, shall be altered as follows, to wit: That where it shall happen in any company district, that the privates neglect or refuse to elect any officer or officers to the command, it shall be the duty of the colonel or commandant of the regiment to which they belong, or in counties containing but one battalion, of the major commandant, to nominate a fit and proper person or persons, as the case may require, to take command of said company district for the term of twelve months: Provided, an election cannot be had sooner, and the person or persons elected are commissioned by the commander-in-chief, or brevetted agreeably to law: And be it further provided, that all such as have heretofore been nominated to said command, be, and they are hereby exonerated from the same, and that no person shall be compelled to serve again, who has served or may serve twelve months, under two years from the term of his appointment being vacated.

Where no election of company officers, the Col. shall nominate.

* This section again amended in 1832, see sec. 92.

times a year.

90. Sec. II. The fifteenth section of the before recited act shall be amended as follows, to wit: That it shall be the duty of the commanding officers of companies of every description, to muster their respective companies four times in each year, as near the centre of their company district, as a majority in said company, liable to bear arms, may determine.

Com. courts

94. Sec. I. From and immediately after the passage of this act, it shall be lawful for the inhabitants of the several counties of this State, liable to perform militia duty, to create one or more companies of cavalry, where the same can be done, Provided, not more than eight men shall be taken from any one company of militia, except such company shall be composed of more than sixty-four privates; and except the counties of Sumter and Lee, which shall be authorized to make up said company without regard to any number out of each militia district, and that no company of cavalry shall be composed of less than forty men.

95. Sec. II. Said companies shall elect their officers from their body, and enter into such by-laws for their regulation as they may deem expedient for their government and equipment, which shall not be contrary to the militia laws of this State; the result of which election, with a copy of their by-laws shall, within thirty days from said election, be transmitted to his excellency the governor, whose duty it shall be forthwith to commission the several officers so elected, and that the said several commissioned, non-commissioned and privates of each of said companies so created, shall equip themselves within three months from the date of said commissions, in such uniform as they shall have agreed upon.

May elect officers and make by-laws.

Returns to the governor.

96. Sec. III. His excellency the governor be, and he is hereby authorized and required to contract for such number of pairs of pistols, with holsters complete; also, such number of swords suitable for the use of cavalry companies, of the best materials, as he may deem necessary to carry this act into effect; and so soon as the same can be procured, cause the said several companies so organized, as well as those that have heretofore been organized and who have not been furnished, or that may hereafter be organized in pursuance of this act, to be severally furnished with the number required by each company, so as aforesaid organized and equipped; and that he cause a bond and security from the said officers of each company so created, in an amount sufficient to cause the said pistols, swords, &c. to be kept in good order and returned when required, and made payable to his excellency the governor, for the time being, and his successors in office, for the benefit of the State.

The governor may contract for cavalry arms, and furnish them to the troops.

Bond to be taken.

97. Sec. IV. Said companies of cavalry so organized, or heretofore organized, in the several counties of this State, shall be known as the Georgia Guards; and shall be subject to the first call by the commander in chief of said State, on all emergencies.

To be called the "Georgia Guards."

98. Sec. V. Said companies of cavalry shall be subject to inspection, together with their arms and equipments, by order of the commander in chief of said State, by such adjutants or other officer directed to that duty, and whose duty it shall be to report the situation, uniform and arms of said corps, with the reports of the militia, when made.

Subject to inspection.

99. Sec. VI. Said companies, when so organized and equipped, shall be exempt from the command or control of the regimental officers of the several counties where such companies have been created, except when required to appear for inspection, or called out for immediate service by the commander in chief; and they shall be exempt, whilst acting as such troop of cavalry, from road duty.

At other times, exempt from regimental command.

100. Sec. VII. The sum of $10,000 be appropriated and set apart in the appropriation act, to carry into effect the provisions of this act.*

Appropriation.

101. Sec. VIII. The militia of the first division is hereby excepted out of the provisions of this act, and all other acts, so far as it restrains the number of volunteer corps of cavalry to be formed within the limits of the same; and that it shall be lawful for any number of the militia

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolution of Dec. 21, 1829, notices some judicial decisions in the Eastern circuit, exempting civil officers from militia duty;—knows of no law to justify such a decision; but expresses the opinion that justices of the inferior court and of the peace, should be exempted.—The public arms are so frequently destroyed or injured, that the legislature disapproves of letting them out to volunteer companies, except in particular emergencies.

"Your committee are sorry to state, from the information received from the different sections of the State, that the militia system has become nearly nominal. And they are of opinion that this decline originates more from the inattention of general officers, than from the subalterns, or the deficiencies of the present militia system."

After other resolutions, it is Further resolved, That it shall be the duty of the keepers of the arsenal at Savannah, Augusta, and Milledgeville, on or before the first Monday in November, annually, to make out a complete schedule of all arms and munitions of war that may be deposited in the arsenal or magazine that they may respectively have charge of, and transmit the same to his excellency the governor; whose duty it shall be to lay copies of the same before the legislature as soon thereafter as may be practicable. [Vol. iv. 143 of Res.]

In answer to two communications, one from the executive of Massachusetts, and the other from that of New York, respecting a more perfect general organization of the militia, the legislature, referring to the different local situations of the several States, deem any uniform system at that time inexpedient. [Pam. of 1831, p. 308.]—The degeneracy of our militia system ascribed to the inertness of the field and company officers. [Same report, pam. 311.]

The executive authorized to appoint a committee to draft and report a new code of militia laws. [Pam. of 1833, p. 352.]

Notice that the code had been reported and laid on the table of the senate till the ensuing session. [1834, 322.] But it does not appear to have been then taken up.

Claims against the United States.

Memorial of the legislature to the president respecting the claims of citizens of Georgia for military services rendered on the frontiers against the Creek and Cherokee Indians in the years 1792-3 and 4, referring to documents. Dec. 22, 1831. [Vol. iv. p. 19 of Res.]

John W. Hunter appointed agent to co-operate with the Georgia delegation in congress in the establishment of these claims. Dec. 20, 1823. [Ib. 37.]

MILLERS.

An Act to regulate the Toll to be taken at Mills.—Approved Jan. 26, 1786. Vol. I. 363.

Millers shall grind all grain in turn, and may take one-eighth as toll.

All owners or occupiers of mills shall well and sufficiently grind, or cause to be well and sufficiently ground, all clean and dry grain brought to their mills, and in due turn (as far as five bushels) as the same may be brought; and may take for toll one-eighth part thereof, and no more. And every owner or occupier of a mill, who shall not well and sufficiently grind, or cause to be well and sufficiently ground as aforesaid, (unless in times of drought, or other sufficient cause, of which the justice may judge,) or not in due turn, or take or exact more toll, shall, for every such offence, on proof thereof by one or more credible witnesses, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding fifteen shillings to the party injured, recoverable with costs, before a justice of the peace of the county where such offence shall be committed. Provided always, that every owner or occupier of a mill may grind his or her own grain at any time.

Penalty for not so doing.

Proviso.

PEDLERS.

An Act to alter and amend an act, entitled "An Act to impose an additional Tax on Pedlers, &c., passed Dec. 10, 1817.—Approved Dec. 9, 1819. Vol. III. 537.

1. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, it shall be the duty of every pedler or itinerant trader, who shall wish to vend any goods, wares, or merchandize, in this State, to apply to the clerk of the inferior court of each county in which he may be disposed to vend goods, wares, or merchandize, and procure a license under the seal of the county court,* with an annexed copy of the oath, which shall be administered to him by the clerk of the inferior court, as follows: "That I, A. B. now applying for license to vend goods, wares, or merchandize, in the county [inserted in such license,] do solemnly swear or affirm, (as the case may be,) that I will use this license in no other county than the one for which it is granted, nor transfer or suffer any other person or persons, in mine or their name or names to use the same, so help me God." And that the clerk shall record such oath and license in a book to be kept by him for that purpose; and such license, when obtained, with the copy of the oath thereto subscribed, from under the hand and seal of the clerk of the inferior court, to whom such application shall be made, shall entitle him or them to the privilege of vending any goods, wares, or merchandize, for the term of twelve months, within the limits of said county, and shall pay, upon their obtaining such license, the sum of $600† to the clerk of the inferior court in each county where such license shall be granted, one half for county purposes, and the other half for the use of the State; the one half of which sum or sums, when so collected, shall be paid over by the clerk to the treasurer of this State, within six months thereafter. They shall also pay to such clerk for the granting of such license, with the copy of the oath and county seal attached thereto, the sum of $5 for his own use: Provided nevertheless, that there shall be one license for every wagon, cart, or other vehicle, employed or used in vending such goods, wares, or merchandize, which they shall be bound to show to any sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, justice of the peace, and to any civil or military officer whatever, when demanding an exhibit of the same, and on failure or refusal thereof, shall forfeit and pay the sum of $1,200, one half to the informant, the other half to be paid over to the clerk of the inferior court, and applied to county purposes. And that in all cases where the said pedlers shall take out such license, and pay over to the clerk the amount of taxes, and the clerk shall neglect to pay over to the treasurer, agreeably to the provisions of this act, he shall be subject to indictment, and if found guilty, shall be fined in a sum not less than double the amount received by him.

Sec. II. [Directing the pedler's person to be described in the license; and Sec. III. detailing the proceedings against offenders, re-enacted in 1824. See Sec. 5 and 6.]

Sec. IV. [Directs collection of fines—secures the powers of corporations—exempts state manufactures—all re-enacted in Sec. 7 & 8.]

An Act to authorize all free citizens of the United States to carry Books, Maps, Charts, and Mathematical Instruments from place to place, for the purpose of sale.—Approved Nov. 25, 1822. Vol. IV. 309.

3. Whereas, one of the best means of securing the permanence of our institutions, and promoting the virtue and happiness of the people, is the dissemination of useful knowledge; And whereas, the most certain method of effecting this dissemination is the carrying of books from place to place, for sale among us;

Books, maps, &c. may be sold without license or tax.

Be it therefore enacted, That from and after the first day of January next, it shall be lawful for all free citizens of the United States to carry from place to place, and to sell in this State, such number of books, maps, charts, and mathematical instruments as they may think proper, without procuring license for so doing, or being subject to taxation or interruption therefor; Provided, that this act shall in nowise contravene the provisions heretofore or hereafter enacted in relation to itinerant traders in, or venders of other goods, wares, and merchandize.

An Act to alter and amend an act, entitled an act to impose an additional tax on pedlers, and other itinerant traders, passed the 9th day of December, 1819.—Approved Dec. 9, 1824. Vol. IV: 320.

Pedlers to obtain license from the comp. general.

To pay him $5, and the treasurer $100 and fee.

License to continue for 12 months. Provido.

License to describe the age, size, &c.

4. From and immediately after the passing of this act, it shall be the duty of every pedler or itinerant trader wishing to vend goods, wares, or merchandize under a license from the State, to make application to the comptroller general, whose duty it shall be to make out a license for the term of one year, to the person desiring to become a vender of goods, wares, or merchandize, upon the applicant first paying to the comptroller general the sum of $5, for his services in making out such license; the licenses in all cases shall be forwarded immediately to the treasury department, and upon the payment of $100 to the treasurer by the person to whom such license shall be granted; which said several sums shall be added to the unexpended balance in the treasury of each political year;* the treasurer shall also be entitled to require and receive from all persons to whom a license shall be granted by the comptroller general the sum of $2, for countersigning every license that may be demanded and executed in the treasury department after the next election for treasurer, which shall authorize him or them obtaining licenses as aforesaid to vend goods, wares, or merchandize for the term of twelve months from the date of the license, within the limits of this State: Provided, nevertheless, that there shall be one license for every wagon, cart, or other vehicle employed or used in vending such goods, wares, or merchandize.

5. Sec. II. It shall be the duty of the comptroller general, issuing licenses as aforesaid, to describe as nearly as he can, in every license that he may issue, the age, size, complexion, &c. of the person to whom such license is granted.

6. Sec. III. On oath being made before any judicial officer of this State, justice of the inferior court, or justice of the peace, that a violation of this law has been committed, it shall be his duty to issue a warrant from under his hand, directed to any sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, or marshal of any town or city, commanding them, or each of them, to arrest the offender or offenders, seize, bring him or them and the goods, wares, or merchandize which they may have in their immediate possession before any judge of the superior court, in term time, or before any of the justices of inferior court, or justices of the peace; and if, on trial before any of them, it shall appear from the evidence that the charge or charges are malicious or unfounded, he, she, or they shall be discharged without cost; otherwise, he, she, or they shall be bound with one or more sufficient securities in the sum of $500, in a joint and several bond, for his, her, or their appearance at the next superior court to be held in the county where such offence shall have been committed, and on failing to give such security as the court shall deem good and sufficient, shall be committed to jail; at which court the attorney or solicitor general shall prefer a bill of indictment against the party so offending, who shall, if convicted, be fined by the court in the sum of not less than $200, nor more than $300,* for each and every violation of this law, and the party so offending shall stand committed until such fine or fines be paid.

Proceedings against persons violating this law.

7. Sec. IV. The fine or fines which may be incurred for each and every violation of this law shall be collected as all other fines or penalties; and when so collected shall form a fund in the hands of the clerks of the inferior court of the several counties in this State; and be appropriated, at the discretion of the inferior court, to the support and maintenance of the poor of the county where such offence is actually committed.

Fines incurred under this act how appropriated.

8. Sec. V. This act shall not prevent the corporation of any town or village from exacting from such pedler, or other itinerant trader, a sum not exceeding $15 for every day for which he, she, or they are found offering their goods, wares, or merchandize for sale therein: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to compel any person to obtain a license for trading on the manufactures of this State.

This act not to interfere with corporation powers.

9. Sec. VI. The revenue arising under this act shall be added to, and become a part of the poor school fund.

Proviso.

The revenue arising to belong to the Poor School Fund.

An Act to alter and amend an act to impose an additional tax on Pedlers and other Itinrrant Traders, passed 9th December, 1824, and to punish such traders for illegal trading with slaves.—Approved Dec. 22, 1831. Pam. 229.

10. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act, the tax required of pedlers and other itinerant traders, who may carry about their wares and merchandize in wagons or other vehicles drawn by horses or mules, or packed upon horses or mules or other animals of draught or burthen, shall be $2,000 for each license; which license shall be limited to one county only in this State, and which shall not authorize trading beyond the limits of such county. And that the tax required of those pedlers or itinerant traders who may carry about their wares and merchandize on foot, and without the aid of horses or mules or

11. Sec. II. The fines which may be imposed under the third section of the act, of which this is amendatory, shall not be less than $3,000, nor more than $10,000.

Sec. III. [Re-enacted by the code. See Penal Laws, Sec. 306.]

Sec. IV. All laws and parts of laws, which may militate against the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

Tax Act of 1832. Pam. 182.

Books, maps,

13. Sec. IV. Nothing contained in the first and second sections of an act, assented to on the 22d December, 1831, entitled an act to alter and amend an act to impose an additional tax on pedlars, and other itinerant traders, passed 9th December, 1824, and to punish such traders for illegal trading with slaves, shall be so construed as to prevent or prohibit any individual from selling without license, any article which may be actually manufactured within this State; or any books, maps or charts, which may be made either in this State or elsewhere.

It is the duty of all civil officers in the State to demand of every pedler and itinerant trader, whether he has obtained license from the comptroller general agreeably to the act of 1824 (see Sec. 5, &c.); and if he fail to produce it, to take him immediately before a magistrate, who shall deal with him as the law directs. The clerks of the inferior courts, shall give the comptroller general written notice of all such persons as shall pass through their respective counties; and the comptroller general shall publish quarterly in one of the gazettes of Milledgeville, Augusta, Savannah, Darien and Athens, the names of all who shall have taken out license. [Resolu. of Dec. 1825. Vol. IV. 57 of the Reso.] And in one of the gazettes of Macon [Res. of 1827, ib. 105.] And in the Columbus Enquirer, [Res. of 1828, ib. 130.]

7. Sec. III. From and after the passing of this act, no jailer shall put any person into irons, unless he is confined for a capital offence, and it is so expressed in the warrant.

An Act amendatory of the seventh Section of the Judiciary Act, passed the 16th day of February, 1799.—Approved Dec. 22, 1808. Vol. II. 451.

Whereas instances are frequent of notorious felons and others escaping from justice, from a defect of legal precision, and a want of technical form in the mittimus, to the great injury of the community; for remedy whereof,

No prisoner to be discharged by reason of any formal defect in the mittimus.

8. Be it enacted, That when a felon or other person, charged with the commission of a crime, shall have been committed to jail, and shall be brought up before a judge of the superior court, or justice or justices of the inferior court, by writ of habeas corpus, he, she, or they, shall not be admitted to bail, or discharged from prison, merely by reason of such defect of legal precision, or want of technical form in the mittimus as aforesaid; but the court shall, in all such cases, proceed and determine as if the said mittimus had all the legal and technical form; any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding:

Provided the crime with time and place is plainly set forth.

Provided, the felony or other crime of which he, she, or they, are accused, together with the time and place, when and where such felony or other crime have been committed, shall be plainly and clearly set forth in the said mittimus.

Act to provide for the payment of costs in certain cases therein mentioned.—Approved Dec. 13, 1816. Vol. III. 169.

Whereas it frequently happens in this State, that persons prosecuted for offences, not capital, after their arrest, so dispose of their estates as to involve the county where such offences are committed, in the cost accruing on such prosecution—for remedy whereof,

A sufficiency of the prisoner's property shall be taken by the arresting officer to cover the costs.

9. Sec. I. Be it enacted, That where any person or persons shall be prosecuted for any criminal offence, whether capital or otherwise, whether grand or petit larceny, whether as accessory before or after the fact, or any misdemeanor whatever, that it shall be the duty of the officer issuing a warrant to arrest him, her, or them, to direct the arresting officer in writing, under his hand and seal, to make diligent search for all and singular the estate, both real and personal, of such person or persons so arrested, or so much thereof as will be in his opinion sufficient for the payment of all legal costs and expenses that may be incurred in such prosecution; a true schedule of which property, so found and secured, the said arresting officer shall render to the court to which he returns the warrant, so by him executed, unless the party arrested gives good security to pay the costs which may accrue on the prosecution.

If found guilty, all his property bound for costs from the date of the arrest.

10. Sec. II. In the event of the said person or persons, charged as aforesaid, being found guilty of the offence or offences wherewith he, she, or they were charged, that then and in that case all the property found as aforesaid, together with all and singular the estate or estates, both real and personal, which he, she, or they possessed, of his, her, or their own proper right, at the time of his, her, or their arrest, shall, and the same is hereby declared to be, subject and bound to the payment of the costs and charges alluded to in the foregoing section, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.*

An Act to carry into effect the Penal Code of this State, and the Penitentiary System founded thereon.—Approved Dec. 19, 1816. Vol. III. 659.

11. Sec. VII. Any person convicted in this State, and sentenced to the penitentiary, under the authority of the United States, shall be received in the aforesaid penitentiary, in such manner and under such conditions as may be directed by the board of inspectors. Convicts under the laws of the United States.

12. Sec. XXIst of the rules. Where any convict confined in the penitentiary is a witness in any civil cause, depending in any court of this State, and his testimony required, the same shall be taken by commission, and read at the trial of such civil cause; and in no civil case shall such convict be removed from the penitentiary to give personal attendance at court. But before such commission issues, the party, or his or her attorney, requiring such commission, shall file an affidavit, with the record of the proceedings, that the convict to be examined is a material witness in the cause. Where convicts are witnesses in civil causes.

Act to amend the Penal Code.—Approved Dec. 19, 1818. Vol. III. 656.

13. Sec. VI. It shall be sufficient to form an indictment, generally, against either of the principals for challenging another to fight at deadly weapons, and notwithstanding it may appear on the trial, that the defendant only accepted the challenge, it shall be sufficient to convict and render him liable to the penalties aforesaid, and in like manner, an indictment against the second may be framed generally, for carrying and delivering a challenge, and the proof of the mere act of fighting, and the defendant being present thereat, shall be sufficient to convict the defendant, upon an indictment so framed; and if the duel shall take place within this State, the mere act of fighting shall be full and complete evidence of the charges respectively, of giving or receiving, or of carrying and delivering, a challenge, without other proof thereof.† Form of the indictment, and what shall be sufficient evidence.

An Act to relieve Criminals and other Persons confined in the Jails of this State.—Approved Dec. 19, 1818. Vol. III. 163.

Whereas criminals and other persons confined in the jails of this State, are exposed to unnecessary hardship and sufferance, from the want of medical aid, when sick, from the want of fire in cold weather, and from the want of clothes and blankets, and other comforts necessary to health; for remedy whereof,

14. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That it shall be the duty of the sheriffs of each county, whenever a criminal or criminals, or other person or persons, are confined in the jail of the county of which he is sheriff, to furnish or procure medical aid whenever the sickness of the person or persons confined in jail require said aid; it shall also be The sheriff shall, when necessary, procure for prisoners medical aid,

23. Sec. I. The existing code of the penal laws of this State, shall continue and remain in full force until the first day of June next; at which time, the following Code of Penal Laws shall be in full force and operation in this State.

In force from June 1, 1834.

* The first penal code, (Vol. III. 540.) never went into operation. That of 19th Dec. 1816, (Vol. III. 564,) went into effect on the 24th Feb. 1817, by proclamation of the executive, and operated until the date (Dec. 20th) of the code of 1817, and afterwards (when not incompatible with the code of 1817) till its repeal by act of 19th Dec. 1818, Vol. III. 657. The code of 1817 continued in force till it was superseded by the present, on the 1st June, 1834.

FIRST DIVISION.

PERSONS CAPABLE OF COMMITTING CRIMES.

- What persons capable of committing crimes. 24. Sec. I. A crime or misdemeanor shall consist in a violation of a public law, in the commission of which there shall be an union or joint operation of act and intention; or criminal negligence.
- Intention. 25. Sec. II. Intention will be manifested by the circumstances connected with the perpetration of the offence, and the sound mind and discretion of the person accused.
- Infants of 14 capable. 26. Sec. III. A person shall be considered of sound mind, who is neither an idiot, a lunatic, or afflicted by insanity; or who hath arrived at the age of fourteen years, or before that age, if such person know the distinction between good and evil.
- Under 10 according to capacity, &c. 27. Sec. IV. An infant under the age of ten years, whose tender age renders it improbable that he or she should be impressed with a proper sense of moral obligation, or be possessed of sufficient capacity deliberately to have committed the offence, shall not be considered or found guilty of any crime or misdemeanor.
- Lunatics. 28. Sec. V. A lunatic or person insane, without lucid intervals, shall not be found guilty of any crime or misdemeanor with which he or she may be charged: Provided, the act so charged as criminal, was committed in the condition of such lunacy or insanity: but if a lunatic hath lucid intervals of understanding, he shall answer for what he does in those intervals, as if he had no deficiency.
- Idiots. 29. Sec. VI. An idiot shall not be found guilty or punished for any crime or misdemeanor with which he or she may be charged.
- Their counsellors and instigators punishable in their stead. 30. Sec. VII. Any person counselling, advising, or encouraging an infant under the age of ten years, a lunatic or an idiot, to commit an offence, shall be prosecuted for such offence when committed, as principal; and if found guilty, shall suffer the same punishment as would have been inflicted on said infant, lunatic, or idiot, if he or she had possessed discretion and been found guilty.
- Married women, if coerced, not punishable. 31. Sec. VIII. A feme covert, or married woman, acting under the threats, command or coercion of her husband, shall not be found guilty of any crime or misdemeanor, not punishable by death or perpetual imprisonment; and with this exception, the husband shall be prosecuted as principal, and if convicted, shall receive the punishment which otherwise would have been inflicted on the wife, if she had been found guilty: Provided, it appears from all the facts and circumstances of the case, that violent threats, command and coercion were used.
- But their husbands in their stead.
- Voluntary drunkenness no excuse. If caused by others, such others punishable. 32. Sec. IX. Drunkenness shall not be an excuse for any crime or misdemeanor, unless such drunkenness was occasioned by the fraud, artifice, or contrivance of other person or persons, for the purpose of having a crime perpetrated, and then the person or persons so causing said drunkenness for such malignant purpose, shall be considered a principal, and suffer the same punishment as would have been inflicted on the person or persons committing the offence, if he, she, or they, had been possessed of sound reason and discretion.
- Misfortune or accident. 33. Sec. X. A person shall not be found guilty of any crime or misdemeanor, committed by misfortune or accident, and where it satisfactorily appears there was no evil design or intention, or culpable neglect.
- Slaves under coercion not punishable. 34. Sec. XI. A slave committing a crime or misdemeanor, which, if committed by a free white person would not be punishable by this act with death, by the threats, command, or coercion of his or her owner, or any person exercising or assuming authority over such slave, shall not be found guilty; and it appearing from all the facts and circumstances of the case, that the offence was committed by the threats, command, and coercion of the owner, or the person exercising or assuming authority, over such slave, the said owner or other person exercising or assuming authority over such slave, shall be prosecuted for the said crime or misdemeanor; and if found guilty, shall suffer the same punishment as he or she would have incurred, if he or she had actually committed the offence with which the slave is charged.

But the person coercing them punishable in their stead.

35. Sec. XII. A person committing a crime or misdemeanor under threats or menaces, which sufficiently show that his or her life or member was in danger, or that he or she had reasonable cause to believe, and did actually believe, that his or her life or member was in danger, shall not be found guilty; and such threats and menaces being proved and established, the person or persons compelling by said threats and menaces the commission of the offence, shall be considered a principal or principals, and suffer the same punishment, as if he, she, or they had perpetrated the offence.

Persons acting under fear not punishable, but the persons causing the fear, punishable in their stead.

36. Sec. XIII. The term "felony" when used in this act, shall be construed to mean an offence, for which the offender, on conviction, shall be liable by law to be punished by death or imprisonment in the penitentiary, and not otherwise.

Meaning of the word "felony."

SECOND DIVISION.

PRINCIPALS AND ACCESSORIES IN CRIME.

37. Sec. I. A person may be principal in an offence, in two degrees—A principal in the first degree, is he or she that is the actor, or absolute perpetrator of the crime—A principal in the second degree, is he or she who is present, aiding and abetting the fact to be done; which presence need not always be an actual immediate standing by, within sight or hearing of the fact; but there may be also a constructive presence, as when one commits a robbery, murder, or other crime, and another keeps watch or guard at some convenient distance.

Principal in first degree. Principal in second degree.

38. Sec. II. An accessory is one, who is not the chief actor in the offence, nor present at its performance, but is somehow concerned therein, either before or after the fact committed.

Accessory.

39. Sec. III. An accessory before the fact, is one who being absent at the time of the crime committed, doth yet procure, counsel or command another to commit a crime.

Accessory before the fact.

40. Sec. IV. An accessory after the fact, is a person who after full knowledge that a crime has been committed, conceals it from the magistrate, and harbors, assists or protects the person charged with or convicted of the crime.

Accessory after the fact.

41. Sec. V. A principal in the second degree, and an accessory before the fact, except where it is otherwise provided for in this code, shall receive the same punishment as is directed to be inflicted on the principal in the first degree, or perpetrator of the crime.

Punishment of principal in 2d degree, and of accessories before the fact.

42. Sec. VI. Accessories after the fact, except where it is otherwise ordered in this code, shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Punishment of accessories after the fact.

THIRD DIVISION.

CRIMES AGAINST THE STATE AND PEOPLE.

43. Sec. I. Crimes against the State and the people shall consist Treason.

Insurrection. in treason in the first degree, and second degree; exciting, or attempting to excite an insurrection or revolt of slaves.

Treason in the first degree. 44. Sec. II. Treason in the first degree, shall consist in levying war against the State in the same, or being adherent to the enemies of the State within the same, giving to them aid and comfort in this State or elsewhere, and thereof being legally convicted of open deed, by two or more witnesses, or other competent and credible testimony, or voluntary confession: these cases shall be adjudged treason against the State and people; and when the overt act of treason shall be committed without the limits of this State, the person charged therewith may be arrested and tried in any county of this State, within the limits of which he may be found, and being thereof convicted, shall be punished in like manner as if the said treason had been committed and done within the limits of said county—Treason in the first degree shall be punished with death.

Punishment, death.

Treason in second degree. Penitentiary four years. 45. Sec. III. Treason in the second degree, shall consist in the knowledge and concealment of treason, without otherwise assenting to, or participating in the same. The punishment of treason in the second degree, shall be confinement and hard labor in the penitentiary for the term of four years.

Insurrection, death.

46. Sec. IV. Exciting an insurrection or revolt of slaves, or any attempt by writing, speaking, or otherwise, to excite an insurrection or revolt of slaves, shall be punished with death.

Circulating insurrectionary papers, &c. death.

47. Sec. V. If any person shall bring, introduce or circulate, or cause to be brought, introduced, or circulated, or aid, or assist, or be in any manner instrumental in bringing, introducing or circulating within this State, any printed or written paper, pamphlet, or circular, for the purpose of exciting insurrection, revolt, conspiracy or resistance, on the part of the slaves, negroes, or free persons of color in this State, against the citizens of this State or any part of them; such person so offending shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished with death.

FOURTH DIVISION.

CRIMES AND OFFENCES AGAINST THE PERSONS OF CITIZENS OR INDIVIDUALS.

Homicide. 48. Sec. I. Homicide is the killing of a human being of any age or sex, and is of three kinds; murder, manslaughter, and justifiable homicide.

Murder. 49. Sec. II. Murder is the unlawful killing of a human being in the peace of the State, by a person of sound memory and discretion, with malice aforethought, either express or implied.

Express malice. 50. Sec. III. Express malice is that deliberate intention, unlawfully to take away the life of a fellow-creature, which is manifested by external circumstances capable of proof.

Implied malice. 51. Sec. IV. Malice shall be implied, where no considerable provocation appears, and where all the circumstances of the killing show an abandoned and malignant heart.

Murder, death. 52. Sec. V. The punishment of murder shall be death.

Manslaughter. 53. Sec. VI. Manslaughter is the unlawful killing of a human creature, without malice, either express or implied, and without any mixture of deliberation whatever; which may be voluntary, upon a sudden heat of passion, or involuntary, in the commission of an unlawful act, or a lawful act without due caution and circumspection.

What shall be voluntary manslaughter. 54. Sec. VII. In all cases of voluntary manslaughter, there must be some actual assault upon the person killing, or an attempt by the person killed to commit a serious personal injury on the person killing.

Provocation by words, threats, menaces, or contemptuous jestures shall in no case be sufficient to free the person killing from the guilt and crime of murder. The killing must be the result of that sudden, violent impulse of passion, supposed to be irresistible: for if there should appear to have been an interval between the assault or provocation given, and the homicide, sufficient for the voice of reason and humanity to be heard, the killing shall be attributed to deliberate revenge, and be punished as murder.

55. Sec. VIII. Voluntary manslaughter shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than two years, nor longer than four years. Punishment. Penitentiary, two to four years.

56. Sec. IX. Involuntary manslaughter shall consist in the killing of a human being without any intention to do so; but in the commission of an unlawful act, or a lawful act, which probably might produce such a consequence, in an unlawful manner: Provided always, that where such involuntary killing shall happen in the commission of an unlawful act, which in its consequences naturally tends to destroy the life of a human being, or is committed in the prosecution of a riotous intent, or of a crime punishable by death or confinement in the penitentiary, the offence shall be deemed and adjudged to be murder. What shall be involuntary manslaughter.

57. Sec. X. Involuntary manslaughter, in the commission of an unlawful act, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for a term not less than one year, nor longer than three years. Punishment. Penitentiary, one to three years.

58. Sec. XI. Involuntary manslaughter, in the commission or performance of a lawful act, where there has not been observed necessary discretion and caution, shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court. Or by fine and imprisonment.

59. Sec. XII. There being no rational distinction between excusable and justifiable homicide, it shall no longer exist. Justifiable homicide is the killing of a human being, by commandment of the law in execution of public justice; by permission of the law in advancement of public justice; in self-defence, or in defence of habitation, property or person, against one who manifestly intends or endeavors by violence or surprise to commit a felony on either; or against any persons who manifestly intend and endeavor in a riotous and tumultuous manner to enter the habitation of another, for the purpose of assaulting or offering personal violence to any person, dwelling or being therein. What shall be justifiable homicide.

60. Sec. XIII. A bare fear of any of those offences, to prevent which the homicide is alleged to have been committed, shall not be sufficient to justify the killing; it must appear that the circumstances were sufficient to excite the fears of a reasonable man, and that the party killing really acted under the influence of those fears, and not in the spirit of revenge. Fear to be an excuse must be reasonable.

61. Sec. XIV. If after persuasion, remonstrance, or other gentle measures used, a forcible attack and invasion on the property or habitation of another, cannot be prevented, it shall be justifiable homicide to kill the person so forcibly attacking and invading on the property or habitation of another; but it must appear that such killing was absolutely necessary to prevent such attack and invasion, and that a serious injury was intended, or might accrue to the person, property or family of the person killing. It must appear that killing in defence was necessary.

62. Sec. XV. If a person kill another in his defence, it must appear that the danger was so urgent and pressing, at the time of the killing, that in order to save his own life, the killing of the other was absolutely necessary; and it must appear also, that the person killed was the assailant, or that the slayer had really and in good faith endeavored to decline any further struggle before the mortal blow was given. The danger must be urgent.

No of all other instances.

63. Sec. XVI. All other instances which stand upon the same footing of reason and justice as those enumerated, shall be justifiable homicide.

Justifiable
punished.

64. Sec. XVII. The homicide appearing to be justifiable, the person indicted, shall, upon the trial, be fully acquitted and discharged.

Killing revolting slaves justifiable.

65. Sec. XVIII. Killing a slave in the act of revolt, or when the said slave forcibly resists a legal arrest, shall be justifiable homicide.

Otherwise the same as a white person.

66. Sec. XIX. In all cases, the killing or maiming of a slave or person of color, or Indian in amity with the United States, shall be put upon the same footing of criminality, as the killing or maiming of a white person.*

kill infants.

67. Sec. XX. If any person shall counsel, advise, or direct a woman to kill the child she is pregnant, or goes with, and after she is delivered of such child, she kill it, every such person so advising or directing, shall be deemed an accessory before the fact to such murder, and shall have the same punishment as the principal.

Concealment of child's death not full
murder.

68. Sec. XXI. The constrained presumption arising from the concealment of the death of any child, that the child, whose death is concealed, was therefore murdered by the mother, shall not be sufficient or conclusive evidence to convict the person indicted, of the murder of her child, unless probable proof be given that the child was born alive, nor unless the circumstances attending it shall be such as shall satisfy the minds of the jury that the mother did wilfully and maliciously destroy and take away the life of such child.

Concealing the death, fine and imprisonment.

69. Sec. XXII. If any woman shall conceal or attempt to conceal the death of any issue of her body, male or female, which if it were born alive, would by law be a bastard, so that it may not come to light whether it was murdered or not, every such mother being convicted thereof, shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Mayhem.

70. Sec. XXIII. Mayhem shall consist in unlawfully depriving a person, free or slave, of a member, or disfiguring, or rendering it useless.

In what it consists.

71. Sec. XXIV. If any person shall unlawfully cut out or disable the tongue, put out an eye, slit or bite the nose, ear or lip, or cut or bite off the nose, ear, or lip, or castrate, or cut, or bite off, or disable any other limb or member of another, with an intention in so doing to maim or disfigure such person, or shall voluntarily, maliciously, and of purpose, while fighting or otherwise, do any of these acts, every such person shall be guilty of Mayhem.

Cutting the tongue. Penitentiary five to fifteen years.

72. Sec. XXV. A person convicted of cutting out the tongue, with the intention, or voluntarily or maliciously, as expressed in the preceding section, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for life. A person convicted of disabling the tongue, with the intention, or voluntarily or maliciously as expressed in the preceding section, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than five years, nor more than fifteen years.

Putting out an eye. Penitentiary, two to five years.

73. Sec. XXVI. A person convicted of putting out an eye, with the intention, or voluntarily or maliciously, as before expressed, in fight or otherwise, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than two years, nor longer than five years.

Both eyes or the only eye.
Penitentiary
for life.

74. Sec. XXVII. A person convicted of putting out the eyes of another, or the eye of another, having but one eye, with a similar intention, or voluntarily, or maliciously, while fighting or otherwise, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for and during the term of his or her natural life.

* And see Slaves, Patrols, &c., Sec. 45.

75. Sec. XXVIII. A person convicted of slitting or biting the nose, ear or lip of another, with the intention, or voluntarily, or maliciously, as before expressed, while fighting or otherwise, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for the term of not less than one year, nor more than three years, or by fine and imprisonment in the common jail of the county, at the discretion of the court. Slitting or biting nose, Penitentiary one to three years, or fine and imprisonment.

76. Sec. XXIX. A person convicted of cutting or biting off the nose, ear or lip of another, with the intention, or voluntarily or maliciously, as before expressed, while fighting or otherwise, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than two years, nor more than five years. Cutting or biting off the nose, ear or lip, Penitentiary two to five years.

77. Sec. XXX. A person convicted of the crime of castrating another, with the intention, or voluntarily or maliciously, as before expressed, while fighting or otherwise, shall be punished with death. Castration, death.

78. Sec. XXXI. A person convicted of wilfully and maliciously injuring, wounding, or disfiguring the private parts of another, with the intention aforesaid, whilst fighting or otherwise, which injuring, wounding, or disfiguring, do not amount to castration, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than five years, nor longer than fifteen years. Wounding in a less degree, Penitentiary five to fifteen years.

79. Sec. XXXII. A person convicted of cutting or biting off, or disabling any limb or member of another, not hereinbefore designated, with the intention, or voluntarily or maliciously, as before expressed, while fighting or otherwise, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than one year, nor longer than five years; or in slight and trivial cases, by fine and imprisonment in the common jail of the county, at the discretion of the court. Other Maims.

80. Sec. XXXIII. Rape is the carnal knowledge of a female, forcibly and against her will. Rape.

81. Sec. XXXIV. Rape shall be punished by an imprisonment at labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than two years, nor longer than twenty years. Penitentiary two to twenty years.

82. Sec. XXXV. An assault with intent to commit a rape, shall be punished by an imprisonment at labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than one year, nor longer than five years. Assault with intent of rape.

83. Sec. XXXVI. Sodomy is the carnal knowledge and connection against the order of nature by man with man, or in the same unnatural manner with woman. Sodomy.

84. Sec. XXXVII. The punishment of sodomy shall be imprisonment at labor in the penitentiary for and during the natural life of the person convicted of this detestable crime. Penitentiary for life.

85. Sec. XXXVIII. Bestiality is the carnal knowledge and connection against the order of nature by man or woman in any manner with a beast. Bestiality.

86. Sec. XXXIX. The punishment of bestiality, shall be imprisonment at labor in the penitentiary for and during the natural life of the person convicted of this detestable crime. Penitentiary for life.

87. Sec. XL. An attempt to commit sodomy or bestiality, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for a term not less than two years nor more than four years. Attempt, two to four years.

88. Sec. XLI. An assault is an attempt to commit a violent injury on the person of another. Assault.

89. Sec. XLII. A bare assault shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, at the discretion of the court. Punishment.

Assault with intent to murder. Penitentiary two to four years. 90. Sec. XLIII. An assault with intent to murder, by using any weapon likely to produce death, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for a term not less than two years nor longer than four years.

Assault with intent to rob. 91. Sec. XLIV. An assault with intent to rob, is where any person or persons shall with any offensive or dangerous weapon or instrument, unlawfully and maliciously assault another, or shall by menaces, or in and by any forcible or violent manner, demand any money, goods or chattels of or from any other person or persons, with intent to rob or commit robbery upon such person or persons.

Penitentiary, two to four years. 92. Sec. XLV. A person convicted of an assault with intent to rob, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, for a term not less than two years, nor more than four years.

Assault to injure clothes. Fine and imprisonment. 93. Sec. XLVI. An assault with an intent to spoil or injure clothes, or garments, is where any person or persons shall at any time wilfully and maliciously assault any person or persons, with an intent to tear, spoil, cut, burn, or deface, and shall tear, spoil, cut, burn or deface the garments or clothes of such person or persons; and every such offender being thereof convicted, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $200, and imprisonment in the common jail of the county for a term not less than three months, nor more than one year.

Battery. 94. Sec. XLVII. Battery is the unlawful beating of another, and shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Clerks, ag'ts, &c. fraudulently taking and converting goods intrusted to them, pen'y 1 to 5 years.

149. Sec. XXXV. If any person employed as a clerk, agent or servant, or in any other character or capacity in any store, ware house, counting-room, exchange office, shop, or other place of trade, traffic, or exchange, where from the nature of the business or employment, it is necessary or usual to intrust to such person any goods, wares, or merchandize, cotton, corn, or other produce, money, notes, bills of exchange, bank notes, checks, drafts, orders for payment of money or other valuable thing, or any other thing or article of value, shall fraudulently take and carry away, or convert to his own use, or otherwise dispose of any of the said goods, wares or merchandize, cotton, corn, or other produce, money, notes, bills of exchange, bank notes, checks, drafts, orders, or other thing or things of value thus intrusted to him, or committed to his charge, to the injury, and without the consent of the owner thereof, or person thus intrusting him; such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than five years.

Any other agent so offending, pen'y 1 to 5 years.

150. Sec. XXXVI. If any person who has been intrusted by another with any money, note or notes, bill or bills of exchange, bond or bonds, check or checks, draft or drafts, bank note or notes, order or orders for the payment of money, or other valuable article or thing; or any cotton, corn, or other produce, goods, wares or merchandize, horse or horses, mule or mules, cattle, sheep, goats, hogs, or other valuable article, for the purpose of applying the same for the use or benefit of the person to whom they belong, or the person delivering them, or any of them; or for the purpose of collecting the money or other thing due on any such note or notes, bill or bills of exchange, bond or bonds, check or checks, draft or drafts, bank note or notes, or order or orders, and paying the proceeds thereof over to the owner or other person so intrusting or delivering the same; or for the purpose of selling such cotton, corn, or other produce, goods, wares, or merchandize, horse or horses, mule or mules, cattle, sheep, goats, hogs, or other valuable article, and paying over the proceeds of such sale to the owner, or other person so intrusting or delivering the said article or articles, shall fraudulently convert the said article or articles, or any of them, or the money or other thing arising from the sale or collection of any of them to his or her own use, or shall otherwise dispose of them, or any of them to the injury, and without the consent of the owner, or other person so intrusting or delivering them, and without paying to such owner or person intrusting or delivering the same, the full value or market price thereof, such person so offending, shall on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than five years.

151. Sec. XXXVII. Any president, director, or other officer of any chartered bank in this State, who shall violate, or be concerned in violating any provision of the charter of such bank, shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on indictment and conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any term not less than one year, nor longer than ten years.

Bank officers violating the charter, pen'y 1 to 10 years.

152. Sec. XXXVIII. Every president, director, or other officer of any chartered bank in this State, shall be deemed to possess such a knowledge of the affairs of the corporation, as to enable him to determine whether any act, proceeding or omission is a violation of the charter. And every president and director who shall be present at a meeting when such violation shall happen, shall be deemed to have concurred therein, unless he shall, at the time cause, or in writing, require his dissent therefrom to be entered at large on the minutes of the board—And every president and director not present at any meeting when such a violation shall take place, shall nevertheless be deemed to have concurred therein, if the facts constituting such violation appear on the books of the corporation, and he remain a director for three months thereafter, and do not within that time cause, or in writing require his dissent from such illegal proceeding, to be entered at large on the minutes of the board.

Presumptions against such officers.

153. Sec. XXXIX. Every insolvency of a chartered bank, or refusal, or failure to redeem its bills on demand, either with specie, or current bank bills passing at par value, shall be deemed fraudulent, and the president and directors may be severally indicted for a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than ten years—Provided nevertheless, that the defendant may repel the presumption of fraud, by showing that the affairs of the bank have been fairly and legally administered, and generally with the same care and diligence that agents receiving a commission for their services, are required and bound by law to observe: and upon such showing, the jury shall acquit the prisoner.*

Every bank insolvency shall be deemed fraudulent, and the officers indictable.

But the presumption may be repelled.

154. Sec. XL. All conveyances, assignments, transfers of stock, effects, or other contracts made by any bank in contemplation of insolvency, or after insolvency, except for the benefit of all the creditors and stockholders of said bank, shall, unless made to an innocent purchaser for a valuable consideration, and without knowledge or notice of the condition of said bank, be fraudulent and void. And the president, directors, and other officers of said bank, or any of them, making, or consenting to the making of such conveyance, assignment, transfer or contract, whether the same be made to an innocent purchaser, or any other, shall severally be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on indictment and conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than four years, nor longer than ten years.

Certain transfers, &c. of stock fraudulent and void unless, &c.

And the officers making them, indictable, pen'y from 4 to 10 years.

155. Sec. XLI. If any president, director, officer, or agent of any bank, shall, by himself or agent, or in any other manner, either for himself, or for the bank, directly or indirectly purchase, or be interested in the purchase of any bill, or check, or other evidence of debt issued by the said bank, for a less sum than shall appear then due on the Bank officer purchasing its paper at discount, liable to pen'y from 4 to 10 years.

Declaring fraudulent dividends,
to 10 years.

156. Sec. XLII. No dividends shall be made by any bank, except from the net profits arising from the business of the corporation; and if any president and directors shall declare, or pay over any dividend from the capital stock, or any other funds of the bank, except the net profits thereof, such president and directors shall severally be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on indictment and conviction thereof, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than ten years.

Purchasing shares with capital stock, pen'y 1 to 10
years.

157. Sec. XLIII. If the president and directors of any bank, or any of them, shall use and apply any part of the capital stock of such bank to the purchase of shares of its own stock, such president and directors shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on indictment and conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor more than ten years.

the 39th sec.

158. Sec. XLIV. The 39th section of the 6th division of this code, in relation to the insolvency of any bank, or the failure or refusal of any bank to pay its bills in specie or current bank notes, shall not operate on any bank which has heretofore become insolvent or unable to pay its bills. And no future failure or refusal to pay its bills, shall be deemed a violation of said section. Provided nevertheless, that said bank shall not have resumed specie payment between the time of its becoming insolvent, and of its future failure or refusal to redeem its bills with specie or current bank notes.

An Act to add an additional section to the sixth division of the Penal Code.—Approved Dec. 27, 1836. Pam. 172.

From and after the passage of this act, the following section shall be added to the sixth division of the penal code, now of force, and shall be a part thereof, to wit:

Unlawful mining indictable as a misdemean'r.

Sec. XLV. If any person shall dig or take and carry away from the land of another, any gold, bullion, silver or other metallic substance, with intent to appropriate the same to his, or her own use, without having previously obtained permission of the owner of such land, so to do, he or she shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction, shall be punished with fine or imprisonment in the common jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

180. Sec. VIII. Any verdict or judgment, rule or order of court, which may have been obtained or entered up, shall be set aside, and be of no effect, if it shall appear that the same was obtained or entered up in consequence of wilful and corrupt perjury; and it shall be the duty of the court in which such verdict, judgment, rule, or order may have been obtained or entered up, to cause the same to be set aside upon motion and notice to the adverse party; but it shall not be lawful for the said court to do so, unless the person charged with said perjury shall have been thereof duly convicted, and unless it shall appear to the said court, that the said verdict, judgment, rule, or order, could not have been obtained or entered up, without the evidence of such perjured person; saving always to third persons, innocent of such perjury, the right which they may have lawfully acquired under such verdict, judgment, rule, or order, before the same shall have been actually vacated and set aside.

181. Sec. IX. If any person by wilful and corrupt perjury shall take away the life of another, or by such wilful and corrupt perjury, convict another of any offence, which by this code is punishable with death or perpetual imprisonment, such person shall be punished with death or perpetual imprisonment.

182. Sec. X. Bribery is the giving or receiving any undue reward to influence the behavior of the person receiving such reward in the discharge of his duty in any office of government or of justice.

183. Sec. XI. If any person shall directly or indirectly give or offer to give any money, goods, or other bribe, present or reward; or give or make any promise, contract, or agreement for the payment, delivery or alienation of any money, goods, lands, or other bribe; or use any promises, threats, persuasions, or other like sinister, unfair, or fraudulent practices in order to obtain or influence the opinion, judgment, decree, or behavior of any member of the general assembly, or any officer of this State, judge, justice, referee or arbitrator in any discussion, debate, action, suit, complaint, indictment, controversy, matter, or cause depending, or which shall depend before him or them, such person shall on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than five years. And the member of the general assembly or officer, judge, justice, referee or arbitrator, who shall accept or receive such bribe, shall on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary, for any time not less than two years, nor longer than ten years, and shall moreover be removed from his office.

184. Sec. XII. If any judge, justice, mayor, alderman, clerk, sheriff, coroner, or other public officer, or any other person whatsoever, shall steal, embezzle, alter, corrupt, withdraw, falsify, or avoid any record, process, charter, gift, grant, conveyance, or contract; or shall knowingly and willingly take off, discharge, or conceal, any issue, forfeited recognizance, or other forfeiture; or shall forge, deface, or falsify any document or instrument recorded, or any registry, acknowledgment, or certificate; or shall alter, deface or falsify any minute, document, book, or any proceeding whatever, of, or belonging to any public office within this State; or if any person shall cause or procure any of the offences aforesaid to be committed, or be in anywise concerned therein, the person so offending, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than two years, nor longer than ten years.

185. Sec. XIII. If any jailor by too great a duress of imprisonment, or other cruel treatment, make or induce a prisoner to become an approver, or accuse and give evidence against some other person; or be guilty of wilful inhumanity or oppression to any prisoner under his care and custody, such jailor shall be punished by removal from office, and imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than three years.

186. Sec. XIV. If any officer after the expiration of the time for which he may have been elected or appointed, shall wilfully and unlawfully withhold or detain from his successor, the records, papers, documents, books or other writings, appertaining and belonging to his office, or mutilate, destroy, take away, or otherwise prevent the complete possession by his said successor, of said records, documents, papers, books, or other writings, such person so offending, shall on conviction, be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Officers detaining books, &c. from successors, fine and imprisonment.

187. Sec. XV. If any person except the attorney of record, shall acknowledge, or procure to be acknowledged, in any of the courts of this State, or before any authorized officer, any recognizance, bail, or judgment, in the name of any other person not privy or consenting thereto, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any period of time not less than one year, nor longer than four years.

Personating in bail, judgment, &c. pen'y 1 to 4 years.

188. Sec. XVI. If any person shall knowingly and wilfully obstruct, resist, or oppose any sheriff, coroner, or other officer of this State, or other person duly authorized, in serving, or attempting to serve, or execute any lawful process, or order of any court, judge, justice, or arbitrators, or any other legal process whatever; or shall assault or beat any sheriff, coroner, constable, or other officer, or person duly authorized, in serving or executing any process, or order aforesaid, or for having served or executed the same; every person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by fine and imprisonment in the common jail of the county for any time not exceeding one year.

Obstructing legal process, fine and imprisonment.

189. Sec. XVII. If any officer of this State whatever, shall assault or beat any individual under color of his office or commission, without a lawful necessity so to do, such officer so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by fine and imprisonment in the common jail for any time not exceeding one year.

Assault, &c. under color of office.

190. Sec. XVIII. Rescue is the forcibly and knowingly freeing another from an arrest or imprisonment.

Rescue defined.

191. Sec. XIX. If any person shall rescue another in legal custody on criminal process, such person so offending shall, on conviction, receive the same punishment as the person rescued would, on conviction, be sentenced to receive—but if the person rescued shall have been acquitted of the crime charged against him, then and in such case, the person rescuing shall be punished by imprisonment in the common jail of the county for any time not exceeding one year.

Punishment in criminal cases.

Proviso.

192. Sec. XX. If any person shall rescue another in legal custody on civil process, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine equal in amount to the amount of the debt or demand for which such process was issued, and imprisonment in the common jail of the county, not exceeding six months.

Punishment in civil cases.

193. Sec. XXI. If any person shall attempt to rescue another in legal custody on criminal process, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by imprisonment in the common jail for any time not exceeding six months; or by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than two years, at the discretion of the court.

199. Sec. XXVII. If the keeper of the penitentiary, or other officer or person employed there, whose duty it is to receive convicts, shall fail or refuse to do so, such keeper, officer, or other person so offending, shall on conviction, be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for any time not exceeding ten years, and shall moreover be dismissed from office.

Receiving stolen goods, punished as the thief.

200. Sec. XXVIII. If any person shall buy or receive any goods, chattels, money, or other effects, that shall have been stolen or feloniously taken from another, knowing the same to be stolen or feloniously taken, such person shall be taken and deemed to be an accessory after the fact, and shall receive and suffer the same punishment as would be inflicted on the person convicted of having stolen or feloniously taken the said goods, chattels, money or effects, so bought or received.

not be taken.

201. Sec. XXIX. If the principal thief or thieves cannot be taken, so as to be prosecuted and convicted, it shall be lawful to prosecute any person buying or receiving any goods, chattels, money or effects, stolen or feloniously taken by such principal thief or thieves, knowing the same to be stolen or feloniously taken, as for a misdemeanor; and on conviction, such ^{AK}person shall be punished as prescribed in the preceding section; and a conviction under this section, shall be a bar to any prosecution under the 28th section.

202. Sec. XXX. If any person shall receive, harbor or conceal any person guilty of a crime punishable by death, or imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary, knowing such person to be guilty, such person so receiving, harboring, or concealing, shall be taken and deemed to be an accessory after the fact; and on conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than three years. Accessory after the fact, pen'y 1 to 3 years.

203. Sec. XXXI. If any person shall take or receive any money, goods, chattels, lands, or other reward, on promise to compound, or shall for any cause, compound any crime or offence punishable with death, or imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than five years. Compounding crimes, pen'y 1 to 3 years.

204. Sec. XXXII. If any person informing or prosecuting under pretence of any penal law, shall compound with the offender, or direct the suit or information to be discontinued, unless it be by leave of the court where the same is pending, such person so offending, shall on conviction, pay a fine equal to so much of the penalty as he or she would be entitled to, if the defendant or party prosecuted had been found guilty or convicted. Compounding penalties.

205. Sec. XXXIII. If any two or more persons shall conspire or agree, falsely and maliciously, to charge and indict any innocent person of a crime, who is accordingly indicted and acquitted, such person so conspiring, and each and every of them, shall on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than twelve months, nor longer than five years. Conspiracy, pen'y 1 to 3 years.

206. Sec. XXXIV. Common barratry is the offence of frequently exciting, and stirring up suits and quarrels between individuals, either at law or otherwise. Barratry defined.

207. Sec. XXXV. Any person who shall be found and adjudged a common barterer, vexing others with unjust and vexatious suits, shall on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars; and if the offender belongs to the profession of the law, he shall also be disqualified from practising for the future. Punishment.

208. Sec. XXXVI. Embracery is an attempt to influence a jury corruptly to one side, by promises, persuasions, entreaties, money, entertainments, and the like. Every embracer who shall procure a juror to take money, gain, or profit, or shall corruptly influence a juror by persuasions, promises, entreaties, or by any other means, shall on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than four years. And the juror convicted of taking money, gain, or profit, or of being corruptly influenced as aforesaid, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than two years, nor longer than five years, and shall moreover be forever disqualified to act as a juror. Embracery, punishment.

209. Sec. XXXVII. Any justice of the peace, charged with mal-practice in office, by using oppression, tyrannical partiality, or any other conduct unbecoming his character as an upright magistrate, in the administration, and under color of his office, may be indicted, which indictment shall specially set forth the merits of the complaint, and a copy thereof be served on the defendant before the same is laid before the grand jury; and the prosecutor and the justice, and their

210. Sec. XXXVIII. If any person shall knowingly send or deliver any letter or writing, threatening to accuse another person of a crime, with intent to extort money, goods, chattels, or other valuable thing; or threatening to maim, wound, kill, or murder such person or any of his family, or to burn or otherwise destroy or injure his or her house, or other property, real or personal, though no money, goods, chattels, or other valuable thing be demanded, such person so offending shall on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than two years, nor longer than four years.

211. Sec. XXXIX. Extortion shall consist in any public officer's unlawfully taking by color of his office from any person, any money, or thing of value, that is not due to him, or more than is due.

212. Sec. XL. Any public officer who shall by himself, his deputy, agent, or other person employed by him, be guilty of extortion in demanding and receiving other and greater fees than by law are allowed him, or shall by color of his office, take from any person, any money or other thing of value, that is not due to him, or more than is due, such officer shall be subject to indictment, and on conviction, shall be punished by fine at the discretion of the court, and shall moreover be dismissed from office.

213. Sec. XLI. Any other offence against public justice not herein before provided for, shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

214. Sec. XLII. If any prisoner in the penitentiary shall assail, oppose or resist any officer of the penitentiary, or any member of the guard, with any weapon or implement calculated to cause death or serious bodily injury, such prisoner so offending, shall be deemed guilty of mutiny, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by an additional term of imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary, not less than two years, nor longer than five years, at the discretion of the court, to be computed from the expiration of the term of imprisonment and labor to which such prisoner shall have been previously sentenced.

215. Sec. XLIII. If any person shall persuade, entice or instigate any prisoner to mutiny, such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than two years, nor longer than five years, at the discretion of the court, to be computed, if a prisoner in the penitentiary, from the expiration of the term of imprisonment and labor for which he shall have been previously sentenced.

If any person shall knowingly and wilfully carry and deliver any written or printed challenge, or verbally deliver any message or challenge to another to fight with sword, pistol or other deadly weapon; or shall consent to be a second in any such intended duel or combat, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished in the same manner as is prescribed in the preceding section.

Seconds,
ment.

221. Sec. VI. If any person shall be engaged in the act of fighting a duel with sword, pistol or other deadly weapon, either as principal or second, such person shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than four years, nor longer than eight years. Provided nevertheless, that if death should ensue from such duel, then all the parties, both principals and seconds, shall be guilty of murder, and suffer the punishment of death.

224. Sec. IX. A libel is a malicious defamation, expressed either

- Libel defined. by printing or writing, or signs, pictures, and the like, tending to blacken the memory of one who is dead, or the honesty, virtue, integrity, or reputation of one who is alive, and thereby expose him or her to public hatred, contempt or ridicule: Every person convicted of this offence, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, and by imprisonment in the common jail of the county for any time not exceeding one year, at the discretion of the court.
- Punishment.
- Printer a witness. 225. Sec. X. In all prosecutions under the two preceding sections of this division, the printer, or publisher of the newspaper, hand bill, or other publication containing the offensive or criminal matter, shall be a competent witness; and if such printer or publisher shall refuse to testify in the cause, or to give up the real name of the author, or person authorizing and causing the publication, so that he may be indicted; then such printer or publisher shall be deemed and considered the author himself, and be indicted and punished as such; and may moreover be punished for a contempt of the court, as any other witness refusing to testify.
- Refusing to testify, is deemed the author.
- The truth in evidence. 226. Sec. XI. In all cases of indictment for a libel, or for slander, the person prosecuted shall be allowed to give the truth in evidence.
- Forceful entry. 227. Sec. XII. Forceful entry is the violently taking possession of lands and tenements with menaces, force, and arms, and without authority of law.
- Forceful detainer. 228. Sec. XIII. Forceful detainer is the violently keeping possession of lands and tenements with menaces, force and arms, and without authority of law.
- Punishment of forcible entry or detainer, 229. Sec. XIV. Any person who shall be guilty of a forcible entry, or a forcible detainer, or both, may be indicted, and on conviction shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court: And the court before whom the conviction takes place, shall cause restitution of possession of the premises to be made to the party aggrieved—Provided always, that if the party forcibly detaining lands and tenements, or those under whom he claims, shall have been in peaceable possession of the same for the space of three years or more immediately preceding the filing of the complaint, such person or party shall not be subject to the penalties of this section, nor shall restitution of possession be made. And provided also, that the only questions to be submitted to, and determined by the jury in trials for forcible entry, or forcible detainer, shall be the possession, and the force, without regard to the merits of the title on either side.
- unless 3 yrs. possession.
- Title not examinable.
- Justices to try the fact by jury. 230. Sec. XV. Any one or more justice or justices of the peace, upon complaint made on oath, of any forcible entry into lands or tenements, or of any forcible detainer of the same, shall have power to draw a jury of twelve men from the jury box of the district in which the lands and tenements so alleged to be forcibly entered or detained, are situated, and cause the sheriff of the county, or the constable of the district, to summon them to be and appear at the usual place of holding court of the said district, on a certain day to be appointed by the said justice or justices, for the purpose of trying the fact of such forcible entry or detainer: And the said justice or justices shall also issue a summons to be directed to the person or persons charged with such forcible entry, or detainer, and cause the same to be served on him or them by the sheriff, or by the constable, at least five days before the time appointed for trial, requiring him or them to appear and defend the charge alleged against him or them. And if all the jurors should not attend, or if there should be any legal objection to any of them, then the justice or justices may cause the jury to be completed by tales jurors: And upon the trial, the only facts which the jury shall inquire into, shall be the possession and the force; but they shall have no power to inquire into the merits of the title on either side. The following oath shall be administered to the jurors, viz:—"You shall well and truly inquire whether A. B. has made any forcible entry into the lands or tenements of C. D. and him ejected therefrom, or forcibly detains the lands or tenements of the said C. D. and a true verdict give according to the facts as they may appear to you in evidence—So help you God." And if upon the trial of such case, the jury shall find such forcible entry or forcible detainer, or both, then the said justice or justices shall give judgment accordingly, and cause the sheriff to make restitution of possession of the premises to the party aggrieved. Provided nevertheless, that if the person or persons charged with such forcible entry or detainer, or those under whom he or they claim, shall have been in peaceable possession of the premises for the space of three years or more, as aforesaid, then no restitution of possession shall be made. And provided also, that no proceedings under this section shall exempt any person guilty of a forcible entry or detainer, from indictment and punishment under and by virtue of the preceding section of this division.

Oath of jury.

On fact found, restitution to be made, but not against 3 yrs. possession.

No bar to indictment.

231. Sec. XVI. All other offences against the public peace, not provided for in this code, shall be prosecuted and indicted as heretofore, and the punishment in every case shall be by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Other offences vs. pub. peace.

TENTH DIVISION.

OFFENCES AGAINST THE PUBLIC MORALITY, HEALTH, POLICE, AND DECENCY.

232. Sec. I. Polygamy, or bigamy, shall consist in knowingly having a plurality of husbands, or wives at the same time.

Polygamy and bigamy.

233. Sec. II. If any person or persons within this State, being married, do or shall at any time hereafter marry any person or persons, the lawful husband or wife being alive, and knowing that such lawful husband or wife is living, such person or persons so offending, shall on conviction, be punished by confinement at labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than two years nor longer than four years, and the second marriage shall be void; but five years' absence of the husband or wife, and no information of the fate of such husband or wife, shall be sufficient cause of acquittal of the person indicted; and in every case the issue of such second marriage, born before the commencement of any prosecution for polygamy, or within the ordinary time of gestation thereafter, shall, notwithstanding the invalidity of such marriage, be considered as legitimate.

Punishment if before married, pen'y 2 to 4 years.

Five years' absence.

Issue legitimate.

234. Sec. III. If any man or woman being unmarried, shall knowingly marry the wife or husband of another person, such man or woman, shall on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary, for any time not less than one year, nor longer than three years.

Punishment if before unmarried, pen'y 1 to 3 years.

235. Sec. IV. If any person shall commit incestuous fornication or adultery, or intermarry within the levitical degrees of consanguinity or affinity, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one nor longer than three years; and such marriage shall be void.

Incest, pen'y not exceeding 3 yrs.

236. Sec. V. Any man and woman who shall live together in a state of adultery, or fornication, or of adultery and fornication; or who shall otherwise commit adultery, or fornication, or adultery and fornication, shall be severally indicted, and on conviction, such offenders shall be severally fined or imprisoned in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court: Provided, that the fine shall not exceed the sum of $500, and the imprisonment shall not extend beyond the term of sixty days. But it shall at any time be in the power of the parties to prevent or suspend the prosecution, and the punishment by marriage, if such marriage can be legally solemnized.

Adultery and fornication, fine and imp.

Absolved by marriage of the parties.

Lewdness and keeping tippling-houses.

237. Sec. VI. Any person who shall be guilty of open lewdness, or any notorious act of public indecency, tending to debauch the morals; or of keeping open tippling-houses on the Sabbath day or Sabbath night, shall on conviction, be fined, or imprisoned in the common jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Lewd houses.

238. Sec. VII. If any person shall maintain and keep a lewd house, or place for the practice of fornication, or adultery, either by himself or herself, or others, he or she so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Disorderly houses.

239. Sec. VIII. Any person who shall keep and maintain, either by himself or herself, or others, a common ill governed and disorderly house, to the encouragement of idleness, gaming, drinking, or other misbehavior, or to the common disturbance of the neighborhood or orderly citizens, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Gaming houses, fine and imprisonment.

240. Sec. IX. If any person shall, by himself, servant or agent, keep, have, use, or maintain, a gaming-house or room; or shall in any house, place, or room, occupied by him, permit persons with his knowledge to come together and play for money, or any other valuable thing, at any game of faro, loo, brag, bluff, or any other game played with cards, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be fined in a sum not exceeding $500, and imprisoned in the common jail of the county for any time not exceeding three months.*

Gaming tables.

241. Sec. X. If any person shall, by himself, or servant, or any other agent, keep or employ any faro table, E. O. table, or A. B. C. table, or other table of like character, and shall, either by himself or agent, preside or deal at any faro table, or use any E. O. or A. B. C. table, or other table of like character, for the purpose of playing and betting at the same, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be fined in a sum not exceeding $500, or be imprisoned in the common jail of the county, for any time not exceeding six months, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Betting.

242. Sec. XI. If any person shall play and bet at any game of faro, loo, brag or bluff, or shall play and bet at any E. O. or A. B. C. table, or any other table of like character, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be fined in a sum not less than 20, nor more than $100.

Players competent witnesses.

243. Sec. XII. On the trial of any person for offending against the three preceding sections of this division, any other person who may have played and betted at the same time or table, shall be a competent witness, and be compelled to give evidence, and nothing then said by such witness shall at any time be received or given in evidence against him in any prosecution against the said witness, except on an indictment for perjury, in any matter to which he may have testified.

Judges to give gambler's in charge.

244. Sec. XIII. It shall be the duty of the judges of the superior courts of this State, at the opening or commencement of every court, to give in charge to the grand juries, respectively, the substance of the sections contained in this code, relative to gambling.

* Former Statutes on this subject, Vol. I. 248. et seq. and see title Gaming.

245. Sec. XIV. It shall be lawful for any lawful officer, with legal authority to break open suspected rooms or houses, where it is commonly known that gaming is carried on, and to take any persons found gaming, and bind or cause them to be bound over to the next superior court to be held in and for the county where such offences may be committed; and if such person or persons so found gaming, shall fail or refuse to give security for his or their appearance at court to answer for such offences, then it shall be lawful to commit such person or persons to jail.

Suspected rooms or houses may be broken open.

246. Sec. XV. Any butcher, or other person, selling the flesh of a diseased animal, or other unwholesome provisions, shall be indicted, and on conviction, shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Selling unwholesome provisions.

247. Sec. XVI. Any baker, brewer, distiller, merchant, grocer, or other person, selling unwholesome bread, drink, or pernicious and adulterated liquors, knowing them to be so, shall be indicted, and on conviction, shall be fined or imprisoned in the common jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Unwholesome bread or drink.

Sec. XVII. and XVIII. [Repealed by the act of 1836. Pam. 171.]

250. Sec. XIX. On the trial of any indictment for either of the offences mentioned in the two preceding sections, it shall be incumbent on the defendant to show that he has been acting under a license from the board of physicians of the State of Georgia, to exempt himself from the penalties of the section under which he may be indicted.

License must be shown.

251. Sec. XX. Any physician, surgeon or other person, wilfully endeavoring to spread the small-pox, without inoculation, or by inoculation with matter of the small-pox, or using any other inoculation than that called vaccination, unless by special commission or authority from the inferior court of the county where the small pox shall make its appearance, shall be indicted, and on conviction fined in a sum not exceeding $1,000, and be imprisoned in the common jail at the discretion of the court.

Spreading small-pox.

252. Sec. XXI. Any person who shall come into this State by land or water from any place infected with a contagious disease, and in violation of quarantine regulations, shall be indicted in any county in this State in which he may be found, and on conviction, sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding $500, and also be imprisoned in the common jail, at the discretion of the court.

Violation of quarantine.

253. Sec. XXII. Any person wandering or strolling about, or leading an idle, immoral, profligate course of life, who has no property to support him, and who is able to work, or otherwise to support himself in a respectable way, shall be deemed and considered a vagrant, and may be arrested by a warrant issued by any justice of the peace, mayor or alderman, and bound in sufficient security for his good behavior and future industry for one year; and upon his refusal or failure to give such security, he shall be committed and indicted as a vagrant, and on conviction, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for any term not less than two years, nor longer than four years.

Vagrants, pen'y 2 to 4 years.

254. Sec. XXIII. If any person shall be apprehended, having upon him or her, any picklock, key, crow, bit, or other instrument, with intent to break and enter into any dwelling-house, ware-house, store, shop, coach-house, stable, or out-house, in order to steal or commit any other crime; or shall have upon him any pistol, hanger, cutlass, bludgeon, or other offensive weapon, with intent to commit a crime on any person, which if committed, would be punishable by death, or confinement in the penitentiary; or shall be found in or upon any dwelling-house, ware-house, store, shop, coach-house, stable, or out-house, with intent to steal any goods or chattels, every such person shall be deemed a rogue and vagabond, and on conviction, shall be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than five years, or by imprisonment in the common jail of the county, at the discretion of the court.

What nuisances are indictable.

255. Sec. XXIV. All nuisances not here mentioned, which tend to annoy the community, or injure the health of the citizens in general, or to corrupt the public morals, shall be indictable, and punishable by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court. And any nuisance which tends to the immediate annoyance of the citizens in general, is manifestly injurious to the public health and safety, or tends greatly to corrupt the manners that when the nuisance complained of, is a grist or saw-mill, or other water machinery of valuable consideration, the same shall not be destroyed or abated, except upon the affidavits of two or more freeholders, before one or more of the justices of the inferior court of the county in which the nuisance complained of may exist, testifying that the health of the neighborhood according to their opinion and belief, is materially injured by such mill dam, or other obstruction to a water course by other machinery, as may be complained of; whereupon it shall be the duty of such inferior court, as soon as practicable, to cause a jury of twelve men to be drawn from the jury box, and summoned for the trial of the cause, who together with the said court shall attend at the court-house of said county to adjudge the case of nuisance complained of; and both parties shall have a reasonable time allowed them to summon their witnesses and procure their attendance.

Disinter-ring or purchasing dead bodies.

256. Sec. XXV. If any person or persons shall remove the dead body of any human being, from the grave, or other place of interment, or from any vault, tomb, or sepulchre, or from any other place, without the consent of the friends of said deceased, except malefactors executed under sentence of the law, for the purpose of selling or dissecting the same, or from mere wantonness, such person or persons so offending shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court; and any person who shall receive or purchase such dead body, knowing it to have been disinterred or removed from any tomb, vault or sepulchre, or such other place, for the purposes aforesaid, shall on conviction receive the same punishment.

257. Sec. XXVI. If any putative father of a bastard child or children, shall refuse or fail to give security for the maintenance and education of such child or children, when required to do so in terms of the law, such putative father shall be indicted for a misdemeanor; and on conviction of the fact of being the father of such bastard child or children, and of his refusal or failure to give such security, he shall be punished by a fine of $700 for each child, which said fine shall be paid over to the inferior court of the county, to be by them improved and applied from time to time as occasion may require, for the maintenance and education of such child or children; and if the offender is unable to pay the said fine or fines, he shall be punished by imprisonment in the common jail for the space or three months.

Putative fathers of bastards, refusing, &c., fined $700.

How applied.

258. Sec. XXVII. If any person shall keep a tippling shop, or retail liquors, or sell by retail in quantities less than one quart, any wine, brandy, rum, gin, whiskey or other spirituous liquors, or any mixture of such liquors in any house, booth, arbor, stall or other place whatever, without license from the inferior court of the county, except in corporate towns or cities, where by law, authority to grant licenses is vested in the corporate authorities of such towns or cities, such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined in the sum of $50; and on failure to pay such fine, shall be imprisoned in the common jail for the space of thirty days.

Retailing spirits without license, fine $50 and imprisonment 30 days.

259. Sec. XXVIII. If any minister of the gospel, judge, justice of the inferior court or justice of the peace, shall join together in matrimony any man and woman, without a license, or publication of banns as provided by law; or where either of the parties within his own knowledge shall be an idiot or lunatic, or subject to any other disability which would render such contract or marriage improper and void, such minister, judge, justice of the inferior court, or justice of the peace, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined in a sum not less than $100, nor more than $500, which said fine, when collected, shall be paid over to the justices of the inferior court of the county where the offence was committed, for the use of the poor school fund of said county.

Marrying illegally or without license, fine, min. $100, for poor children.

260. Sec. XXIX. If any person shall hereafter vote more than once at any election which may be held in any county of this State, or vote out of the county in which he may usually reside, for members of the legislature, or for county officers, such person shall be indicted for a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary, for any time not less than one year, nor more than two years.

Voting more than once, penalty 1 to 2 years.

261. Sec. XXX. If any person being twenty-one years of age or upwards, shall hereafter buy or sell a vote, or be concerned in buying or selling a vote, or shall unlawfully vote at any election which may be held in any county in this State, such person shall be indicted for a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for a term not less than one year, nor more than four years.

Buying or selling vote, penalty 1 to 4 years.

ELEVENTH DIVISION.

OFFENCES COMMITTED BY CHEATS AND SWINDLERS, AND OFFENCES AGAINST PUBLIC TRADE.

person shall cause or procure others to report falsely of his honesty, respectability, wealth, or mercantile character, and by thus imposing on the credulity of any person or persons, shall obtain a credit, and thereby fraudulently get into possession of goods, wares, or merchandize, or any other valuable thing or things, such person so offending, shall be deemed a cheat and swindler, and on conviction, shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court; and such person shall moreover be compelled by the order and sentence of the court, to restore to the party injured the property so fraudulently obtained, if it can be done.

263. Sec. II. If any person or persons shall, by any fraud or shift, circumvention, deceit, or unlawful trick, or device, or ill practice whatever, in playing at cards, dice, or any game, or games, or in or by bearing a share or part in the stakes, wagers, or adventures; or in or by betting on the sides or hands of such as do or shall play, obtain, or acquire to him or themselves, or to any other or others any money, or other valuable thing or things whatever, such person or persons so offending, shall be indicted, and on conviction, shall be deemed a cheat, and shall be sentenced to pay a fine of five times the value of the money or other thing so won as aforesaid, and shall also be imprisoned in the common jail of the county, at the discretion of the court.

264. Sec. III. Any baker or other person, selling bread under the assize established by the corporation of any city, town, or village, or the rules laid down by any law, shall be deemed a cheat, and on conviction, shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

265. Sec. IV. If any person shall sell by false weights or measures, he or she shall be deemed a common cheat, and on conviction, shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

266. Sec. V. The offences of forestalling, regrating and engrossing, are hereby abolished.

267. Sec. VI. If any person shall fraudulently counterfeit, or be concerned in fraudulently counterfeiting any brand or mark directed by law, or shall fraudulently cause or procure the same to be done, or shall use, export, sell, exchange, barter, or expose to sale, any bale, cask, barrel, hogshead, or vessel of any kind, or any other thing upon which a brand or mark is directed by law to be made, with such counterfeit brand or mark, knowing the same to be false and counterfeit, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be deemed a cheat, and be punished by a fine not exceeding $200, and imprisonment in the common jail of the county for a term not exceeding six months.

268. Sec. VII. Any person who shall put or cause to be put into any bale or bales of cotton, hogshead or hogsheads, barrel or barrels, cask or casks of sugar or rice, pork, beef, or other provisions, any dirt, rubbish, or other thing, for the purpose of adding to and increasing the weight or bulk of said cotton, sugar, rice, beef, pork, or other provisions or things, shall be deemed a common cheat, and on conviction, shall be punished by a fine equal to the value of the thing thus fraudulently packed or put up, and imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than five years. The bare possession or ownership of such commodities so fraudulently packed or put up, shall not of itself authorize a conviction where sufficient evidence of knowledge or privity on the part of the owner, or the person in possession, may not be produced before the court and jury.

269. Sec. VIII. If any person shall falsely personate another, and thereby fraudulently obtain any money, goods, chattels, or other thing or things of value; or with the intention of thereby fraudulently obtaining any money, goods, chattels, or other valuable thing, such person so offending shall be deemed a cheat and swindler, and on conviction shall be punished by imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor longer than five years; or in trivial cases, by fine and imprisonment in the common jail, at the discretion of the court.

Obtaining goods, &c. by personating, pen'y or jail.

270. Sec. IX. Any person using any deceitful means, or artful practice (other than those which are mentioned and provided against in this code) by which individuals or an individual, or the public, are or is defrauded and cheated, such person so offending shall be deemed a common cheat and swindler, and on conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the common jail, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Other offences of like kind.

271. Sec. X. If any person shall falsely represent or personate another, and in such assumed character shall answer as a witness to interrogatories, or do any other act in the course of any suit, proceeding or prosecution, or in any other way, matter or thing, whereby the person so personated or represented, or any other person, might suffer damage, loss or injury, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by confinement and labor in the penitentiary for any time not less than one year, nor more than five years.

Personating another as witness or otherwise in court, pen'y 1 to 5 years.

272. Sec. XI. If any person by false representation of his or her solvency, shall induce another to become his or her bail, indorser, or security upon any recognizance, bond, note, bill of exchange, or other instrument for the payment of money, or performance of any personal duty, knowing at the time that he or she is insolvent; and such bail, indorser, or security shall suffer loss or damage in consequence of such undertaking and liability on his part, such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by fine and imprisonment in the common jail, at the discretion of the court.

Lying to obtain indorsements or other security.

273. Sec. XII. If any pedler or itinerant trader shall sell or vend any goods, wares, or merchandise, except such as are excepted by law, within this State, without a license from the proper authority for that purpose, such pedler or itinerant trader shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on indictment and conviction thereof, shall be fined in a sum not less than one thousand dollars, nor more than three thousand dollars, to be applied as pointed out by law; and the defendant shall stand committed until the said fine be paid.

Pedlers without license, fined.

TWELFTH DIVISION.

FRAUDULENT OR MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.

274. Sec. I. If any person shall fraudulently or maliciously tear, burn, or in any other way destroy any deed, lease, will, bond, or other writing sealed; or any bank bill or note, check, draft, or other security for the payment of money or the delivery of goods; or any certificate, or other public security of this State, or of the United States, or any of them, for the payment of money; or any receipt, acquittance, release, discharge of any debt, suit, or other demand; or any transfer or assurance of money, stock, goods, chattels, or other property; or any letter of attorney or other power; or any day-book, or other book of accounts; or any agreement or contract whatever, with intent to defraud, prejudice, or injure any person or body politic or corporate, such person so offending shall, on conviction, be punished by imprisonment and labor

288. Sec. II. No person or persons whatever shall be exempted from the penalties mentioned in the preceding section, who shall fail or neglect to comply with the requisites therein mentioned and specified, or who shall fail or neglect to make and subscribe the said affidavits in manner and form as therein set forth.

* And see Sec. 174.

289. Sec. III. In all cases of prosecution under the first section of this division, or under this act, it shall be sufficient to allege in the indictment that the slave or slaves, was or were, brought, imported, or introduced into this State, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act. Indictment how framed.

290. Sec. IV. Any person or persons claiming an exemption from the penalties of the first section of this division or act, shall plead specially such his defence, and shall be held to due proof thereof, and the jury shall be specially charged to inquire into the intent of such person or persons, which intent may be inferred from the circumstances of the case, and any sale, transfer, barter, loan, hiring, mortgage, procurement of levy or sale under execution, or other legal process, or other alienation or disposition of such slave or slaves, for the life or lives of such slave or slaves, or for any other period of time; or any offer to sell, transfer, barter, lend, hire, mortgage, procure to be levied on or sold under execution, or other legal process, or in any way or manner to alien or dispose of such slave or slaves, for the life or lives of such slave or slaves, or for any other period of time, so as to vest the use or enjoyment of the labor or service of such slave or slaves, for the life or lives of such slave or slaves, or for any other period of time, in any other person or persons, than the person or persons so importing or introducing such slave or slaves into this State, his or her heirs, executors, administrators, legatees, or distributees, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, if made within one year after such slave or slaves shall have been brought, imported, or introduced into this State, shall be conclusive evidence of such unlawful intent in violation of this act. Special defence.

intent.

291. Sec. V. This act shall not extend to prevent any person travelling into this State, from bringing therein any such slave or slaves as may be needful for his or her comfortable and usual attendance upon his or her journey; nor to any person or persons bringing into this State any slave or slaves found on board any ship or vessel which may be taken as a prize of war, or seized for an infraction of any law of the United States, and brought into this State in such ship or vessel at the time of such capture or seizure; but it shall not be lawful to sell, or in any manner contrary to this act, to dispose of said slave or slaves within this State, and such sale or other disposition of such slave or slaves in any way or manner forbidden by this act, or offer to sell or dispose of the same, shall be conclusive evidence of an intent to bring such slave or slaves into this State, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, and shall subject the offender to the fine and imprisonment specified and set forth in the first section of this division or act; and the same obligations shall be imposed upon any person or persons claiming an exemption under this section, and the same rules shall obtain as to the pleadings and the evidence, and the jury shall exercise the same power of judgment of the fairness of the intent, as is given and are provided in the preceding sections of this division. Travellers' servants,

slaves may be brought in,
but not sold.

292. Sec. VI. If any person or persons shall purchase, hire, receive, or get into his, her or their possession any slave or slaves, knowing such slave or slaves to have been imported or introduced into this State illegally, and contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, such person or persons so offending, shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction therefor, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, for each and every slave so illegally in his possession. And it shall be the duty of every civil and militia officer in this State to aid and assist in carrying this law into effect. Knowingly persons from giving, hiring, or loaning any negro or negroes to his, her, or their legal child or children, for one year or more: Provided, that such child or children do and shall keep and retain such slave or slaves, for the space of one year from the time of receiving such slave or slaves, or otherwise, such child or children so receiving, shall be subject to the pains and penalties of this act.

Clerks shall record manifests and certificates.

294. Sec. VIII. It shall be the duty of every clerk of the superior court, before whom any oath required to be taken by this act, shall be made, to keep a bound book, in which shall be recorded the affidavits required to be made, and the certificates necessary to be given, agreeably to the provisions of this act, and also to record in said book, all other instruments of writing, or statements which may be necessary to be made to him for carrying the intention and provisions of this act into effect. And every such clerk shall receive as a compensation for the services necessary to be performed by him by virtue of this act, the sum of three dollars, to be paid by the person for whose interest the services may be performed.*

Harbor or concealing slaves, fine and imp.

295. Sec. IX. Any person who shall conceal, harbor or hide, or cause to be concealed, harbored, or hidden, any slave, to the injury of the owner thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine, not exceeding the value of the slave, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court: Provided nevertheless, that on the trial of this offence, the person charged with it, shall be acquitted, if he or she had an apparent well founded claim to the slave so harbored or concealed, and had been peaceably possessed of him twelve months next preceding the commencement of such harboring or concealing; and on every conviction for concealing or harboring a slave, the owner of such slave may recover damages in a civil suit for the loss of the labor and services of such slave, notwithstanding such conviction.†

Except with apparent title and 12 mos. possession.

Carrying off slaves, but not to sell them, fine and imp.

296. Sec. X. Any person who shall remove or carry, or cause to be removed or carried away out of this State, or any county thereof, any slave, being the property of another person, without the consent of the owner, or other person having authority to give such consent, and without any intention or design, on the part of the offender, to sell, or otherwise appropriate the said slave to his own use, or to deprive the owner of his property in said slave, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by fine or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Unprovoked beating or wounding the slaves of others, or free colored persons, fine and imp.

297. Sec. XI. Any person except the owner, overseer, or employer of a slave, who shall beat, whip, or wound such slave; or any person who shall beat, whip, or wound a free person of color, without sufficient cause or provocation being first given by such slave or free person of color, such person so offending may be indicted for a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court; and the owner of such slave, or guardian of such free person of color, may, notwithstanding such conviction, recover in a civil suit, damages for the injury done to such slave or free person of color.

Cruel treatment of slaves by owners, fine and imp.

298. Sec. XII. Any owner or employer of a slave or slaves, who shall cruelly treat such slave or slaves, by unnecessary and excessive

* All laws prohibiting the introduction of slaves into this State, were repealed in 1824 [Vol. IV. 410]; but reinstated by the twelfth section of the act of 1829. whipping, by withholding proper food and sustenance, by requiring greater labor from such slave or slaves than he, she, or they are able to perform, or by not affording proper clothing, whereby the health of such slave or slaves may be injured and impaired, or cause or permit the same to be done; every such owner or employer shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

299. Sec. XIII. If any person shall buy or receive from any slave, any amount of money exceeding one dollar, or any cotton, tobacco, wheat, rye, oats, corn, rice, or poultry of any description whatever, or any other article, commodity or thing (except brooms, baskets, foot and bed mats, shuck collars, and such other thing or things, article or articles, as are usually manufactured or vended by slaves, for their own use only) without written permission from the owner, overseer, or employer of such slave, or some other person authorized to give such permission; authorizing such slave to sell and dispose of said money or other article or articles; such person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and on conviction, be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court. If any owner, overseer, employer, shop keeper, store keeper, or any other person whatsoever, shall sell to or furnish any slave or slaves, or free person of color, with spirituous liquor, wines, cider, or any intoxicating liquors, for his own use or for the purpose of sale, such person so offending shall, upon conviction thereof, pay a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than fifty dollars, for the first offence, and upon a second conviction, to be subject to fine and imprisonment in the common jail of the county, at the discretion of the court, not to exceed sixty days' imprisonment and five hundred dollars fine: Provided, nothing herein contained shall prevent the owner, overseer or employer, from furnishing their slaves, or those under their care, with such quantity of spirits, &c. as they may believe is for the benefit of such slave or slaves, but in no case to permit them in any way to furnish others therewith.

300. Sec. XIV. If any slave or slaves shall be found in any store-house or tippling shop, unless sent by his, her or their owner, overseer or employer, after the hour of nine o'clock at night, or before day break in the morning, or on the Sabbath day, it shall be taken and received as presumptive evidence against the person or persons owning, or person keeping the store or tippling shop, of a violation of the thirteenth section of this division, which presumption may be rebutted by any other circumstance in favor of the accused.

301. Sec. XV. If any person shall sell or deliver to any slave or slaves, any goods, wares or merchandize, or any other thing or things, unless it be in exchange for some article or articles, which the owner, overseer, or employer of such slave or slaves, may have authorized such slave or slaves to trade or deal in according to the provisions of the thirteenth section of this division, such person so offending, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be punished by fine, or imprisonment in the common jail of the county, or both, at the discretion of the court.

302. Sec. XVI. It shall be the duty of the judges of the superior courts, at the commencement of every term, to give in charge to the grand jury the substance and intention of the sections of this division, in regard to trading with slaves.

303. Sec. XVII. If any person shall give a ticket, pass, or license to any slave, who is the property, or under the care and control of 307. Sec. XXI. In all cases where imprisonment in the common jail of the county by the sentence of the court is, a part, or the whole of the punishment, and the offence is such a one where, by this code, no limitation is fixed for the discretion of the court, such imprisonment shall in no case exceed six months.

FOURTEENTH DIVISION.

OF INDICTMENTS, ARRAIGNMENTS, TRIAL, VERDICT, JUDGMENT, AND EXECUTION.

308. Sec. I. Every indictment or accusation of the grand jury shall be deemed sufficiently technical and correct, which states the offence in the terms and language of this code, or so plainly, that the nature of the offence charged, may be easily understood by the jury. The form of every indictment or accusation shall be as follows:—

“GEORGIA, ——— COUNTY.

Form of the first,

“The grand jurors sworn, chosen, and selected for the county of ———, to wit: ———, in the name and behalf of the citizens of Georgia, charge and accuse A. B. of the county and State aforesaid, with the offence of ———, for that the said A. B. (here state the offence and the time and place of committing the same, with sufficient certainty,) contrary to the laws of said State, the good order, peace and dignity thereof.”——

* See Slaves, Patrols, &c. 14.

† See Slaves, Patrols, &c. Sec. 38.

‡ Shall not be employed in druggists' or apothecaries' shops. See Slaves, Sec. 171.

If there should be more than one count, each additional count shall commence with the following form:—"And the jurors aforesaid, in the name and behalf of the citizens of Georgia, further charge and accuse the said A. B. with having committed the offence of _____, (here state the offence as before directed,) for that," &c.

309. Sec. II. All exceptions which go merely to the form of an indictment, shall be made before trial; and no motion in arrest of judgment shall be sustained for any matter not affecting the real merits of the offence charged in such indictment. and subsequent counts.
Exceptions.

310. Sec. III. Upon every indictment, the prosecutor's name shall be endorsed, who, upon the acquittal or discharge of the person accused, shall be compelled to pay all costs which have accrued, if the grand jury by their foreman, upon returning "no bill," express it as their opinion that the prosecution was unfounded or malicious; or if the petit jury upon returning a verdict of "not guilty," shall express a similar opinion.* Costs to be paid by prosecutor, if G. or P. jury find no bill, and malice.

311. Sec. IV. A person against whom a bill of indictment shall be preferred, and not found true by the grand jury; or who shall be acquitted by the petit jury of the offence charged against him or her, shall not be liable to the payment of the costs; and in all such cases, as also where persons liable by law for the payment of costs, shall be unable to pay the same, it shall and may be lawful for the officers severally entitled to such costs, to present an account therefor to the judge of the court in which the said prosecutions were depending, which account being examined and allowed him, it shall and may be lawful for said judge by an order of said court, to authorize and direct the sheriff or clerk to retain for his own use, and to pay to the attorney or solicitor general, and other officers of the court, the amount of their respective accounts, out of any monies by him received for fines inflicted by the said court, or collected or forfeited recognizances. Persons acquitted, and insolvents' costs, paid out of fines and forfeitures.

312. Sec. V. It shall be the duty of the attorney or solicitor general to prosecute on all presentments of grand juries, where such presentment or presentments is or are for offences indictable by law; and the endorsement on the indictment by the attorney or solicitor general, that the same is founded on the presentment of a grand jury, shall be sufficient, without any prosecutor's name appearing on the indictment. Solicitor gen. to prosecute upon presentments.

313. Sec. VI. No person indicted, unless it be for an offence which may on conviction subject him or her to death, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of three years or more, shall be put for his or her arraignment in the bar dock, or other place set apart in the courtroom for the arraignment of prisoners. Arraignment for small offences.

314. Sec. VII. Every person charged with a crime or offence which may subject him or her on conviction to death, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of three years or more, shall be furnished previous to his or her arraignment with a copy of the indictment, and a list of the witnesses who gave testimony before the grand jury. Copy of indictment and list of witnesses always in high offences.

315. Sec. VIII. Every person charged with an offence shall, at his or her request, or the request of his or her counsel, be furnished with a copy of the indictment, and a list of the witnesses who gave evidence before the grand jury. In small cases, a copy on request.

316. Sec. IX. Upon the arraignment of a prisoner, the indictment shall be read to him or her, and such prisoner shall be required to answer whether he or she is guilty, or not guilty, of the offence charged in the said indictment, which answer or plea shall be made orally by the prisoner, or his or her counsel—And if he or she shall plead guilty, Form of arraignment.
Plea.
Plea of guilty.

* A former act on this subject. Vol. II. 345.

such plea shall be immediately recorded on the minutes of the court by the clerk, together with the arraignment; and the court shall pronounce upon such prisoner the judgment of the law, in the same manner as if such prisoner had been convicted of the offence by the verdict of a jury; but at any time before judgment is pronounced, such prisoner may withdraw the plea of "guilty," and plead not guilty, and such former plea shall not be given in evidence against him or her, on his or her trial.

May be withdrawn.

317. Sec. X. If the prisoner upon being arraigned shall plead "not guilty," or shall stand mute, the clerk shall immediately record upon the minutes of the court the plea of not guilty, together with the arraignment, and such arraignment and plea shall constitute the issue between the prisoner and the people of this State.

Standing mute or pleading not guilty.

318. Sec. XI. If the prisoner upon being arraigned shall demur to the indictment, or plead to the jurisdiction of the court, or in abatement, or any special plea in bar, such demurrer or plea shall be made in writing; and if such demurrer or plea shall be decided against such prisoner, then such prisoner may nevertheless plead and rely on the general issue of not guilty.

Demurrers or special pleas to be in writing.

319. Sec. XII. If the clerk shall fail or neglect to record the arraignment, and plea of the prisoner at the time the same is made, it may and shall be done at any time afterwards by order of the court, and this shall cure the error or omission of the clerk.

Issue may be recorded afterwards.

320. Sec. XIII. The arraignment and plea or answer of the prisoner shall be entered on the indictment by the attorney or solicitor general, or other person acting as prosecuting officer on the part of the people of this State.

To be entered on the indictment.

321. Sec. XIV. No prisoner shall be brought into court for arraignment or trial, tied, bound or fettered, unless the court shall deem it necessary during his or her arraignment or trial: And if the health of the prisoner, or other circumstances should render it more convenient to the prisoner and his counsel that he or she should not be placed for his or her arraignment, or during his or her trial, within the bar-dock, or other place assigned in the court-room for prisoners, the court may grant the indulgence of removing the prisoner to any other place in the court-room, or contiguous to it, requested by the prisoner or his or her counsel.

Prisoners not to be arraigned in fetters.

And court may dispense with their standing in bar-dock.

322. Sec. XV. Every person indicted for a crime or offence which may subject him or her, on conviction to death, or four years' imprisonment, or longer in the penitentiary, may peremptorily challenge twenty of the jurors empanelled to try him or her—And every person indicted for an offence which may subject him or her on conviction to imprisonment in the penitentiary for any time less than four years, may peremptorily challenge twelve of the jurors empanelled to try him or her. And the State shall be allowed one half the number of peremptory challenges allowed the prisoner.

Challenges.

323. Sec. XVI. On every trial of a crime or offence contained in this code, or for any crime or offence, the jury shall be judges of the law, and the fact, and shall in every case give a general verdict of "guilty," or "not guilty," and on the acquittal of any defendant or prisoner, no new trial shall on any account be granted by the court.

B. who is charged with —, (here state the crime or offence,) shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth—So help you God."

Witnesses' oath.

329. Sec. XXII. And the following oath shall be administered to witnesses intended to be sent before the grand jury:—"The evidence you shall give the grand jury on this bill of indictment (or presentment) as the case may be (here state the case) shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth—So help you God." In every case in this code, the person whose property has been stolen, injured, destroyed, taken away, or fraudulently converted or conveyed, or whose name hath been forged to any instrument, or who hath received a personal injury, shall be a competent witness on the trial of the offender or offenders.

Oath of witnesses before grand jury.

Injured party, competent witness.

330. Sec. XXIII. Where a person shall be prosecuted and convicted on more than one indictment, and the sentences are imprisonment in the penitentiary, such sentences shall be severally executed, the one after the expiration of the other; and the judge shall specify in each the time when the imprisonment shall commence, and the length of its duration.

Several imprisonments to be in succession.

331. Sec. XXIV. All fines imposed by this act, not otherwise appropriated by this code, shall be paid over by the clerks of the superior court to the county treasurer, or in counties where there are no treasurers to clerks of the inferior courts for county purposes, except the county of Chatham, where the said fines shall be paid over to the corporation of the city of Savannah; and the clerks of the inferior courts shall keep a fair account of the fines so received, and the time when received, and the names of the persons from whom the said fines were collected.

Fines to whom to be paid, and for what use.

332. Sec. XXV. Every fine imposed by the court under the authority, and by virtue of this act, shall be immediately paid, or within such reasonable time as the court may grant.

Paid immediately.

333. Sec. XXVI. In all cases where the term of punishment in the penitentiary is discretionary, the court shall determine that punishment, paying due respect to any recommendation which the jury may think proper to make in that regard.

Pen'y at discretion, jury recommendation.

Convicts soon and safely sent to penitentiary.

334. Sec. XXVII. Every person convicted in any county of this State of any crime or offence punishable with confinement in the penitentiary, shall, as soon as possible after conviction, together with a copy of the record of his or her conviction and sentence, be safely removed and conveyed to the said penitentiary, by a guard to be sent therefrom for that purpose, and therein be safely kept during the term specified in the judgment and sentence of the court.

Clerk to notify the keeper.

335. Sec. XXVIII. In all cases where persons are convicted and sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary, it shall be the duty of the clerks of the superior courts of the respective counties where such persons may be convicted and sentenced, to inform the principal keeper of the penitentiary immediately thereafter by mail, or by private conveyance, where there is no post office in the county, of the conviction and sentence of said convict, and that he or she is detained in the county jail, or under guard, as the case may be, subject to the order of the keeper aforesaid.

Trials for escapes from penitentiary.

336. Sec. XXIX. The trial of prisoners escaping from the penitentiary, shall be had for such escape, before the superior court of Baldwin county, and prisoners so escaping shall remain in the penitentiary, and be treated as other convicts, after their apprehension, until such trial shall take place; and upon such trial the copies of the records transmitted to the keeper of the penitentiary relative to the former trials of such prisoners, shall be produced and filed of record in the said superior court of Baldwin county.

Convicts confined in jail till sent for by pen'y guard.

337. Sec. XXX. When any person may be convicted of any offence which may subject him or her to confinement in the penitentiary, it shall be the duty of the presiding judge by his sentence, to order the convict into custody to be safely kept in jail, or if there be no jail in the county then in the nearest jail, or under a suitable guard, until he or she shall be demanded by a guard to be sent from the penitentiary for the purpose of conveying such convict to the said penitentiary.

No benefit of clergy.

338. Sec. XXXI. No person convicted of a crime in this State, shall be allowed the benefit of clergy; and in all cases where the penalty of death is annexed to a crime, the convict shall suffer that punishment.

Death by hanging.

339. Sec. XXXII. The sentence of death shall be executed by publicly hanging the offender by the neck, until he or she is dead.

Judges to report the defects of the code.

340. Sec. XXXIII. It shall be the duty of the judges of the superior courts, to make a special report annually to the governor of this State previous to the meeting of the general assembly, and by him to be submitted to the legislature, of all such defects, omissions, or imperfections in this code, as experience on their several circuits may suggest.

Crimes to be punished under co-existing laws.

341. Sec. XXXIV. All crimes and offences committed shall be prosecuted and punished under the laws in force at the time of the commission of such crime or offence, notwithstanding the repeal of such laws before such trial takes place.

Limitation of indictments except for murder,

342. Sec. XXXV. Indictments for murder may be found and prosecuted at any time after the death of the person killed. In all other cases, (except murder,) where the punishment is death, or perpetual imprisonment, indictments shall be filed and found in the proper court within seven years next after the commission of the offence, and at no time thereafter. In all other felonies, the indictments shall be found and filed in the proper court within four years next after the commission of the offence, and at no time thereafter—And in all other cases where the punishment by law is fine or imprisonment, or fine and imprisonment in the common jail of the county, indictments shall be found and filed in the proper court within two years after the commission of the offence, and at no time thereafter: Provided nevertheless, that if the offender shall abscond from this State, or so conceal himself and excepting absence or concealment.

that he cannot be arrested, such time during which such offender has been absent from the State, or concealed, shall not be computed or constitute any part of the said several limitations—Provided also, that Crimes heretofore committed.
all crimes heretofore committed, shall be governed by the like limitations, to be computed from the first day of June next.

343. Sec. XXXVI. When a person shall be convicted on circumstantial evidence alone, of a crime, the punishment of which is death, the judge before whom the conviction takes place, or who passes the sentence of the law on the convict, shall have the power to commute the punishment of death for that of imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary during the natural life of the said convict. Capital convictions on circumstantial evidence may be commuted.

344. Sec. XXXVII. If after any convict shall have been sentenced to the punishment of death, he shall become insane, the sheriff of the county with the concurrence and assistance of the inferior court thereof, shall summon a jury of twelve men to inquire into such insanity; and if it be found by the inquisition of such jury, that such convict is insane, the sheriff shall suspend the execution of the sentence directing the death of such convict, and make report of the said inquisition and suspension of execution to the presiding judge of the district, who shall cause the same to be entered on the minutes of the superior court of the county where the conviction was had. And at any time thereafter, when it shall appear to the said presiding judge, either by inquisition or otherwise, that the said convict is of sound mind, the said judge shall issue a new warrant directing the sheriff to do execution of the said sentence on the said convict, at such time and place as the said judge may appoint and direct in the said warrant, which the sheriff shall be bound to do accordingly—And the said judge shall cause the said new warrant and other proceedings in the case to be entered on the minutes of the said superior court. Becoming insane after conviction, execution may be stayed.
To be executed afterwards if he recovers.

345. Sec. XXXVIII. If a female convict sentenced to the punishment of death, shall be found pregnant with child, the sheriff with the concurrence and assistance of the inferior court, shall select one or more physician or physicians, who shall make inquisition, and if upon such inquisition it appear that such female convict is quick with child, the sheriff shall suspend the execution of the sentence directing the death of such female, and make report of the said inquisition and suspension of execution to the presiding judge of the district, who shall cause the same to be entered on the minutes of the superior court of the county where the conviction was had—And at any time thereafter when it shall appear to the said presiding judge, that the said female convict is no longer quick with child, he shall issue a new warrant directing the sheriff to do execution of the said sentence at such time and place as the said judge may appoint and direct in the said warrant, which the sheriff shall be bound to do accordingly—And the said judge shall cause the said new warrant and other proceedings in the case to be entered on the minutes of said superior court. Female convicts pregnant, not to be executed till after delivery.

346. Sec. XXXIX. Whenever for any reason, any convict sentenced to the punishment of death shall not have been executed pursuant to such sentence, and the same shall stand in full force, the presiding judge of the superior court where the conviction was had, on the application of the attorney or solicitor general of the district, or other person prosecuting for the State, shall issue a habeas corpus to bring such convict before him; or if such convict be at large, said judge or any judicial officer of this State may issue a warrant for his apprehension; and upon the said convict being brought before the said judge, either by habeas corpus, or under such warrant, he shall proceed If execution is not done at appointed time, it may be done afterwards.

to inquire into the facts and circumstances of the case, and if no legal reason exist against the execution of such sentence, such judge shall sign and issue a warrant to the sheriff of the proper county, commanding him to do execution of such sentence at such time and place as shall be appointed therein, which the said sheriff shall do accordingly. And the judge shall cause the proceedings in such case to be entered on the minutes of the superior court of the county.

Execution within what time from sentence.

347. Sec. XL. Whenever any convict shall be sentenced to the punishment of death, the court shall specify the time and place of execution in such sentence, which time shall not be less than twenty days, nor more than sixty days from the time of the sentence, except in the case of a female convict who is quick with child at the time, in which case the court may and shall appoint some day that will arrive after she shall have been delivered of such child.

Offences on boundary lines.

348. Sec. XLI. When an offence shall be committed on the boundary line of two counties, it shall be considered and adjudged to have been committed in either county, and an indictment for such offence may be found and tried in, and conviction thereon may be had in either of said counties.

Death from an act done in another county.

349. Sec. XLII. When any mortal wound shall be given, or any poison shall be administered, or any other means shall be employed in one county by which a human being shall be killed, who shall die thereof in another county, the indictment shall be found, and the offender shall be tried in the county where the act was performed or done, from which the death ensued.

Lunacy and insanity.

350. Sec. XLIII. No lunatic or person afflicted with insanity shall be tried, or put upon his trial for any offence, during the time he is afflicted with such lunacy or insanity.

The attempt never to be indicted instead of the act.

351. Sec. XLIV. No person shall be convicted of an assault with intent to commit a crime, or of any other attempt to commit any offence, when it shall appear that the crime intended, or the offence attempted, was actually perpetrated by such person at the time of such assault, or in pursuance of such attempt.

Jury may always find the attempt instead of the act.

352. Sec. XLV. Upon the trial of an indictment for any offence, the jury may find the accused not guilty of the offence charged in the indictment, but guilty of an attempt to commit such offence, without any special count in said indictment for such attempt—Provided, the evidence before them will warrant such finding.

Two convictions—longest time.

353. Sec. XLVI. If any person who has been convicted of an offence, and sentenced to confinement and labor in the penitentiary, shall afterwards commit a crime punishable by confinement and labor in the penitentiary, and be thereof lawfully convicted, such convict shall be sentenced to undergo and suffer the longest period of time and labor prescribed for the punishment of such offence, of which he stands convicted.

On trials for escape and mutiny, other convicts competent witnesses.

354. Sec. XLVII. On the trial of any convict in the penitentiary for the crimes of escape and mutiny, or either of them, any other prisoner or convict not included in the same indictment, shall be a competent witness; and the infamy of his character and of the crime of which he has been convicted, shall be exceptions to his credit only.

Questions on voir dire.

355. Sec. XLVIII. On all trials for crimes or offences on the criminal side of the court, where the punishment is death, or imprisonment and labor in the penitentiary, any juror may be put upon his voir dire; and the following questions shall be propounded to him, viz: "Have you formed and expressed any opinion in regard to the guilt or innocence of the prisoner at the bar." If the juror shall answer in the negative, then the following question shall be propounded to him:—

"Have you any prejudice or bias resting on your mind either for or against the prisoner at the bar"—and if the juror shall so answer these questions as to make him a competent juror, the State or the prisoner may nevertheless have the right to put such juror upon his trial in the manner pointed out by law, and to prove such juror incompetent.

356. Sec. XLIX. Any person sentenced to confinement and labor in the penitentiary, is and shall be thereby rendered incapable of holding or exercising any public or private office, trust, power, or authority, and any such held by him shall become and be vacant by virtue of such sentence. Pen'y imp. is disqualification.

357. Sec. L. When two or more defendants shall be jointly indicted for any offence, any one defendant may be tried separately, except such offences as require the action and concurrence of two or more to constitute the crime, and in such cases the defendants shall be tried jointly.* Joint defendants may be tried separately, except.

358. Sec. LI. On the trial of any indictment for an assault, or an assault and battery, the defendant may give in evidence to the jury any opprobrious words, or abusive language used by the prosecutor, or person assaulted or beaten; and such words and language may or may not amount to a justification, according to the nature and extent of the battery; all which shall be determined by the jury. Opprobrious words may be proved in defence.

359. Sec. LII. On the trial of the question of insanity, arising after the person shall have been condemned to die, provided for by the thirty-seventh section of this code, the following oath shall be administered to the jury, to wit: "You and each of you do solemnly (swear or affirm) that you will well and truly try this issue of insanity between the State and (A. B.) now condemned to die, and a true verdict give according to evidence, so help you God." Oath of inquest of insanity.

360. Sec. LIII. That on the trial of all cases where the party if found guilty would be subjected to confinement in the penitentiary, or to any greater punishment, it shall be the duty of the presiding judge to have the testimony given in said cases taken down; and in the event of the jury returning a verdict of guilty, the testimony shall be entered on the minutes of the court, or a book to be kept for that purpose. In capital or pen'y cases evidence to be taken down.

FIFTEENTH DIVISION.

OF CONTEMPTS OF COURT, AND ATTEMPTS TO COMMIT CRIMES.

361. Sec. I. The power of the several courts of law and equity in this State, to issue attachments and inflict summary punishments for contempts of court, shall not extend to any cases, except the misbehavior of any person or persons in the presence of the said courts, or so near thereto as to obstruct the administration of justice; the misbehavior of any of the officers of said courts in their official transactions, and the disobedience or resistance by any officer of said courts, party, juror, witness, or any other person or persons to any lawful writ, process, order, rule, decree or command of the said courts. Power of courts in punishing contempts.

362. Sec. II. If any person shall attempt to commit an offence prohibited by law, and in such attempt shall do any act towards the commission of such offence but shall fail in the perpetration thereof, or shall be prevented or intercepted from executing the same, such person so offending shall be indicted for a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall, in cases where no provision is otherwise made in this code or by law for the punishment of such attempt, be punished as follows: Attempts to commit crimes, how punished.

By-laws.

14. Sec. VIII. The principal keeper, and each and every officer under him, shall remain in the department to which he belongs during the hours of business (unless absent by special leave of the inspectors); and for a violation of this regulation it shall be the duty of the inspectors to report the officer offending to the governor, who may for the first infraction reprove, and for the second dismiss him.

Officers to be in attendance.

15. Sec. IX. It shall be the duty of the principal keeper, and he is hereby required on the first day of January in each year, or as early thereafter as practicable, to make out and present to the inspectors an estimate of all the materials necessary to carry on the various departments of business in said institution for the year, which for timber shall be at least one year in advance; and it shall be the duty of said inspectors, or a majority of them, to order the purchase of the same from time to time, as the funds on hand may enable them; and it shall further be the duty of said inspectors, as soon as the estimate aforesaid is made out and presented by the principal keeper, to advertise that they will let out upon contract to the lowest bidder all supplies of lumber and materials for the use of said institution for the ensuing year, and specify the remotest period for its delivery; and it shall be their duty to require bond and sufficient security from all contractors, conditioned for the faithful performance of their said contract; and upon their failure to comply as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said inspectors to purchase the deficiency on the best terms in their power, and charge the difference in price (if any) to the contractors, which said difference they may sue for and recover in any court having competent jurisdiction in this State.

An Act to improve the penitentiary edifice, and to regulate the management of its concerns, and for the erecting of cells, &c. and to appropriate money for its support, and to provide a road and river fund, and for the compensation of persons appointed to survey and mark out certain roads, and for other purposes.—Approved Dec. 22, 1832. Pam. 140.

Sec. I. II. III. [Providing for the construction of additional cells and other improvements—Temporary.]

to be interested in purchases.

16. Sec. IV. The inspectors shall have power to direct the manner in which materials to be used in this institution shall be purchased; but it shall in no case be lawful for any inspector or other officer of the institution, to furnish supplies of any kind themselves, or in any manner be interested therein.

Inspectors to
reports.

17. Sec. V. The inspectors of the penitentiary, shall for the future make annual reports to the governor, on the first day of October; embracing the entire condition and business of the institution, instead of quarterly reports as heretofore required by law.

Accounts vs.
the State.

18. Sec. VI. The principal keeper, be authorized to make out an account against the State, for all work hereafter to be done by the convicts for the State, and other improvements done in the penitentiary.

[Sections from VII. to XI. are appropriations to the penitentiary and certain roads.]

19. Sec. XII. The ration of the guard of the penitentiary, shall consist of twenty ounces of sifted corn meal; and eight ounces of bacon, twelve ounces of pork, or twenty ounces of beef; and one gill of molasses each per day.

the guard.

20. Sec. XIII. The said guard shall receive for every one hundred rations, as specified in the twelfth section of this act, four quarts of vinegar; four pounds of hard soap; two pounds of tallow candles, and four quarts of salt.

[Sections from XIV. to XVIII. re-enacted.]

Contracts for rations.

21. Sec. XIX. From and immediately after the passage of this act, the inspectors of the penitentiary, be and they are hereby required, to let the contract for supplying rations for the guard and convicts, for each year, to the lowest bidder, and that they give twenty days' notice of the time and place of receiving sealed proposals from persons who may wish to bid for said contract, in all the public gazettes of Milledgeville.

How made.

22. Sec. XX. It shall be the duty of the said inspectors, to take a bond with good and sufficient security, in the sum of three thousand dollars, payable to his excellency the governor, and his successors in office, conditioned for the faithful performance of the contract, from the person who may become the lowest bidder, for supplying the rations of the guard and convicts, as pointed out in the preceding sections of this act.

Sec. XXI. All laws and parts of laws, which militate against this act, are hereby repealed.

PENITENTIARY POLICE.

An Act to revise, amend, and consolidate the rules for the police of the penitentiary.—Approved 21st Dec. 1833. Pam. 217.

23. The following rules shall be established for the government of the penitentiary.

24. Rule I. The officers for the management of the penitentiary shall be, three inspectors, one principal, and four assistant keepers, a book-keeper, a physician, in addition to whom there may be a collecting clerk, whenever the governor, on the recommendation of the inspectors, shall think proper to appoint one. Officers.

25. Rule II. All the officers of the penitentiary shall be appointed by the governor, and their term of office shall be one year, unless removed before the expiration of that time, to commence on the first Monday in January. The governor shall have the power of removing any officer, and of filling all vacancies. Appointed by the governor

26. Rule III. The principal keeper shall be authorized to make such arrangements as he shall deem economical and safe, for conveying convicts to the penitentiary; and for this service he may employ a portion of the guard. Conveyance of convicts.

27. Rule IV. It shall be the duty of the principal keeper to cause the clothes of each prisoner, when received into the penitentiary, to be cleansed, and carefully put away, labelled with his name, to be returned to him on his discharge; or if it should be the wish of the prisoner that his clothes shall be sold, the principal keeper shall sell them to the best advantage, and shall deposite the money arising from such sale, to be paid over to the prisoner on his discharge. Clothes to be put away.

28. Rule V. Every prisoner when he is received into the penitentiary shall be carefully searched, and deprived of any article by which an escape might be effected; and also of all money in his possession, to be returned to him on his discharge: Provided, that all monies, or other articles belonging to the prisoners under the provisions of these rules, shall be delivered up to the legal representatives of said prisoners, if they or any of them should die, before the term of their imprisonment should have expired. Convicts to be searched.

29. Rule VI. The description of every prisoner, when received into the penitentiary, shall be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, in which shall be entered the name, sex, age, height, color of the eyes and hair, place of nativity, previous occupation, time of conviction, nature of the crime, and period of confinement. Description registered.

30. Rule VII. On the receipt of every prisoner into the penitentiary, such parts of the laws as impose penalties for escapes, shall be read to him; and on his discharge, such parts of the laws as impose additional penalties for the repetition of offences shall be read to him. Laws to be read to them.

31. Rule VIII. Prisoners of different sexes shall at all times be kept separate and apart. Sexes.

Description of clothing furnished.

32. Rule IX. The clothing annually furnished to the prisoners shall consist of one round jacket, one vest, and one pair of trowsers, of grey kerseys (cotton warp and wool filling,) two pair of shoes, two shirts, and two pair of trowsers made of oznaburgs, or cotton cloth, and one round jacket of the same: and for each female, of two frocks, and two petticoats, made of grey kerseys; two petticoats, and two shifts, made of oznaburgs, or cotton cloth, two pair of shoes, two pair of stockings, and two blue linen or cotton neck 'kerchiefs; and they shall not be permitted to wear any other clothes in the penitentiary: and each prisoner shall be furnished with a cheap mattress, and such number of blankets as the principal keeper shall believe to be needed.

labor.

33. Rule X. The prisoners, except on Sunday, and when confined in the cells, shall be kept at hard labor, as far as may be consistent with their age, health, and ability; and they shall be so arranged at labor, as to be under the constant inspection of one of the assistant keepers, as far as may be practicable; whose duty it shall be to prevent their holding intercourse with each other, except so far as may be required by any work, in which they may be jointly employed.

Hours of labor.

34. Rule XI. The hours of labor shall be as many as the length of the day will permit, with the exception, for breakfast, of half an hour, and for dinner, of an hour, from the 15th of September to the 15th of May, and one hour and a half from the 15th of May to the 15th of September.

Tools.

35. Rule XII. It shall be the duty of the assistant keepers to see that each prisoner in their several departments shall keep his tools in safety, and good order; and each prisoner shall be held responsible for his own tools.

Ration of convicts.

36. Rule XIII. The food of the prisoners shall consist of a ration, if of bacon, of eight ounces; if of pork, of twelve ounces; if of the hind quarter of beef, sixteen ounces; if of the fore quarter of beef, of twenty ounces; of bread made of Indian meal, and of peas, potatoes, and other vegetables, at the discretion of the principal keeper; who also may permit them to purchase in the manner hereinafter described, molasses, and other articles of similar character, as a reward for good conduct.

Garden.

37. Rule XIV. A garden shall be attached to the penitentiary, for the purpose of raising vegetables for the prisoners: to be worked by them under such precautions as the principal keeper shall believe will prevent the danger of escapes.

Apartment kept clean.

38. Rule XV. The walls of the cells and other apartments of the prison building, shall be white-washed at least once a year; the floors shall be kept neat and clean; and the building shall be fumigated, and purified with the chloride of lime, as often as the physician or the principal keeper shall believe conducive to the health of the prisoners.

Hospital.

39. Rule XVI. An apartment shall be prepared as a hospital, in which the sick shall remain; but no sick prisoner shall remain in the hospital at night, unless by the direction of the physician.

Convict not discharged sick.

40. Rule XVII. If any prisoner, at the expiration of his term of confinement, shall labor under any acute or dangerous disease, such prisoner shall not be discharged while sick, unless at his request.

Punishment
offences.

41. Rule XVIII. If any prisoner shall be guilty of an assault, or battery, in which no dangerous wound or bruise shall be given, or of profane cursing or swearing, or of indecent language or behavior, or of gaming, or of idleness or negligence, or of wilful waste or damage, or of embezzlement of the materials or stock of the institution, or of disobedience to the orders of a keeper, or to the regulations of the institution, he shall be punished by solitary confinement in the cells, for any period not exceeding seven days, and kept on bread and water only, at the discretion of the principal keeper; and to keep him during the whole, or any part of such solitary confinement, in the stocks, or in irons, or in both. The board of inspectors shall have the same power in like cases.

42. Rule XIX. If any prisoner shall be guilty of any offence, for which the principal keeper is not hereby authorized to inflict punishment, or for which he shall deem the punishment he is authorized to inflict, insufficient, he shall report the same to the board of inspectors, who shall in such cases, have power to prolong the term of close confinement and privation aforesaid; or, by their unanimous consent, to inflict such other punishment, not affecting life or member, as to them shall seem proper and just. For greater offences.

43. Rule XX. No letter, or other communication in writing, shall be carried into, or out of the penitentiary, until the same shall have been examined and permitted by the principal keeper; nor shall any article be carried into, or out of the penitentiary, for the use and benefit of the prisoners, without his consent. Letters, &c.

44. Rule XXI. No person, except those authorized by law, shall go within the penitentiary, unless by the permission of the principal keeper: and such visitor, while within the penitentiary, shall always be attended by one of the guard or one of the keepers. Visitors.

43. Rule XXII. The prisoners shall not be permitted to use any spirituous or fermented liquor, except as prescribed by the physician, for the sick. Spirituous liquors.

44. Rule XXIII. No light shall be permitted in the cells, after the hour of nine P. M., from the first of April to the first of October, nor after the hour of eight P. M., from the first of October to the first of April. Lights extinguished.

45. Rule XXIV. The cells shall be numbered and divided as equally as may be practicable, into as many wards as there are assistant keepers; one ward being assigned to each, whose duty it shall be, always to examine said cells, before the prisoners are turned into them, and to search each prisoner, before he enters his cell, and take from him whatever might be used in effecting an escape, bedding and clothing excepted. The prisoners shall be kept separately in the cells. Cells numbered.

46. Rule XXV. The inspectors shall have authority to make contracts for supplying the penitentiary with stock and materials, working tools and implements, and clothing and food for the prisoners and guard; and for the sale of articles fabricated in the penitentiary; and this power they may delegate to the principal keeper; but no inspector or other officer of the institution shall take a contract for furnishing any of the foregoing articles, or be security for any person contracting to furnish the same. Daily searches.

47. Rule XXVI. The inspectors shall not allow a commission the principal keeper, on purchases made by him. Contracts for stock and materials.

48. Rule XXVII. The inspectors shall have authority to collect all debts now due, or which may hereafter become due to the penitentiary; and for that purpose may institute suits in the name of "The Board of Inspectors of the Penitentiary," and in like manner may institute any other suits which they shall believe to be required by the interests of the institution. No inspector to be concerned.

49. Rule XXVIII. In any suit instituted for the recovery of money due to the penitentiary, a correct transcript from the first book of entries kept in the office of the book-keeper, containing a copy of the account, and certified by him to be a correct transcript from said book, No commissions to keepers. Collection of debts.

shall be sufficient evidence to establish such account : but the defendant shall nevertheless be allowed to controvert the same.

Articles* for the public.

50. Rule XXIX. Whenever the public service shall require articles ready manufactured, or to be manufactured, in the penitentiary, such articles shall be furnished on the requisition of the governor, in writing, communicated to the principal keeper.

Keeper's
general superintendence.

51. Rule XXX. The principal keeper shall have a general superintending power over the institution, and shall be responsible for the conduct of all officers under his command.

All others subject to his authority.

52. Rule XXXI. The guard, the assistant keepers, and all other persons attached to the institution, except the inspectors and physician, shall be subject to the authority of the principal keeper, who shall have the power of suspending and reporting to the governor any of the persons aforesaid, who shall violate the regulations of the penitentiary, or be negligent of his duty.

Assistant keepers' duty of attendance.

53. Rule XXXII. It shall be the duty of the assistant keepers, alternately, to remain within the penitentiary during the night, to superintend the guard in such manner as the principal keeper shall direct ; to remain each in the department assigned to him by the principal keeper, during the hours of labor, unless absent therefrom in procuring materials, or attending to the calls of customers, or by the permission of the inspectors ; to superintend the labor of the prisoners ; to lock them up, and to turn them out, at the appointed hours ; to search the cells, and the prisoners, before they are locked up ; to enforce industry and good order among the prisoners, together with the regulations for the observance and improvement of the Sabbath ; to keep such accounts as shall be directed by the inspectors, and in general to watch over the safe-keeping of the prisoners, and the preservation of the buildings, and other property of the institution ; in the discharge of all which duties, they shall be under the direction of the principal keeper.

In overlooking, locking up, searching, keeping accounts, &c.

Accounts of work done, jobs, sales,
&c.

54. Rule XXXIII. Each assistant keeper superintending the labor of the prisoners, shall keep regular accounts of the work performed by each prisoner under him, of all the jobs finished in his department, and of all cash sales, and of all credit sales ; which accounts shall be kept in such form as the inspectors may direct, and shall be submitted to them weekly.

Annual inventory.

55. Rule XXXIV. An inventory shall be taken annually, by the assistant keepers and book-keeper, of all the stock, wares, materials, tools, and property of every kind, belonging to the penitentiary, a copy of which shall be submitted to the governor.

P. and A.
bond,

56. Rule XXXV. The principal and assistant keepers, before they enter on the discharge of their respective duties, shall each give bond with security, in such sum as the inspectors may require, conditioned for the faithful discharge of their several duties.

and oath.

57. Rule XXXVI. The principal and assistant keepers, before they enter on the discharge of their respective duties, shall likewise take and subscribe the following oath, viz : " I, A. B. do solemnly swear, that I will faithfully and diligently execute all the duties lawfully required of me, as _____ keeper in the penitentiary, and will carry into execution the laws and regulations for the government of the same, so far as concerns my said office, to the best of my knowledge and ability ; and I will, on no occasion, ill-treat or abuse any prisoner under my care, beyond the punishment ordered by law, or the rules and regulations of the penitentiary—so help me God."

Book-keeper's duty.

58. Rule XXXVII. It shall be the duty of the book-keeper to keep such books of minutes, entries, accounts, inventories, and other matters of record, as the inspectors may direct; to take charge of all the records and documents appertaining to the penitentiary; to prepare all reports, accounts, and other documents, which may be required by the inspectors; to assist in selling the wares of the penitentiary, and in making settlements, and collecting debts due thereto.

59. Rule XXXVIII. It shall be the duty of the collecting clerk to attend to the liquidating and collecting debts due to the penitentiary, and to make weekly payments of all money collected by him, and weekly returns to the inspectors of all his actings. Duty of collecting clerk.

60. Rule XXXIX. It shall be the duty of the physician to visit the prisoners and guards once every day, at or before nine o'clock A. M. and oftener, when he shall believe that the condition of any of the foregoing persons shall make it proper, or the principal keeper shall request the same; to inspect the institution, generally, in relation to whatever may affect its healthfulness, once in every week; and to make a succinct weekly report to the inspectors, showing the number and names of the sick, and their diseases, and embracing such other matters in relation to his department, as he shall think it useful to communicate, or they may require. Of physician.

61. Rule XL. The guard shall be enlisted by the principal keeper, and shall consist of such number as he shall deem sufficient for the safety of the institution; and they shall be entirely under his control. He shall have authority to discharge any member of the guard for disorderly conduct,* he shall also have authority to fine any member of the guard who shall be guilty of a violation of orders or neglect of duty—The pay of the guard shall be settled by the inspectors. Guard.

62. Rule XLI. Any clergyman, under the direction of the keeper, may preach to the prisoners on the Sabbath, and pray with them daily at the close of the hours of labor, and visit them in his discretion at other times, under such regulations as the inspectors may establish. Clergyman.

63. Rule XLII. The superintendence of the penitentiary shall be vested in the board of inspectors. It shall be their duty to make regulations for the government of the institution, not repugnant to the constitution and laws of the State; to require every officer in the institution to perform his duty; to dispose, for the benefit of the penitentiary, of all money appropriated for the same, or arising from the labor of the prisoners; to make contracts for the supply of all articles that shall be needed, and to authorize, and direct the principal keeper to do the same, when they shall deem it expedient; to collect the debts due to the institution, to examine the books, and accounts, and reports of the other officers; to make reports to the governor, and the legislature; and in general, to provide for the welfare of the institution. The principal keeper shall have power to permit the wives of convicts to visit their husbands at such times and on such occasions, during their confinement, as he shall deem safe and proper; except those convicts who are sentenced to solitary confinement. Powers and duties of the inspectors.

64. Rule XLIII. If the inspectors shall suspect any keeper, or other officer, or any guard of the penitentiary, of fraudulent or improper conduct in his office, they shall have power to call before them, by subpoena signed by the book-keeper, and to examine, on oath or affirmation, any person believed by them to be cognizant of the suspected fraud or misconduct of such officer or guard. Wives of convicts.

65. Rule XLIV. The inspectors may examine into the conduct of any of the prisoners charged with any offence against the police of the penitentiary; and may punish him as hereinbefore prescribed. Powers in examining into suspected frauds.

66. Rule XLV. The inspectors shall examine every thing ap- May examine and punish prisoners.

pertaining to the police, government, good order, and safety of the penitentiary.

Prisoners not to leave their labor.

67. Rule XLVI. No prisoner shall leave the place assigned to him for labor, during the hours of labor, without a token, to be given to him by the assistant keeper, under whose special charge he may be placed, unless specially directed by some officer of the institution.

Prisoners allowed to work for themselves.

68. Rule XLVII. The prisoners shall be permitted to work for themselves, during the time allotted to their meals and rest, on such articles as the principal keeper may approve; but they shall not be permitted to perform any work in their cells, which will occasion the smallest noise. The principal keeper may furnish them with materials, from the stock belonging to the penitentiary, to be paid for out of the price of the wares wrought by them; and the assistant keepers shall take an account of all articles wrought by them, for their own benefit. These articles shall be sold only by the principal keeper, or by a guard designated by him for that purpose: no prisoner shall be permitted to receive the money thus earned by him; but it shall remain in the hands of the principal keeper, or of the guard aforesaid. Purchases for prisoners shall be made only by the principal keeper, or by a guard designated by him, of such articles as he may approve. [But see sec. 74.]

Sabbath.

69. Rule XLVIII. The prisoners shall be permitted to remain out of their cells, not less than six, nor more than eight hours on the Sabbath; unless, from the prevalence of peculiar disorder or insubordination, the principal keeper shall believe a stricter confinement to be necessary to the good order of the institution, and it shall be approved by the inspectors: and except in those cases in which confinement in the cells shall be employed as a punishment for disorderly conduct in the penitentiary.

Clothes and money to prisoners
charged.

70. Rule XLIX. Every prisoner at the time of his discharge, shall be furnished with a suit of clothes, not exceeding ten dollars in value, and with a sum of money not exceeding that amount: and the principal keeper shall be authorized to make a discrimination in the value of the clothing, and the amount of the money then furnished, according to the conduct of the prisoner during his confinement.

Jury and patrol duty.

71. Rule L. The keepers, and the guard of the penitentiary shall be exempt from obligation to serve on juries, or patrols.

Salaries of the officers.

72. Rule LI. The salary of the principal keeper shall be two thousand dollars per annum; the salaries of the assistant keepers, and book-keeper, shall be six hundred dollars each, per annum; the salary of the collecting clerk shall be at the rate of four hundred dollars per annum; the salary of the physician shall be three hundred dollars per annum; the salaries of the inspectors shall be two hundred and twenty-four dollars per annum; all of which salaries shall be paid quarterly. [But see sec. 75 and 78.]

Sec. II. All laws, and parts of laws, militating against this act, are hereby repealed.

An Act to authorize the inspectors of the penitentiary to place the debts due that institution into the hands of any attorney in this State for collection, as they may deem expedient.—Approved December 20, 1834. Pam. 166.

An attorney may be employed.

73. From and immediately after the passage of this act the board of inspectors of the penitentiary be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to place the notes and accounts of the penitentiary, which they may from time to time deem it advisable to commence suit upon, in the hands of any attorney in this State for that purpose, and that such fees be allowed such attorney as he and the inspectors may agree upon: Provided, that this act shall not militate against the appointment of the present collecting attorney for said institution.

Sec. II. All laws and parts of laws militating against this act are hereby repealed.

An Act to be entitled an act to alter and amend the 47th and 51st rules established for the government of the penitentiary.—Approved Dec. 23d, 1835. Pam. 166.

74. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act the following shall be taken in lieu of the said rules.

In lieu of the 47th rule the following, viz. Those prisoners that conduct themselves so as to merit favor, shall be permitted to work for themselves during the time allotted to their meals and rest, provided the principal keeper and inspectors deem the same expedient, on such articles as the principal keeper shall deem it expedient; but they shall not be permitted to perform any work in their cells that will occasion the smallest noise. The principal keeper may furnish them with materials from the stock belonging to the penitentiary, to be paid for out of the price of the articles wrought by them. And the assistant keepers shall take an account of all articles wrought by them for their own benefit. These articles shall be sold only by the principal keeper, or by a guard designated by him for that purpose; no prisoner shall receive the money thus earned by him, but it shall remain in the hands of the principal keeper or guard aforesaid.

Substitution for the 47th rule. Prisoners may work for themselves on certain terms.

Purchases for prisoners shall be made only by the principal keeper or by a guard designated by him for that purpose, and of such articles only as he may approve.

Purchases for prisoners.

75. In lieu of the 51st rule the following: The salary of the assistant keepers shall be eight hundred dollars each, per annum.* The salary of the book-keeper shall be six hundred dollars per annum.* The salary of the physician shall be three hundred dollars per annum.* The salaries of the inspectors shall be two hundred and twenty-four dollars each, per annum, all of which salaries shall be paid quarterly: Provided, nothing in this act shall affect the salary of the principal keeper as prescribed by law. The salary of the collecting clerk shall be at the rate of four hundred dollars per annum.

Substitution for 51st rule. Salaries of officers.

Sec. II. [Repeals all militating acts.]

An Act to authorize a loan to the inspectors of the penitentiary, for the purpose of procuring materials to provide for the erection of suitable houses for the keeper, on the penitentiary square; to fix the salaries of the physician and sub-keepers, and wages of the guard; and to define the mode of payment of the same.—Approved Dec. 29, 1836. Pam. 176.

76. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act, the governor be, and he is hereby authorized to draw his warrant upon the treasury of the State, in favor of the inspectors of the penitentiary, upon their written application, for an amount of money not exceeding five thousand dollars, which sum of money is to be considered as a loan to said institution, and to be refunded whenever by the collection of the debts due thereto, it shall be enabled to do so without embarrassment to its future operations.

Loan to the penitentiary of $5,000.

* Raised by the act of 1836, see sec. 78.

To purchase lumber and materials.

77. Sec. II. It shall be the duty of the inspectors, to apply so much of said loan, as will be sufficient to procure such a stock of lumber and materials, as that the institution may in future have always a two years' supply in advance of the work and manufactures there carried on.

Salaries of assistant keepers, book-keeper and physician.

78. Sec. III. Until the same shall be altered by a subsequent legislature, it is hereby made the duty of the inspectors, to cause to be paid out of the funds of the penitentiary, quarterly, to each of the assistant keepers and book-keeper, the sum of one thousand dollars per annum; to the physician of the penitentiary, five hundred dollars per annum, and to each member of the guard, twenty-five dollars per month.

Dismissal of guardsmen.

79. Sec. IV. No member of the guard shall be dismissed or discharged from employment in the service of the said institution, but upon the proof of incompetency, remissness and neglect of duty, or want of fidelity, to be judged of by the board of inspectors, and whenever a dismissal (other than a voluntary one) takes place, a statement thereof, and the grounds upon which it is made, shall be entered upon the minutes of the board.

The annual reports of the joint committee to the legislature, have for their principal object, to exhibit a yearly account more or less in detail of the existing state of the institution, which, taken together, present an encouraging advancement in economy and efficacy. There are occasional directions for alterations of the edifices, but these have been generally executed; and for improvements in the administration of its affairs, most of which are however incorporated in the Code of Police of 1833.

Dormitories ordered to be strengthened, 1824, Vol. iv. 43.

Resolution of 1825, [Ib. 57,] directs how the accounts are in future to be made out. States that the funds of the institution consisting of materials, manufactured articles and debts due, amounted in 1823, to $20,720; in 1824, to $25,646. That of 1825, as printed, is not intelligible.

The promiscuous association of convicts a great impediment to reformation, especially of the young; and the frequency of pardons tends to the increase of crime, by rendering the duration of punishment less certain. [Res. of 1827, Ib. 90.]

A review of our penitentiary system. Its origin—its exceeding deficiency at first—its subsequent imperfection for want of experience—its recent abolition, and a returning desire of the people for its revival. The governor directed to appoint a commission to prepare and report to the next session a plan for repair of the buildings, a system of police for its organization and government, and a revival of the Penal Code. [1832, pam. 218.]

A rigid enforcement of the sentence required, but the legislature think it still questionable whether this requires a denial of every allowance to the convict which his proved fidelity and industry may deserve; and a humane and liberal view of this subject is recommended. [Pam. of 1832, 239.]

A very full statistical report of the affairs of the prison in all their branches, by the inspectors and principal keeper, (Ib. 301,) with the principal keeper's ample report to the board of inspectors, (Ib. 324,) in which last, among many other interesting facts, it is deduced from the history of the penitentiary, that "crimes punishable by penitentiary confinement has lessened one half since the institution went into operation."

Such buildings authorized to be constructed, and such repairs made on the workshops, as the inspectors may deem necessary; and principal keeper's salary raised. [1833, pam. 365.]

Appropriation recommended [1834, pam. 329] and passed at $3,000 [Ib. 27] to purchase a three years' stock of timber; and to enlarge, and so alter the workshops as to enable the assistant keepers to have the convicts more in view.

Inspectors authorized to allow at their discretion, to the convicts the privilege of working for themselves, as an incentive to good behavior, and according to their observation of its effects. Blacksmiths allowed an extra suit of clothes; and $5,000 appropriated to repair and raise the enclosing wall. [1835, pam. 20, 311.]

PHYSICIANS.

An Act to regulate the licensing Physicians in this State, to prevent Apothecaries vending and exposing to sale, within this State Drugs and Medicines, without a License from the Board of Physicians, and to prevent Merchants, Shop keepers and all other Persons from compounding and preparing Drugs and Medicines, or either.—*
 Approved Dec. 24, 1825. Vol. IV. 291.

Sec. I. II. III. and IV. [Repealed by the Act of 1836. Pam. 171.]

3. Sec. V. In order to the proper regulation of the practice of physic and surgery, there shall be established a board of physicians to be assembled annually at the seat of government, who shall, at their annual meeting, examine all applicants, and if on such examination they are found competent, shall grant to such applicants a license to practise physic and surgery: Provided, that seven members of said board shall constitute a quorum to make such examination and grant such license: and provided, also, that if any applicant shall have studied and received a diploma from any medical college, the said board, or a quorum thereof, shall license the said applicant to practise without examination.

A board of physicians to examine applicants and grant licenses.

Proviso.

4. Sec. VI. The following gentlemen shall constitute the board of physicians of the State of Georgia, to wit: Tomlinson Fort, Milton Antony, James P. Scriven, Charles West, Anderson Watkins, Southworth Harlow, Ambrose Baber, B. A. White, Norburne B. Powell, Walter H. Weems, William P. Graham, John Gerdine, A. B. Reddy, O. C. Proviso.

* This was substituted for the original title, by an act of 1832. See Pam. of that year, p. 131.

rary license shall in no case be granted by one of the board after the applicant has been refused a license by the board of physicians.

The board to elect officers, and make by-laws, &c.

9. Sec. XII. The board of physicians be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to elect all such officers and frame all such by-laws as may be necessary to carry this act into effect, and in case of the death, removal, or refusal to act of any member of the said board, the said board or a quorum of them be, and they are hereby empowered to fill up any such vacancies.

Licenses to be registered.

10. Sec. XIII. Said board shall enter in a book to be kept by them for that purpose, the names of each and every person they shall license to practise physic and surgery, and the time of granting the same, together with the names of the members of the board present, and shall publish the same in some newspaper printed at the seat of government, within thirty days after granting the same.

The board made a body corporate.

11. Sec. XIV. Said board of physicians shall be considered a body corporate, so far as to hold property both real and personal, keep a common seal, sue and be sued, and that the book so kept by the board as aforesaid shall be considered a book of record, and a transcript from the same, certified by the proper officer under the common seal shall be taken and received as evidence in any court of law in this State.*

An Act to alter and amend an act entitled "An Act to regulate the licensing of physicians, to practise in this State," † passed the 24th day of Dec. 1825.—Approved Dec. 27, 1831. Pam. 152.

Board may examine and withhold diploma.

12. Sec. I. Wherever the board of physicians may have doubts as to the qualifications of any applicant for license, they may proceed to examine such candidate, notwithstanding he may exhibit a diploma from a medical college, and either grant or refuse a license, as they may find him on such examination qualified, or otherwise, for the discharge of the duties of the profession.

Board may prescribe a course of reading.

13. Sec. II. The board of physicians have authority, and it shall be their duty, to prescribe such course of reading as in their opinion may be necessary and proper to those who intend to pursue the study of medicine, under private instructors, in this State, which course of reading they shall cause to be published in two or more of the public gazettes of this State, and which shall be obligatory on all who may apply to the board for license after the expiration of two years from the time of such publication.

14. Sec. III. It shall not be lawful for the board of physicians to license any person who shall not produce satisfactory testimonials of a good moral character.

Less than a quorum may adjourn from day to day.

15. Sec. IV. Should a quorum of the board of physicians not be in attendance on the day appointed by law for its meeting, those present may adjourn from day to day, until a board can be formed: Provided, that any number not under four may proceed with the business of the board.

Sec. V. So much of the act of which this act is amendatory, as militates against the provisions of this act, be and the same is hereby repealed.

* Rooms in the State-house provided for the meetings of the board. Res. of Dec. 1830. Pam. 245.

An Act to provide a Fund for the outfit of the Medical Institute of the State of Georgia, and to alter the name of the same.—Approved Dec. 20, 1833. Pam. 130.

16. The sum of ten thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby appropriated to and for the benefit and use of the medical institute of the State of Georgia, for the purpose of enabling the board of trustees of said institute to procure a suitable piece or lot of land, erect thereon such buildings and make such other improvements as may be necessary for the various purposes of a medical college, and to procure a suitable library, apparatus and museum for said institution, and such other things as may be necessary to the proper and successful operation of the same. $10,000 appropriated for the medical college of Georgia.

17. Sec. II. The said appropriated sum shall and may be drawn from the Central bank, in semi-annual payments, the first payment to be drawn on the first day of February, 1834, by the treasurer of said medical institution, by producing to the proper officers of said bank, the resolution of the board of trustees to that effect. When paid.

18. Sec. III. Fifty lots on the town common of the city of Augusta, be, and the same are also hereby appropriated to the said medical institution, which said lots are to be designated by the city council of the city of Augusta and the trustees of the Richmond academy, and sold by them, and the proceeds of said sale be paid over to the treasurer of said institution, under a resolution of the said board of trustees for the purposes aforesaid: Provided, that the majority of the city council and trustees of said academy shall approve of the same. Fifty lots in Augusta appropriated.

19. Sec. IV. Said city council and trustees of said academy, if they approve of the third section of this act, shall, whenever required of said board of trustees, lay off and designate said lots, but shall not proceed to sell said lots until requested so to do, by a resolution of said board of trustees. To be laid off by the authorities of Augusta if they concur.

20. Sec. V. From and after the passage of this act, the medical institute of the State of Georgia, shall be known and designated by the name [and] style of the Medical College of Georgia. Name.

Sec. VI. [General repealing clause.]

An Act to be entitled An Act to provide a Fund for the use and benefit of the Medical College of Georgia.—Approved Dec. 23, 1835. Pam. 147.

Whereas, by the third section of an act, passed on the 22d day of December, 1826, in relation to the increase of the capital stock of the bank of Augusta, it was enacted that upon every such increase being agreed upon, by a decision of the stockholders, one-sixth part of such increased stock shall be reserved for the State, at par, until the end of the session of the legislature next after the capital shall be so increased, &c.; and whereas, the stockholders of said bank have determined to increase the stock of said bank, and in conformity with the foregoing section, one-sixth part of said increased stock now remains subject to the control of the State, &c.; therefore,

Sec. I. Be it enacted, That the trustees of the medical college of Georgia are hereby authorized and empowered to have, use and enjoy for the benefit of said college, all the rights, privileges and advantages which the State of Georgia has in relation to subscribing or disposing of said reserved shares, in as full and ample a manner as the State has in relation to the same; and the advantages resulting from the disposition of the same be appropriated for the use and benefit of said college, in such manner as the trustees of said college may order and direct. Allowed to take Augusta bank stock reserved to the State. Profits subject to direction of the trustees.

Sec. II. [Repeals all conflicting laws.]

Printing to be done in the State.

2. Sec. II. The public printing aforesaid, shall be performed within the State, and that the State printer chosen as aforesaid, shall give bond with security to be approved by the governor, in the sum of ten thousand dollars, for the faithful discharge of his duty as such.

How executed.

3. Sec. III. The laws and journals shall be printed on small pica, on a page of the size of the page of the Laws of the United States, and of like intervals between the paragraphs and laws.

Compensation.

4. Sec. IV. The public printing shall be paid for at the following rates, viz: For each sheet of the laws and journals, containing eight octavo pages, one cent and a half; for each sheet of eight octavo pages of the job printing, eight cents through the first hundred sheets; and four cents per sheet of eight octavo pages, after the first hundred sheets; each single job less than a sheet, to be counted for a sheet; rule and figure work, either in the laws or journals, or in the job printing, shall be paid for at double those rates. For cutting, folding, stitching, covering, title-page, and trimming of ten thousand volumes of the laws and journals, there shall be paid eight hundred dollars; any other number to be paid for at the same rate.

PRIVATE BANKERS, EXCHANGE BROKERS, CHANGE BILLS, &c.

An Act more effectually to prevent the evils of Private Banking, and to stop the issuing and circulation of the Bills and Notes of Unchartered Banks, Private Bankers, and the Bills and Notes usually called Change Bills.—Approved Dec. 19, 1818. Vol. III. 107.

No banking business shall be done but by the incorporated
banks,

1. Sec. I. It shall not be lawful for any person, association of persons, or body corporate, from and after the first day of January, 1820, to keep any banking-house, room, shop, or office, office of discount and deposit, or of discount only, or of deposit only, or any room, house, shop, or office, for the purpose of carrying on any kind of banking, or operations, which incorporated banks are authorized by law to carry on; or to issue, emit, circulate, lend, pass, pay, or tender in payment, as private bankers, any bills or promissory notes of private bankers, incorporated or unincorporated banks or banking companies, copartnership, or association, by whatsoever name it may be called, unless thereunto specially authorized by law; and in case any person or persons, copartnership, association, or body corporate, shall contravene the foregoing provisions, every such person or persons, and every member of such copartnership, association, or body corporate, who shall either directly or indirectly assent thereto, shall forfeit the sum of one thousand dollars, to be sued for in the name of the State of Georgia, by the attorney general or solicitor general, in the several circuits, and recovered by an action of debt, or on the case, in any court of competent jurisdiction in this State, with costs, and one half of said forfeiture, when recovered, shall be paid to the use of the State, and the other half to the use of the informer; and every day during which, or during any part of which, such prohibited banking-house, room, shop, or office, is kept open, or such prohibited business, or any of it, transacted therein, shall constitute a new, separate, and distinct offence, and shall be liable to a new, separate, and distinct penalty; and every promissory note discounted, and every note or bill in the likeness of a bank note or bill, whether payable to order or bearer, or in whatever shape or terms the same may be conceived, which shall be so, as aforesaid, issued, emitted, circulated, lent, passed, paid, or tendered in payment, contrary to the spirit, true intent, and meaning of this act, shall constitute a new, separate, and distinct offence, and shall be liable to a new, separate, and distinct penalty.

on penalty of 1000 dollars. How sued for.

Each day's transgression, and each note discounted, and each bill passed, shall be a new and distinct offence, and liable to a new penalty.

2. Sec. II. From and after the first day of January, 1820, if any incorporated company, not authorized by law to issue bills and notes, unincorporated bank, or any private banker, banking company, copartnership, or association, by whatever name the same may be called, shall refuse or neglect to pay, on demand, in gold or silver, or in bills of any chartered bank of Georgia, any bill or bills issued by such incorporated company, unincorporated company, copartnership, or association, by whatsoever name the same may be called, issued, paid, and loaned, after the first day of January, 1820, shall be liable to pay to the holder of such bill or bills, note or notes, two and a half per cent. per month, upon the amount of bill or bills, note or notes, so demanded, to be recovered by action of debt, or on the case, in any court of competent jurisdiction; and in any such action, so brought by the holder of any bill or bills, note or notes, so demanded, and so refused to be paid in gold or silver, for two and a half per cent. a month on the amount of said bill or bills, note or notes, and for the amount of said bill or bills, the defendant or defendants shall not be allowed to plead or avail him or themselves, in any state of said suit, of the non-joinder of other partners, joint promissors or contractors, but the suit or action shall proceed against the person or persons sued, as if he or they alone had promised or contracted; and the private and individual property of the defendant or defendants shall be subject to the execution issuing upon such suit or action.

After first of January, 1820, bankers shall pay their notes in specie, or chartered bills, or forfeit to the holder two and a half per cent. per month.

No plea of non-joinder allowed.

Individual property liable to the execution.

Sec. III. [Declares it unlawful for those who had commenced private banking so late as Nov. 1, 1818, to continue it after the ensuing 1st of March. Temporary.]

3. Sec. IV. If any person or persons, copartnership, association of persons, or body corporate, not specially authorized by law, shall, after the first day of October next, issue, emit, or lend any bill or note, under the specified value of one dollar, such person or persons, copartnership, association of persons, or body, shall forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars for each bill or note so issued, emitted, or lent, to be sued for, recovered, and vested, as the forfeiture mentioned in the first section of this act.

$100 penalty for issuing change bills under one dollar.

4. The act of 1815 enacts in substance, that every person issuing change bills of a dollar or less, shall, on pain of $500, annually make a return of the amount thereof, to the receiver of tax returns; and pay for those issued before the 16th of December, 1815, eight per cent.; and on those issued after that date, twenty per cent. on the amount. The act of 1816 moreover provides, that if any persons or companies other than the incorporated banks, shall after the 19th of December, 1816, put bills in circulation, the holders of such bills of two dollars or more, may recover twenty-five per cent. above the amount, and if under two dollars each, treble the amount thereof from any of the persons issuing or signing the same. And that the unauthorized issuers of such bills as were in circulation before that date, shall on or before the 1st of June, 1817, make return on oath to the receiver, of the amount at the time of the return, and pay twenty per cent. tax thereon, on pain of $500 for the use of the State, and treble the amount of the bills, recoverable by the holders.

The act of 1817 imposes on "every person or companies of individuals not having a charter for the purpose from this State, who have or may hereafter issue any engraved duebill, check, note, or bill of exchange, intended to represent a bank note" 2½ per cent. on the amount in circulation, on pain of $600. Vol. III. 891, Dig. 1st Ed. 60.

The act of 1818 (Vol. III. 892,) places change bills usually so called, and any bills issued by private bankers or "unchartered banks" on the same footing, so far as to subject them to the same rate of taxation; and this is continued by the annual tax acts of the four following years; each of which in its revival of the act of 1817 expressly excepts "change bills and bills issued by unchartered banks" and subjects them to 3¼ cents on each $100 of the amount in circulation. The last of these (1822,) is renewed by 1823, that, by 1824, and that in its turn by 1825, and also by 1826, in which last, the terms used are "exchange or money brokers." In the act of 1826 the phraseology is enlarged to "all brokers, private bankers or exchange merchants" who are made to pay 40 cents on the $100. In 1829, the expression is "brokers private bankers or exchange merchants and note shavers" who are subjected to the former rate of 3¼ cents. But "change bills or bills of any kind issued and put in circulation without a charter" are by the 3d Sec. of that act, (See Sec. 9 of this title,) again separated from other illegitimate currency and taxed fifty per cent. on the amount in circulation; and this with the penalty superadded in 1830 (See Sec. 9,) has continued in force ever since so far as respects change bills. As to other illegal practices of a kindred character, see Sec 5, 8. The succession, and the combinations of these involved revivals will be found in the table prefixed to "Tax."

An Act to impose, levy, and collect a tax for the political year 1831, on property real and personal, and to inflict penalties for neglecting or failing to comply with the provisions thereof.—Approved Dec. 23, 1830. Pam. 200.

Brokers, private bankers, &c. to pay 3¼ cts. on each $100 on the amount of their business.

• 5. Sec. II. All brokers, private bankers, or exchange merchants, or firm, or firms of brokers, private bankers, or exchange merchants, and their agents in this State, shall during the month of January, 1831, respectively return on oath, to the receivers of tax returns of the respective counties of this State, where he or they shall reside or do business, the maximum amount of capital which he or they employ, or intend to employ, in their said business at any time during said year, and the said brokers, private bankers, or exchange merchants, or firm or firms of brokers, exchange merchants, or their agents, shall pay a tax of thirty-one and a quarter cents on every hundred dollars of capital so returned, to be levied, and collected by the tax collectors of the respective counties, as in other cases: Provided, That in all cases under this section, where a firm shall be required to make a return as above

* According to the idea currently received, and generally true, that taxation impliedly legalizes the subject on which it is imposed, the acts respecting change bills would present a medley of mere contradictions, authorizing by taxation on the one hand, what is forbidden by acts of most express prohibition on the other. But it is obvious—perhaps so obvious as not to need remark, that the tax acts on this subject, are laws not of revenue, but of policy; intended not so much for any fiscal purpose, as for the correction of a great abuse. On this principle they may stand (as the legislature undoubtedly intended they should) consistently together, co-operating in the discouragement and prevention of this fraud upon the public.

specified, that a return by one member for, and in behalf of the firm to which he belongs shall be deemed sufficient. [This section was re-enacted in 1831, substituting 40 for 31½ cents, and embracing "firms" of private brokers who were left out before. (See Sec. 8.) But both sections were revived specially by the tax acts of 1832 and 1833, and generally, in those of the two following years. So that this tax, since 1832, embracing both, has therefore been standing, perhaps inadvertently, at 73½ on every $100 of such circulation.]

6. Sec. III. If any person or persons, (except the incorporated banks of this State,) shall be found after the first day of February next, and during the said year 1831, doing the business of a broker, private banker, or exchange merchant, or as their agent, without having made the return required by the second section of this act, it shall be the duty of the receiver of tax returns for the county where said broker or brokers, private banker or bankers, exchange merchant or merchants, or his, or their agent or agents, may reside, or do business, to return said broker or brokers, private banker or bankers, exchange merchant or merchants, or his, or their agent or agents, as defaulters, who shall pay a tax for said year of five hundred dollars, to be levied and collected by the tax collector as in other cases, or by a capias ad satisfaciendum. [Re-enacted in 1831 with $5,000 penalty. This section revived in 1832 and annually since.]

Defaulting brokers, bankers, &c. subject to penalty of $500.

Tax Act of 1831. Pam. 227.

7. Sec. III. All brokers, private bankers, or exchange merchants, or firm or firms of brokers, private bankers, or exchange merchants, and their agents in this State, shall, during the month of January, 1832, respectively return on oath, to the receivers of tax returns of the respective counties of this State, where he or they shall reside, or do business, the maximum amount of capital which he or they employ or intend to employ in their said business, at any time during said year, and the said brokers, private bankers or exchange merchants, or firm or firms of brokers, private bankers, exchange merchants or their agents, shall pay a tax of forty cents, on every hundred dollars of capital so returned, to be levied and collected by the tax collectors of the respective counties, as in other cases: Provided, That in all cases under this section, where a firm shall be required to make a return as above specified, that a return by one member for and in behalf of the firm to which he belongs, shall be deemed sufficient.

Brokers, private bankers, &c. to pay 40 cents on each $100.

Provide.

An Act to prevent the further issuing of change bills, to compel the issuers of such bills to redeem them, and to relieve persons who have issued them, from the penalties incurred under the former statutes of this State.—Approved Nov. 25, 1830. Pam. 42.

8. All persons who shall hereafter issue or put in circulation any change bill or bills, without legislative authority, shall be subject to all the pains and penalties of the third section of an act passed on the 21st day of December, 1829, entitled an act to impose, levy and collect a tax for the political year, 1830 on property, real and personal, and to inflict penalties for neglecting to comply with the provisions thereof.

Issuers of change bills, and other illegal bills, shall pay

[The following is the section referred to Vol. IV. 425. On all persons who have or may hereafter issue or have in circulation any change bill or bills of any kind, issued or put in circulation without a charter, there shall be levied a tax of fifty per cent. on the amount issued and in circulation on the first of August in each year]

50 per cent. on the circulation.

Sec. II. [Remits all penalties thus far incurred excepting those who may have failed to comply with the second section of the said tax act of 1829, Vol. IV. 425.]

Issuing change bills penalty from 50 to $500.

9. Sec. III. In addition to the penalties imposed by the first section of this act, every person who shall issue change bills or bills of any denomination, without legislative grant, shall for each offence be fined in a sum not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars, one half of said penalty to go to the prosecutor.

Duty of grand juries to inquire and present.

10. Sec. IV. It shall be the duty of the grand jurors of the several counties of this State, at each term of the superior court to make diligent enquiry and present all violations of the third section of this act.

Sec. V. [Repeals all repugnant laws.]

RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.

An Act to secure to Churches or Religious Societies, the lots of land conveyed to them for erecting Churches and Meeting Houses.—Approved December 3, 1805. Vol. II. 250.

Conveyances of land to churches to be good and valid.

1. Sec. I. All deeds of conveyance heretofore made, and which may hereafter be made by any person or persons for any lots of land within this State, to any church or religious society, or to trustees for the use of any church or religious society, for the purpose of erecting churches or meeting houses, are and shall be deemed and taken to be good and valid, and available in law, for the intents, uses and purposes contained in such deeds of conveyance; and all lots of land so conveyed, shall be fully and absolutely vested in such church or religious society, or in their respective trustees, for the uses and purposes in the said deed expressed; to be holden to them or their trustees for their use, by succession, according to the mode of church government or rules of discipline exercised by such churches or religious societies respectively.

Such churches to have the power to regulate the same by themselves or trustees, whose vacancies they may fill.

2. Sec. II. All trustees to whom conveyances are or shall be made for the purposes herein before expressed, shall be subject to the authority of the church or religious society for which they hold the same in trust, and may be expelled from the said trust by such church or society, according to the form of government or rules of discipline by which they may be governed. And every church or religious society shall be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to fill up all vacancies which may happen in the said trusts, by death, removal, expulsion or otherwise; and when any vacancy shall be filled up, the same shall be certified under the hand or hands of the person or persons presiding in the said society, and according to the form of government or discipline practised by the said church or society; which certificate shall express the name of the person appointed to fill the vacancy, and the name of the person in whose place he shall be appointed, and the said certificate being recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the land lies; the person so appointed to fill such vacancy, shall be as fully vested with such trust, as if a party to and named in the original deed.

An Act to point out the mode for the collection of Rents.—Approved December 16, 1811. Vol. III. 737.*

1. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act, it shall and may be lawful for any person who may hereafter have rent due, where the same does not exceed thirty dollars, to make application to any justice of the peace within the district where his, her or their tenant may reside, and obtain from such justice a distress warrant for the sum claimed to be due, on oath in writing, for the said rent, and the same may be levied by any constable duly qualified, on any property belonging to the said tenant, who shall advertise and sell the same under the same rules and regulations as other sales under execution; and where any distress shall issue for a sum exceeding thirty dollars, it shall be levied by the sheriff of said county, advertised and sold as in cases of other executions: Provided nevertheless, that the party distrained, shall be entitled to replevy the goods so distrained, by making oath that the sum or some part thereof distrained for, is not due, and give security for the eventual condemnation money, and in that case it shall be the duty of such officer to return the same to the court having cognizance of the same, and the same shall be determined by a jury as practised in other cases of claims.

Distress warrants under 30 dollars to be levied by a constable.

If over 30 dollars, to be levied by a sheriff. Replevy.

2. Sec. II. Where property distrained may be claimed by a third person, the same shall be claimed on oath, which claim shall be returned, tried and determined in like manner and under the same rules and regulations as are by law pointed out for the trial of the right of property.

Claims to be returned and tried as in other cases.

3. Sec. III. In no case a preference shall be given to persons distraining for rent, where there are any judgments against the person or property so distrained.

Rent not to be preferred to judgments.

4. Sec. IV. Where any tenant shall refuse to give possession of the premises at the end of his lease, it shall be lawful for the person leasing the same to demand of such tenant, monthly, double the sum that the same was leased for, and may recover the same at the expiration of every month, or in the same proportion for a longer or shorter time, by distress in manner pointed out as aforesaid.

Tenants holding over shall pay double rent monthly.

5. Sec. V. If any person leasing or renting land, house or houses, shall fail to pay the rent at the time the same shall become due, it shall and may be lawful for the lessor immediately thereafter, to enter and retake possession of the premises so by him leased or rented.

Re-entry at the end of the term.

6. Sec. VI. All contracts for rents, whether verbal or in writing, shall bear interest from the time the same shall become due, any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding; and all actions commenced in any of the courts of this State for the recovery of rent in arrear, shall be tried at the term to which the same shall be returnable, unless good cause shall be shown for the continuance thereof, nor shall any such action be continued more than one term at the instance of either party, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

All contracts for rent to bear interest. Suits for rent, to stand for trial at the first term, but one continuance.

* The act of 1810, Vol. II. 629, superseded by this.

† By virtue of a warrant, see Sec. 7.

An Act to amend the Rent Laws of this State.—Approved Dec. 24, 1827. Vol. IV. 220.

When a tenant holds over and refuses to deliver possession, the lesser or owner, on oath of the facts, may obtain a warrant to have possession delivered, and the tenant removed.

7. From and after the passing of this act, it shall and may be lawful upon the expiration of any lease, or time for which lands have been rented, which are now in existence, or have already expired, or which shall hereafter exist, where the tenant or his sub-tenant holds over, and where the owner of the rented property, or his agent or representative, shall desire to have possession of the same, to demand of the tenant or tenants the possession of the rented property, and in case of refusal on the part of the tenant, or omission on his, her, or their part to deliver possession, it shall and may be lawful for the owner thereof, or by his or her agent or representative, to go before the judge of the superior court, or any justice of the inferior court, or justice of the peace, and make oath that the lease or term of time for which the land was rented has expired, and that the tenant refuses, omits, or neglects to give possession; it shall be the duty of the person before whom the oath is made to issue or grant a warrant or process directed to the sheriff or his deputy, requiring or commanding him to deliver to the owner, his agent, or representative, peaceable, full, and quiet possession of the rented premises, removing the tenant or tenants with his property found thereon, belonging to such tenant or tenants therefrom.

How the tenant may stop the proceedings. Sheriff to return the proceedings to the court and the fact shall be tried. Double rent.

8. Sec. II. When the tenant shall declare on oath that his lease, whether written or verbal, is not expired, or that he does not hold the premises either by lease or rent from the said person who has made the said oath, or by any one holding under him or them by rent or lease, he shall not be removed from the possession of the said premises, but the sheriff shall return the proceedings to the next superior court of the county where the land lies, and the fact be there tried; and if determined against the tenant or tenants, he shall pay double the rent received, and the person making the said oath shall be entitled to a writ of possession, to be issued from and under the directions of the said superior court, directed to the sheriff or his deputy, who shall give possession of the premises as prescribed in the first section of this act.

Writ of possession then granted.

9. Sec. III. The sheriff, for executing the process aforesaid, shall be allowed the sum of three dollars, which amount shall be paid by the tenant, and his goods levied on for that purpose.

RICE DAMS.

An Act to prevent damages arising from Dams or Banks, and for preventing persons from stopping the natural course or courses of water, to the injury of their neighbors.—Approved Sept. 29, 1773. Vol. I. 178.

Whereas, it hath become a practice for persons to make dams or banks for the reserving or stopping of water, and at unseasonable times to let off the waters so stopped and reserved, to the manifest injury of their neighbors; to prevent therefore such injuries for the future,

No person shall dam up water courses so as to overflow the lands without his consent.

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, That from and after the passing of this act, no person or persons whomsoever, shall be permitted or allowed to make or keep up any dams or banks to stop the natural course of any water or waters, so as to overflow the lands of any other person or persons, without the consent of such person or persons being first had and obtained; nor shall any person or persons whomsoever, stop or prevent any water or waters from running off any person or persons' field, whereby such person or persons may be prevented from planting in season, or receive any other injury whatsoever; nor so as to turn the natural course of any water or waters, from one channel or swamp, to another, to the prejudice of any neighbor or neighbors, or any other person or persons whomsoever.

2. Sec. II. In case any person or persons shall make or keep up any such dams or banks, to the injury of any other person or persons, by overflowing their lands as aforesaid, upon complaint made thereof by the party injured, to any justice of the peace* for the district where the offence shall be committed, such justice shall be, and he is hereby fully empowered, authorized, and required to summon five freeholders of the said district, one of whom shall be named by the said justice, and two by each of the parties; and such freeholders, being first sworn before such justice to determine the matter justly and impartially, shall forthwith proceed to view the said banks and dams, and the damage complained of, and immediately certify the matter as they shall find it, under their hands, to the said justice; and in case an award shall be given in favor of the complainant, the said justice shall immediately make an order to cut open the bank or dam, in such manner as to prevent any further damage, the expense whereof, and all other charges attending the prosecution, to be paid by the offender.

Justices of the peace to summon five freeholders to determine in such cases.

3. Sec. III. In case any damage shall have been already sustained by the complainant, either by such dams or banks being kept up, or by letting off any reserved waters, the said freeholders shall, upon view thereof, ascertain and certify the same, under their hands, to the said justice, which damages so ascertained the offender shall immediately pay and satisfy, to the party grieved, and in case of neglect or refusal so to do in ten days, the said damage, if it does not exceed the sum of eight pounds, shall and may be recovered in the same way as debt and damages are directed to be recovered and levied by the act, entitled "An Act for the more easy and speedy recovery of small debts and damages;"† and in case the said freeholders shall be of opinion that such damages do exceed the sum of eight pounds, then such damages shall and may be recovered in any court of record in this province in the usual manner: Provided always, that nothing in this act shall extend or be construed to subject any person or persons who shall have made or cause to be made, or shall make or cause to be made, any banks or dams, to reserve or stop water, to pay any damages which may be sustained by breaking of the said dams or banks, when occasioned by violent rains or floods, or when there may be an absolute necessity for cutting the said dams or banks to prevent the breaking of the same; and in case any freeholder shall neglect or refuse to obey the summons of the justice, or any other matter herein directed, such freeholder shall (unless he can make a reasonable excuse) forfeit a sum not exceeding five pounds, nor less than forty shillings, to be sued for and recovered by the act, entitled "An act for the more easy and speedy recovery of small debts and damages," and to be applied, the one half to the informer, and the other half to his majesty, to be paid into the hands of the treasurer, for such use and purposes as the general assembly shall think proper.

Damages to be ascertained by the freeholders and paid by the offending party.

If any person, either by himself or herself, or by his or her overseer, agent, attorney, or trustee, or servants, or slaves, or any other person or persons acting for him or her, shall presume to stop up any dam or dams, or replace any obstructions in any manner whatsoever, which has or have been ordered to be opened or removed by any freeholders as aforesaid, or which has or have been opened or removed by himself or herself, or his or her overseer, agent, attorney or trustee, or by order of either of them, on the said 5th day of March, until the 1st day of July, every person so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of 200 pounds, to be recovered and disposed of in manner aforesaid. And if any person shall presume to obstruct, impede, or otherwise hinder, or interrupt the opening of any dam or dams, or the removing of any obstructions ordered to be opened or removed by the freeholders as aforesaid, every person so offending shall forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of 250 pounds, to be recovered and disposed of in any manner aforesaid. Expenses of survey.

And whereas the keeping reservoirs of water by insufficient dams, and the want of proper wasteways thereto, is frequently the cause of such dams breaking and overflowing the fields of other persons, to their great damage:

10. Sec. V. Be it enacted, &c. That where any dam or dams have been made, or shall hereafter be made, for the purpose of forming reservoirs of water, without a sufficient wasteway, and which now are or shall hereafter be found inadequate to sustain the weight of water Persons stopping up dams, opened, or replacing obstructions between the 5th of March and 1st of July, shall forfeit 200 pounds. 250 pounds penalty for hindering the opening of dams, &c.

RIVERS.

An Act to prevent persons throwing ballast or rubbish, or falling trees into the Rivers and navigable Creeks within this Province, and for keeping clear the channels of the same.—Approved April 7, 1763. Vol. I. 364.

Sec. I. II. III. and IV. [Re-enacted with amendments by act of 1765, see Preamble.]

Persons obstructing the navigation of rivers and creeks how to
be dealt with.

1. Sec. V. If any person or persons after the time of passing this act, shall cut or cause to be fallen or cut down any trees contiguous to the rivers or navigable creeks by this act intended to be kept free and passable for shipping, perriaguas, and large boats, and such trees so felled and cut down, shall happen to fall into the said rivers, or into or across the said navigable creeks, the person or persons so falling or causing the said trees to be felled and cut down, shall forthwith clear the said rivers or navigable creeks, of the same, at his or their sole cost and expense; and in case of his or their neglect or refusal, so to do within ten days, any one justice of the peace of the parish or district where the same shall happen, may, and is hereby authorized, on information on oath to him thereof given, forthwith to issue his warrant to the constable of the said parish or district, to cause the said tree or trees to be removed out of the said rivers or navigable creeks, and the expense attending the doing thereof shall be paid and discharged by the person or persons so falling or causing the said trees to be felled and cut down ; and such justice is hereby fully authorized and empowered to issue his warrant for levying the same, together with the charge attending thereon, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such offender or offenders, and for want of sufficient distress, to commit such person or persons offending as aforesaid, to prison for the space of thirty days, or until payment shall be made as aforesaid ; * Provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to include, or to make clear or navigable, any creek not navigable at the time of passing this act.

An Act to amend the foregoing.—Approved March 25, 1765. Vol. I. 364.

Whereas in and by an act passed in the second session of the fourth general assembly of this province, entitled [as above,] it is therein and thereby enacted, that if at any time from and after the passing the said act, any master or owner, or any person acting as master or owner of any ship or other vessel whatsoever, shall cast, throw out, or unload, or if at any time from and after the time aforesaid, there shall be cast, thrown out, or unladed from, or out of any ship or other vessel whatsoever, being or riding within any port, road, channel, river, or navigable creek within this province, any ballast, rubbish, gravel, earth, stone, or wreck, but above high water mark, (except the same be thrown out for the purpose only of filling up where wharves may be erecting or erected under the banks or bluffs of such river or navigable creek,) it shall and may be lawful for any one or more justice or justices of the peace for the parish or district where or near which such offence shall be committed, upon information made on oath thereof, and he or they are hereby authorized and required to summon or issue out his or their warrant or warrants, to apprehend or bring before him or them, the master or masters, owner or owners, of any such ship or other vessel, or other person or persons acting as such, against whom such complaint or information shall be made or given, and upon his or their appearance or making default in appearing, to proceed to examine the matters of fact, and upon due proof made either by confession of the party offending, or on view of such justice or justices, or upon the oath or oaths of one or more witness or witnesses, (which oath or oaths the said justice or justices are hereby required to administer,) that any ballast, rubbish, earth, gravel, stone, or wreck, hath been cast, unladen, or thrown out of, or from any ship or other vessel, the master or masters, or person or persons acting as master or masters thereof, shall be adjudged, and he and they are hereby respectively declared to be the offenders against the said act, and he and they being by such justice or justices, (or by any of the ways or means aforesaid,) thereof convicted, shall forfeit and pay for every such offence, any sum not exceeding eight pounds, at the discretion of such justice or justices, the one moiety thereof to the informer, and the other moiety thereof to his majesty, for the support of the poor of the parish, wherein such conviction shall be pronounced. And whereas the fine of eight pounds in and by the said act imposed and set, is found greatly deficient for preventing the evil thereby intended to be prevented :

An Act to point out the mode for the collection of Rents.—Approved December 16, 1811. Vol. III. 737.*

1. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act, it shall and may be lawful for any person who may hereafter have rent due, where the same does not exceed thirty dollars, to make application to any justice of the peace within the district where his, her or their tenant may reside, and obtain from such justice a distress warrant for the sum claimed to be due, on oath in writing, for the said rent, and the same may be levied by any constable duly qualified, on any property belonging to the said tenant, who shall advertise and sell the same under the same rules and regulations as other sales under execution; and where any distress shall issue for a sum exceeding thirty dollars, it shall be levied by the sheriff of said county, advertised and sold as in cases of other executions: Provided nevertheless, that the party distrained, shall be entitled to replevy the goods so distrained, by making oath that the sum or some part thereof distrained for, is not due, and give security for the eventual condemnation money, and in that case it shall be the duty of such officer to return the same to the court having cognizance of the same, and the same shall be determined by a jury as practised in other cases of claims.

Distress warrants under 30 dollars to be levied by a constable.

If over 30 dollars, to be levied by a sheriff.
Replevy.

2. Sec. II. Where property distrained may be claimed by a third person, the same shall be claimed on oath, which claim shall be returned, tried and determined in like manner and under the same rules and regulations as are by law pointed out for the trial of the right of property.

Claims to be returned and tried as in other cases.

3. Sec. III. In no case a preference shall be given to persons distraining for rent, where there are any judgments against the person or property so distrained.

Rent not to be preferred to judgments.

4. Sec. IV. Where any tenant shall refuse to give possession of the premises at the end of his lease, it shall be lawful for the person leasing the same to demand of such tenant, monthly, double the sum that the same was leased for, and may recover the same at the expiration of every month, or in the same proportion for a longer or shorter time, by distress in manner pointed out as aforesaid.

Tenants holding over shall pay double rent monthly.

5. Sec. V. If any person leasing or renting land, house or houses, shall fail to pay the rent at the time the same shall become due, it shall and may be lawful for the lessor immediately thereafter, to enter and retake possession of the premises so by him leased or rented.†

Re-entry at the end of the term.

6. Sec. VI. All contracts for rents, whether verbal or in writing, shall bear interest from the time the same shall become due, any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding; and all actions commenced in any of the courts of this State for the recovery of rent in arrear, shall be tried at the term to which the same shall be returnable, unless good cause shall be shown for the continuance thereof, nor shall any such action be continued more than one term at the instance of either party, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

All contracts for rent to bear interest. Suits for rent, to stand for trial at the first term, but one continuance.

* The act of 1810, Vol. II. 629, superseded by this.

† By virtue of a warrant, see Sec. 7.

An Act to amend the Rent Laws of this State.—Approved Dec. 24, 1827. Vol. IV. 220.

When a tenant holds over and refuses to deliver possession, the lessor or owner, on oath of the facts, may obtain a warrant to have possession delivered, and the tenant removed.

7. From and after the passing of this act, it shall and may be lawful upon the expiration of any lease, or time for which lands have been rented, which are now in existence, or have already expired, or which shall hereafter exist, where the tenant or his sub-tenant holds over, and where the owner of the rented property, or his agent or representative, shall desire to have possession of the same, to demand of the tenant or tenants the possession of the rented property, and in case of refusal on the part of the tenant, or omission on his, her, or their part to deliver possession, it shall and may be lawful for the owner thereof, or by his or her agent or representative, to go before the judge of the superior court, or any justice of the inferior court, or justice of the peace, and make oath that the lease or term of time for which the land was rented has expired, and that the tenant refuses, omits, or neglects to give possession; it shall be the duty of the person before whom the oath is made to issue or grant a warrant or process directed to the sheriff or his deputy, requiring or commanding him to deliver to the owner, his agent, or representative, peaceable, full, and quiet possession of the rented premises, removing the tenant or tenants with his property found thereon, belonging to such tenant or tenants therefrom.

How the tenant may stop the proceedings. Sheriff to return the proceedings to the court and the fact shall be tried. Double rent.

8. Sec. II. When the tenant shall declare on oath that his lease, whether written or verbal, is not expired, or that he does not hold the premises either by lease or rent from the said person who has made the said oath, or by any one holding under him or them by rent or lease, he shall not be removed from the possession of the said premises, but the sheriff shall return the proceedings to the next superior court of the county where the land lies, and the fact be there tried; and if determined against the tenant or tenants, he shall pay double the rent received, and the person making the said oath shall be entitled to a writ of possession, to be issued from and under the directions of the said superior court, directed to the sheriff or his deputy, who shall give possession of the premises as prescribed in the first section of this act.

Writ of possession then granted.

9. Sec. III. The sheriff, for executing the process aforesaid, shall be allowed the sum of three dollars, which amount shall be paid by the tenant, and his goods levied on for that purpose.

RICE DAMS.

An Act to prevent damages arising from Dams or Banks, and for preventing persons from stopping the natural course or courses of water, to the injury of their neighbors.—Approved Sept. 29, 1773. Vol. I. 178.

Whereas, it hath become a practice for persons to make dams or banks for the reserving or stopping of water, and at unseasonable times to let off the waters so stopped and reserved, to the manifest injury of their neighbors; to prevent therefore such injuries for the future,

No person shall dam up water courses so as to overflow the lands without his consent.

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, That from and after the passing of this act, no person or persons whomsoever, shall be permitted or allowed to make or keep up any dams or banks to stop the natural course of any water or waters, so as to overflow the lands of any other person or persons, without the consent of such person or persons being first had and obtained; nor shall any person or persons whomsoever, stop or prevent any water or waters from running off any person or persons' field, whereby such person or persons may be prevented from planting in season, or receive any other injury whatsoever; nor so as to turn the natural course of any water or waters, from one channel or swamp, to another, to the prejudice of any neighbor or neighbors, or any other person or persons whomsoever.

2. Sec. II. In case any person or persons shall make or keep up any such dams or banks, to the injury of any other person or persons, by overflowing their lands as aforesaid, upon complaint made thereof by the party injured, to any justice of the peace* for the district where the offence shall be committed, such justice shall be, and he is hereby fully empowered, authorized, and required to summon five freeholders of the said district, one of whom shall be named by the said justice, and two by each of the parties; and such freeholders, being first sworn before such justice to determine the matter justly and impartially, shall forthwith proceed to view the said banks and dams, and the damage complained of, and immediately certify the matter as they shall find it, under their hands, to the said justice; and in case an award shall be given in favor of the complainant, the said justice shall immediately make an order to cut open the bank or dam, in such manner as to prevent any further damage, the expense whereof, and all other charges attending the prosecution, to be paid by the offender.

Justices of the peace to summon five freeholders to determine in such cases.

3. Sec. III. In case any damage shall have been already sustained by the complainant, either by such dams or banks being kept up, or by letting off any reserved waters, the said freeholders shall, upon view thereof, ascertain and certify the same, under their hands, to the said justice, which damages so ascertained the offender shall immediately pay and satisfy, to the party grieved, and in case of neglect or refusal so to do in ten days, the said damage, if it does not exceed the sum of eight pounds, shall and may be recovered in the same way as debt and damages are directed to be recovered and levied by the act, entitled "An Act for the more easy and speedy recovery of small debts and damages;"† and in case the said freeholders shall be of opinion that such damages do exceed the sum of eight pounds, then such damages shall and may be recovered in any court of record in this province in the usual manner: Provided always, that nothing in this act shall extend or be construed to subject any person or persons who shall have made or cause to be made, or shall make or cause to be made, any banks or dams, to reserve or stop water, to pay any damages which may be sustained by breaking of the said dams or banks, when occasioned by violent rains or floods, or when there may be an absolute necessity for cutting the said dams or banks to prevent the breaking of the same; and in case any freeholder shall neglect or refuse to obey the summons of the justice, or any other matter herein directed, such freeholder shall (unless he can make a reasonable excuse) forfeit a sum not exceeding five pounds, nor less than forty shillings, to be sued for and recovered by the act, entitled "An act for the more easy and speedy recovery of small debts and damages," and to be applied, the one half to the informer, and the other half to his majesty, to be paid into the hands of the treasurer, for such use and purposes as the general assembly shall think proper.

Damages to be ascertained by the freeholders and paid by the offending party.

Provide.

Compensation of the freeholders.

4. Sec. IV. The freeholders shall each be allowed for their trouble and attendance herein, the sum of five shillings for each day's attendance on the same, to be paid by the party or parties offending.

Persons sued for executing this act, may plead the general issue.

5. Sec. V. In case any person or persons whomsoever shall be sued or impleaded for any matter or thing committed or done in pursuance of the directions of this act, it shall and may be lawful for such person or persons to plead the general issue, and give this act and the special matter in evidence; and in case the plaintiff shall become nonsuit, suffer a discontinuance, or a verdict shall pass against him, the defendant shall be allowed double costs.

Sec. VI. This act shall continue and be in force for the term of three years, and from thence to the next session of the general assembly, and no longer. [But see Laws, Sec. 2.]

An Act to regulate the opening of Dams across Rice Grounds, and the making and keeping Dams for the reservoirs of water.—Approved Feb. 10, 1787. Vol. I. 179.

Whereas the practice of making and keeping up dams across rice grounds for the purpose of reserving water thereon during the winter, and the want of a proper law to ascertain the time when the same ought to be opened, has been attended with many inconveniences, and oftentimes is the cause of much contention; for remedy whereof,

Rice dams to be opened on the 5th day of March, yearly.

6. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That every person who shall keep water during the winter, upon grounds on which rice shall be planted the ensuing spring, shall, on or before the 5th day of March next, and on the 5th day of March in each year, open the dams which keep up the water, in a sufficient manner for letting off the same; and if any person or persons shall neglect so to do, on or before the time aforesaid, he or she shall forfeit and pay the sum of 100 pounds for every such neglect, upon the complaint or information of any person or persons through whose land such water may pass; and it shall and may be lawful for such person to inform, and sue for the same in any court of record in the county where such offence is committed; and on conviction, the one half thereof shall be paid to the informer, and the other half to the use of the poor of the said county.

How to be opened, if the owner neglects to do it.

7. Sec. II. Where any person has neglected to open his or her dam or dams in a sufficient manner for letting the water off the grounds before described, on or before the 5th day of March in every year, in manner aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for any person who may be affected thereby, at any time after the day aforesaid in every year, either by himself or herself, or his or her overseer, agent, attorney, or trustee, to apply to any magistrate in the district for a warrant of survey, who shall thereupon notify to the defendant the complaint made against him, with the time and place of meeting, and summons three freeholders, disinterested persons of the neighborhood or district where the cause of complaint shall lie, one of whom shall be then chosen by the defendant, and in case of his refusal, then by the magistrate, another by the complainant, and the third by the magistrate, who (being first sworn before the magistrate to determine the matter in dispute justly and impartially,) shall forthwith proceed to view the obstructions complained of: and if on view thereof the said freeholders, or a majority of them, shall be of opinion that such obstructions do or may prevent the party complaining from planting his or her crop of rice in proper time, then, and in such case, it shall and may be lawful for the said freeholders, or a majority of them, to cause the same to be immediately opened or removed in any way or manner they shall think necessary for the purpose of giving the most effectual relief to the party complaining, whereupon the defendant shall be obliged to pay all expenses attending such survey: Provided Proviso. always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend to impose any penalty on any person or persons, or to cause his or her dams or banks to be opened, who shall have made through his or her own lands a sufficient drain or drains (of which the said freeholders shall be the judges,) to carry off the waters passing through the same, in as expeditious a manner as they could have passed through the natural courses or channels, in case no such banks had been erected.

8. Sec. III. It shall and may be lawful for any person, at any time between the said 5th day of March and the 1st day of November in every year, to apply in manner aforesaid for a warrant of survey, on any obstructions which he or she may conceive to impede the conveying of any surplus water on his or her rice grounds, and which by remaining thereon may prove any way injurious, or shall at any time hereafter make or keep up any dam or dams, which shall stop the course of any water, so as to overflow the lands of any other person or persons whatever, (without the consent of such person or persons first had and obtained,) and which shall be injurious to the said person or persons, then, in either of such cases, the said magistrate and the freeholders by him appointed, shall proceed in the same manner as is directed in the foregoing clause: Provided always, that if in either of the cases last mentioned the defendant shall neglect or refuse to attend at the survey, to choose a freeholder as aforesaid, then the three freeholders, who shall have been summoned by the magistrate, shall proceed to determine the matter in dispute, in the same manner as if the defendant had been present, and had chosen a freeholder: which said freeholders shall in both cases certify to the said magistrate, under their hands, what shall have been by them done in the premises: the expenses attending which survey shall be paid by the party against whom the award of the said freeholders shall be given. Mode of removing obstructions to passing off surplus water. Proviso.

9. Sec. IV. If any person, either by himself or herself, or by his or her overseer, agent, attorney, or trustee, or servants, or slaves, or any other person or persons acting for him or her, shall presume to stop up any dam or dams, or replace any obstructions in any manner whatsoever, which has or have been ordered to be opened or removed by any freeholders as aforesaid, or which has or have been opened or removed by himself or herself, or his or her overseer, agent, attorney or trustee, or by order of either of them, on the said 5th day of March, until the 1st day of July, every person so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of 200 pounds, to be recovered and disposed of in manner aforesaid. And if any person shall presume to obstruct, impede, or otherwise hinder, or interrupt the opening of any dam or dams, or the removing of any obstructions ordered to be opened or removed by the freeholders as aforesaid, every person so offending shall forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of 250 pounds, to be recovered and disposed of in any manner aforesaid. Expenses of survey. Persons stopping up dams, opened, or replacing obstructions between the 5th of March and 1st of July, shall forfeit 200 pounds. 250 pounds penalty for hindering the opening of dams, &c.

And whereas the keeping reservoirs of water by insufficient dams, and the want of proper wasteways thereto, is frequently the cause of such dams breaking and overflowing the fields of other persons, to their great damage:

10. Sec. V. Be it enacted, &c. That where any dam or dams have been made, or shall hereafter be made, for the purpose of forming reservoirs of water, without a sufficient wasteway, and which now are or shall hereafter be found inadequate to sustain the weight of water Insufficient dams to be enlarged under penalty of 100 pounds.

against the same, the owner of such dam or dams shall immediately, or as soon as may be, cause the same to be enlarged and strengthened, where they are already made and are insufficient, and such as may hereafter be made to be erected in a substantial manner, with a sufficient wasteway. And if any person shall neglect to strengthen his or her dam or dams, already erected, for the purpose aforesaid, where necessary, or shall hereafter erect any dam or dams for the purposes aforesaid, and which, in either case, in the opinion of three freeholders, or a majority of them, (to be appointed and proceed in manner hereinafter mentioned, respecting surveys of dams across rice grounds,) is or are not made and regulated in manner hereby prescribed, every person so offending shall, on complaint of any person or persons liable to be affected thereby, and on conviction thereof in any court of record in the county where such offence is committed, forfeit and pay the sum of 100 pounds for every such offence, which may be sued for, and if recovered, be disposed of in manner aforesaid.

11. Sec. VI. Every person to be summoned as aforesaid shall be a resident in the county where his attendance shall be required, and who, upon being duly summoned and attending any survey as aforesaid, shall be entitled to receive the sum of nine shillings and four pence per day each for every such attendance, to be paid by the person against whom the verdict of the freeholders shall be given; and in case of the non-attendance of any person, a resident, and summoned as aforesaid, (unless prevented by sickness, or some reasonable excuse, to be made upon oath, to the satisfaction of such magistrate,) then, and in such case, every such person so neglecting to attend when summoned as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten pounds per day for every such neglect or refusal.

RIVERS.

An Act to prevent persons throwing ballast or rubbish, or falling trees into the Rivers and navigable Creeks within this Province, and for keeping clear the channels of the same.—Approved April 7, 1763. Vol. I. 364.

Sec. I. II. III. and IV. [Re-enacted with amendments by act of 1765, see Preamble.]

Persons ob-
navigation of rivers and
be dealt with.

1. Sec. V. If any person or persons after the time of passing this act, shall cut or cause to be fallen or cut down any trees contiguous to the rivers or navigable creeks by this act intended to be kept free and passable for shipping, perriaguas, and large boats, and such trees so felled and cut down, shall happen to fall into the said rivers, or into or across the said navigable creeks, the person or persons so falling or causing the said trees to be felled and cut down, shall forthwith clear the said rivers or navigable creeks, of the same, at his or their sole cost and expense; and in case of his or their neglect or refusal, so to do within ten days, any one justice of the peace of the parish or district where the same shall happen, may, and is hereby authorized, on information on oath to him thereof given, forthwith to issue his warrant to the constable of the said parish or district, to cause the said tree or trees to be removed out of the said rivers or navigable creeks, and the expense attending the doing thereof shall be paid and discharged by the person or persons so falling or causing the said trees to be felled and cut down; and such justice is hereby fully authorized and empowered to issue his warrant for levying the same, together with the charge attending thereon, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such offender or offenders, and for want of sufficient distress, to commit such person or persons offending as aforesaid, to prison for the space of thirty days, or until payment shall be made as aforesaid; * Provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to include, or to make clear or navigable, any creek not navigable at the time of passing this act.

An Act to amend the foregoing.—Approved March 25, 1765. Vol. I. 364.

Whereas in and by an act passed in the second session of the fourth general assembly of this province, entitled [as above,] it is therein and thereby enacted, that if at any time from and after the passing the said act, any master or owner, or any person acting as master or owner of any ship or other vessel whatsoever, shall cast, throw out, or unload, or if at any time from and after the time aforesaid, there shall be cast, thrown out, or unladed from, or out of any ship or other vessel whatsoever, being or riding within any port, road, channel, river, or navigable creek within this province, any ballast, rubbish, gravel, earth, stone, or wreck, but above high water mark, (except the same be thrown out for the purpose only of filling up where wharves may be erecting or erected under the banks or bluffs of such river or navigable creek,) it shall and may be lawful for any one or more justice or justices of the peace for the parish or district where or near which such offence shall be committed, upon information made on oath thereof, and he or they are hereby authorized and required to summon or issue out his or their warrant or warrants, to apprehend or bring before him or them, the master or masters, owner or owners, of any such ship or other vessel, or other person or persons acting as such, against whom such complaint or information shall be made or given, and upon his or their appearance or making default in appearing, to proceed to examine the matters of fact, and upon due proof made either by confession of the party offending, or on view of such justice or justices, or upon the oath or oaths of one or more witness or witnesses, (which oath or oaths the said justice or justices are hereby required to administer,) that any ballast, rubbish, earth, gravel, stone, or wreck, hath been cast, unladen, or thrown out of, or from any ship or other vessel, the master or masters, or person or persons acting as master or masters thereof, shall be adjudged, and he and they are hereby respectively declared to be the offenders against the said act, and he and they being by such justice or justices, (or by any of the ways or means aforesaid,) thereof convicted, shall forfeit and pay for every such offence, any sum not exceeding eight pounds, at the discretion of such justice or justices, the one moiety thereof to the informer, and the other moiety thereof to his majesty, for the support of the poor of the parish, wherein such conviction shall be pronounced. And whereas the fine of eight pounds in and by the said act imposed and set, is found greatly deficient for preventing the evil thereby intended to be prevented:

2. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passing of this act, if any master or owner, or any person acting as master or owner of any ship or other vessel whatsoever, shall cast, throw out or unlade, or if there shall be cast, thrown out, or unladen from or out of any ship or other vessel, being or riding within any port, road, channel, river, or navigable creek within this province, any ballast, rubbish, gravel, earth, stone, or wreck, but above high water mark, (except as in the said act excepted,) every master or owner or any person acting as such as aforesaid, shall be deemed the offenders, and shall forfeit and pay for every such offence, a sum not exceeding 300 pounds sterling, to be recovered and applied as hereinafter directed.*

May be arrested and bound over.

And for the more speedy determination of offences against this act,
3. Sec. II. Be it enacted, &c. That information on oath being made of such offence before the chief justice, or one of the assistant justices of the general court of pleas of this province, the said chief justice and justices or any or either of them, are hereby required and directed, forthwith to issue his or their warrant to apprehend the offender or offenders, and oblige him or them to find sufficient security for their appearance at the court to be holden for that purpose, and to abide the judgment thereof; and in case such offender or offenders shall neglect or refuse to find such security, it shall and may be lawful to and for the said chief justice and assistant justices or any or either of them, to commit such offender or offenders to the common jail of Savannah, until the determination thereof. [The rest of the section is rendered obsolete by the constitution of 1798.]

justices of the peace
herein.

4. Sec. III. If any offence shall be committed against this act in any part of this province, where information thereof cannot speedily be made to the chief or assistant justices of the general court, it shall and may be lawful for any justice of the peace in the parish wherein the offence shall be committed, to receive such information on oath, and to bind over the offender or offenders, and the informer or informers, with sufficient securities to appear as aforesaid; and the said justice is hereby required to transmit such information immediately to the chief or assistant justices, who are hereby required to proceed in the same manner as if the same had been made before him or them.

Fines and forfeitures, how appropriated.

5. Sec. IV. All forfeitures incurred by virtue of this act shall be, one moiety thereof to the informer and the other moiety thereof to his majesty,† for the use of this province, to be paid into the hands of the treasurer of this province, and to be applied for clearing and keeping clear the rivers and navigable creeks within the same.

An Act to appropriate money for the improvement of the Internal Navigation of the State of Georgia.—Approved Dec. 19, 1817. Vol. III. 513.

6. Sec. I. II. and III. [Appoints commissioners for various rivers, and appropriates for the improvement of the navigation of the Ocmulgee $10,000; the Alatomaha $5,000; the Ogechee $3,000; Briar Creek $3,000; Savannah and Tugalo $20,000; Savannah river below Augusta $5,000; Broad river $5,000; the Oconee $10,000; for the Oconee above the mouth of Fishing Creek $5,000.]

vided, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent any future legislature from repealing this act or any part of it, and making any disposition of the fund set apart by this law, which they may deem expedient.

10. Sec. V. The interest or dividends of the above mentioned permanent fund, and no other part thereof, shall be annually applied to the improvement of the internal navigation of the State, in such manner as the legislature may by law hereafter direct. The interest only to be used.

An Act to provide for the improvement of the Navigation of certain Water Courses therein expressed.—Approved Dec. 26, 1826. Vol. IV. 355.

8. Sec. I. to XVII. inclusive. [Appropriates in Darien money for the improvement of the navigation of Oconee River below Carter's Bridge, $20,000; Ocmulgee above Macon, $10,000; below Macon, $20,000; the Alatamaha, $20,000; Chattahoochee, $10,000; Ogeechee below the mouth of Rocky Comfort, $5,000. Not to be drawn from the treasury for any river until it shall have been surveyed, which was to be done in the order of their comparative importance, to be determined by the governor and engineer. The general and special appropriations in these two acts, amounting to $401,000.]

9. The final result of this mode of improvement is declared by the legislature in the following resolution of Dec. 21, 1829.

Whereas, there are considerable balances of public money in the hands of various river commissioners; and whereas, the act of the present session has provided a new plan for directing the operations on our rivers: *

Resolved, That the governor appoint one or more competent agents to ascertain the situation of the public funds and property in the hands of any river commissioner or commissioners, or their agents, to collect and pay into the treasury the balances aforesaid, to dispose of the property aforesaid for the public benefit, and to institute suits, when necessary for the purposes of carrying this resolution into effect: Provided, that in cases in which the commissioners have faithfully discharged their duties, and in which it may be consistent with the views of the general assembly, as indicated by their proceedings during the present session, the governor may exercise a sound discretion in enforcing or suspending the operation of this resolve. 12. An Act more effectually keeping open Savannah River.—Approved Dec. 1, 1802. Vol. II. 80. And an act to amend this act of Dec. 15, 1809, (reciting its title at length,) approved Dec. 10, 1812. Vol. III. 488, are both included in subsequent statutes.

13. An Act to amend an act passed the 10th day of December, 1812, entitled "An Act to keep open, remove and prevent obstructions in Savannah River, calculated to impede the free passage of fish, and for other purposes."*—Approved Dec. 18, 1816. Vol. III. 506.

Commissioners shall examine the river from Augusta to the Indian line, and remove obstructions to the passage of fish.

Penalty for placing such obstructions.

$30 per diem.

Half to the commissioners.

Vacancies filled by Inf. court.

Be it enacted, That — [Appoints commissioners—five each for Franklin and Columbia, three each for Elbert and Lincoln, and two for Richmond,] and that all of said commissioners, or any one or more of them, shall have full power and authority to proceed to examine and review said river, or any part thereof, from the city of Augusta to the Indian Boundary line, and determine whether more than two-thirds of said river including the main current or channel thereof, is not obstructed by fish-traps or dams attached thereto, or other obstructions placed in said river, calculated to impede the free passage of fish; and in case the said main channel or sluice, including two-thirds of said river, shall be so obstructed, it shall be the duty of such commissioner or commissioners to remove, or cause to be removed, said obstructions, at the cost and charges of the party or parties so offending; to be recovered before any court having competent jurisdiction thereof, to be applied to the use of said commissioner or commissioners.

14. Sec. II. If any person or persons shall place or cause to be placed, into said main channel or sluice, including one-third of the Savannah or the Tugalo rivers, any obstructions calculated to impede the free passage of fish, after the 15th day of February next, and before which time some one or more of the said commissioners shall make known to some one or more justices of the peace of the district adjoining such shoal or shoals, the main sluice thereof, he, she or they shall pay, upon conviction before any justice or justices of the peace, for the district opposite to, and adjoining the river where such offence may be committed, the sum of $30 for every 24 hours that said obstructions may remain in said sluice or channel, to be recovered in the usual manner of justices' proceedings on sums under $30; one half to be paid to the informer or informers, and the other half to such commissioner as is now, or may hereafter be appointed, that is to say, to be paid to the commissioners of the county where such offence or offences may be committed, to be applied to their own proper use, for their services of laying out said main channel or sluice of said Savannah and Tugalo rivers.

15. Sec. III. When any vacancy or vacancies may happen by death, resignation, or removal out of the county, of any one or more of said commissioners, the justices of the inferior courts of the county where such vacancy shall happen, shall fill all such vacancies.

Sec. IV. [Repeals all conflicting laws.]

* Instead of merely amending, it entirely supersedes that act, and this act is superseded by the next as to all the river below Lightwood Log Creek.

An Act to lay off, define, and keep open the main channel of Savannah river from Augusta to the mouth of Lightwood Log Creek, in Elbert county, so as to prevent the obstruction of navigation and the free passage of fish therein, and to punish those who may obstruct the same, and to appoint commissioners to carry the provisions of this act into effect, and to point out the mode of their compensation.—
 Approved Dec. 22, 1829. Vol. IV. 360.

16. From and immediately after the passing of this act the commissioners hereinafter named, or a majority of them, shall have full power and authority to survey or cause to be surveyed and laid off the main channel of Savannah river from Augusta to the mouth of Lightwood Log creek, in Elbert county; and said commissioners, or a majority of them, are hereby empowered and required to reserve and keep open for the free passage of boats and fish the one-third part of said river in width, including the main sluice or channel thereof, at each and every place or part of said river between the two points or places aforesaid.

One-third part of the Savannah river from Augusta to Lightwood Log creek to be kept open.

17. Sec. II. The commissioners hereinafter named, or a majority of them, shall have full power to call to their assistance such number of the free white citizens of the respective counties opposite to which any obstruction may be found as they may deem necessary to remove the same; and if any person or persons so summoned shall fail or refuse to assist such commissioner or commissioners after one day's notice so to do, such person or persons so offending or refusing shall on proof and conviction thereof before any justice of the peace of the county where such offence was committed be sentenced to pay a sum not exceeding five dollars for each and every day he or they shall fail to serve: Provided, said commissioner or commissioners shall not cause the same individuals so summoned to serve more than three days at any one time (more than three days at any time), nor more than six days in any one year.

Commissioners may call to their assistance any number of the citizens. Penalty for refusal.

Proviso.

18. Sec. III. If any person or persons shall obstruct or cause to be obstructed, by dams, traps, racks, logs, trees, or any other thing or things, any part or portion of said main channel so laid off and defined for the purpose contemplated by this act, it shall be the duty of one or more of the commissioners to give the person or persons so offending three days' notice to remove the same; and on his, her, or their failure so to do, the commissioner or commissioners hereinafter named may apply to a justice of the peace for a warrant, which warrant shall be served by any lawful officer, and cause such offender or offenders to be brought before some justice of the peace of the county where such offence may have been committed; and on proof and conviction thereof, shall be sentenced to pay a sum not less than twenty dollars for every twenty-four hours such obstruction or obstructions shall remain; and every twenty-four hours such obstruction or obstructions may remain after notice given in terms of this act shall be deemed and taken as a separate offence, and may be punished accordingly.

Persons obstructing said river by dams, &c. how punished.

19. Sec. IV. If any person or persons shall employ an agent or agents for the purpose of obstructing or placing any trap or traps in said main channel, or who may be found fishing any trap or traps placed therein, it shall be the duty of said commissioner on information thereof to prosecute such agent or agents in the same manner as pointed out by the third section of this act; and should such agent or agents be notoriously insolvent, or non-residents of this State, it shall be the duty of the justice or justices before whom such offender or offenders are tried to commit such offender or offenders to the common jail of the county opposite to which the offence was committed, for a time not less than one day nor more than two months, at the discretion of the court; and the person or persons who employed such agent or agents shall be liable to pay, on action of debt before any justice of the county where such employer may reside, a sum not less than twenty dollars for each and every offence, so by them committed; and should any slave or slaves be found obstructing or fishing any trap or traps in said main sluice, such slave or slaves shall be taken before some justice of the peace, and on conviction thereof shall receive thirty-nine lashes on his bare back, and the owner or owners of such slave or slaves shall pay all costs incurred thereby; and if a free person of color shall be found offending against the provisions of this act, he, she, or they shall be dealt with in like manner as slaves, and imprisoned until they pay all costs, at the discretion of the court.

20. Sec. V. The commissioners hereinafter named shall, before they proceed to the duties required of them by this act, take the following oath or affirmation; "I, A. B., do solemnly swear that I will, to the best of my ability, discharge the duties required of me in terms of this act, as a commissioner of Savannah river, and faithfully execute the trust reposed in me without favor or affection; so help me God:" and said commissioners or a majority of them so qualified shall, on or before the 15th day of February, 1830, or so soon thereafter as may be convenient, proceed to survey, lay off, and define the main channel of said river, in conformity with the provisions of the first section of this act, commencing at the first shoal above Augusta, and continuing up the said river to the last-mentioned place in the said first section; and so soon as the same shall have been completed in the manner contemplated by this act, the commissioners who caused the said river to be surveyed and laid off shall have power to make out a fair and correct statement of the number of days they were actually engaged in said work, and present the same to the inferior court of the county in which they respectively reside; and on examination and approval by them, they shall issue an order in favor of such commissioner or commissioners to the county treasurer, or, where there is no county treasurer, to the clerk of the inferior court, for an amount not exceeding two dollars per day for each day said commissioners were actually so employed, to be paid out of the moiety of the State tax reserved for county purposes; Provided, they shall not receive pay for more than twenty-five days in any one year.

21. Sec. VI. Should it so happen that the commissioner from any of the counties hereinafter named should fail or refuse to do the duties prescribed in this act, the county or counties in which such defaulting commissioner or commissioners may reside shall nevertheless bear and pay their proportional share of the expense incurred on account of opening and laying off and keeping open said main channel as aforesaid.

22. Sec. VII. James G. Stallings, of the county of Columbia, James Jennings, Esq., of the county of Lincoln, Powhattan B. Thurmon, Esq., of the county of Wilkes, Alfred Hammond, Esq., of the county of Elbert, and Benjamin H. Warren, of the county of Richmond, be, and the same are hereby appointed commissioners of Savannah river, with full power and authority to carry into effect the provisions of this act; and should it so happen that either of the persons herein named as commissioners should fail or refuse to serve, it shall be the duty of the inferior court of the county where such vacancy may happen to appoint some fit and proper person to fill such vacancy; and that all laws and parts of laws militating against this act be, and the same are hereby repealed.

An Act to amend an act, to lay off, define and keep open the main channel of Savannah river, from Augusta to the mouth of Lightwood Log creek, in Elbert county, so as to prevent the obstruction of navigation and the free passage of fish therein, and to punish those who may obstruct the same, and to point out the mode of their compensation, passed the 22d day of December, 1829.—Approved Dec. 22, 1830. Pam. 188.

All persons violating the provisions of the third section of the above recited act, shall be liable to indictment for a common nuisance, before the superior court, having jurisdiction of the case, and on conviction thereof, shall pay a fine of one hundred dollars per day for every day such nuisance or obstruction shall remain unremoved, one half of such fine to go to the informer, and the other half to go to the county in which such conviction is had. Offenders liable in $100 per day.

Sec II. The commissioners appointed by the authority of the act as before recited, be, and the same are hereby invested with full power to employ a competent surveyor to lay off and define the main channel of Savannah river and with like power to employ a boat and suitable hand to manage the same more effectually to the ascertainment and removal of all kinds of obstructions and encroachments to the navigation of the said river Savannah, and the free passage of fish up the same, and the expense of said work be paid for in conformity to the provisions of the fifth section of the act passed the 22d day of December, 1829; and all laws, usages, or customs to the contrary notwithstanding. Commissioners' powers.

An Act to prevent itincrant or unauthorized persons from locating themselves on or near the river Savannah, under the pretence of fishing, and to prevent obstructions to the passage of fish up the said river, and farther to prohibit trading with slaves, and to extend the powers of civil officers, and patrols.—Approved Dec. 26, 1831. Pam. 217.

Whereas, the Savannah river in the neighborhood of the city of Savannah, is infested by a number of evil disposed persons, inhabiting huts, or camps, arks or floating houses, who under the pretence of being engaged in fishing, are in the habit of trading with negroes, to the great injury of their owners, and to the corruption of the morals of the slaves; and whereas, the mode of taking fish adopted by these persons, is one calculated to impede the passage of fish up the river, and lessens the value of lands on and near the said river; for remedy whereof,

Be it enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, it shall not be lawful for any one, other than the proprietors of the shores and bars of the said river, (or such persons as shall by any such proprietor be duly authorised,) to catch or take fish or attempt to do so, with seines, nets, or other contrivances of the kind, on any part of said river, or the waters communicating therewith, within twenty miles next immediately above the said city of Savannah. No unauthorized to catch fish.

Sec. II. From and after the passage of this act, it shall not be lawful for any persons to inhabit, occupy or reside in any ark, flat or floating house on the said river, or the waters thereof, or on the creeks communicating therewith, which shall not be engaged in the lawful Arks or floating houses prohibited as residences.

commerce of said river, in the carriage or transporting goods or produce to or from market, and that no ark, flat or floating house, other than such as are engaged in the lawful commerce of the said river, shall be allowed to be at anchor or be fastened to the shores of said river, within the distance aforesaid of said city.

Fine and imprisonment.

Sec. III. All offences against the provisions of the foregoing sections of this act, shall be punished if committed by a white person, for each offence, by a fine of not less than four hundred dollars, and by imprisonment in the common jail, for not less than three months, and if committed by a slave or free person of color, by whipping, not less than thirty-nine lashes for each offence.

Owners and lessees may catch fish.

Sec. IV. Nothing heretofore contained shall be construed to prevent the owners of the lands on the said river or the waters thereof, or the creeks emptying therein, or his, or her lessee, from taking fish in any manner he or they may choose, in the river opposite to his or their banks: Provided, That all and every lease or leases of a fishery, shall be duly recorded within ten days after the date thereof.

Proviso.

Patrols may search huts, arks, or camps.

Sec. V. It shall be lawful for patrols or any civil officer at all times to visit such huts, houses, arks or camps, as are now or shall hereafter be erected or established on or near the banks of said river, or on or near the banks of waters communicating therewith, and to search the same, and if upon such visit or search, any rice in the rough state or clean, or Indian corn or pease, exceeding in quantity one peck, shall be found therein, or in the actual or virtual possession of any occupant of such house, hut, or camp, or any spirituous liquors exceeding in quantity one gallon for each occupant of such hut, house or camp, it shall be evidence against the inhabitant or inhabitants, occupant or occupants, of such hut, house or camp, of trading by him, her or them, with negroes without a ticket from the owner, and shall be punished according to the provisions of the act of 19th December, 1818, entitled an act, to alter and amend an act, to prohibit slaves from selling certain commodities therein mentioned.

Prohibited articles found therein to be presumptive evidence of unlawful dealing.

23. The improvement of the navigation of this river, one of the finest in the Southern States, has been opposed and retarded by the difficulties necessarily incident to its position between two conterminous States.

In 1799 this State incorporated a company for twenty years for the improvement of the navigation between Augusta and Petersburg, Vol. I. 371, but the charter being suspended till South Carolina should assent to a levy of toll on the produce of that State, it never went into effect.

24. The same year, commissioners were appointed to co-operate with South Carolina on the river below Augusta, ib. 374.

In 1815, commissioners were appointed, and $10,000 appropriated for the river above Augusta, as soon as the measure should be reciprocated by the sister State, Vol. iii. 499. Which appropriation was two years afterwards made unconditional, ib. 515: and in the very liberal act of 1817, (Dig. I. Ed. 203,) Savannah river comes in for $20,000,—that river and Tugalo, conditional as before, on the like being done by South Carolina, but like the former condition, this was afterwards rescinded, Vol. iii. 521.

25. The next year (1818) the several previous appropriations, amounting together to $30,000, being independent of the co-operation of South Carolina, were divided: $15,000 to be applied from Augusta to Petersburg; $8,000 from Petersburg to Andersonville; and $7,000 thence to the mouth of Panther creek: and commissioners were appointed with whom South Carolina might, if she chose, associate others on a like appropriation of money, ib. 522. And by resolution of 1819, the governor was requested to correspond with the executive of South Carolina, with a view to obtain the co-operation of that State in this object. (Ib. 1215.)

26. At the close of 1823, $2,424 of the appropriation for Tugalo remained unexpended, in the hands of the commissioners, (iv. p. 33 of Res.) The next year appears a resolution (iv. p. 39) approving of what they had done, and directing them to proceed: $1,009 remained next year unexpended. See a favorable report, iv. p. 59.

27. The resolution of 23d Dec. 1822, (iv. p. 24,) called in the unexpended balance appropriated between Augusta and Petersburg; which, by the report of a committee, adopted 24th Dec. 1827, (ib. 92,) appears to have been paid in.

28. The river between Petersburg and Andersonville, say the committee in their report of 7th Dec. 1824, (ib. 40,) had been nearly all made navigable for burdens of 80 bales of cotton, and money remained in the hands of the commissioners, enough, it was supposed, to complete it.

29. A convention proposed by South Carolina for the improvement of Savannah and Tugalo rivers jointly by the two States, was ratified by Georgia, 23d Dec. 1823, (vol. iv. 353,) and two years afterwards, on the 20th Dec. 1825, by South Carolina, (ib. p. 112 of the Res.) This convention, however, was not to take effect without the assent of the United States; which assent, it seems, was never applied for, (Ibidem.)

30. But, in 1826, South Carolina evinced her willingness to co-operate at least in the preparatory measures, and the legislature of Georgia directed the executive to meet the proposition, (iv. p. 76 of the Res.) appropriating at the same session by act of 20th Dec. 1826, (ib. 357,) $20,000 for the improvement of the river below Augusta, to be laid out under the superintendence of three or more commissioners, to be appointed by the governor, and to act either alone, or in concert with commissioners from South Carolina. The same act also appropriated $20,000 for a survey and improvement of the river between Augusta and Andersonville, and appointed four commissioners to act in connection with others from South Carolina, if that State should see proper to appoint them, and make an equal appropriation.

31. The operations of the commission below Augusta were reported on in Dec. 1828, in terms of high approbation, (vol. iv. 145 of the Res.) And in 1830 a balance remained of the $20,000, amounting to $5,509, with boats, tools, &c. which had been paid and delivered over on final settlement with the State's agent, A. B. Longstreet. See Pam. of that year, 241.

32. Thus far, South Carolina had expressed a willingness to co-operate in an enterprise so interesting to both States, though she had rendered no actual assistance: but the prospect of a rail-road from Charleston to Hamburg rendered that State averse to expending money on the river below Augusta; and as to the navigation above that point, it was considered by our legislature as an object of secondary importance. The convention, and all other ideas of joint operation on the river was therefore from this time abandoned by both sides. (See some historical notices of this matter in the report adopted 20th Dec. 1828, Vol. iv. p. 112 of Res.)

Resolution consenting to improvements in the navigation of Savannah river to be made under an act of Congress, by throwing or building an obstruction across the north channel from Argyle to Hutchinson's island, opposite Savannah. Dec. 1835. Pam. 354.

Resolution directing the governor to employ an engineer at the expense of the State to survey the Savannah river, and parts of the adjacent swamp, 130 to 150 miles from Augusta, down to the head of tide water, and make his report to the next legislature; with a view to confining the river by embankments. Act authorizing James G. Stallings to construct a mill-dam in Savannah river at Stallings' shoals, in Columbia county. Vol. iv. 308. 1821.

The unexpended balance of appropriations heretofore made for the improvement of Savannah river between Augusta and Petersburg, directed to be paid over by the executive to three commissioners who are directed to apply it to that purpose. 1836. Pam. 32.

33. An Act to repeal an act to authorize John Martin Dasher to keep open and improve the navigation of Ebenezer Mill Creek, and to erect Mills thereon, and to prevent persons from placing obstructions so as to impede the free use and navigation of the same.—Approved Dec. 18, 1816. Vol. III. 505.

Whereas, by a memorial presented to this legislature from a number of the inhabitants of Effingham county, landholders, and others, on the Ebenezer Mill creek, that the act to authorize John Martin Dasher to erect mills on the said creek has had the tendency to injure the navigation, and to lessen the value of the lands lying on the waters of the above creek:

34. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passage of this act, That an act passed on the 1st day of Dec. 1801,* to authorize John Martin Dasher to keep open and improve the navigation of Ebenezer Mill creek, and to erect mills thereon, as also an act to amend an act to authorize John Martin Dasher to keep open and improve the navigation of Ebenezer Mill creek, and to erect mills thereon,* be, and the same is hereby repealed.

Penalty for obstructing the main channel.

35. Sec. II. After the passage of this act, in case any person or persons shall obstruct, in any manner, any part of the main current or channel of the Ebenezer Mill creek, from its confluence with Abercorn creek to its source, in Savannah river, he, she or they shall forfeit and pay the sum of thirty dollars for every twelve hours the same shall remain unremoved, to be recovered before any court having jurisdiction thereof, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the improvement of the navigation of the said creek; and the commissioners, or a majority of them hereafter to be appointed by this act, shall proceed to remove such obstructions in such manner as they may think proper.

Sec. III. [Temporary.]

Sec. IV. [Appoints five commissioners.] A majority of whom shall have full power and authority to carry into effect the intentions and meaning of this act.

An Act to keep open the main channel of Broad river, from the confluence of the same with the Savannah river, to the mouth of Bluestone creek.—Approved Dec. 22, 1808. Vol. II. 461. [Re-enacted in subsequent acts.]

An Act to keep open the main channel of Broad river, from the confluence of the same with Savannah river, to the mouth of Hudson's river in Franklin county.—Approved Dec. 13, 1809. Vol. II. 547. [Re-enacted in subsequent statutes.]

An Act to authorize Shaler Hillyer, of the county of Wilkes, to build a Mill-dam across Broad river, at the shoals called and known by the name of Muckle's Ferry shoals, and for other purposes.—Approved Dec. 8, 1815. Vol. III. 494.

Sec. I. to IX. [Inclusive, relate to Hillyer's Mill-dam.]

36. Sec. XII. [Directs what portion of the river shall be kept open and fixes the penalty for obstructions; as to both of which, see later acts.] To be recovered before any court having competent jurisdiction thereof, one half to the informer, and the other half to be applied to the improvement of the navigation of said river.

Penalties for obstructing.

37. Sec. XIV. [Referred to in the next act. See Sec. 39.] In case any persons shall, after the passage of this act, obstruct any part of the main current or channel, as aforesaid, he, she or they shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars for every twelve hours the same shall remain unremoved, to be recovered before any court having competent jurisdiction, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the improvement of the navigation of said river; and the said commissioners, or a majority of them, shall proceed to cause the same to be removed in the same manner as pointed out by this act for removing obstructions in said river.

38. An Act to keep open that part of Broad river commonly called the Middle river, running between Coleman and Anthony's Mills.—Approved Dec. 18, 1819. Vol. III. 527.

From and after the passing of this act, all that part of Broad river

* Passed Nov. 26, 1802. Vol. II. 56.

commonly called the Middle river, running between Coleman and Anthony's mills, shall, before and after its junction with either of the rivers on which the said mills are erected, be, and is hereby declared to be, a free passage for fish, boats or rafts; and to be clear of all and every obstruction whatever, to the final junction of all its parts with the main river aforesaid.

That part called Middle river to be kept open.

39. Sec. II. All and every person or persons whatever, obstructing, or causing the same to be obstructed, shall be subject to the fines and forfeitures imposed in the 14th section of an act passed on the 8th Dec. 1815, to authorize Shaler Hillyer to build a mill-dam across Broad river at Muckle's ferry shoals, and for other purposes.

Penalties for obstructing it.

Sec. III. [Appoints a commissioner.]

An Act to lay off, define, and keep open the main channel of Broad river so as to prevent the obstruction of the free passage of fish, and to appoint commissioners for the same.—Approved Dec. 18, 1824. Vol. IV. 354.

40. From and after the passing of this act, the commissioners hereinafter named shall have full power and authority to survey, or cause to be surveyed and laid off, the main channel of Broad river from the north and Hudson's fork in Franklin county to its confluence with Savannah river.

The main channel to be laid off.

41. Sec. II. Said commissioners, or a majority of them, are hereby empowered to reserve and keep open for the free passage of fish the one-third part of said river in width including the main current thereof, from said fork to the confluence of said river with Savannah river.

To be kept open.

42. Sec. III. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons to obstruct by dams, traps, or any other thing or things, any part or portion of said river so laid off and set apart for the purposes mentioned in this act.

No obstructions allowed.

43. Sec. IV. If any person or persons shall obstruct or cause to be obstructed any part of said main channel, it shall be the duty of said commissioners, or any one of them, to give the person or persons so offending three days' notice to remove such obstruction; and on such person or persons failing or refusing so to do, he, she, or they, on proof and conviction thereof in any justice's court having cognizance of the same, be sentenced to pay a sum not exceeding twenty dollars for every twenty-four hours such obstructions shall remain after service of such notice; Provided, such obstructions shall not be caused by freshets.

Proceedings and penalties against offenders.

44. Sec. V. Lindsay Johnson, Claiborn Webb, Hugh M. Gehee, and Simeon Oliver, of the county of Elbert, be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners of said river from the junction of the north and south forks of said river to the junction of the same with Savannah river; and that Russell I. Daniel, of Madison county, John Dudley, of Elbert county, Charles Tuggle, of Madison county, and Richard C. Bond, of Franklin county, be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners of said river from the junction of the north and south forks of said river to the junction of the north and Hudson's forks of said river.

Proviso.

Commissioners appointed for said river.

45. Sec. VI. Said commissioners, or a majority of them, shall have full power to carry into effect this act within their several boundaries, by calling to their assistance such number of the free white citizens of their respective counties as they may deem necessary to remove such obstructions as they may at any time find in said main channel: Provided, said commissioners shall not cause such person or persons so summoned to serve more than three days at any one time, nor more than six days in any one year.

Commissioners may call on the citizens, &c.

Proviso.

Penalty on persons refusing to assist.

46. Sec. VII. If any person so summoned shall neglect or refuse to assist said commissioner or commissioners, after reasonable and due notice given, such person or persons so neglecting or refusing shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five dollars for each day he shall so neglect or refuse to serve, to be recovered before any justice's court in the district where such person or persons reside, to be applied to the clearing out such obstruction or obstructions.

Sec. VIII. All laws or parts of laws militating against this act are hereby repealed.

An Act to amend an act, entitled an act to lay off, define, and keep open the main sluice of Broad river, so as to prevent the obstructions of the free passage of fish, and to appoint commissioners for the same, passed the 18th Dec. 1824.—Approved Dec. 24, 1825. Vol. IV. 355.

Commissioners of Broad river appointed.

47. Be it enacted, &c. That Linsay Johnson, Philemon R. Wilhite, William C. Morgan, Milton P. Webb, and William Gilmer be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners of Broad river, from the junction of the north and south fork of said river to the junction of the same with the Savannah, with the same power and authority as were vested in the commissioners appointed for that section of the river by the before recited act; that William Nelms, Isaac Callaway, and Russell J. Daniel be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners for said river from the junction of the north and south forks to the junction of the Hudson, with the same power and authority as were vested in the commissioners appointed by the aforesaid act; and that James Jones, Sterling Harris, Joseph McEntyre, be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners of the Hudson river, with the junction of the same with the North river to the junction of Grove river, with the same power and authority as were given to the commissioners of Broad river by the before-recited act.

Vacancies how filled.

48. Sec. II. When any vacancy may happen by death, resignation, or refusal to serve, the remaining commissioners of the section where such vacancy may occur shall immediately proceed to fill the same.

49. Sec. III. All laws militating against this act are hereby repealed.

By act of 1800, a lottery was authorized to raise money to clear out Broad river from its mouth to Wilhite's landing. Vol. I. 376.

Act of 1810, incorporating the first Broad River Navigation Company, Vol. II. 648. Amended, Vol. III. 485.

Old charter of incorporation rescinded, and new company incorporated, Dec. 16, 1815. Vol. III. 501.

Appropriation of $5,000, from the mouth, as far up as it would go, (provided the incorporated company release all claim to toll,) and commissioners appointed, Dec. 19, 1817. lb. 513.

New commissioners appointed Dec. 21, 1822. Vol. IV. 353.

Resolution of the legislature that it was inexpedient to make any further appropriation until a survey should be made by an engineer; that the B. Riv. Navigation Company, by not acting, operates as an injury to the people in the vicinity; and that the executive request them to surrender their charter, 4th Dec. 1824. Vol. IV. p. 45 of Res.

The act of 20th Dec. 1828, Vol. IV. 359, extinguishes the company by repealing the act of incorporation.

Brier Creek. Act of Dec. 18, 1-20, Vol. IV. 352, repeals the exemption of those who work on it from work on roads.

An act to improve the navigation of Brier creek from the line dividing the counties of Burke and Scriven to the mouth thereof, passed 15th Feb. 1797, Vol. I. 369. [This act declares (Sec. 1) what persons shall be liable to work on the creek, and the penalty of failure. Sec. 2 empowers the inferior court of Scriven county to appoint commissioners, and to enforce compliance with the act. Sec. 3 expressly repealed by act of 1820, Vol. IV. 352) exempts from road duty such persons as are compelled to work on the creek; and Sec. 4 designates the tools that laborers must bring with them. This act is obviously rendered obsolete on the change of system contemplated by the general appropriation for rivers in 1817. The act of that year (Vol. III. 513) allots $3,000 to Brier creek.]

50. The act of 19th Dec 1819, (Vol. III. 516,) in pursuance of the new plan of contracts, appropriated the further sum of $5,000, and appointed five commissioners, empowering them to receive and lay out in the contemplated improvements the sums appropriated, and any monies that might be raised by subscription, making semi-annual returns to the governor. This act seems also now to be functus officio, as may be inferred from the subsequent resolutions.

As to two early acts concerning Brier creek, Vol. I. 366, and Vol. II. 460, see Ogechee.

51. The report of the proper committee, which was adopted 22d Dec. 1823, states that $3,000 had been drawn by the Burke county commissioners of Brier creek; that a bond and security had been filed by their treasurer in the State treasury more than three years before; but no returns had been made by the commissioners. Not knowing what had been done, the executive is requested to require a full exposition, which, if not satisfactorily made, to put the bond in suit; and that any unexpended balance of the funds be applied to clearing out the creek below Millhaven. (Vol. IV. p 30 of Res.)

52. The report adopted with the resolutions of 7th Dec. 1824, (Vol. IV. p. 39 of the Res.) states that a contract had been made for the work on that part of the stream between Ray's Bridge in Burke, and Jones's Mill (Millhaven) in Scriven county, for $5,500, five thousand of which had been paid in advance; that $2,935 was still in the hands of the treasurer of the commissioners; that in October, 1822, the commissioners were notified of the work being done, but from casualty it was never examined, since which, four of the five commissioners had resigned. And it was resolved that the commissioners in Scriven county be requested to examine it, and report to the executive.

53. The resolution of 20th Dec. 1823, (Vol. IV. p. 125 of Res.) find of the $3,000 a balance not yet expended or refunded was in the hands of the commissioners' treasurer at the time of his decease; that his representatives have leave to pay it into the treasury without interest, and when thus paid in, to be considered as a part of the general unappropriated funds of the State, and no longer allotted to Brier creek.

An Act for clearing out Ogechee River and Brier Creek.—Approved Feb. 22, 1796. Vol. I. 366.

Sec. I. [Appoints commissioners to take charge of appropriations and subscriptions, and to clear out by contract, Ogechee below Louisville and Brier creek below Walker's bridge.—Obsolete.]

54. Sec. II. Where any mill-dam is already built, or may hereafter be built across the said river or creek, below the places before mentioned, the proprietor or proprietors of such mill-dam or dams, shall within four months after the passing of this act, erect or prepare a gate, lock or passage, sufficient and convenient for the passage of any boat, raft or rafts of timber, boards or scantling, capable of being carried down such stream, if such dam were not there; and if the proprietor of any mill-dam, shall fail to erect and keep such gate, lock or passage, within four months after the passing of this act as aforesaid, then it shall and may be lawful for the said commissioners or any of them, or any person appointed by them, to break down and destroy every such mill-dam or dams; and the owner of any boat, vessel or raft, which may be hindered or obtained by reason of such dam for want of a proper gate, lock or passage, or by reason of not opening the same when required, may recover of the owner or proprietor or manager of such mill-dam or other stoppage, five dollars for every hour such boat, vessel or raft may be detained by the reason or means aforesaid, and any court or lawful tribunal having cognizance of debts to the amount of the damages stated in the county where such mill-dam may be, is authorized and required to give judgment on good and sufficient proof of the facts before them, (the defendant being first summoned to appear and answer the complaint) against such owner, proprietor or manager, in terms of this act, and award execution thereon.

Sec. III. [Re-enacted with amendments in 1811. See Sec. 59, 60.]

Sec. IV. [Timber to be taken without compensation by authority of the commissioners.—Expired with the office.]

Penalties on persons felling trees in said streams.

55. Sec. V. If any person or persons shall fell any tree or trees into the said river or creek, or cause the same to be felled, and shall not cut up and remove the same within the period of forty eight hours after such felling, such person shall, on conviction before any justice of the peace for the county, forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars for every tree so felled into the said river or creek,* and not removed as aforesaid; and such forfeiture shall be applied, one half to the use of the informer, and the other half to the purposes of this act.

Sec. VI. [Requires the commissioners to give security. Sec. VII. requires them to make annual returns to the governor. Sec. VIII. subjects all lands in the vicinity of either stream, to an extra tax.—All obsolete.]

[Sec. III. of an act of 26 Nov. 1802. Vol. II. 75, subjecting offenders to a fine of $20 per day, is superseded by act of 1808. Next in order.]

An Act to keep open Great Ogechee and Brier creek.—Approved Dec. 22, 1808. Vol. II. 459. [Superseded by the act of 1836.]

56. An Act to revise and amend the third section of An Act for clearing out Ogechee river and Brier creek, passed the 22d day of February, 1796.—Approved Dec. 14, 1811. Vol. III. 484.

57. Whereas the said third section of the before-recited act is found insufficient for the purposes intended: for remedy whereof:

Persons who may have put in obstructions, required to remove them, or to be removed by a constable and posse,

Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and immediately after the passing of this act, all hedges, stops already made, or which may hereafter be made across the said river Ogechee, any where between the mouth thereof and the shoals of the same, shall be removed by the person or persons putting in the same, and if any hedge, stop or weir as aforesaid shall, on the first day of January next, or at any time thereafter, be or remain in the said river, it shall be the duty of any justice or justices of the peace in any adjoining company district or county, on information being made on oath, that there is any hedge, stop or weir in the said river, between the places aforesaid, to issue his order, directed to any lawful constable of said district or county, to summon and take with him any number of citizens which he may deem necessary and proceed without delay to remove all such hedges, weirs or stops as aforesaid; and the person or persons having placed the same in said river, shall be liable to pay at the rate of fifty cents per day for each person so employed as aforesaid; all to be recovered in one action before any court having cognizance of the same.

Second offence penalty $100.

58. Sec. II. Any person or persons offending in like manner a second, or at any other time thereafter, shall be, and they are hereby declared to be liable to be indicted in any adjoining county, and on conviction thereof, to be fined in a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars; one moiety to be paid to the inferior court for the use of the county, and the other to the prosecutor.†

Sec. III. [Repeals all conflicting acts.]

* And see the second section of the act of 1836.

† Keeping open the Ogechee further provided for by the VI. Sec. of the act of 1835. This title, Sec. 162.

An Act to incorporate a Company for the improvement of the Navigation of that part of Ogechee river, between the town of Louisville and Paramour's Bluff.—Approved Dec. 5, 1801. Vol. II. 29. [Never went into operation.]

An Act to authorize certain Commissioners therein named, to establish a Lottery, for the purpose of raising the sum of $3,000, to be appropriated to clearing out and improving the navigation of the Ogechee and Canuchee rivers.—Approved Nov. 26, 1802. Vol. II. 66. [Obsolete.]

An Act to incorporate a company for the purpose of opening the Ogechee river, from the mouth of Canuchee to the mouth of Rocky Comfort, and for the improvement of the navigation thereof.—Approved Dec. 15, 1810. Vol. II. 645.

An Act amendatory of the foregoing.—Approved Dec. 13, 1811. Vol. III. 482.

59. [This second "Ogechee Navigation Company," like the former and the lottery, proved ineffectual; and the resolution of 1830, (referring to the act of incorporation of 1810, by mistake as having passed in 1830,) declare the rights of the company forfeited; and direct the proper officer to institute proceedings with a view of rescinding the charter.] See Pam. of 1830, p. 250, and 1831, Pam. 199.

60. The next effort made by the legislature for the Ogechee was the appropriation of $3,000 in the act of 1817, Vol. III. 513, which was however, by a resolution of the next year (Vol. III. 1198,) placed in the hands of the commissioners appointed to open the Skidaway narrows near the mouth of the river, and two gentlemen of Jefferson county were the ensuing year (1819,) united to that commission. (Ib. 1218.)

may deem expedient, to enter upon the discharge of their duties, and remove all obstructions that may impede the free passage of fish, to the width of twenty-five feet of the main channel of said river, between the points herein designated; and may employ such persons under them as they may deem necessary to effect said object; and if any person oppose said commissioners in the execution of said duty, by threats or otherwise, any one or more of said commissioners may apply to a judge of the superior court, or a justice of the inferior court of the county in which such person or persons may reside, and on complaint on oath, that such person or persons has opposed, or is opposing said commissioners in the discharge of their duty, the judge or justice, shall issue his warrant to the sheriff or his deputy, or any constable of said county, requiring him to arrest such person or persons, and bring him or them before such judge or justice, forthwith, and upon evidence to the satisfaction of such judge or justice, that the person arrested, has opposed, or is opposing said commissioners in the discharge of said duty, said judge or justice shall require such person to enter into bond with good and sufficient security, in the sum of one thousand dollars, payable to the commissioners, who at the time, shall be engaged in the execution of the duties of this act, with condition that such person or persons shall not oppose or interfere with said commissioners in the removal of the obstructions for the space of twenty-five feet above specified in said river; and if the persons shall fail or refuse to give bond, the judge or justice shall commit him or them to the common jail of the county, there to remain until such bond shall be given, or such obstructions removed.

63. Sec. II. If any person shall commit a breach of the bond by him given, it shall be lawful for the commissioners therein named, or their survivors, to institute suit thereon, and to recover the penalty of the bond, to the use and benefit of the county or counties in which such commissioners may reside; and if any person shall hereafter obstruct the main channel above specified, for the free passage of fish, between the places herein before designated, by fish traps, dams or other impediments, such person or persons shall be subject to indictment in the superior court of the county in which the offence may be committed, and on conviction, shall be fined in a sum not more than three hundred dollars, nor less than one hundred dollars, one-half of which shall be for the use of the prosecutor, and the other half for the use of the county in which such conviction shall be had.

64. Sec. III. If any of the commissioners herein named, shall refuse to act, or shall die or remove, the inferior court of the counties in which such vacancy may happen, shall, upon application, appoint some suitable person to supply his place, and the person that may be appointed, shall have all the powers, rights and privileges of the commissioners herein named.

Sec. IV. [Repeals all conflicting laws.]

65. An Act to prevent any person or persons from placing obstructions in or over the rivers, creeks or water courses of Chatham and Bryan counties.—Approved Dec. 13, 1808. Vol. II. 484.

Whereas great inconvenience has arisen to the people of Chatham and Bryan counties from the practice of placing bridges over, and erecting dams across the rivers, creeks and water courses of said counties, which might otherwise be navigated by boats; for remedy whereof,

66. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That no person in future shall be authorized to build any bridge across any river, creek or water course, which shall at any time admit the passage of boats, unless the said bridge is at least six feet higher than spring tides ordinarily rise; and in no case shall any person be authorized to dam across a river, creek or water course, which is convenient to, and frequented by the inhabitants of Bryan or Chatham counties in the counties aforesaid.

Creeks, rivers and water-courses in Chatham and Bryan counties not to be obstructed.

67. Sec. II. If at this time any bridge exists, or is in future erected, over any water course frequented by, or convenient to the inhabitants of the counties above named, which does not answer the description given in the above recited enacting clause, the inferior court of Chatham county, is hereby authorized and required to cause the same to be removed on the application of five or more of the inhabitants of the said counties of Chatham and Bryan, by the person or persons who have built the same; and in case of their refusal, to employ persons to do it, at the cost of the builder or builders, to be levied on his, her or their property by distress and sale; and in every case where a dam has been erected, as above described, to cause the same to be removed and the water course cleared out in like manner.

All obstructions to be removed.

In what manner.

An Act to authorize certain commissioners therein named to establish a lottery for the purpose of raising the sum of $3,000, to be appropriated to clearing out and improving the navigation of the Alatomaha and Oconee rivers, commencing from the sea, and continuing as far up as the Rock landing, and for other purposes.—Approved Feb. 3, 1793. Vol. I. 376. [Obsolete.]

An Act for the improvement of the Oconee and Alatomaha rivers, from Montpelier to Darien.—Approved Dec. 5, 1801. Vol. II. 31. [Repealed by the next act.]

68. An Act for the improvement of the Oconee and Alatomaha rivers, from Montpelier to Darien.—Approved Dec. 1, 1802. Vol. II. 85. [Makes it compulsory on the people of the adjoining districts to work on the river; appoints commissioners, &c. All the act is rendered obsolete by the subsequent change of system in river operations, except the following.]

69. Sec. VI. Any person or persons who shall obstruct the navigation of said river by dams, shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars per day for every day so stopped, or felling trees therein, for every tree so felled, the sum of five dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of the county adjoining such obstruction, to be entered up in separate judgments, the one half to be applied by the commissioners to the use of cleaning out the said rivers, and the other half to the use of any informer who shall prosecute an action thereon to effect.

Penalty for obstructing those rivers, $10 per day.

69. In 1822 $5,000 was allowed to this river in the general appropriation act, (vol. iv. 61, Sec. 7.) but not to be drawn unless in payment for work which had been completed.

70. By the report adopted 22d December 1823 (vol. iv. p. 32 of the Res.) it appears that a contract had been made on the 31st of March 1823, for a canal to be cut in two years from Piney island to Catfish creek for $10,000; on which $4,820 was to be paid in advance, $2,535 when the work should be half done, and $2,535 on its completion. In the absence of the necessary information, the further consideration of the subject was postponed to the next session.

71. The general river-appropriation act of 1826 (vol. iv. 355) allots $20,000 to the river Alatomaha, appoints additional commissioners, places the money at the disposal of the board, directs them to purchase slaves at their discretion to be returned to the State when no longer wanted, and to report their proceedings annually to the legislature. (Sec. 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11.)

72. The report of Dec. 19, 1820, (vol. iv. p. 123 of Reso.) states an unexpected balance of $2,826. That 30 negroes had been purchased, of which six had died by drowning or disease: That they had been employed in the vicinity of Darien, and had made considerable improvement in the navigation above and below the town. The committee however regretting the want of sufficient vouchers, propose the following resolution which was adopted.

73. Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the commissioners of rivers, roads, or other agents having the disbursement of public money, to require all accounts to be sworn to before they are paid, and to take duplicates, to be returned with the report to the governor for the information of the legislature.

Appropriation of $5,000 for the Alatomaha, 1836, pam. 32.

An Act to appropriate a sum of money to improve the navigation of the Big Satilla River.—Approved Dec. 30, 1836. Pam. 241.

$3,000 appropriated.

Sec. I. The sum of three thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby appropriated for the purpose of removing obstacles, and deepening the channel of that river, so as to render it all times navigable for steam-boats and other water craft.

Commissioners appointed.

Sec. II. Mark Addison, of the county of Ware, Wiley Robson, of the county of Wayne, and Alexander Kean, of the county of Camden, be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners to carry the provisions of this act into effect, and that they proceed to the duties of said appointment, as soon as they shall be notified of the same.

Vacancies in the commission.

Sec. III. In case either or all of the commissioners hereinbefore named, should decline to act, it shall be the duty of his excellency the governor, to supply their places; whenever a vacancy occur in said board, he shall have power to fill them, and in all cases a majority of said board, shall be competent to the transaction of business.

Their powers and duties.

Sec. IV. Said commissioners or a majority of them shall have power to draw the amount appropriated or any part thereof, and to exercise such general discretion in the prosecution of the improvement of said river, as to them may appear the most productive of the best interest of the State, and that said commissioners give bond and security in the sum of $6,000.

75. Ocloconee. By Resolution of Dec. 21, 1833, a commission of three from Thomas and two from Decatur county, are directed to examine the Ocloconee River at the expense of those counties as to its present "capacity for transportation," and report to the ensuing session on the obstructions and the probable cost of removal; with such further views and suggestions as they may deem proper. Pam. 390.

76. An Act to establish tobacco Inspectors at the several places herein after mentioned, and for improving the navigation of Broad River and Oconee River.—Approved Feb. 15, 1799. Vol. I. 557.

[The provisions for keeping those rivers open for the free passage of fish, embraced by subsequent acts, as far as respects the Oconee proper. For the VII. Sec. see Appalatchee.]

An Act to amend [the foregoing] so far as respects the navigation of Oconee river.—Approved Dec. 2, 1801. Vol. II. 15.

Sec. I. II. and III. [Impose a penalty on persons stopping the river, and gives jurisdiction to justices of the peace to try the offenders.]

Offending justices may be tried in adjoining districts.

77. Sec. IV. If any justice of the peace shall in any manner offend against this act, it shall and may be lawful for him or them to be tried or prosecuted in any one of the adjoining districts; and the same fees shall be levied and collected for services performed under this act, as are allowed for like services in magistrates' courts.

78. An Act to amend an act for keeping open the Oconee river from the Rock landing to John Barnett's in the county of Clarke, passed the second day of December 1801, and to keep open the navigation of Great Ogechee river, up to the shoals.—Approved Nov. 26, 1802. Vol. II. 75. [The last preceding act is the one here referred to; the title is not recited. This statute is re-enacted in subsequent acts.]

79. *An Act to amend the several acts heretofore passed for opening and keeping open the River Oconee.—Approved Dec. 10, 1812. Vol. III. 487.

Whereas a number of the good citizens of this State did purchase, at the late sales of fractional surveys, certain lands on the Oconee river, at very exorbitant prices, which prices were considerably enhanced by certain shad fisheries which were said to be attached thereto, and which benefits will be entirely done away, unless the said river Oconee shall be kept open in pursuance of the several acts then in force at the time said purchases were made:

Sec. I. Be it therefore enacted, &c. That if any person or persons shall, after the first day of January next, continue any obstructions that now are, or place any other obstructions for private use in the one third of the Oconee river, including the main sluice from the confluence of the Oconee and Ocmulgee rivers to the mouth of the Appalatchee, by dams, traps or other machinery, by which the free passage of fish shall be thereby obstructed, shall, for every twenty-four hours such obstruction shall be so continued, forfeit and pay the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered before any justice or justices of the peace in the district where such offender may reside; the one half thereof shall be for the use of the informer, and the other half for the use of the county where such offender may reside.

Penalty for obstructing fish in the Oconee $20 per day.

How recovered and applied.

80. Sec. II. When any person or persons shall be aiding, abetting or assisting in placing any such obstructions as aforesaid, on due proof thereof, shall suffer all the penalties hereby inflicted on the proper owner or claimant of such dams, traps or other machinery, by which the navigation of the said river Oconee shall be obstructed as aforesaid.

Accessories punished in same manner.

81. Sec. III. Any person or persons who shall be knowing to any such obstructions being erected in the said river, shall be, and they are hereby authorized to give to the person or persons, their agent or attorney, one day's notice to remove such obstructions within twenty days thereafter, and on their failing so to do, it shall be lawful for any person or persons living adjacent thereto, to call on such number of persons as he may deem necessary, and remove such obstructions at the expense of the owner or owners, claimant or claimants of such dams, traps or other machinery, and the cost and expense of such removal shall be paid by the persons or claimants of such machinery, to be recovered before any tribunal having jurisdiction thereof.

Obstructions how to be removed.

82. Sec. IV. Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to affect any mill dam already built, or that hereafter may be built: Provided, the owner or owners of said dam or dams will cause to be placed in said dam or dams, in the main sluice of the river, a slope of at least thirty feet wide, and of sufficient depth to admit of the free passage of fish, during the months of February, March, and April.

This act not to effect mill-dams.

* See further as to the Oconee, act of 1835, Sec. 157, &c.

83. An Act to render navigable that part of the Oconee river, situated between the mouth of Fishing creek, in Baldwin county, and Hudson's ford, at or near Barnett's shoals, in the county of Clark, passed December 18th, 1818.—Approved Dec. 22, 1819. Vol. III. 518.

[Sec. I. to V. inclusive contain the appropriation of $60,000 and the plan of operations under Terrel and Reid's agency.]

Sec. VI. It shall be the duty of the present owners of the mills aforesaid,* on said Oconee river, and all those who may be the future owners of the same, or who may hereafter erect mills on said river, to cause good and substantial locks to be erected at their said mills, so as to make the same permanent, and to allow of safe and easy navigation around their said mill dams.† [The rest of the section temporary.]

Sec. VII. [Appoints five commissioners.]

84. An Act to amend an act to render navigable that part of the Oconee river situated between the mouth of Fishing creek, in Baldwin county, and Hudson's Ford, at or near Barnett's shoal, in the county of Clark, passed in the year 1818.—Approved Dec. 22, 1819. Vol. III. 528.

Whereas Messrs. Reid and Terrel are authorized, by an act of the legislature, to render navigable the Oconee river from the mouth of Fishing creek to Barnett's shoal; and as experience has pointed out some imperfections in said act:

Penalty for obstructing the channel for boats.

Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passage of this act, any person or persons who may throw any obstruction to the passage of boats in the channel of the Oconee river made by Messrs. Terrel and Reid, or in any part of said river necessary to the passage of boats, shall pay a fine of $200 to such person as will give information of the same, and prosecute the case to conviction before any tribunal of the State having cognizance of such cases.

Penalty for felling trees above the mouth of Fishing creek.

85. Sec. II. Any person who shall fall any tree of one foot or more in diameter into the Oconee river, between the mouth of Fishing creek and Garner's ferry, or as far on said river as the navigation may have been rendered practicable by said undertakers, shall, for every such offence, pay the sum of twenty dollars, to be levied, collected, and disposed of as in the last section.

Channel may be opened in any part of the river. Owners of mills to erect locks.

86. Sec. III. The said undertakers are authorized to carry their channel of navigation through any part of the river that may appear to them most practicable; and the owners of mills, who may have erected their dams across the course of such channel, shall, in every case, be bound to erect a lock, of sufficient size to admit of the passage of such boats as are used in the transportation of produce on the section of the river on which such mill may be erected; the lock to be so erected to be placed in a proper situation under the direction of the undertakers,

* The mills previously mentioned in the act, are Carter's, Marshall's, Graybills, Cooper's, Reid's and Legon's.

† It might seem questionable whether those parts of the acts relative to locks for boat navigation above Milledgeville, should have been retained among those to keep the river open for fish; which last are no doubt in force and operation. But these acts being expressly referred to and amended by the subsequent act of 1820, (vol. iv. 352,) and again so late as 1821, (Ibidem,) the compiler feels precluded from the exercise of any discretion on the subject. They are inserted therefore, though with no reference to opening, but solely as they respect keeping open, the river.

and liable to the same mode of inspection as other parts of the river.

Sec. IV. [Appoints eight commissioners.]

87. An Act to amend the sixth section of an act, entitled "An Act to render navigable that part of the Oconee river situated between the mouth of Fishing creek, in Baldwin county, and Hudson's Ford, at or near Barnett's Shoals, in the county of Clark," passed 17th December, 1818, and the 8th section of an act, entitled "An Act to amend an act to render navigable that part of the Oconee river situated between the mouth of Fishing Creek, in Baldwin county, and Hudson's Ford, at or near Barnett's Shoals, in the County of Clark," passed 22d December, 1819.—Approved Dec. 21, 1820.* Vol. IV. 352.

The locks contemplated by the before recited sections shall be kept in good order by the owner or owners of any milldam or milldams on that part of the Oconee river mentioned in said sections, so as to admit of the safe and easy passage of such boat or boats as may be used for the transportation of produce or goods and wares and merchandize along the same; and for every hour that any such boat or boats may be delayed by reason of such lock or locks being out of order, or in a situation not to admit such safe and easy passage, such owner or owners, his, her, or their heirs and assigns, or agent or agents, shall forfeit and pay to the party grieved, his, her, or their heirs or assigns, or agent or agents, the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered by information or indictment, or by civil action, in any court having competent jurisdiction thereof.

Looks to be kept in good repair by owners of milldams.

Penalty for failure.

88. Sec. II. Any owner or owners of any such boat or boats, his, her, or their heirs or assigns, or agent or agents, shall be entitled to his, her, or their civil remedy for the recovery of damages for any injury which his, her, or their boat or boats, or loading thereof, or boat hand or hands may sustain in passing through such lock or locks, by reason of the same being out of order.

Owner of any boat entitled to his civil remedy.

89. Sec. III. Nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent the party sued by indictment, information, or civil action, as herein provided, from pleading and offering in evidence before the court, or court and jury, as the case may be, any matter of excuse or justification; any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

Defendant allowed full defence.

90. An Act to amend an act entitled an act to amend the several acts heretofore passed for opening and keeping open the river Oconee, passed the 10th December, 1812.—Approved Dec. 9, 1829. Vol. IV. 352.

The fourth section of the aforesaid act shall not be so construed as to oblige the owners of mills to construct slopes or ways for the passage of fish; Provided, the dams are so constructed as to leave unobstructed one-third part of the river, together with the boat channel opened by Reid and Terrell.

Owners of mills not obliged to construct slopes for fish.

Sec. II. [Repeals all militant acts.]

An Act conveying to P. J. Williams one acre of Land on the west side of the Oconee near Milledgeville for the purpose of erecting a mill, vol. iv. 308. 1821.

Act allowing to J. Ardis of Putnam, a milldam, and to Dawson, Amis and Legon of Greene, locks in their dams, 1821, vol. iv. 309.

* It should be the 19th.

An Act to appropriate money for the removal of obstructions to the navigation of the Oconee river below Milledgeville, and to appoint Commissioners with full power to carry into effect the intention of the Legislature in relation thereto—Approved Dec. 27, 1836. Pam. 238.

§10,000 appropriated.

Sec. I. The sum of ten thousand dollars, be, and the same is hereby appropriated and set apart for the improvement of the navigation of the Oconee river, below Milledgeville, and that the governor, upon the authority of the commissioners hereinafter named, or a majority of them, in writing, at any time after the passage of this act, be, and he is hereby authorized to draw his warrant upon the treasury, for such sum of money as is hereby appropriated, which warrant shall be paid by the treasurer out of any funds not otherwise specially set apart for a particular purpose, by this legislature, in the general appropriation act.

Commissioners appointed.

Sec. II. Farish Carter, George L. Deming, Thomas B. Stubbs, Nathan McGehee, and Horace R. Ward, be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners for the removal of obstructions to the navigation of the Oconee river, below Milledgeville, with full power to employ such artizans and operatives as they may deem necessary to the complete effectuation of the purposes of the appropriation hereby made, and to make all other contracts in relation to the end contemplated, which, in the judgment of a majority of them, may most advance the interest of the community.

Vacancies.

Sec. III. Wherever a vacancy may occur in the board of commissioners hereby created, by removal, resignation, death or otherwise, such vacancy shall be filled by a majority of the remainder of the board.

Money subject to no other purpose.

Sec. IV. That the sum of money hereby appropriated, shall be subject to no other purpose whatever, than the one contemplated by this act.

To report annually to the governor.

Sec. V. That to ensure the faithful application of the money hereby appropriated, it is hereby made obligatory upon said board, to transmit to the governor immediately preceding each annual session of the legislature, a report of its operations, accompanied by an account current, by which must be exhibited clearly, the several items of disbursement and to whom paid and when paid; and each commissioner shall before a judge of the superior court, or justice of the inferior court, previous to his entering upon the duties of the trust delegated, take the following oath, I, ——— do solemnly swear, that to the best of my judgment, I will faithfully employ the public money committed to my charge, so as to promote the ends contemplated by the legislature in the appropriation.

Commissioners' Oath.

91. If the navigation of the Oconee river has not equalled the public hopes, it has not been from a want of funds and of legislation. Incorporated joint stock companies, lotteries, boards of commission, legislative contracts and liberal appropriations have all been tried in turn. Indeed this river, particularly that part of it above the seat of government, has been a theatre on which has been tried every mode of operation known to our laws, with perhaps the single exception of compulsory labor. How far any of these well intended efforts would have ultimately succeeded, can never be known, as now, since the discovery of the incalculable superiority of rail-roads, none but the best of streams will hereafter be used for public ways.

92. The following reference to the acts and resolutions relative to the improvement of the navigation of the Oconee, whether above or below Milledgeville are like those of the other rivers, arranged in the order of their dates.

An Act to incorporate a company for the improvement of the navigation of that part of the Oconee river between the Big Shoals at John Barnett's, and the town of Milledgeville.—Approved Dec. 7, 1805. Vol. II. 274.

93. An Act to incorporate a company for the purpose of opening the Oconee river, and to grant a lottery for that purpose.—Approved Dec. 22, 1808. Vol. II. 474. [The Lottery was to raise $50,000: which was never raised, and two years afterwards we find a third Oconee Navigation Company contemplated, in,]

94. An Act to incorporate a company for the improvement of the navigation of the Oconee river, from the mouth of Fishing creek near Milledgeville, up to the Big Shoals at John Barnett's.—Approved Dec. 15, 1810. Vol. II. 612. [And the next year,]

95. An Act to amend an act, to incorporate a company for the improvement of the navigation of the Oconee river, &c.—Approved Dec. 16, 1811. Vol. III. 486. [The next effort was,]

96. An Act to raise money for the purpose of opening and improving the navigation of the Oconee river, from the mouth of Fishing creek to Barnett's shoals.—Approved November 22, 1814. Vol. III. 493. [Authorizing a lottery to raise $10,000.]

97. An Act to appropriate money for the improvement of the navigation of the Savannah and Oconee rivers.—Approved Dec. 16, 1815. Vol. III. 498. [Appropriates Sec. 9th, $10,000 to the Oconee river below Milledgeville; and appoints five commissioners.]

98. The great river navigation act of December 19, 1817, Vol. III. 518, [gives $10,000 to the Oconee generally, which was applied to the river below Milledgeville, see pam. of 1830, p. 252.]

99. The next year the contract was made with Terrell and Reid, in,

An Act to render navigable that part of the Oconee river, situated between the mouth of Fishing creek, in Baldwin county, and Hudson's Ford, at or near Barnett's shoals, in the county of Clark.—Approved Dec. 19, 1818. Vol. III. 518. [This act divided the river above Milledgeville into 14 sections allotting various sums to be paid on the completion of each section, amounting in all to $60,000.]

100. December 19th, 1818. A report on the investigation of the proceedings of the commissioners of the Oconee river below Milledgeville, states, that from pressure of business, and the nature of the documents, they are not able to do justice to the subject. Therefore,

Resolved, That all commissioners, or other persons, into whose hands public money is or may be placed for any purpose, be required to keep regular and sufficient vouchers for every expenditure; that such vouchers, with all bills of sale, or other titles to property purchased for the State, be deposited in the executive office; that when such property is used or employed for profit, the contracts, bills of lading, or other sufficient evidence of such profitable employment, be also furnished, and all such documents be kept in readiness for the examination of any committee appointed by the legislature for that purpose, vol. iii. 1211. A subsequent resolution appoints seven commissioners of the "Oconee Navigation Association."

101. Dec. 22, 1821, (vol. iv. p. 18 of Reso.) A favorable report of the river below Milledgeville. Appoints seven commissioners.

December 22, 1823, (ib. p. 33 of Reso.) A flattering report of the work above Milledgeville.

December 7, 1824, (ib. 43 of Reso.) A report equally encouraging as to those below.

December 22d, 1825. An appropriation of $3,000 for the river below. See pam. of 1830, p. 252.

December 20th, 1826, (vol. iv. p. 76 of Reso.) Directs a survey of the river between Fishing creek and the Boat landing.

102. December 26, 1826, (ib. 355.) The second general river navigation act, appropriates, Sec. 1, $20,000 to the river below Milledgeville, and appoints five commissioners, to take charge of the money and all public property in the hands of their predecessors, and conduct the improvements according to their judgment.

103. December 20, 1827, (ib. 107 of Reso.) Report of what had been recently done above Milledgeville, and of the funds and property on hand.

104. December 19, 1829, (ib. 133 of Reso.) Statement of the funds and property. That the river was then and had been for several years, in a good navigable condition, and that to keep it so it would be only necessary in future to clear out the logs which would thereafter get into it.

105. December 23d, 1830, parn. 251. Report of a settlement with the existing board below Milledgeville; embracing, however, only the $20,000 appropriated in 1826 and $15,341 received from their predecessors.

106. Dec. 26, 1831, (parn. 275.) Settlement with commissioners below Milledgeville of transactions prior to 1826 as far as practicable.

107. Dec. 27, 1836, parn. 19 and 28. An act appropriating $10,000 for improving the navigation of the Oconee river below Milledgeville. To be expended under the direction of a board of five sworn commissioners who are to make to the legislature annual returns in detail, of their expenditures.

107. [The following section of the act of Feb. 15, 1799, (vol. i. 567,) has been superseded by subsequent acts as far as respects the main stream of the Oconee; but seems to be still in force as to the Appalatchee and the other upper waters of the Oconee.]

One-fourth of the upper waters of the Oconee, to be kept open for fish, on pain of $100 per day. How recovered and applied. Inf. courts to appoint commissioners.

Sec. VII. From and after the passing of this act, it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to stop or keep stopped the main sluices of the Oconee river, from the Rock landing up to the fork of the Appalatchee and Oconee rivers, nor up the said Oconee to the confluence of the two branches thereof, called the north and middle forks, up the main river to the Mulberry fork, and up the north fork to the Cedar shoals, and up the said river Appalatchee to the high shoals; but the same is hereby declared to be at least one fourth part thereof, including the main channel, a free passage up said rivers for fish; nor shall any person or persons, under the penalty of $100 per day, stop or cause to be stopped more than three fourths of any part or parts of the rivers aforesaid, by fish dams or other obstructions whatever, to be recovered in any court of record having cognizance thereof; and that the judges of the inferior court of each county be authorized to appoint commissioners to keep open the said rivers, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

108. An Act to alter and more effectually to carry into effect an act to prevent obstructions to the passage of Fish in the Ocmulgee River and its Branches, passed on the 25th day of December, 1821.*— Approved Nov. 25, 1824. Vol. IV. 355.

Whereas, great inconvenience has been experienced in carrying into effect the above-recited act, in consequence of the main channel of the Ocmulgee river being undefined and difficult to ascertain in courts having jurisdiction thereof, whereby the object of the said act may be entirely defeated; for remedy whereof,

Oath of commissioners.

Be it enacted, That, [Names commissioners and prescribes their duties; all re-enacted in the next act except the following.] Provided, that the said commissioners shall, before they enter upon the duties of their said appointments, take an oath before some officer authorized to administer an oath, that they will well and truly, and without partiality, discharge the duties of their said appointments.

Sec. II. [Repeals all conflicting laws; the rest private.]

* That act, Vol. IV. 352, is overspread and re-enacted by this.

109. An Act to alter and amend an act, entitled an act to prevent obstructions to the passage of Fish in the Ocmulgee River and its Branches, passed on the 25th of December, 1821; also an act, entitled an act to alter and more effectually carry into effect an act to prevent obstructions to the passage of Fish in the Ocmulgee River and its Branches, passed on the 25th November, 1824; also to repeal an act, entitled an act to authorize David Adams, of the county of Jasper, to keep open a Sluice through his Mill-dam on the Ocmulgee River, within forty feet of the west bank of said River, for the free passage of Fish up the same, passed on the 7th day of December, 1823.—Approved Dec. 21, 1829. Vol. IV. 361.

Whereas, great inconvenience has been experienced in carrying into effect the above-recited acts; for remedy whereof,

Be it enacted, That Tarply Holt, Timothy Matthews, and Luke J. Morgan be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners in and for the county of Bibb; and that John Hammock, William Middlebrooks, and Michael M. Healey be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners in and for the county of Jones; and that John Pitman, David Allison, and William Redding be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners in and for the county of Monroe; and Robert Bickstaff, William Barclay, and Stokeley Morgan be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners in and for the county of Jasper; and John R. Cargill, Gustavus Hendrick, and John M. Pearson be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners in and for the county of Butts; and that Felix Simonton, William R. Henry, and George McDill be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners in and for the county of Newton; and that James Sellers, Samuel Bryant, and William McBride be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners in and for the county of Henry; who, or a majority of whom, shall have complete power in their respective counties to survey, view, ascertain, and designate the main channel of the said Ocmulgee river and its branches in the following manner: 60 feet in width up to the confluence of the South and Yellow rivers, and from thence 40 feet in width in the South river up to the Snapping Shoals, and in the Yellow river 40 feet in width up to the Cedar Shoals, and in the Alcofauhatchie 40 feet in width up to Water's mill; and in all cases where mills, fish-dams, or other obstructions to the free passage of fish shall be erected, there shall be an open sluice in each river as aforesaid in the main channel of the same, over which fish may pass without difficulty.

110. Sec. II. Whenever the above-recited streams shall have obstructions to the passage of fish placed in them, the person or persons so offending shall be liable to an indictment for a common nuisance before any court having cognizance of the same, and on conviction thereof, shall be subject to pay a fine of $100 per day for every day such nuisance shall remain unremoved; one-half of such fine to go to the informer, and the other half to the county in which the offender or offenders may reside at the time of their conviction; and five days' previous notice need not be given as heretofore required by the act of 1824 to remove said nuisances or obstructions, but such offenders may be prosecuted forthwith according to the provisions of this act.

111. Sec. III. An act passed on the 7th of December, 1821,* authorizing David Adams, of the county of Jasper, to keep open a sluice through his mill-dam, on the Ocmulgee river within 40 feet of the west bank of said river, for the free passage of fish up the same, be, and the same is hereby repealed.

113. An Act to direct and make uniform the manner of fishing for Shad on the River Ocmulgee with seines, and to provide for the punishment of those who shall violate the provisions of this act.—*
Approved Dec. 22, 1829. Vol. IV. 359.

Fishing in the Ocmulgee prohibited within certain hours during the week.

From and after the passage and promulgation of this act no person or persons whatsoever, by themselves, their servants, or agents, shall be permitted to draw any seine on the Ocmulgee river, of Georgia, at any time between the hours of twelve in the forenoon of Saturday and the hour of twelve in the forenoon of Monday; nor shall they be permitted to keep any seine within the hour aforesaid stationary or by any position or fixture whatever in the said river, so as to catch shad or prohibit their free passage up the said river in any of the cuts-off or arms thereof.

Fishing with two seines prohibited.

114. Sec. II. No person or persons whatsoever, by themselves, their servants, or agents, shall be permitted to draw two seines, the one immediately succeeding the other, within the hour aforesaid, at the same fishing landing or place for drawing for fish on said river.

Penalties and
them.

115. Sec. III. All persons whatsoever violating the provisions of the foregoing sections, or either of them, shall be subject for each offence to pay the sum of $25, to be recovered before any justice of the peace, inferior, or superior court, or any corporation court duly constituted on the said river, to be commenced in the name of the individual informing; and shall moreover be subject to be indicted before the superior court, and on conviction shall be sentenced for each offence to pay a fine not less than 10 nor more than $25, at the discretion of the court. In each or either case of suit, or indictment, the one-half of the penalty shall go to the informer, the other to the county wherein the offence is committed.

Information
jury.

116. Sec. IV. It shall be the duty of the justices of the inferior court, of the peace, sheriffs, constables, and police officers, who live in counties lying on the Ocmulgee, to lodge information against all persons offending against this act before the next grand jury that may convene thereafter.

Penalty on a slave.

117. Sec. V. If a slave or slaves offend against this act without the command or coercion of his owner, overseer, or any other person, he shall on conviction for each offence receive twenty-five lashes on his bare back. Any justice of the peace or of the inferior court may immediately on information and proof order him to be whipped by a constable or sheriff, or any person deputized by said justice for that purpose.

Sec. VI. All laws or parts of laws militating against this act are hereby repealed.

* Appropriation to improve the navigation of the Ocmulgee river, act of 1835. See Sec. 172, &c.

An Act for the appropriation of money, for the improvement of the Ocmulgee River.—Approved Dec. 28, 1836. Pam. 237.

Sec. I. The sum of $10,000 be, and the same is hereby appropriated ^{$10,000 appropriated.} for the improvement of the Ocmulgee river, from the city of Macon to its confluence with the Oconee.

Sec. II. Benjamin Smith, of Twiggs, James Goddard and Charles Day, of the city of Macon, Matthew McCormick, of Pulaski county, ^{Commissioners appointed.} and George Wilcox and Calvin Quinn, of the county of Telfair, be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners of the Ocmulgee river, from the city of Macon, to its confluence with the Oconee, whereon a majority of them shall have power to draw the amount appropriated, or any part thereof, and to exercise such general directions, in the prosecution of the improvement of said river, as to them may appear most productive, to the best interest of the State: Provided, the money herein and hereby appropriated, be applied exclusively to the removal of obstructions and impediments to the navigation of the said Ocmulgee river, of recent formation and accumulation, and not to the widening and deepening, or changing of the channel, and that the said commissioners, give bond and security, in the sum of $20,000, ^{Bond and security.} for the faithful application of the money herein appropriated.

Sec. III. Whenever a vacancy may happen, it shall be the duty of the commissioners, to fill such vacancy, within three months after it shall have happened, by ballot, twenty days' public notice having been previously given, of the existence of such vacancy and the time of filling it, and any one having a majority of the votes given in at such election, shall be duly elected. ^{Vacancies in the board.}

Sec. IV. The said commissioners shall keep a fair and correct record of all their proceedings, subject at all times to the inspection and examination of the treasurer of the State, or by any person, by him appointed for such inspection and examination, and if any part of the appropriation, by this act, shall be applied to any other purpose, than is set forth by this act, the treasurer be, and he is hereby authorized and required, forthwith to commence suit on the bond of the commissioners, in any court or place, having competent jurisdiction, and that he prosecute the same to recovery and collection, and that the governor for the time being, be notified of the same. ^{To keep a record.} ^{Treasurer's duty.}

118. Navigation Below Macon. Five commissioners were appointed and incorporated by act of 1816, (Vol. III. 508,) to improve the navigation of the Ocmulgee up to Fort Hawkins (now Macon); and $10,000 was the next year appropriated for that purpose. (III. 513.) In 1822 an appropriation of $10,000 more was made, (IV. 61.) In 1825 an incomplete report had been made, and by two only of the commissioners; this not being satisfactory to the legislature, the board was required by resolution of 11th June at the extra session of that year, (Vol. IV. p. 53 of the Reso.) to make a full and complete report to the next annual session, of their conduct, and of the funds, and of the situation of the river. I find no report in answer to this call, but some satisfactory showing must have been made, for by the act of the ensuing session, (1826,) a further appropriation of $20,000 was made. (IV. 356.) Nothing further of this commission appears in the acts or resolutions, till 1828, when the appropriate committee reported favorably of the conduct of the board. (IV. 129 of the Reso.) The next year however, the legislature directed an investigation. (IV. p. 136 of Reso.) In May 1830 the State's agent, W. Poe, Esq. effected a settlement with the agent of the company. It appears that the company had purchased in all, 52 negroes, of which 2 had absconded, 7 died and 14 had been sold to pay their debts due at the close of certain cotton and grocery business in which the company had been engaged; and that the remaining 29 had been turned over as directed by law, to the superintendent of roads and rivers. (Pam. of 1830, p. 238.) The legislature then directed a full report to be made to the State's agent, of all their dealings in cotton and groceries and which of the commissioners had been concerned in them. By the committee's report to the ensuing session of 1831, (Pam. 300,) it appears that the agent could obtain no further satisfactory statement, and that in his opinion, the State was without remedy.

119. Above Macon. By the 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th sections of the act of 1826, (Vol. IV. 355,) $10,000 were appropriated for removing obstructions and clearing out the channel of the Ocmulgee river, so as to render it navigable for boats, from Macon up to the mouth of the Alcovahatchee in Jasper, thence to the Cedar shoals on Yellow river, and to the Snapping shoals on the South river, and to the High shoals on the Ulocoahatchee. Commissioners were appointed, two in each county of Jones, Jasper and Newton, and one in Monroe, Butts, Bibb and Henry respectively, who were directed to receive the appropriated money, to apply it according to their judgment for the purposes of the act, and make annual returns to the legislature. The committee of agriculture and internal improvements of 1829 in their report to the legislature, are satisfied with the conduct of the commissioners, and entertain a flattering, but it seems a mistaken view of the capabilities of that part of the river. (Vol. iv. p. 142 of the Reso.) The government on a change of system having determined to place the rivers on the care of the superintendents of roads, this with other similar commissions, was of course closed. On a final and very satisfactory settlement with Mr. Poe the State's agent in 1830, it appears, that out of the $10,000 appropriated they returned to the State 13 negroes, $1,656 in cash, and some evidences of debt, amounting in all, to $8,983, and some other property. (See pam. of 1830, p. 237.)

120. Alcovahatchee. A mill-dam allowed to be built by Mordecai Shackelford at Womack's Mills on this river, provided no lands belonging to other persons are overflowed; the privilege to be revoked at the pleasure of the legislature. Act of Dec. 22, 1827. Vol. iv. 359.

121. Finholloway. Resolution authorizing a survey gratis of Finholloway creek in Wayne County, to ascertain whether or not it could be made navigable for rafts and boats, from its mouth to the intersection of the river road. (Vol. iv. p. 138 of Reso.)

An Act to keep open, remove, and prevent obstructions in the Ohoopie River calculated to prevent the free passage of Fish of said river, so far as respects the counties of Tattnall and Emanuel.—Approved Dec. 9, 1824. Vol. IV. 355.

One half the river to be kept open.

122. From and immediately after the passage of this act, it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to obstruct, or cause to be obstructed, more than one-half of the main source of said river from the Altamaha up to the fork, thence up each fork to the distance of 12 miles above, by dams, hedges, fish-traps, or any other obstruction calculated to stop the free passage of fish.

Penalty on offenders.

123. Sec. II. Any person or persons so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of $20 per day; which fine or fines to be recovered before any justice of the peace in the district where the offence may be committed, under the same rules and regulations as other debts are, on sufficient proof being had thereon; any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

Appropriation of $6,000 equally between the Ohoopie and Canouchee Rivers, 1836, pam. 32.

124. An Act to keep open, remove, and prevent obstructions in the Chattahoochee, Flint, and Chestatee Rivers, calculated to prevent the passage of fish, and the navigation of said Rivers by boats, so far as respects the counties of Gwinnett, Hall, Early, and Habersham.—Approved Dec. 22, 1820. Vol. IV. 351.

Two thirds of these rivers to be kept open,

From and immediately after the first day of February next, it shall not be lawful for any person to obstruct or cause to be obstructed more than one-third part of the Chattahoochee or Chestatee rivers, as far up the said Chestatee river as the forks in Habersham county, by dams, fish traps or other obstructions, and the main current of said rivers shall at all times be kept open for the passage of fish and boats.

on pain of $20 per day.

125. Sec. II. No person or persons, under the penalty of $20 per day, shall dam, stop, or obstruct the said Chattahoochee or Chestatee from the lower shallow ford in Gwinnett county up the main channel of the river Chattahoochee to the upper line of Habersham county, and up the main channel of the river Chestatee as far as the forks in said county; but the same is hereby declared to be, at least one-third part thereof, including the main channels, a free passage.

126. Sec. III. It shall be the duty of any justice of the peace, in whose district such offence or offences shall be committed, to issue his warrant, upon information on oath of any free white person, commanding such offender or offenders to be brought before the court for said district at its next regular term, to answer the charge alleged against him, her, or them and such justice shall issue summons to compel the attendance of such witnesses as may be thought necessary to establish or defend the said charge, who shall be subject to attachment for non-attendance, or refusing to answer on oath such questions as may be asked them; and if upon such examination it shall appear that such offender or offenders is or are guilty of any breach of this act, it shall be the duty of the said court to enter up separate judgments against such offender or offenders, for a sum not exceeding $20 for each day such obstruction shall have continued; and the said justice shall issue his execution on the said judgment or judgments so entered up, which execution shall be levied on the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of such offender or offenders, and sold agreeably to the laws regulating constables' sales; and the money arising from such fine or fines shall be paid into the hands of the said court, one-half thereof to the use of the informer, and the remaining moiety shall be paid by the said court to the clerk of the inferior court, to be appropriated to the same use as other county funds.

Penalties
ed.

127. Sec. IV. Wilson Strickland, Benjamin Plaster, and David Dixon are hereby appointed commissioners for the county of Gwinnett; and Simeon White, Thomas Bird, and Jesse Martin are hereby appointed commissioners for the county of Hall; and John H. Jones, Thomas Brooks, and William Shipley are hereby appointed commissioners for the county of Habersham; who shall have complete power in their respective counties to survey and view any obstructions in the said rivers which may be considered in violation of the provisions of this act; and on their giving five days' notice to the person or persons, their agent or attorney, who shall obstruct the said rivers, or continue any obstructions now in said rivers, in violation of this act, then and in that case they shall have competent power to remove or cause to be removed such obstructions, by calling to their aid any number of their citizens in their respective counties: Provided, nevertheless, that the said commissioners shall, before they enter on the duties of their said appointment, take an oath before some justice of the inferior court or some justice of the peace, that they will well and truly and without partiality discharge the duties of their said appointment.

Commission-

or be committed to jail.

150. Sec. IV. If any person or persons shall obstruct said main channel, after it shall have been designated by said commissioners in their respective counties, so as to impede the free passage of fish, he or they so offending shall be subject to indictment, and on conviction shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $300, nor less than $100, one half to go to the prosecutor, the other half to the county.

Penalty for obstructing the river.

151. Sec. V. Gilly Moore, John Hall, Gray Credle, Y. P. King and John Coleby be appointed commissioners to keep open the Oconee river from the Hancock line to Reed and Gaston's Mills; and that the aforesaid commissioners, or a majority of them, be authorized to keep open the public or navigation sluice of said river for the free passage of fish to the width of 30 feet, and remove obstructions from the same; and that the commissioners aforesaid be empowered and authorized fully, according to the regulations and provisions of the preceding sections of this act, to keep open the river from the Hancock line to Gaston and Reed's Mills as above.

Commissioners named from the Hancock line up to Reed and Gaston's mills.

152. Sec. VI. Elijah Warthan, Thomas Cheely and William L. Wilson of the county of Hancock, Joday Newsom, Daniel Harris, Kinchin Newsom of the county of Washington, and Adam Jones, Baton Hataway and Reuben May of the county of Warren be, and they are hereby appointed, or a majority of them, commissioners to keep open the river Ogeechee, so as to admit the free passage of fish from Fenn's bridge, in the county of Washington, to the shoals of Ogeechee in Hancock county; and they, or a majority of them, shall have all the powers for the keeping open said river that the commissioners of the Oconee river have in the foregoing act, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

Commissioners named for Ogeechee.

Sec. VII. [Repealing clause.]

154. Sec. II. Sanders Durham, Francis Bacon, Walter L. Campbell, John L. Shelby, Alexander Shotwell, E. Jones, John W. Cowert, Green Tinsley and Thomas Rivers be, and they are hereby appointed commissioners for managing and superintending the improving the navigation of Flint river, from Bainbridge in Decatur county, to any point which they may select on said river, and they are hereby fully authorized to exercise a general discretion as to the manner of effecting said object, and to employ such artists, assistants or managers as they, or a majority of them, shall deem necessary to carry said object into effect; and before they enter on the discharge of said duty, they and each of them shall severally enter into bond with good and sufficient security, payable to his excellency the governor and his successors in office, in the penal sum of double the amount he should draw as commissioner aforesaid, conditioned for their, and each of their faithful discharge of duty under the provisions of this act, and for their and each of their superintendence of said work, and for the true application of the said sum of money for the said purpose contemplated by this act, which said several bonds shall be taken and approved by the justices of the inferior court, or a majority of them, of the county in which the said commissioners severally reside, to be by them transmitted to his excellency the governor as aforesaid, and to be by him filed in the executive office.

Sec. III. and IV. [Repealed. See Sec. 182.]

155. Sec. V. Should any vacancy occur in the board of said commissioners by death, resignation or otherwise, it shall be the duty of the remaining commissioners, or a majority of them, to fill such vacancies when they may occur; and in all cases where new commissioners are to be chosen, they shall comply with the requirements contained in the second section of this act.

156. Sec. VI. It shall be the duty of the commissioners to keep a fair journal and record of their proceedings, and report their actings and doings, from time to time, to his excellency the governor, and whenever they may be required by him, showing the progress of said work, and on failure to do so, when required as aforesaid, they shall forfeit the per diem compensation hereinafter to be allowed, and it shall be the duty of his excellency the governor to report to the next legislature all the information which he may receive from said commissioners relative to said work.

157. Sec. VII. Each and every commissioner appointed as aforesaid, shall be entitled to compensation and receive one dollar per day for each and every day he shall attend to the superintendence of said work, which the governor is hereby authorized to pay out of the contingent fund, satisfactory evidences being adduced to him that the services have been rendered as contemplated by this act: Provided, that such term of service does not exceed twenty-five days per annum.

158. Sec. VIII. The sum of twenty thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby appropriated for the improvement of the navigation of the Chattahoochee river, from the Florida line to the city of Columbus, and for the purpose of removing the shoals and obstructions in the same; and that the same shall be expended under the superintendence of three commissioners to be appointed by his excellency the governor, under the same rules and regulations as are prescribed for the disbursement of the funds set apart by this act for the improvement of the Flint river.

159. Sec. IX. That his excellency the governor do draw from the Central bank the money appropriated by this act, in case there be not a sufficient fund in the treasury to meet the same: Provided, nothing contained in the foregoing act, or any of the sections thereof, shall be so construed as to authorize the governor to draw his warrant in favor of any of the foregoing commissioners for the sums to be disbursed by them, until said commissioners report to his excellency the plan of operations intended to be adopted by them, and the probable utility of such expenditure, and to make such report on the application of each instalment of such appropriation; and whenever his excellency shall deem the scheme visionary, or from the report made by the commissioners that the expenditure would be useless, he is hereby authorized to withhold his warrant and lay the matter before the next legislature.

178. The following adopted report and resolutions of 20th Dec. 1828, is inserted at length for its historical facts, and as exhibiting the views of the legislature, at that era in our public works, which may be distinguished as the River-navigation era. It presents a cursory but striking view of the strenuous efforts which had long been made for the artificial improvement of river navigation, and of their general failure.

The committee on agriculture and internal improvement, to whom was referred a resolution of the house of representatives instructing them "to inquire into the expediency of not appropriating any more funds for the improvement of the navigation of rivers, &c., in this State, until some better system of internal improvement be adopted; and that said committee be instructed, if they should deem it expedient, to propose such change in the present system of internal improvement as shall operate more effectually, and with greater regard to economy and accountability than the present one," have had the same under consideration, and ask permission to report the result of their deliberations.

The easy transportation of the gross productions of a State, for the pursuits of whose inhabitants are almost solely of an agricultural nature, is one which next to agriculture itself demands attention. The magnitude of the subject has, with your committee, precluded any thing like a partial investigation of it; and while it views a variegated soil teeming with corresponding fruits, and rivers in every part of the State communicating with both the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico, whose channels are sufficiently deep, if cleared of obstructions which have accumulated with time, for the navigation of boats of sufficient capacity to transport all the surplus produce of the State to the most advantageous markets; it is nevertheless the duty of your committee, to which it reluctantly yields, to advise an abolition for the present of the office of civil engineer, and a cessation of operations by the State so far as relates to the improvement of its rivers, until some method shall be found which may promise a better prospect of success.

Within the last thirteen years the sum of $321,500 has been appropriated by the State for purposes of internal improvement. With the exception of $5,000, conditionally appropriated for Broad river, which has never been drawn, $4,636 46 cents, returned to the treasury by the Savannah River Navigation Company between Augusta and Petersburg, and $1,235 returned by the commissioners of Brier creek, in Scriven county, with about eighty negroes, and some implements for labor, your committee is unable to account for the expenditure of the appropriations. Those who have been appointed to direct the plan and course of operations, and supervise every thing in connection with them, have, in many instances, made no report, while others have rendered very unsatisfactory statements of the discharge of their duties. All reports, as well as the omission to make them, go to show that the commissioners and those intrusted with the business have not manifested that fidelity, industry, and skill, which the State has a right to expect they would do.

It is true that the attention of the State has been but recently awakened to the subject of internal improvement, and success in that business must depend in a great measure upon the experience of those who control it, and to this may be attributed in part the little profit which the State has reaped, and after having expended so much of its treasure. Your committee do not consider that they have cause to censure the chief civil engineer for the manner in which he has discharged his duty. His reputation in North Carolina, as well as in England, as an engineer, is doubtless just, and his failure to succeed in Georgia, if indeed failure can be charged to him, is more attributable to the course he has been directed to take than to any want of skill in the performance of his operations.

Your committee consider that the amount of money already laid out on internal improvements, if properly applied, would have been abundantly sufficient to render navigable the first class of rivers in the State; but it has been unfortunately the case, that whenever an appropriation has been made, the amount has been divided into so many parts, and applied to the use of so many different places, unaided by professional experience and science, that there has been no benefit accrued to any section of the State.

If the sum of $325,000 had been applied by benefiting the condition of roads, the people of the State would doubtless have realized a much greater profit than they have from the improvement in the navigation of rivers.

The high tuition which the State has already paid for the experience which she possesses on this subject, together with the advanced period of this session of the legislature, induces your committee respectfully to submit the following resolutions.

Resolved, That no further appropriations be made for the purposes of internal improvement, until some better and more efficient system shall be matured and adopted; and that the office of civil engineer be abolished for the present.

Resolved, That his excellency the governor be requested to discharge the civil engineer from the service of this State, so soon as the present quarter, specified by his excellency's message of the 4th inst. shall have expired.

Approved, December 20th, 1828.

The office of civil and topographical engineer was created in 1820, (Vol. IV. 426,) but not filled till 1826. See the executive message of that year.

An Act to keep open, remove, and prevent obstructions to the free passage of fish, and the navigation of the Coosa river, from where the Alabama state line crosses the same, to the head thereof and its branches; the Etowah, up to the old Federal road at Blackburn's; the Oostanallee, to the Coosawattee town, and the Conesauga branch to the Tennessee line, and to punish offenders against the provisions of this act.—Approved Dec. 24, 1833. Pam. 295.

179. Ephraim Mabry, Robert Ware, and Cooper B. Roberts, of the county of Floyd, Cornelius D. Terhune, William Green, and Z. B. Hargrove, of the county of Cass, Noble P. Bell, Joseph Donalson, and John P. Brooks, of the county of Cherokee, and William N. Bishop, John Saxon, and William L. Tarwin, of the county of Murray, be and the same are hereby appointed commissioners of that part of Coosa river, that is above the Alabama line, and its branches as aforesaid, with full power to carry into effect the provisions of this act; and should it so happen that either of the persons above named as commissioners, should fail or refuse to serve, it shall be the duty of the inferior court of the county, where such vacancy may happen, to appoint some fit and proper person to fill such vacancy; and it shall be their duty thereafter to fill all vacancies that may happen by death, resignation, or otherwise; and the commissioners that are appointed, or who may be appointed hereafter, shall take and subscribe the following oath, (or affirmation,) "I, A. B., do solemnly swear, (or affirm,) that I will, to the best of my ability, discharge the duties required of me as a commissioner of that part of Coosa river and its branches, as may run through this county as aforesaid, and will faithfully execute the trust reposed in me without favor or affection. So help me God."

Commissioners appointed.

Quorum.

180. Sec. II. A majority of said commissioners, in their respective counties, shall be sufficient to form a board, and to do and perform all the duties in said county required by the provisions of this act.

But one-third of the river to be obstructed.

181. Sec. III. From and after the passage of this act, it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to obstruct more than one-third part of the said Coosa river, and its branches, to the places named as aforesaid, by dams, fish traps, or other obstructions; and the main current of said part of Coosa, and its branches as aforesaid, shall at all times be kept open for the passage of fish, boats and other craft.

Commissioners shall report obstructions to the sheriff.

182. Sec. IV. When any obstruction or obstructions shall be placed in said river and branches as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the commissioners residing in the county that includes such obstructed part of said river or branches thereof, to report the same in writing to the sheriff of said county, informing him of the place or places where such obstruction or obstructions may be located, with the name or names of the person or persons who have obstructed or caused the obstructions in said river or its branches as aforesaid; whereupon it shall be the duty of the said sheriff, to proceed without delay, to cause said obstructions to be removed, and if necessary, to call out the posse of said county to assist him, or to prevent opposition on the part of those violating this act; and the persons placing said obstructions in said river, are hereby made subject to pay all the expenses of removing the same, to be recovered in the following manner: when the same does not exceed thirty dollars, a suit shall be brought for the same in the name of the commissioners as aforesaid, against the offending party, in the justice's court where such offender or offenders may reside, in like manner as other suits are brought in justices' courts, subject to the same rules of law as govern other suits in said courts, and upon recovery, execution shall issue, and the amount so collected shall be paid over to said commissioners, to be disbursed in discharge of such expenses; and when the amount exceeds thirty dollars, suit shall be brought in the superior or inferior court, subject to the laws and rules governing other cases, the amount recovered paid over and disbursed as aforesaid; and the sheriff, for his services in each case, shall make out a bill of his cost and charges in each case, and lay it before the inferior court when sitting for county purposes, to be examined and passed upon by said court, which court shall order and adjudge the same to be paid by the offending party to the sheriff for his services; and upon the refusal of any party, in any case, to pay the amount so adjudged to be due to the sheriff, said court shall cause a citation to be issued by their clerk, directed to the party, requiring him, her, or them to appear at the next sitting of said court, to show cause why they should not pay over to the sheriff the amount so adjudged to be due him, which citation shall be served at least ten days before the sitting of said court at which they are cited to appear, and on refusal or neglect to pay over the same, or to show cause to the contrary, it is hereby made the duty of said court to issue an attachment against such party as for a contempt, and cause them to be imprisoned until the same shall be paid.

183. Sec. V. In addition to the civil remedies provided in the foregoing part of this act, it is further declared a misdemeanor to place any of the aforementioned obstructions in said river, or its branches as aforesaid; and all and every person or persons offending against the provisions of this act, shall be subject to indictment before the superior court for a misdemeanor, and on conviction, shall be fined the sum of one hundred dollars, and be imprisoned until the same shall be paid.

ROADS, BRIDGES, AND FERRIES.

An Act to empower the inferior courts of the several counties in this State, to order the laying out of public roads, and to order the building and keeping in repair of public bridges.—Approved Dec. 4, 1799. Vol. I. 405.

1. Sec. I. All the roads in the several counties of this State, that have been laid out by virtue of any act of the general assembly, or by virtue of any order of court, are hereby declared to be public roads.

2. Sec. II. And when any person or persons shall feel him, her, or themselves aggrieved by reason of any road being laid out through his, her, or their enclosed ground, it shall be the duty of any two or more of the justices of the inferior courts, on application in writing by the person or persons injured, to issue a warrant under their hands, directed to the sheriff of the county, to summon a jury of freeholders, who shall be sworn to assess such damages; and that the sheriff shall make and return a true inquisition thereof to the next inferior court; and it shall be the duty of such court to order the amount of damages so assessed to be paid out of the next county tax, or out of any public moneys belonging to the county fund: Provided nevertheless, that where it shall appear to the inferior court that the damages so assessed transcend the utility of that part of the said road, such court shall order the same to be altered in such manner as to avoid the enclosed ground so damaged, unless the person complaining shall agree to accept such compensation as shall be deemed just and reasonable by such court.

3. Sec. III. All public roads laid out or now in use, or which shall be hereafter laid out, shall be cleared of all trees, stumps, grubs and brush, at least twenty feet wide, and such limbs of trees as may incommode horsemen or carriages shall be cut away; all bridges or causeways made or to be made over small water-courses, and causeways over swamps or low lands, shall be made and kept in repair by the hands subject to work on the roads where the same may be necessary; and the pieces wherewith the same shall be made, shall be laid across the road, and be at least sixteen feet long, well secured, made fast, and covered with earth. [Sec. 7, 20.]

4. Sec. V. All overseers of roads, who shall refuse or neglect to do their duty, as is directed by this act, or shall not keep the roads and bridges over small water-courses, and causeways over swamps and low lands in repair, or let them remain uncleared or out of repair, for and during the space of thirty days, unless hindered by extreme bad weather, such overseer shall [be liable to a fine which is superseded by the act of 1818] and shall nevertheless be subject to an action for damages at the suit of any person injured by such refusal or neglect.

5. Sec. XI. All the bridges that have been erected by any act of the general assembly, or by virtue of any order of court, not being private toll bridges, are hereby declared to be public bridges. And that from time to time hereafter, the inferior courts of the several counties shall have full power and authority to appoint the places for erecting public bridges; and it shall be the duty of such courts to appoint one or more commissioner or commissioners, to contract for the building such bridges, as may be deemed necessary, for a time not less than five nor more than seven years: and the said commissioner or commissioners, before he or they shall enter on the duties of such appointment, shall take an oath before some justice of the inferior court or of the peace, truly and faithfully to perform the trust reposed in him. And the said commissioners being so sworn, shall advertise the time and place for letting the same, at three or more public places at least twenty days, and shall then let the same by public outcry to the lowest bidder, taking bond payable to his excellency the governor, or his successors in office, to be deposited in the office of the clerk of the inferior court, with at least two freeholders as sureties for the performance of such building, and keeping in repair; and the inferior court shall levy the amount thereof on the county, or order the same to be paid out of any of the funds of the county subject to their disposal. [Sec. 23, 4, 5.]

Act to alter and amend the foregoing.—Approved December 1, 1800. Vol. I. 409.

Cross roads.

6. Sec. III. The inferior courts of the respective counties within this State are hereby authorized and empowered to direct the manner and mode of keeping in repair all cross, and other roads, not being an immediate or direct market road, leading through their respective counties; in such manner as they in their judgment may think most proper.

Stumps and trees to be cut.

7. Sec. IV. So much of the before-recited act, directing the overseers of districts to remove all stumps and trees, shall be construed so as to remove such stumps and trees from being obstructions to wheel carriages, by cutting the same as nearly even with the surface as possible. [Sec. 3.]

An Act authorizing the inferior courts in each county within this State, to establish ferries and bridges, and such rates for crossing thereat, as to them may appear reasonable; and to authorize the erection of a toll-bridge on Cinouchee, in Liberty county.—Approved Dec. 6th, 1805. Vol. II. 262.

Inferior courts have discretionary power to establish ferries and bridges.

8. Sec. I. The inferior courts in the several counties in this State are hereby empowered, if they should deem it necessary, on application being made, to authorize the establishment of such ferries or bridges as they may think necessary, other than where ferries and bridges have already been established by law,* and to allow such rates for crossing thereat as are usual or customary on water-courses of the same width; Provided nevertheless, that the legislature shall at all times retain the power of making such alterations in the establishments made by the justices of the inferior courts, as to them may seem proper. [Sec. 12.]

Sufficient bridges and flats, and due attendance must be provided, or the owners liable to an action.

9. Sec. II. It shall be the duty of any person who may obtain such establishment, order or leave, to keep a good and sufficient ferry-flat or bridge, and to give due attendance thereat, and if any damage shall happen to any person or persons by reason of the insufficiency of such flat or bridge, the non-attendance or neglect of the ferryman or keeper of such bridge, the person so aggrieved or damaged shall and may have and maintain an action against the owner of such ferry or bridge.

How such action must be prosecuted.

10. Sec. III. Any two of the justices of the district in the county where such ferry or bridge may be established, on complaint to him or them by any person, that he or she has sustained damages by reason of non-attendance, neglect, or insufficiency of the flat or bridge, to an amount not exceeding thirty dollars, which information shall be made

An Act to regulate toll-bridges, ferries, and turnpike-roads.—Approved Dec. 22, 1808. Vol. II. p. 460.

12. From and after the first day of January, 1809, it shall be the duty of every and all proprietors of toll-bridges, ferries, and turnpike-roads, to fix a board in a conspicuous situation on each bridge, turnpike-gate, or landing place, held by him or them; the board to be painted black, with white legible characters written on the same, noting the different rates of toll or ferriage (as the case may be,) allowed by law. In case of any proprietor or proprietors neglecting so to do, he or they shall not be entitled to the toll or ferriage accruing from such bridge, ferry, or turnpike-road. [Sec. 8, 9, 10, 11; and see Militia, 49.]

An Act to alter and amend the road laws of this State.—Approved Dec. 19, 1818. Vol. III. 786.

13. Sec. I. The justices of the inferior courts in and for the several counties in this State, at the first session or term after the passing of this act, or as soon thereafter as convenient, shall proceed to define and point out as many and such districts as to them shall seem meet and proper, having due regard to proportioning said districts or divisions so as to divide the labor and expense of the roads, causeways, and bridges, equally among the citizens and hands of the respective districts throughout the said counties. And on application to said court for any new road, or any alteration in an old road, the said justices shall proceed to appoint three discreet and proper persons, residing in the neighborhood where such road is intended to pass; and in case they find it of public utility, they may proceed to mark out the same, on oath taken before any justice,† and report to the said court, the clerk of which is hereby required to notify the commissioners hereinafter named of such report; and the justices of said inferior courts shall appoint two or more commissioners, one of whom shall be a justice of the peace; and in case of death, resignation, or removal of the justice, the other two commissioners are hereby authorized to administer oaths relative to their duties of the roads, who shall be notified of such their appointment in writing by the clerk of said court, within ten days after such appointment, under the penalty of forty dollars for every such default; and if any commissioner or commissioners, within ten days after the receipt of such notification, shall not make his or their resignation to some one of the justices aforesaid, such commissioner shall be considered as having accepted such appointment; and the commissioners so appointed shall have full power and authority to proceed to apportion the roads and hands for the districts aforesaid; and in case of refusal, departure, or decease of any such commissioners, the inferior courts in the counties aforesaid shall have power to fill such vacancy, either in term time or vacation.

14. Sec. II. All male inhabitants, mulattoes and free negroes, and all male slaves, from the age of sixteen to forty-five years, in the counties aforesaid, shall be, and they are hereby declared to be obliged to appear with such implements as directed by the overseer, and work on the several roads, causeways, and bridges, within the several districts to which such male white inhabitants, mulattoes, free negroes, and male slaves, shall have been allotted, pursuant to this act; or such male white inhabitants, mulattoes, free negroes, and owners, managers, or employers of such negroes or male slaves, shall be liable to the fines and penalties in this act defined and expressed.*

15. Sec. III. The commissioners appointed under this act, or a majority of them, shall, and they have hereby full power and authority to appoint one or more person or persons, within their several districts, as overseers, to summons all such persons as are obliged to work within the said districts, at least three days before the time of working, stating the time and place of meeting, with such implements as shall be deemed necessary for the repairing of the road, and at such times of the year as in his opinion the roads may require repairing, (not to exceed five days at any one time of working, nor to exceed fifteen days in twelve months, unless emergencies require it,) to repair and work on the roads, causeways, and bridges within the same. And the several owners, managers, or employers of male slaves, within the several districts, shall, when summoned as aforesaid, deliver to the person summoning him, her, or them, a list of all such male slaves as are by this act liable to work on said roads, in writing, signed by such owner, manager, or employer, under a penalty of three dollars for each hand, which list the person summoning shall deliver to any one of the commissioners in the district in which he was appointed to summons as aforesaid.

16. Sec. IV. Every male white inhabitant, free negro, or mulatto, who being duly summoned to work in the respective districts wherein such male white inhabitants, free negroes, or mulattoes are obliged to work by this act, shall neglect or refuse to obey such summons, he shall for each day he should so refuse or neglect to appear and work as aforesaid, forfeit a sum not less than one dollar nor more than three dollars, (commissioners aforesaid excepted,) for each hand so in default.

17. Sec. V. It shall be the duty of the commissioners or a majority of them, to issue executions against defaulters, under their hands and seals, directed to any lawful constable of the district, for the amount of all fines by them imposed by this act, unless a satisfactory excuse be rendered to them on oath within twenty days by the person or persons returned by the overseer as defaulters; and it shall be the duty of the constable to levy and collect such fines in the same way and manner as executions issuing from the justices' courts, and when collected the said constables shall within ten days pay over the amount collected, to the commissioners or any one of them, one half of which shall be paid by the commissioners to the overseer, and the remainder, together with any fines which may be collected from the overseers, shall be paid to the inferior court and applied to the building and repairing bridges in their counties; Provided, that overseers shall not be witnesses against defaulters to any other fact than that of summoning to work on the said roads.

Payment over, and application of penalties.

Overseers not to be witnesses.

18. Sec. VI. It shall be the duty of all overseers appointed, or that may hereafter be appointed, to superintend the working on and repairing the road or roads laid out and assigned by the commissioners to their superintendence, and cause the same to be well worked on, and repaired in the best possible manner which the situation of the land over which said road shall pass will admit of, and to make a return to the commissioners, or some one of them, within five days after every time of working on said roads, a list of all defaulters and deficiencies which may have taken place during such time of working on said road. And when any overseer shall at any time, within twelve months after his appointment, neglect or refuse faithfully to discharge the duties required of him as overseer, he shall be subject to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars; and it shall be the duty of the commissioners to notify such overseer of any failure of duty, and unless satisfactory excuse be given to said commissioners, or a majority of them, within twenty days after such notice being given, they shall issue execution against such delinquent overseer for the sum for which he had laid himself liable, as pointed out by this act, directed to any constable in the district where such overseer may reside for the collection of said fine. [Sec. 4.]

Duty of overseers

as to roads, and as to defaulters.

Penalty for neglect of duty.

How collected.

19. Sec. VII. When any road may be a district line, the commissioners of each district shall meet and co-operate in appointing overseers on such roads, and where any dispute may happen relative to district lines, the commissioners of each district shall cause the lines to be plainly marked out and designated.

Where roads are district lines.

20. Sec. VIII. All overseers shall cause their respective roads to be cleared out at least thirty feet wide, and all causeways at least sixteen feet wide.*

defrayed by both counties in proportion to the amount of the general tax of each, to be estimated by the digest of the general tax, taken next before such contract.

Repairing bridges.

24. Sec. XII. When any public bridge shall require repairing, it shall be the duty of the commissioners, or any one of them, to give notice in writing thereof, to the undertaker or one of his securities, stating the repairs necessary to be made, and requiring the same to be made within a reasonable time, to be set forth in the said notice, and if the same shall not be made within such time, such commissioner or commissioners, shall employ some other person or persons forthwith, to make such repairs, and shall immediately thereafter issue an execution against such undertaker and his securities, for the amount given for the said repairs with cost. [See 5.]

If commissioner becomes undertaker or surety, his office ceases.

25. Sec. XIII. When any commissioner, appointed for letting any public bridge under and by virtue of this act, shall undertake the building and keeping in repair the same, or shall become the security for any other person so undertaking, the powers of such commissioner shall from thenceforward cease and determine, and the inferior court of the county shall appoint one other in his room.

Penalty on commissioners for refusal or neglect.

26. Sec. XIV. In all cases where the justices of the inferior courts have appointed, or may hereafter appoint commissioners in their respective districts, according to the provisions of this act, and the commissioners so appointed shall at any time within twelve months after their appointment, neglect or refuse to discharge the duties required by this act, and sufficient proof thereof being made to the inferior court, they shall be fined in a sum not exceeding sixty dollars, for every such refusal or neglect of duty; which fines, when collected, shall be by the inferior court appropriated to the building and keeping in repair the public bridges within the county.

Vacancy of commissioners by resignation.

27. Sec. XV. When any of the commissioners as aforesaid shall resign, the justices of the inferior court, or a majority of them, shall, in term time or vacation, appoint other fit and proper person or persons, in their stead, who shall be subject to the like services and penalties, as pointed out by this act, and shall also continue to discharge the duties required of them, for the term of one year from the date of their appointment, and until they shall signify their resignation to the justices of the inferior court.

Vacancies by death, removal, or other disability.

28. Sec. XVI. In case where any vacancy may happen by death, removal, or other disability, the justices of the inferior court, or a majority of them, shall proceed to fill such vacancy, either in term time or vacation, and the person so appointed shall be subject to the like duties and penalties as all other commissioners are, appointed by virtue of this act.

Commissioners' duty in cases of default.
Notice to defaulters.

29. Sec. XVII. The commissioners so appointed, or a majority of them, shall hear and determine on all cases of default, for neglect of duty required by this act; provided such hearing and determining shall be within thirty days after such default; provided the party in default shall have ten days' notice in writing from the overseer, to be left at his usual place of residence, of the time and place of hearing and determining such default.

Application of money.

30. Sec. XVIII. All moneys collected by virtue of this act, except such as are otherwise provided for, shall be by the commissioners aforesaid paid into the hands of the clerk of the inferior court, to be applied to the repairing the public bridges and causeways.

New roads.

31. Sec. XIX. In all cases, where commissioners have been or may hereafter be appointed for the purpose of reviewing any new road intended to be laid out, and shall report to the inferior court the propriety of opening the same, the said court may, if they or a majority of them deem it advisable, pass an order for opening such road.

32. Sec. XX. In case any commissioner or commissioners, appointed by virtue of this act, shall neglect or refuse to discharge the duties required of them, as pointed out by this act, and information thereof being lodged with the justices of the inferior court, by any person, it shall be the duty of said court to notify such commissioner or commissioners of such information, and unless excuse be offered to the satisfaction of the justices of said court, or a majority of them, within thirty days after such notice being given, they shall direct the clerk to issue execution against any such delinquent commissioner or commissioners, for the sum for which he had laid himself or themselves liable, as pointed out by this act, directed to any constable in the district where such commissioner may reside, for the collection of said fine, and to return the same at the next term of the said court, for which services the constable collecting and returning the same, shall receive from the justices of the inferior court the usual fees out of the money so collected.

Proceedings against delinquent commissioners.

33. Sec. XXI. From and after the first day of June next, it shall be the duty of all overseers of roads, leading from the court-house of their respective counties within this State, in addition to the duties herein required, to measure all that part of the road to which they may be appointed overseers, commencing at the said court-houses, and at the end of each mile, to set up a post or mark on some conspicuous place, which shall designate the number of miles from thence to the court-house as aforesaid.

Overseers shall measure the roads and set up mile posts.

34. Sec. XXII. Where it shall so happen, that in measuring from the court-house as aforesaid to the end of the district to which they are appointed overseer, and the distance shall not be an equal number of miles, the overseer of the same road in the next adjoining district, shall be compelled to commence at the last mile-post in the district thus measured, unless such district shall end at some county line; then, and in that case, the overseer of such district shall, by some post or mark, designate the distance from such county line to the court-house of their respective counties as aforesaid.

How they are to be continued from district to district.

35. Sec. XXIII. It shall be the duty of all overseers as aforesaid, at the fork of each public road, within their respective districts, to place or post up in some conspicuous place, a board, or other mark, designating on the same the most public place to which each road directs.

Direction boards at the forks of roads.

36. Sec. XXIV. Every public road leading from any seaport, or other town, shall be measured from thence until it intersects the first court-house or county town.

37. Sec. XXV. When any public road as aforesaid shall be altered so as to make it necessary to remove any post, it is hereby made the duty of the overseer of said road, to remove such post, or set up others in such manner as to answer the purpose contemplated by this act.

If roads are altered, they must be removed.

38. Sec. XXVI. In case any of the overseers should fail or omit to measure, post, and mark their respective roads, as contemplated by this act, or omit to set up sign-boards as above contemplated, he shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding twenty dollars, to be recovered as other fines before recited in this act, and appropriated to the same purposes.

Twenty dollars penalty for failing so to do.

39. Sec. XXVII. All public roads shall be laid out the nearest and best way to the place to which they are intended; and the commissioners of roads shall in all cases designate the same on oath, if required by the court.

Public roads,
how laid out.

Penalty 30 dollars or 39 lashes for removing or defacing mile posts or index boards.

40. Sec. XXVIII. If any person or persons shall remove or deface the said posts, boards, or marks, they shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding thirty dollars for each and every offence, to be recovered before any court having competent jurisdiction of the same, one half to the county, and the other half to the informer; and if the same offence should be committed by a slave or slaves, or any free person or persons of color, he, she, or they, shall receive, on conviction, not exceeding thirty-nine lashes on his, her, or their bare backs, to be inflicted by the order of any justice of the peace of the district where the offence was committed.*

4 Jurisdiction of inf. court.

41. Sec. XXIX. The justices of the inferior courts of each county in this State, or a majority of them, shall have power and authority to hear and determine on all matters which may come before them relative to roads, bridges, &c. as are authorized by law, either in term time, or while sitting for ordinary purposes, or at any special meeting held for that purpose. [See 10.]

42. Sec. XXX. This act shall not be so construed as to cause the justices of the inferior courts to lay out and designate again those districts which have heretofore been laid out and designated, according to the requisitions of this act.

Commissioners shall keep a book of fines.

43. Sec. XXXI. The commissioners so appointed shall keep a book, and enter down in writing all fines which may arise from default, and return the same annually to the inferior court, in order to show the amount of fines, if any, collected; and in failing to comply with the requisitions as are herein stated, to be subject to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars imposed by the court, collected as other fines, and paid over to the clerk of the inferior court for county purposes.

Counties not included in this act.

44. Sec. XXXII. The following counties,—to wit: Richmond, Burke, Jefferson, Chatham, Bryan, M'Intosh, Glynn, Camden, Liberty, and Effingham,—shall be, and they are hereby declared to be excepted from the operation of this act.†

Inf. courts have power to establish ferries.

45. Sec. XXXIII. The inferior courts shall have power to establish ferries, to rate the toll to be taken, as well of those already established as any which may hereafter be established, within the several counties in which they may severally reside; and generally all other matters relative to ferries, which may in their judgment be of public utility, any law to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided nevertheless, that in all cases where the inferior court have or shall establish a ferry over any watercourse, they are hereby authorized and required to cause every such person to give bond and sufficient security in such sum as they may think proper, conditioned for their keeping in repair a good and sufficient flat, and attendance. [See as to toll-bridges and ferries, 8, 9, 10, 11.]

Act of 1799.

46. Sec. XXXIV. Ferry-men exempt from militia duty.

An Act to alter and amend an Act, entitled An Act to amend the Road Laws of this State, assented to on the nineteenth December, 1818.—Approved Dec. 20, 1826. Vol. IV. 392.

51. From and immediately after the passage of this act, when any person liable to do road duty in this State shall make application to the commissioners of the roads in this State for a proportion of road for himself and hands to work on and keep in repair, it shall be the duty of said commissioners, or a majority of them, in each captain's district to meet on such application, and to parcel off and lay out to each applicant and his hands liable to work as aforesaid some equal and just portion of said road as to the said commissioners may seem reasonable and proper; and the said portion of road so laid out to such person shall be increased or diminished as the said applicant's hands shall increase or diminish.

Commissioners of roads may parcel out a portion of road to applicants.

52. Sec. II. The said person or persons so receiving any portion of road as aforesaid shall make an annual report to the commissioners of the number of his hands liable to work; and after such applicant shall receive, work on, and put in good repair said portion of road so assigned to him by the commissioners as aforesaid, then such applicant and hands shall not be transferred to any other part of the road without his consent; and in case any person shall neglect to keep in good repair such portion of road as may be laid out to him as aforesaid, he

The act was amended in 1830, [Pam. 189,] and in 1831, [Pam. 201.] The system was continued till 1833, but was then abandoned, and the hands, mules, carts and implements ordered to be sold. [Act of 1833, pam. 305.] See Resolutions on this subject—of 1830, Pam. 262, 234; of 1832, Pam. 241; of 1834, Pam. 328, 409.]

An Act requiring Justices of the Peace in districts comprehending any town or village of this State, to exercise in certain cases, their usual authority, in relation to Roads and Patrols.—Approved Dec. 21, 1833. Pam. 304.

In towns, justices of peace shall act in certain cases.

53. It shall be the duty of justices of the peace in any district comprehending an incorporated town or village of this State, to exercise the authority with which existing laws invest them, in relation to roads and patrols, in all cases within such town or village, whenever the citizens of the same, shall fail to appoint commissioners, trustees or council, to enforce such road and patrol duty.

An Act to authorize the Justices of the Inferior Courts of the several counties in this State to grant the right of private ways in certain cases.—Approved Dec. 20, 1834. Pam. 199.

Settlement, or private ways may be granted.

54. From and after the passage of this act, the inferior courts of the several counties in this State are hereby authorized and empowered, on application (whenever in their opinion it shall seem reasonable and just), to grant settlement-roads or private ways to individuals to go from and return to his, her, or their farm or place of residence.

How marked out,

55. Sec. II. Whenever application is made to the inferior court by any individual for a road or way as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of said court to appoint three disinterested men in the district where the applicant wishes the road or way to run, whose duty it shall be to go and mark out a suitable road or way, having due regard to the least possible injury to the land through which said road or way is intended to be run, and return to the next inferior court for county purposes the situation and nature of the case.

56. Sec. III. When said return is made, it shall be the duty of said court to grant such order to the applicant as they may think proper; so as to allow to him, her, or them a way to pass out and in from and to his, her, or their farm or place of residence.

Obstructions indictable.

57. Sec. IV. If any person or persons shall violate the provisions of this act by obstructing in any manner any road or way marked out as herein before directed, he, she, or they shall be subject to indictment and fine in the superior court of the county in a sum not less than one dollar per day for each day such obstruction shall continue in said road.

ACTS RELATING TO BRYAN, LIBERTY, M'INTOSH, GLYNN,* AND CAMDEN.

Act to amend the several acts regulating roads in this State, so far as respects the operation of said acts in the counties of Bryan, Liberty, M'Intosh, Glynn, Camden, and Wayne.†—Approved Dec. 8, 1806. Vol. II. 350.

58. Sec. I. The commissioners or surveyors of the several districts or divisions heretofore appointed by virtue of an act passed at Louisville the 10th day of December, 1803, are hereby empowered and required to continue to work upon, clear, amend, repair, erect, and improve the several roads, bridges, fords, causeways, and water passages in the counties of Bryan, Liberty, M'Intosh, Glynn, Wayne, and Camden, as are already laid out, opened, and erected, cleared, and to lay out, open, erect, and clear any other that may hereafter be found necessary.‡

Commissioners to continue to work on the roads, &c.

59. Sec. II. All male white inhabitants, (except permanent residents of the town of Sunbury,) free negroes, and mulattoes, and all male slaves from the age of eighteen to forty-five years, shall be and they are hereby declared to be obliged to appear and work upon the several roads, creeks, causeways, water-passages, and bridges, within the several districts or divisions to which such male white inhabitants, free negroes, and mulattoes, respectively belong, and all male slaves shall be allotted (according to their place of residence) pursuant to the mode herein after pointed out, or such white male inhabitants, free negroes, and mulattoes, and owners, managers, and employers of such negroes and other male slaves, shall be liable to the fines and penalties in this act defined and expressed.—Provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to subject practitioners of physic or teachers of schools to personal working or attendance on the roads, causeways, bridges, and water-passages, within the several districts or divisions wherein such persons shall or may reside.

Who liable to work on the roads.

Physicians and school-masters, exempted.

60. Sec. III. The commissioners or surveyors so appointed, or a majority of them, shall, and they have full power and authority to appoint one or more person or persons, within their several districts and divisions, to summons all such persons as are obliged to work within the said districts or divisions, at such time of the year, and for as many days as they may think convenient and necessary, (not exceeding six days at one time, or twelve days in one year,) to repair, erect, open, clear, and work upon the several roads, bridges, causeways, water-passages, and water-courses within the same; and said summoner or summoners before entering on the duties of his or their appointment, shall take the following oath, to be administered by one of the commissioners or surveyors of said district, viz. I, A. B. do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully discharge the duties of summoner of the district to which I am appointed, and that I will receive no return from any owner, manager, or other person, unless such owner, manager, or other person, take the oath prescribed by law—so help me God. And the several owners or managers of male slaves, within their several districts, shall, when summoned, deliver to the person summoning, a list in writing or print, on oath, of all such male slaves as by this act are liable to work, which shall be as follows, viz : I, A. B. do solemnly swear (or affirm) that the list which I now give in, is a just and true return of all the male slaves subject to road duty, under my control, either as owner, executor, administrator, agent, or manager, to the best of my knowledge and belief—so help me God. Which oath the said summoner is hereby authorized and empowered to administer. And for the refusal of such owner or other person, in his or her behalf, to give in a list of all such slaves on oath, as by this act are liable to work, such person shall forfeit the sum of three hundred dollars, to be recovered in any court having cognizance thereof, to be levied of the goods and chattels of such owner, and which shall come to trial at the first term after commencing the suit.

61. Sec. IV. The person or persons summoning as aforesaid, shall be exempt from his or their personal labor in such districts or divisions; and in case any person or persons appointed to summons as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse so to do, such person or persons shall severally forfeit thirty dollars for every such offence, to be levied by warrant of distress, and sale of the offender's goods and chattels under the hands and seals of a majority of the commissioners or surveyors of said district.

62. Sec. V. The commissioners or surveyors shall give at least ten days' notice to all persons subject to work within their respective districts or divisions, of the time and place of attendance, with such tools as they may deem necessary; and if any person subject to work as aforesaid, shall fail to attend agreeably to such notice, together with all slaves liable to work on the roads by this act, owned by them, or under their care and management, they shall be subject to the following fines, to wit: For the non-attendance of every free person, the sum of two dollars per day, except such persons as have personally to work on said road or roads, who shall not be subject to pay more than one dollar for each day in default; and for every slave the sum of one dollar per day, to be levied by warrant of distress and sale of the offender's goods and chattels, under the hands and seals of a majority of the commissioners or surveyors of the district in which the same shall be assessed, or be incurred, and directed to any constable of the county wherein such offender or offenders' property shall or may be found, whose duty it shall be to execute the same without delay, and the said constable shall be entitled to the same fees as are allowed for executing other processes of a similar nature; and in all cases where the fines accruing and imposed by this act, shall exceed the sum of thirty dollars against any one offender, it shall be the duty of the said commissioners, or a majority of them, and they are hereby authorized, required, and directed to issue separate and distinct executions against such offender's goods and chattels, for the amount of the fine incurred by the default of each and every slave of such offenders severally; which said fines, when levied, shall be paid by the said constable to the commissioners, or any one of them, who shall apply the same towards the repairs of the several roads, bridges, and causeways within such division, and be severally answerable for the sums received by them to the board of commissioners, and shall make a return of the sum or sums of money by them received as aforesaid, and of the particular bridges, causeways, or roads about which they have expended and laid out the same, or parts thereof, at the annual meeting of the board; unless the party making such default shall, within ten days thereafter, make such excuse, on oath, as may be deemed satisfactory to the commissioners of their respective districts or divisions.

63. Sec. VI. Every male white inhabitant liable to work and appear as aforesaid, shall, when summoned and appearing as aforesaid, in his division or district, if required, carry with him one good and sufficient gun or pair of pistols, and at least nine cartridges to fit the same, or twelve loads of powder and ball, or buck shot, under the penalty of one dollar for every day he shall neglect so to do.

64. Sec. VII. No civil officer or any person whatsoever, shall on any pretence, execute any warrant or process, unless for felony, treason, or breach of the peace, on any person or persons, during the time any such person or persons shall be working upon the said roads, or in going to, and in returning from working and appearing as aforesaid on the same, or within twenty-four hours after such person or persons shall be discharged from working upon such roads, under the penalty of ten dollars; and the service of such warrant or summons on any person is hereby declared to be null and void to all intents and purposes; and during the time aforesaid, not any implement, for any cause, matter, or things whatever, except it be for any payment or assessment mentioned in, or for any fine or forfeiture incurred by this act; but arms and accoutrements shall not be liable to be seized or taken under any pretence whatsoever; and in case any person shall seize, distrain, or levy upon any such implements of labor, arms, and accoutrements, except as aforesaid, every such person shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars.

Persons, their arms and implements exempt from civil process.

65. Sec. VIII. The commissioners aforesaid, or any one of them, shall have power and authority to nominate and appoint one or more overseer or overseers in their respective districts or divisions, to attend, view, manage, and direct all persons working within the same, and such overseer or overseers hereby have full power to correct any slave or slaves neglecting the work by them to be done, or otherwise offending; and in case any white person, free negro, or mulatto, shall neglect to work, or perform the duty required of him or them, the commissioners, or a majority of them, upon report thereof by the overseer or overseers, shall fine every person so offending, in a sum not exceeding two dollars for each day he shall so refuse or neglect; and if any person or persons, chosen overseer as aforesaid, shall refuse to do and perform the duty thereof, such person or persons shall, at the discretion of the said commissioners, or a majority of them, be fined ten dollars for every such offence.

Overseers may be appointed to superintend the work on roads, who shall report all defaulters.

Such defaulters, as also the overseers may be fined by the commissioners.

66. Sec. IX. If any person or persons as aforesaid, shall hinder or forbid any traveller from going through, or passing over any roads, bridges, rivers, or creeks, in any division or district, or obstruct or oppose the commissioners or surveyors of such division or district, the overseers, white persons, free negroes, and mulattoes, or slaves, working in and upon, or clearing the same, in so doing, or making any use of trees or timber, wood or earth, in or near the same, for mending and repairing the said roads or bridges, or any causeways whatsoever within the same, such person or persons shall forfeit a sum not exceeding thirty dollars, and the commissioners are required to allow a reasonable compensation, of which they, or a majority of them shall judge, for the trees or timber to the owners thereof, for the purpose of keeping in repair the several roads, bridges, and causeways, to be paid out of any fines collected by virtue of this act.

Persons hindering travellers or obstructing overseers or their hands in working on the roads, shall forfeit 30 dollars.

Timber, &c. to be paid for.

67. Sec. X. The several commissioners nominated and appointed, shall meet yearly, and at such time and place within the county as the commissioners of the several divisions may appoint, giving at least twenty days' notice in their respective districts, of the time when, and the place where such meeting will be held; and a majority of the commissioners so convened shall form the board, and then and there determine all matters relating to the several roads, bridges, rivers, Commissioners to meet yearly to regulate and determine all matters relating to the roads.

creeks, causeways, and water passages already laid out, erected, cleared or made, or which may be erected, cleared or made, and assign any particular part of the duty to be performed by any particular person or persons, commissioner or commissioners, and shall appoint the time of working within their respective divisions or districts, and also shall appoint other commissioners in the room of any dying, departing the State, declining, refusing, or neglecting to act, as shall be agreed upon and determined by a majority of the commissioners then present; in the event of there not being a majority of commissioners to form a board, those present shall give ten days' notice of the time and place of another meeting.

Commissioners neglecting to perform their duties, liable to a fine of 30 dollars.

68. Sec. XI. Any commissioner or surveyor appointed, or to be appointed, who after accepting of such appointment, shall not daily and every day attend upon the roads within their respective districts or divisions, during the time of working on the same, or whenever thereunto required by a majority of the commissioners of such division or district, or who shall refuse or neglect to do or perform the duties required of them by this act, such commissioner or commissioners, shall, at the discretion of the board of commissioners, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding thirty dollars.

Persons obstructing roads, compelled to remove the same, or subject to a fine of 30 dollars.

69. Sec. XII. If any person or persons shall by themselves, their slaves or servants, (for whom their respective masters, owners, managers, or employers shall be answerable,) alter, or in any wise damage, by stopping of water, or by any means whatever obstruct any of the roads, bridges, rivers, or creeks, in any division or district already laid out, or that may hereafter be laid out, every such person or persons so offending, shall be summoned by the commissioners or surveyors of the districts, or divisions wherein any such offence shall be committed, or a majority of them, forthwith to amend, clear, and repair the same; and in case of refusal or neglect of such person or persons so to do, such person or persons so offending, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding thirty dollars; and the said commissioners or surveyors, or a majority of them, are hereby empowered and required to hire and employ such a number of hands as may be necessary to attend, repair, and clear the same; and the expense of such amendment, repairing, and clearing, shall be defrayed and paid by the person or persons so offending, neglecting, or refusing as aforesaid, which fine and expense shall, on refusal of payment, be levied on the goods and chattels of such offender, as in this act is directed.

and the obstruction to be removed at his expense.

New roads.

70. Sec. XIII. If at any time after the passing of this act, any number of persons shall wish or desire a new public road to be laid out, opened, cleared, and kept in repair, such persons shall communicate their wish or desire by petition to the board of commissioners or surveyors, at their annual meeting, therein giving a full and accurate description of the road they wish laid out, with the place from whence, and whither they wish it to lead, and through what district or districts such road is intended to run:—And provided, the prayer of such petitioners shall be deemed just and reasonable by the commissioners or surveyors, or a majority of them then present, they are hereby required and empowered to order such new road to be laid out, and to determine and prescribe the district or districts of such road or roads, and forthwith to appoint three commissioners to each district or division, who shall accordingly proceed to lay out and cause to be opened, cleared, and kept in repair, such road or roads—Provided, that if the said new road shall not be of sufficient length, or difficult to form, or require a separate district, the said commissioners or surveyors, or a majority of them, may at their discretion, allot the same to such other district or districts as may appear to them most equal and fair.*

71. Sec. XIV. All public roads laid out, or to be laid out, or now Width of roads. in use, or which shall be hereafter laid out, shall be cleared of all trees, grubs, and bushes, at least 20 feet wide, and such limbs of trees as may incommode horsemen or carriages shall be cut away.

And whereas it may not be practicable for the several persons subject to work by this act to erect bridges over the several creeks and rivers, which may be in their several districts or divisions, by working thereon in the mode pointed out by this act :

72. Sec. XV. Be it further enacted, That the commissioners or Bridges. surveyors of such districts or divisions, by the consent of the justices of the inferior court, are hereby empowered to contract and agree with any person or persons willing to undertake the same, and the expenses thereof shall be defrayed out of the county funds ; and whenever it shall be necessary to erect or repair any bridge between two Bridges between two counties. counties, the commissioners of the districts adjoining such bridge in both counties, by the consent of the justices of the inferior court of each county, are hereby empowered to contract and agree with any person or persons willing to undertake the same, and the expenses thereof shall be at the joint expense of each county, to be defrayed out of the county funds.

73. Sec. XVI. If at any time after the passing of this act, any Private paths or roads. person or persons should wish or desire to have a private path for the convenience of his or their settlement to the nearest public road or landing place, such person or persons shall communicate their wish or desire to the board of commissioners at their annual meeting, therein giving a full and accurate description of the road they wish laid out, with the place from whence, and whither they wish it to lead ; and the board are hereby empowered to determine on said petition, and if deemed reasonable, to order the laying out the same at the joint proportional labor and expense of those who may apply for, and use the same in common, of which proportional labor and expense the board are hereby declared to be sole judges.

81. Sec. IV. The commissioners of the public roads, appointed under this act, shall respectively make annual returns in writing upon oath, to the inferior court of the county by whom they were appointed, of all moneys received by them on account of fines, penalties, or forfeitures, imposed or incurred under and by virtue of this act; and shall likewise at the time of making such returns pay over to the said court the amount of all such moneys so received by them during the preceding year; and the said commissioners shall be, and they are hereby declared to be authorized to administer all necessary oaths for carrying this act into full effect so far as respects the duties of their appointment. And in all cases of default or neglect of duty by the commissioners of the public roads appointed under this act, they, and each of them, upon application to the inferior court of the county wherein they reside, and sufficient proof of such default being made to said court, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $20 for each and every such default or neglect of duty.

Duty of commissioners in making returns and paying over moneys, authorized to administer oaths, penalty on them for any default or neglect.

82. Sec. V. All fines, penalties, and forfeitures, which may be imposed and received under and by virtue of this act, shall be by the inferior courts of the said several and respective counties, appropriated towards the building and keeping in repair the public bridges within the same.

Moneys, how appropriated.

83. Sec. VI. All and every person or persons owning, or having the care, management, or possession of any slave or slaves, liable to work on the public roads, causeways, and bridges, shall give an account* of the names and number of such slaves so liable, to the commissioners of the said public roads within the district in which they reside, or to any one of them, when thereunto required, and in case of refusal so to do, or making a false or erroneous return of the number of such hands, he, she, or they, so offending, shall be liable to a fine of $5 in each and every case.

Owners, &c. of slaves to give on oath a list to the commissioners, on pain of 5 dollars.

84. Sec. VII. In all cases where a public road is the division line between two districts, the commissioners appointed to such road, in each district adjoining the same, shall confer and settle upon the time and place for assembling the hands apportioned in their respective districts to such road, and shall furnish the overseers of such road with a list of the hands which are to work thereon, and the said overseers shall thereupon direct the warners in each district adjoining such road, to notify the said hands of the time and place of meeting, for the purpose of working as aforesaid; and when met or assembled, the said overseers shall attend to, and have such section of the said road as they are appointed to, put in good and sufficient repair, and shall make due return of all defaults or deficiencies to the commissioners in each respective district adjoining to, or bounding on such road, particularly noting the district in which such defaulters severally reside.

When a road is the dividing line between districts, what is to be done.

New roads, 85. Sec. VIII. Whenever a new* road or alteration in an old one is ordered by the inferior court within the said counties, in terms of the hereinbefore recited act, it shall be the duty of the several commissioners for the respective districts within the county through which the said new road is ordered by the said court to be opened and cleared, or through which the alteration proposed in an old road may run or extend, to apportion sufficient hands in either case for effecting the object contemplated by the order of the inferior court aforesaid, and appoint overseers in like manner as is hereinbefore pointed out, for the purpose of clearing out and keeping in repair the said new road, or that part of an old one so altered.

SEAL OF GEORGIA.

An Act for altering the Great Seal of the State of Georgia.—Approved February 8, 1799. Vol. I. 413.

Whereas, the constitution of this State directs the alteration of the great seal, therefore,

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That the great seal of the State of Georgia shall be made of silver, and the size of two and a quarter inches in diameter. Great seal to be of silver.

2. Sec. II. The device shall be as follows: On the one side a view of the sea shore, with a ship bearing the flag of the United States, riding at anchor near a wharf, receiving on board hogsheads of tobacco and bales of cotton, emblematic of the exports of this State; at a small distance a boat landing from the interior of the State with hogsheads, &c. on board, representing her internal traffic; in the back part of the same side, a man in the act of ploughing; and at a small distance a flock of sheep in different postures, shaded by a flourishing tree. The motto on this side, Agriculture and Commerce, 1799. The device. (That the other side contain three pillars supporting an arch, with the word Constitution, engraven within the same, emblematic of the constitution supported by the three departments of government, viz. the legislative, judicial, and executive, the first pillar to have engraven on its base, Wisdom, the second, Justice, and the third, Moderation;) on the right of the last pillar a man standing with a drawn sword, representing the aid of the military in defence of the constitution; the motto, State of Georgia, 1799.

3. Sec. III. That his excellency the governor be, and he is hereby authorized to contract with some fit and proper person for making of the aforesaid seal in manner and form aforesaid, and shall deposit the same in the office of the secretary of state; and on and after the fourth day of July next, the said seal shall be considered as the great seal of the State of Georgia, and applied and made use of as such in all cases as the law directs; and the old, or present great seal, shall be broken in presence of his excellency the governor. The governor to contract for making the seal. The old seal to be broken.

An Act supplementary to the foregoing.—Approved Dec. 5, 1799. Vol. I. 413.

Whereas it appears, that so much of the second section of the before-recited act, as are contained in the words following; to wit, [see the words within the parenthesis in Sec. 2.] could not be completely carried into execution, inasmuch as from examination of the size of the great seal established by the aforesaid act, an impression of these words, wisdom, justice, and moderation, engraven on the three aforesaid pillars, would not be legible or intelligible.

4. Sec. I. Be it enacted, That that part of the said before-recited section,—to wit, the words, the first pillar, engraven on its base, wisdom, the second justice, and the third moderation,—be, and the same is hereby repealed. And that the great seal, as now deposited and in operation in the secretary of state's office of this State, with the words wisdom, justice, and moderation, engraven in a wreath on the several pillars, emblematic of the several departments of the government, be, and is hereby sanctioned, ratified, and declared the great seal of the Part of the former act repealed.

New seal as made, sanctioned and established.

State of Georgia; and all grants, papers, and documents, to which the same has been affixed by order of the executive authority since the fourth day of July last past, the period when the former great seal by the aforesaid act ceased to be the great seal, and the new great seal was by the said act to be in operation, are hereby also sanctioned, ratified, and declared to be as valid in all courts of law and equity as they possibly would or could have been, had the words wisdom, justice, and moderation, been engraven on the base of the respective pillars agreeably to the directions of the said second section.

Whereas there is now in the secretary of state's office a number of grants of land issued previously to the fourth day of July last past, which have not heretofore had the former great seal of the State affixed to them.

New seal to be affixed to grants signed before 4th July, 1769.

5. Sec. II. Be it enacted, That the secretary of state shall affix the present great seal of this State, as declared by this act, to any grant or grants which have been issued for land under the authority of this State previous to the fourth day of July past, which have not heretofore had the former great seal of this State affixed to such grant or grants as aforesaid, which shall be held, deemed, and considered valid in all courts of law and equity, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

SEAMEN AND MARINERS.

An Act to punish Seamen or Mariners, neglecting or deserting their duty on board their respective Ships or Vessels; and for preventing Seamen or Mariners from being harbored or running in debt.—Approved March 6, 1766. Vol. I. 414.*

Whereas masters and commanders of vessels trading to this province are often greatly distressed by the neglect or desertion of their seamen, which is in general occasioned by such seamen being harbored and entertained by, and running in debt with the keepers of taverns and tippling houses, and ill-disposed persons, to the great detriment and hindrance of trade, for prevention of which evil, Justices may apprehend delinquent seamen who are under contract.

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and immediately after the passing of this act, if any seaman or mariner, having entered or shipped himself on board any ship or vessel within this province, or which shall come to the same, and having signed an agreement or contract with the master or commander thereof to proceed upon any voyage therein mentioned, shall absent himself from such ship or vessel for the space of twenty-four hours, without leave had and obtained from the said master or commander, or other chief officer having the command of such ship or vessel, or shall refuse or neglect to perform his duty on board the same, or refuse to proceed on the voyage mentioned in such agreement or contract, signed as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for any justice or justices of the peace, within their respective jurisdictions, upon application being made to him or them by such master or commander, to issue his or their warrant or warrants, to apprehend such seaman or mariner, and upon proof of such absence without leave had and obtained, or of such neglect or refusal as aforesaid, to commit such seaman or mariner to the jail or work-house, for any time not exceeding thirty days, any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. Sec. II. The charge of apprehending, committing, and maintaining such seaman or mariner, during his confinement as aforesaid, shall be paid by the complainant, which charge he is hereby authorized to deduct out of the wages due, or to be due to such seaman or mariner.

Charges deducted out of the seaman's wages.

3. Sec. III. If any person or persons whatsoever after the passing of this act, shall give credit to or trust any seaman or mariner belonging to any ship or vessel within this province, having signed any agreement or contract to proceed therein as aforesaid, for any sum exceeding five shillings, except by leave of the master or commander of such ship or vessel, he, she, or they, so giving credit to or trusting such seaman or mariner as aforesaid, shall, for every such offence, lose the moneys or goods so credited or trusted.

Persons trusting such seaman above 5 shillings without leave of the captain, shall lose the debt.

4. Sec. IV. If any person or persons whatever, after the passing of this act, shall willingly and knowingly entertain, retain, harbor, or keep, or shall directly or indirectly suffer to be entertained, retained, harbored, or kept any seaman or mariner belonging to any ship or vessel, and having signed any agreement or contract as aforesaid, in his, her, or their house, without the leave, privity or consent of the master or commander of such ship or vessel, he, she, or they, so offending, shall forfeit the sum of forty shillings sterling for every twenty-four hours such seaman or mariner is harbored, entertained, retained, or kept in his, her, or their house as aforesaid, and such fine or forfeiture shall be recovered by distress and sale of the offender's goods, by warrant under the hand and seal of any justice of the peace of the parish where such offence shall be committed, which penalty shall be to his majesty, for the use of the poor of the said parish.

Persons harboring or entertaining them without leave, shall forfeit forty shillings per day.

How recovered and applied.

5. Sec. V. All and every keeper or keepers of taverns, or tipping houses, or any other person or persons whatever, who from and after the passing of this act, shall sell any wine, punch, beer, ale, cider, or any spirituous liquor whatever, to any seaman or mariner belonging to any ship or vessel, and having signed any agreement or contract as aforesaid, to the amount of more than one shilling and six pence in any one day, or shall entertain, or suffer any seaman or mariner as aforesaid to drink or tippie in his, her, or their house, or furnish such seaman or mariner with any liquor as aforesaid, after the hours of nine of the clock at night, unless with the knowledge or by the leave and consent of the master or commander of the ship or vessel to which such seaman or mariner shall belong, such keeper of tavern or tipping house, or such person or persons so offending, shall, upon proof of such offence, forfeit the sum of twenty shillings sterling, to be recovered and applied as in this act is before directed.

Tavern keepers furnishing seamen more than one shilling and sixpence worth per day, or entertaining them after nine o'clock at night without leave, forfeit 20 shillings.

Masters shall give certificates to seamen who have performed their contract, under penalty of 5 pounds.

How recovered and applied.

6. Sec. VI. From and after the passing of this act, any and every seaman or mariner, whose agreement or contract entered into with any master or commander of any ship or vessel within this province, for the performance of any voyage therein specified, shall be fulfilled and determined, shall and may demand of, and from the said master or commander, a certificate thereof, and of his discharge from such ship or vessel, which certificate such master or commander is hereby required to give, under the penalty of five pounds sterling, to be recovered by warrant of distress, and sale of the offender's goods, under the hands and seals of any two justices of the peace, for the parish where such offence was committed, and be to his majesty, and applied one half to

On his refusal, 2 justices may grant such certificate.

Commanders hiring seamen without certificates, forfeit ten pounds.

Ferryman setting them over without such certificate, to forfeit 5 pounds.

Continuation.

the informer, and the other half to the poor of the said parish ; and upon refusal of said master, or commander, to give such certificate without just cause, any two justices of the peace, upon due application and proof thereof, are hereby empowered to give such certificate, which shall be of equal force, as if given by such master, or commander ; and such justices shall receive for every such certificate so given by them as aforesaid, the sum of one shilling sterling, to be paid by such master, or commander, refusing as aforesaid.

7. Sec. VII. No master or commander of any ship or vessel within this province, shall hire, receive, entertain, or ship, any seaman or mariner belonging to, and pretending to be discharged from any other ship or vessel, unless such seaman or mariner shall have a certificate of his discharge as aforesaid, under the penalty of ten pounds sterling, to be recovered and applied as the penalty in this act inflicted upon masters or commanders refusing to give such certificate.

8. Sec. VIII. If any person or persons keeping or attending any ferry within this province, shall willingly or wilfully transport, or suffer to be transported over such ferry, any fugitive seaman or mariner, not having a certificate of discharge as directed by this act, he shall, upon conviction thereof before any one of his majesty's justices of the peace for the parish, where such offence was committed, forfeit five pounds sterling, to be recovered by warrant of distress, and sale of the offender's goods,* and be to his majesty, to and for the use of any person or persons informing of and suing for the same.

9. Sec. IX. This act shall be and continue in force for and during the term of three years, and from thence to the end of the next session of the general assembly, and no longer.†

SERVANTS, NOT SLAVES.

An Act for the government of servants, not slaves, imported or migrating into this State.—Approved Feb. 6, 1796. Vol. I. 416.

Whereas the encouragement of migration into this State of white inhabitants is of primary consequence thereto, and many valuable artisans and useful persons of the poorer class of Europeans desirous of migrating hither, have not wherewithal to defray the charge of passage money, and other incidental expenses attending the same, and either indent themselves as servants previous to embarking, or agree with the captains, owners, supercargoes of vessels, or others, to indent themselves as servants on their arrival at any of the ports of this State, or the United States, as a compensation for such passage money and expenses : And whereas, it has happened on such arrival, disputes have arisen between such person so migrating, and those who have borne their expenses as aforesaid, or those to whom they were previously to embarkation indented ; and doubts have been entertained of the validity of any contracts made in a foreign country with respect to binding and holding to service any person so migrating, unless a new agreement be entered into after his or her arrival within this State : for remedy whereof,

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passing of this act, all white servants brought into this country under any agreement or contract made in foreign countries, and who shall not previously to embarkation therefrom have been indented, shall be bound to perform the same ; and in case of refusal to indent himself, herself, or themselves, on application and demand, it shall be lawful for the person or persons, with whom such servants have so agreed or contracted, to apply to any three justices of the county into which such servants may arrive, one of whom to be a judge of the inferior court thereof, who are hereby empowered and required to have the parties brought before them, and decide on the validity and good faith of such contract ; and if they, or a majority of them, shall judge the same binding and valid, it shall be the duty of such magistrates, or a majority of them, to indent such servants, by an order to be entered up of record in the clerk's office of the inferior court, which order shall be received and considered as an indenture, and held to be as binding in law, to all intents and purposes, as if the same had been voluntarily entered into by such servants after such their arrival : Provided nevertheless, that if such servant be of the age of nineteen years, they shall not be indented for a longer term than five years ; and if under that age, for a longer period than their arrival at the age of twenty-four years ; and if at the age of fourteen, until they arrive at the age of twenty-one years : and the said magistrates are also hereby empowered to decide on the age of such servants, and bind them accordingly, which decision shall be entered up of record with such order in the clerk's office of the said inferior court.

Contracts made abroad, with white servants, how to be carried into effect.

Proviso.

How long they may be bound.

Court to determine on their age.

2. Sec. II. All indentures made between masters, supercargoes, or owners of vessels, or other persons, in foreign countries, and persons wishing to migrate to this State or the United States, and thus becoming servants as aforesaid, shall be held and received as valid and binding in law, on their arrival within any port or place within this State, as if such indenture had been voluntarily entered into by the parties after such their arrival.

Indentures made in foreign ports, of full force in this State.

And whereas, it is as necessary and proper, and humanity requires that the servants so held to service, should, in return therefor, meet with humane and kind treatment from persons to whom they may be bound :

3. Sec. III. Be it enacted, &c. That all masters and owners of servants coming within the intention of this act, shall find and provide for their servants wholesome and competent diet, clothing and lodging in health, and proper and necessary medicine and attendance in sickness ; and shall not at any time give immoderate correction, or at any time whip such persons naked, without an order from two or more magistrates for that purpose, after a hearing from both parties, and shall not task them with immoderate labor ; and such servants shall have their complaints received by any justice of the peace, who, if he finds cause, may bind the master or owner over until the complaint can be heard before the inferior court of the county where they shall reside ; and all complaints of such servants shall and may, by virtue hereof, be received by the said court in form of petition, without the formal process of an action ; and full force and authority is hereby given to the said court, at their discretion, (having first summoned their masters or owners to justify themselves, if they think fit,) to adjudge, order, and appoint what shall be necessary and proper, as well with respect to the diet, lodging, clothing, and excessive labor, as to the correction of the servant or servants complaining ; and if any master or owner shall not thereupon comply with the court's order, the said court is hereby authorized and empowered, upon a second just complaint, to release and acquit such servant or servants from any future

4. Sec. IV. No master or owner of any servant shall during the time of such servant's servitude, make any bargain with him or her for further service, or other matter or thing relating to liberty or personal profit, unless the same be made with the approbation of the inferior court of the county where they so reside; and if any servant shall at any time during such service, by gift or other lawful means, acquire any goods or money, such servant shall have the property thereof to his or her own sole use and benefit. And if any servant shall, during such servitude, happen to fall sick or lame, so that he or she becomes of little or no use to his or her master or owner, the master or owner shall at his or her own expense provide such servant with necessary medicine and attendance during such sickness, and shall not put away such servant, but shall maintain him or her during the whole time he or she were obliged to serve; and if under any pretence of freedom any master or owner shall put away any such sick or lame servant, and such servant shall become chargeable to the county, such master or owner shall forfeit and pay a sum equal to the maintenance of such person to be recovered by distress, monthly or weekly, at the option of the magistrates superintending the poor rates of such county.

and not become chargeable on the county.

To be well clothed when discharged.

5. Sec. V. At the expiration of the time of service, every master or owner shall supply every such servant with a new and sufficient suit of clothes to be approved of by any three or more justices of the said county, under a penalty not exceeding thirty dollars, to be recovered in a summary way, by such servant, before the said justices.

Indentures may be assigned.

6. Sec. VI. All servants imported or migrating, and indented as aforesaid, may be transferred by assignment of the indentures, either by the persons they originally contracted with, or their assigns; and such persons to whom such servant may be so assigned, shall be subject to the clauses and provisos of this act, and to every matter and thing expressed to be done or performed, on the part of the original owners, importers, or contractors.

SHIPPING AND PILOTAGE.

An Act to regulate the pilotage of vessels to and from the several ports of this State.—Approved Dec. 6, 1799. Vol. I. 592.

Whereas it is highly necessary for the safety of all ships and vessels bound inward to and outward from the several ports of this State, that there should be a sufficient number of skilful and able pilots constituted and appointed for the bringing in and carrying out the same; for the more expeditious and effectual performance of which,

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That the several persons hereinafter named be commissioners for the regulation of pilots, rates, and all matters relating to the pilotage for the ports hereinafter mentioned, viz. For the bar of Tybee and river Savannah, and for the several bars and inlets lying to the northward of Saint Catherine's bar,* [five persons named;] for the bar of St. Catherine's and river Medway, and for the several bars and inlets to the southward of St. Catherine's bar as far as Turtle river,* [five persons;] and for the bar of St. Mary's, and for all the bars and inlets south of the said Turtle river, [also five persons.] Three of each respectively are hereby declared to be a quorum,† and who are hereby empowered to nominate, appoint, and license such person or persons as they shall think to be most fit and competent‡ to act as pilots for the conducting of vessels inward to and outward from the several ports for which they shall be licensed, during their good behavior severally and respectively. And if there shall happen to be a deficiency of the said number of five commissioners respectively, by death, resignation, or departure out of this State, the surviving or remaining number, in such case, shall apply to the governor or commander in chief for the time being, who is hereby empowered to appoint a new commissioner or commissioners to fill any vacancy that shall so happen, and so on from time to time, and at all times hereafter, whenever there shall be a deficiency of the said number of five commissioners for each district.

2. Sec. II. From and after the passing of this act, no person shall be entitled to receive any fee, gratuity, or reward for conducting or piloting any vessel inward to or outward from any of the ports or harbors for which a pilot shall be licensed, unless such person is properly nominated, appointed, and licensed by the commissioners of the port where such vessel is bound to, or going from, and that no person may meddle, interfere, or disturb the licensed pilots in the way of their duty.

No person to act as pilot unless licensed.

Sec. III. [Repealed by act of 1830, see sec. 31.]

4. Sec. IV. Every pilot or pilots, warranted or to be warranted, or licensed as aforesaid, shall enter into bond with the commissioners of pilotage, with two or more securities, in the penalty of $2,000 to his honor the governor and his successors for the due execution of their office,|| and shall take and subscribe the following oath, to be tendered by the said commissioners, or any quorum of them, for the time being, before the said pilot or pilots shall be entitled to receive any fee or reward in that capacity; viz. "I, A. pilot for or concerning the pilotage of any ship or vessel, or any other matter incident, or relative to the business, or care of a pilot, in any of the said harbors, all such damages, disputes, complaints, or differences, (when the claim does not exceed $100,) are hereby ordered to be heard and determined by the commissioners, or a majority of them, appointed for the care of the pilotage, where such damage or dispute shall happen, who, by their decree, arbitrament, or order, shall and may lawfully decide, adjust, and regulate every such damage, dispute, complaint, or difference; and if either of the said parties, master, or pilot, shall refuse to abide by, fulfil, or perform the decree, or order, or other adjudication of the said commissioners, or a majority of them, who shall hear and determine the same, the party so refusing shall be subject, in addition to the former award, to the penalty of not exceeding $100, as the said commissioners, or a majority of them, shall think proper to adjudge, the whole to be levied by warrant of distress under the hand and seal of the said commissioners, or any three of them, and sale of the offender's goods, and such part of the said award and penalty so inflicted and recovered as the commissioners inflicting the same shall think reasonable to satisfy any damage the party aggrieved shall suffer by such neglect, act, matter, or thing as aforesaid, shall be paid to the party aggrieved, and the remainder to be applied for improving the navigation of the port and harbor where such penalty is recovered; and in case of default of payment of such award and penalty, and no property to be found belonging to the party offending, then, and in that case an attachment shall go in like manner under the hand and seal of the said commissioners, or any three of them, against the person of the party so refusing, who is hereby to be kept in prison for a term not exceeding six months, without bail or mainprize, any thing in this or any former act to the contrary notwithstanding.*

Pilots answerable for damages, happening from want of skill.

6. Sec. VI. If any ship or vessel whatsoever, or the cargo and freight therein contained, shall happen to receive any damage or miscarriage, or be lost through the neglect, insufficiency, or default of, or in any of the pilots for any of the said harbors, after such pilot takes charge of the same, and the claim exceeds $100, the said pilot shall in such case, on conviction thereof in any court of record in this State, be obliged to answer and make good to the sufferers, or the master of such ship or vessel, all and every the damages and losses which he or they shall sustain through the said pilot's neglect or default in any manner or wise whatsoever.

Commissioners may remove pilots from office.

7. Sec. VII. If any of the pilots for the ports aforesaid, for the time being, shall be found not sufficiently skilled, or shall become incapable of acting, or shall be negligent or misbehave in his duty towards the commissioners, or any one of them, then and in such case, the commissioners of the port or harbor for which such pilot is licensed, shall annul or revoke the warrant or license of every such incapable or offending pilot, who shall thenceforth be totally suspended, and be deemed incapable to receive and take any fee, gratuity, or reward, for the guiding or piloting of any ship or vessel inward to, or outward from, any of the said ports. [The rest of the section, and the words in italics, repealed by act of 1830, see sec. 31.]

Masters of vessels refusing to receive a pilot on board, shall pay him his fees.

8. Sec. VIII. Any person, master or commander, that shall bring any ship or vessel to any of the bars or the coast of any of the said harbors, and shall refuse to receive on board any warranted or licensed pilot, the said person, master or commander, so refusing, and afterwards bringing in the said ship or vessel into any of the ports aforesaid, shall, and is hereby made liable to pay the pilot first offering to come on board such ship or vessel without the bar, to take charge thereof as pilot, the same rates, dues, and payments, as are hereinafter particularly expressed and provided, and to be paid in the same manner, as if the said pilot had actually piloted the same ship or vessel into any of the said ports or harbors.

9. Sec. IX. The master or commander of any ship or vessel, for the consideration of the pilotage of the said ship or vessel inward to, or outward from, any of the ports or harbors aforesaid, shall pay unto the licensed pilot that shall take charge of the same, the several sum and sums of money, rates, and prices as are established by the board of commissioners,* as full and ample satisfaction unto the said pilot, for his care and charge in bringing in or carrying out every such ship or vessel; and if any licensed pilot shall ask or demand more fees for his services than is specified in the rates of pilotage, on due proof thereof before the commissioners, or a majority of them, he shall forfeit double the amount of such vessel's pilotage.

Shall pay the rates fixed by the commissioners of pilotage.

Penalty for over charge.

The pilot who brings a vessel into port, has a preference to conduct it out.

10. Sec. X. To encourage as much as may be pilots to attend the bars, that all and every licensed pilot bringing any vessel safe from sea, shall have the preference of bringing such ship or vessel up and down the river, and to sea again, provided they give their attendance and are duly qualified, and if any master or owner of any vessel in the port, employ any other pilot to carry his vessel down the river, or to the sea, but the pilot who brought her in, or one belonging to the same boat, unless good and sufficient cause shall appear therefor, on due proof thereof before the commissioners, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding 100 dollars, one half to the pilot claiming the pilotage of the vessel; but should such pilot neglect or refuse to attend, and carry down said ship or vessel when ready for sea (wind, weather, and tide permitting,) and thereunto required by the master, owner, or consignee, shall, on conviction thereof before the board of commissioners, forfeit the upper pilotage of such vessel, and be liable to a fine not exceeding 100 dollars; and every pilot acting on board such vessel where he has no right, shall be liable to the same penalty, provided the commissioners have not sufficient evidence of the necessity of his acting.

Pilots shall moor the vessels.

11. Sec. XI. All and every pilot in any of the harbors aforesaid, when he has brought any ship or vessel to anchor, in any of the aforesaid harbors, shall, and is hereby directed and required to moor such ship or vessel, or to give proper direction for the mooring of the same, and for their safe riding at such mooring.

12. Sec. XII. If any pilot or pilots belonging to any port in this State, shall meet at sea with any vessel or vessels bound to another port within the same, such pilot or pilots shall, if capable and thereunto required, take charge of and pilot the same into such port, and shall be paid two dollars per day for every day such pilot shall be on board such vessel at sea without the bar, over and above the usual rates of pilotage; and no other pilot shall interfere while the first is willing to continue his services.

May be compelled to pilot to another port.

13. Sec. XIII. All vessels entering and clearing within this State shall pay the several rates of pilotage, if a licensed pilot is offered, except the constant coasting vessels to and from Charleston, and they shall pay half pilotage up, if a pilot is offered without the bar, if they take no pilot, and whole pilotage if they take one, any law, custom, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding; but vessels coasting from one port to another within the State, shall not be liable to pay pilotage, unless a pilot is required to act on board.

What vessels shall pay pilotage.

* See sec. 18.

Fines appropriate.

14. Sec. XIV. All fines or parts of fines that may be recovered under this act, which shall not be awarded by the commissioners to the party complaining, shall go to the fund for improving the navigation of the port.

And whereas there have been instances of captains of vessels refusing to pay the pilots agreeable to rates, after getting to sea, in which case the said pilots have no remedy:

Masters may be made to give security for the outward fees.

15. Sec. XV. Be it enacted, That the captains of such vessels as have no owner or consignee in the port, shall be obliged, if requested by the pilot acting on board, to give security for the faithful payment of the pilotage before said vessel leaves such port.

The general issue may be pleaded.

16. Sec. XVI. If any person or persons authorized to carry this act into execution, shall be sued or prosecuted for any matter or thing to be done in pursuance thereof, it shall and may be lawful for such person or persons to plead the general issue, and give this act and the special matter in evidence.

Sec. XVII. [Repeals all former acts respecting pilots and pilotage.]

An Act supplementary to the foregoing.—Approved Dec. 12, 1815.
Vol. III. pam. of 1815, p. 6.

None but a citizen of the U. S. shall be a pilot.

17. Sec. I. It shall not be lawful for any person to be commissioned as a pilot, but a citizen of the United States, and whose usual residence has been therein, and who shall furnish good recommendation of his character, capability, and attachment to our government.*

Pilots' compensation.

18. Sec. II. The compensation for outward pilotage shall be the same as inward, and that the sum of two dollars per day be allowed for each day, that any pilot may be detained on board of any vessel bound out, from head wind or other detention.

An Act to vest in the mayor and aldermen of the city of Savannah the right to appoint the health officer for the port of Savannah, and to regulate the compensation to be allowed the said health officer, and the harbor-master of said port, for their services; and to repeal the several laws imposing a duty on tonnage in the river and harbor of Savannah; and to appropriate the funds unexpended in the hands of the commissioners heretofore authorized to receive the same.—Approved Dec. 19, 1823. Vol. IV. 452.

Mayor and aldermen of Savannah annually to elect a health officer for the port of Savannah.

19. The mayor and aldermen of the city of Savannah shall, on their first regular meeting in December next (1823), and annually on their first regular meeting in December thereafter, proceed by ballot to elect a health officer for the port of Savannah, who shall be under the direction and control of the said mayor and aldermen, and subject to such ordinances, rules and regulations as the said mayor and aldermen may make and prescribe for the better regulation of the duties of said health officer.

And fix the compensation of him and the harbor-master.

20. Sec. II. The said mayor and aldermen be, and they are hereby empowered to regulate the compensation to be allowed for the services of the said health officer, and the harbor-master of the port of Savannah.

Certain duties on tonnage repealed.

All laws and parts of laws heretofore passed for the purpose of levying or authorizing so to be levied a duty on tonnage in the river or harbor of Savannah, either for the purpose of compensating the harbor-

- Sec. II. [Repeals all conflicting acts.]

An Act to amend the several laws of force in this State, regulating the pilotage of vessels, to and from the ports and harbors of this State, and more distinctly to define the powers and jurisdiction of the commissioners of pilotage, for the several ports and harbors thereof.—
 Approved Dec. 23d, 1830. Pam. 159.

22. Whereas, it has been ascertained that under the laws now of force in this State, regulating the pilotage of vessels, to and from the several ports and harbors of this State, certain powers granted to the commissioners of pilotage, for the ports and harbors aforesaid, are in violation of the constitution and laws of this land, and that certain other powers therein delegated, are inadequate for the purposes contemplated, for remedy whereof.

Be it enacted, That if any person having no authority or license to act as a pilot, or having had any authority, shall be suspended by the commissioners of pilotage, shall pilot any vessels inwards to, or outwards from, any of the ports or harbors of this State, for which a pilot shall be licensed, that the person so acting as pilot without authority or license, shall be prosecuted by indictment in the superior court, for having acted as a pilot without authority or license, in a port or harbor in this State, in which a pilot or pilots have been licensed, and for each offence of piloting without a license as aforesaid, the person so offending shall be subjected to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, and be imprisoned for a space of time not exceeding ten days, at the discretion of the court.

Pilots acting without authority, liable to a fine of $500 and imprisonment.

23. Sec. II. Upon an affidavit being made, by any person before a justice of the peace, justice of the inferior court, or judge of the superior court, of any person having acted as a pilot without authority, in any port of this State, or harbor thereof, for which a pilot shall be licensed, it shall be lawful for such justice or judge, to issue a warrant for the arrest of the person so acting as pilot as aforesaid, without authority, and to commit him to prison to take his trial under the first section of this act, unless he shall give bond with good security, in a sufficient penalty, for his appearance at the next term of the superior court of the county having jurisdiction of the offence; and the person issuing said warrant shall be entitled to add to his bill of costs, the sum of one dollar for taking said bond.

How to be proceeded against.

24. Sec. III. Every pilot to be licensed, shall give to the commissioners of pilotage, a bond with two or more sufficient securities, to be approved of by said commissioners, made payable to the governor, in the sum of two thousand dollars, conditioned for the due execution of their office, and for their abiding by the decrees, arbitrations, and awards of the commissioners of pilotage made in pursuance of the authority vested in them by law; and that such pilot shall be liable by suit on his bond, instead of an attachment as contemplated by the fifth section of an act passed Dec. 6th, 1799, to regulate the pilotage of vessels to and from the several ports of this State.

Pilots to give bond in $2,000.

25. Sec. IV. All pains and penalties inflicted under and by virtue of the authority vested in the commissioners of pilotage by this act, and by the act mentioned in the preceding section, shall be recovered by warrant of distress, under the hand and seal of said commissioners, or any three of them, and sale of the offender's goods; which warrant shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which such port or harbor may be situated: and in case said sheriff shall fail to levy said warrants, and to make return thereon to the said commissioners, then and in such case, the sheriff may be ruled before the judge of the superior court, in term time, or in vacation, to make such return: Provided nevertheless, That in all cases of distress and sale occurring under the provisions of this section, it shall be the duty of the sheriff to give at least sixty days' notice in one of the public gazettes of this State, of such levy and intended sale.

Penalties levied by warrant of distress.

Sixty days' notice.

26. Sec. V. Ten commissioners of pilotage, for the port and harbor of Savannah, shall be elected by the mayor and aldermen of Savannah, at their first regular meeting in which the mayor and aldermen shall constitute a Ten commissioners of pilotage, to be elected by the mayor and aldermen of Savannah.

Vacancies. or part owner of a pilot boat, shall be eligible to the appointment of a commissioner of pilotage. All vacancies occurring, shall be filled by the said mayor and aldermen; and six months' absence shall be considered to vacate the seat of a commissioner of pilotage.

Oath of commissioners of pilotage. 27. Sec. VI. Every commissioner of pilotage, before he enters on his duty as such, shall take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation, to wit:—"I, A. B. do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that I am a citizen of the United States, and an inhabitant of the State of Georgia: and that I will truly and faithfully discharge the duty of a commissioner of pilotage, without fear, favor, or affection, so help me God."

Pilots may appeal from the commission to the Sup. court. 28. Sec. VII. In any case when a pilot shall be suspended, or when any fine exceeding the sum of twenty dollars shall be imposed, by any sentence, judgment, or decision of the said board of commissioners; or when the license or warrant of such pilot shall be annulled or revoked by any sentence, judgment or decision, of the said board of commissioners, then and in such case, the person so fined, or pilot so suspended, or whose license or warrant shall be revoked, may petition the judge of the superior court of the county in which such sentence of judgment shall be passed or made, setting forth on oath the circumstances of the case: a copy of which petition shall be served on the acting chairman of said board, or on the secretary thereof, at least three days before the return of any rule thereon, and if upon the reading such petition, and upon the return of the rule nisi which he shall grant in such case, the said judge shall be of opinion that there is sufficient cause for the allowance of an appeal, he shall thereon direct an issue to be made up, between the said commissioners of pilotage and the said appellant; which shall be tried by a special jury to be selected from the pannel of the grand jury, in the usual manner, at the next term of the said court thereafter, unless good cause be shown for a continuance: and if upon such trial, a verdict shall be returned in favor of the appellant, then and in such case, the said judge is hereby authorized and required to make an order, remitting such fine, or restoring the said suspended pilot, or the pilot whose warrant or license has been revoked as aforesaid, and which order shall be final in the case.

Pilots' qualification. 29. Sec. VIII. No person shall receive a certificate to act as a pilot, until he shall have served two full years in a decked boat, and have given satisfactory evidence of character and skill. Every certificate pilot shall serve eighteen months, before he shall be entitled to an increased authority: Provided, That in case of emergency, the commissioners of pilotage shall, by and with the advice and consent of the mayor of the city of Savannah, appoint such additional pilots as the said mayor shall deem expedient; the restrictions contained in this section to the contrary notwithstanding.

Interrogatories to examine witnesses. 30. Sec. IX. When the evidence of any person not a resident in the county wherein an appeal may be allowed, or whose present attendance in court cannot conveniently be had, may be required in any suit or proceeding in said court, under this act, it shall be lawful for the clerk of said court, to issue a commission to two or more persons therein to be named, authorizing them to examine such person in the manner usually pursued in the superior court: Provided, the party seeking such evidence, shall serve the adverse party, or his or their attorney, with a copy of the interrogatories to be exhibited to the witness, at least three days before the issuing of the commission: and the examination of such witness shall be read on the trial of said case.

Notice.

31. Sec. X. The whole of the third section, and the words, "or any one of them," which follow the words, "in his duty to the commissioners," in the first sentence, of the seventh section, and the latter clause of the said seventh section, of the act passed the sixth of December, 1799, beginning with the words, "if such suspended pilot shall under any pretence," and all laws and parts of laws militating against this act, be, and the same are hereby repealed. Repealing parts of the act of 1799.

An Act to amend the several laws of force in this State, regulating the pilotage of vessels, to and from the ports and harbors of this State; and more distinctly to define the powers and jurisdiction of the commissioners of pilotage, for the several ports and harbors thereof; passed Dec. 23d, 1830; and to vest certain powers in said commissioners of pilotage.—Approved Dec. 24th, 1832. Pam. 145.

32. Whereas, in and by said act, it is enacted, that every pilot to be licensed, shall give to the commissioners of pilotage, a bond with two or more sufficient securities, to be approved of by said commissioners, and made payable to the governor, in the sum of two thousand dollars, conditioned for the due execution of their office, and for their abiding by the decrees, arbitrations and awards of the commissioners of pilotage, made in pursuance of the authority vested in them by law; and whereas there is no provision made in said act, or in the acts to regulate the pilotage of vessels, passed previous to said acts, to compel said pilots in case their securities become insolvent or depart this life, to execute other bonds with new securities: and whereas, certain other powers delegated to the commissioners of pilotage for the several ports of this State, in and by the several acts of force in this State, regulating the pilotage of vessels to and from the several ports of the same, are inadequate for the purposes contemplated; for remedy whereof,

Be it enacted, That whenever all or any of the securities of any of the pilots of the several ports and harbors of this State, now licensed or hereafter to be licensed, shall have or may hereafter, in the opinion of the commissioners of pilotage for said several ports and harbors, become insolvent or depart this life, it shall be the duty of said commissioners of pilotage, to require said pilot or pilots, whose securities or any one of them, shall have or may hereafter become insolvent, or shall have or may hereafter depart this life, to give other bonds with other securities, in the form and mode prescribed and required by the act aforementioned, passed Dec. 23d, 1830; and on their refusing so to do, after thirty days' notice to be given by said commissioners through their messenger to said pilots, that said commissioners shall be, and are hereby required to revoke the warrant or license of every such pilot so refusing to give such new bond with such new securities, and said pilots so refusing, shall thenceforth [be] totally suspended, and be deemed incapable to receive and take any fee, gratuity or reward, for the guiding or piloting of any ship or vessel, inward to, or outward of the said ports. Commrs may require of pilots further bonds and security, or suspend them.

33. And be it further enacted, That where the attendance of any person shall be required as a witness before the commissioners of pilotage for the several ports or harbors of this State in any matter or claim, of which said commissioners have jurisdiction, it shall be the duty of the secretaries of said commissioners respectively, on application to issue summonses in the nature of writs of subpoena, to be signed by said secretaries and directed to the persons whose attendance shall be required, where such persons reside in the county, where such matter or claim may be depending; which summons shall express the cause and the party, at whose suit it shall be issued, and shall be served on May issue subpoena. How served.

such witness at least twenty-four hours before the meeting of said commissioners to which it shall be returnable; and which subpœna shall be served by the messenger of said commissioners or a constable, and the return of said messenger or constable, shall be sufficient evidence, that such subpœna was duly executed.

May attach
witnesses.

34. And be it further enacted, That where it shall appear in manner aforesaid, that a witness in any matter or claim shall be duly summoned, and such witness shall fail to appear, it shall be the duty of said commissioners, on motion, to issue an attachment under the hands and seals of a majority of said commissioners against such defaulting witness, to be directed to any sheriff, deputy sheriff or constable, and returnable to the next superior or inferior court of the county in which such commissioners may exercise their jurisdiction, and said court to which such attachment shall be made returnable, shall fine such witness in a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, unless he or she shall make a sufficient excuse for such non-attendance, which shall be judged of by said court; but such witness shall nevertheless be subject to the action of the person or persons at whose instance or suit such witness shall have been summoned, for any damage which he, she or they may have sustained, by reason of such non-attendance.

Civil remedy
party.

35. And whereas, it frequently happens that causes arising within the jurisdiction of said commissioners of pilotage are delayed from the absence of witnesses, who are generally seamen, and who cannot await the meetings of said commissioners, and which delay produces a serious injury to the interest of ship owners and others interested in commerce; for remedy whereof,

Interrogatories to transient persons.

Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passing of this act, where any seaman or other transient person is deemed by either party in any cause arising before said commissioners of pilotage, to be a material witness therein, it shall be lawful for said party to apply for and obtain a summons in the nature of a writ of subpœna from the secretaries of said commissioners respectively, to be directed to said witness, to appear before any one of said commissioners, or before any justice of the inferior court or justice of the peace, at a certain time and place therein to be mentioned, to answer all interrogatories that may then and there be put to him; which subpœna shall be served by a messenger or constable, at least twenty-four hours before the same shall be returnable; and the depositions of such witness or witnesses, shall be sealed up by the person before whom the same shall be taken, and directed to the secretaries of said commissioners, as is usual in case of commissions issuing from courts of this State, and shall be read on the trial of said cause, on motion of either party: Provided, That twenty-four hours' notice be given to the adverse party, his, her or their attorney, agent or consignee, of the time and place of putting said interrogatories to said witness or witnesses.

Notice.

36. And be it further enacted, That from and after the passing of this act, the said secretaries, messengers, justices of the peace and constables, shall receive the following fees:

SECRETARIES' FEES.

Officers' fees. For every summons in the nature of a subpœna, twenty-five cents—Attachment fifty cents.

MESSENGERS' AND CONSTABLES' FEES.

For serving every summons in nature of a subpœna, twenty-five cents.

FEES OF JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

For every examination of a witness as directed by said act, one dollar.

FEES OF SHERIFF, DEPUTY SHERIFF AND CONSTABLE.

For serving and executing an attachment against a witness in default and returning the same to court, fifty cents.

An Act to be entitled An Act amendatory of the several acts, regulating the Pilotage of Vessels to and from the ports of this State.
—Approved Dec. 22, 1835. Pam. 168.

37. Whereas captains of vessels after getting to sea are in the habit of refusing to pay the pilots agreeably to established rates, in which case said pilots have no remedy; and whereas pilots are sometimes carried away from the port to which they belong by masters of vessels against their consent—

Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That whenever any pilot shall be entitled to compensation agreeably to the rules and rates established by law, it shall and may be lawful for such pilot to demand, receive and recover, in any court having jurisdiction, from the owner, master or consignee of the vessel, the amount of his compensation or pilotage.

Owner, master, or consignee liable for pilotage.

38. Sec. II. In case any pilot be carried off to any port, either foreign or on the coast, against his consent, by any vessel which may have been piloted out by him, that the owner, master or consignee of such vessel shall be liable to such pilot in an action on the case for the payment of the reasonable expenses and for the sum of one dollar per day, during the necessary absence of said pilot: Provided, nevertheless, that the carrying away of such pilot shall not be owing to any default, misconduct or negligence on his part.

Redress of pilots carried off against their consent.

Sec. III. [Repeals all conflicting laws]

An Act to regulate the fees of Pilots for the several ports of this State.
Approved Dec. 24, 1836. Pam. 176.

39. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act, the pilots for the several ports and harbors of this State, shall receive, as full and ample satisfaction, unto the pilot bringing in, or carrying out every ship or vessel, inward to, or outward from, any of the ports or harbors aforesaid, a sum, equal to twenty per cent. on the rules and prices now established by the board of commissioners for the regulation of pilots' rates, and all matters relating to the pilotage for the several ports of this State.

Fees of pilots advanced 20 per cent.

40. Sec. II. Nothing in this act contained, shall be so construed as to deprive the boards of commissioners of pilotage of the several ports and harbors of this State, of the power of reducing said fees of the pilots of said several ports and harbors, to the rates now established and in force; Provided, that said reduction be not made at any time previous to the first day of June next.

But may be reduced.

Sec. III. [Repeals all conflicting acts.]

Note 1. The act of 1815, sec. 4, [Vol. III. 678] appoints thirteen commissioners of pilotage, any seven of whom shall constitute a board, and "shall have full power to regulate the bar and river Savannah" The same act, sec. 3d, prohibits the appointment of any colored person as a pilot for the bar of Tybee. The act of 1807, [Vol. II. 425.] gives, sec. 1, the commissioners of pilotage for the port of Savannah, power to place in Savannah river certain anchors, buoys, and chains, for the purpose of aiding vessels in their passage from Savannah to Five Fathom Hole. For the use of which, they are entitled (sec. 4.) to receive from all ships under two hundred tons, five dollars; on all above two hundred and not exceeding three hundred tons, ten dollars; and on all above three hundred tons, twelve dollars. And (sec. 2.) to displace, cut, break, alter, or destroy any of such anchors, buoys, &c. subjects the offender to a penalty of three hundred dollars, recoverable in any court having jurisdiction to that amount. And see Penal Laws, sec. 276. By the same act, (sec. 3,) if any vessel shall intentionally be suffered to sink in Savannah river, between Ray's Hall and Cockspur Island, the owner, consigner, or captain shall be fined by the commissioners of pilotage for the port of Savannah not exceeding two thousand dollars, recoverable in any court having jurisdiction to that amount; payable into the hands of the commissioners of pilotage for the purpose of clearing the river.

Note 2. The act of 1811, [Vol. III. 677.] repealing all former laws on the subject, appoints seven commissioners of pilotage, three of whom are to be a quorum, with power to nominate and license such pilots as they shall think fit and competent to act as such; and to pass such legal and constitutional by-laws, rules, and regulations as they shall deem most advantageous for the safe pilotage of vessels bound to and from the port of Darien and Sapelo river. By the act of 1818 [Vol. III. 680.] the commissioners of pilotage for the port of Darien are empowered to place in the Altamaha river certain anchors, buoys, and chains, for the purpose of aiding vessels in their passage from Darien to Doboy Sound, with the same penalty for molesting them as those in Savannah river; and for which all vessels arriving at Darien (except licensed coasters and drogers) shall pay three cents per ton.

Note 3. The act of congress of 1789, [1 Grayd. Dig. 280.] directs, sec. 4th, that all pilots in the United States shall be regulated in conformity with the laws of the States respectively, until further legislative provision shall be made by congress.

SLAVES, PATROLS AND FREE PERSONS OF COLOR.

Act for the establishing and regulating Patrols, and for preventing any Person from purchasing Provisions or any other commodities from, or selling such to any Slave, unless such Slave shall produce a Ticket from his or her Owner, Manager, or Employer.—Approved Nov. 18, 1765. Vol. I. 419.

Whereas it is absolutely necessary for the security of his majesty's subjects of this province, and for preventing the many dangers and inconveniences that may arise from the disorderly and unlawful meetings of negroes and other slaves within the same, that patrols should be established, under proper regulations, in such parts of the province where the militia is formed and settled: And whereas it is also proper to prevent dealing and trafficking with slaves:

Patrol divisions to be designated.

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That immediately from and after the passing of this act, every captain or commanding officer of a company* of foot militia throughout this province is hereby authorized, empowered, and required, severally and respectively, to summons together his inferior officers, if any such there be; and they shall in concert subdivide and distinguish his company district into as many other convenient patrol divisions as they shall think most proper and consistent with the extent and situation of their general company district, and so as the riding over any such patrol division may not exceed twelve miles in extent, which said subdivided divisions, severally and respectively, shall thenceforth be the patrol divisions, unless the same shall be thought necessary to be altered by the officers as aforesaid, and wherein the owners of settled plantations, as well as the other inhabitants of any such patrol division, as well alarm men as others of horse and foot, between the age of sixteen and sixty years, shall be subject to the patrol duty† of that division, and shall either by themselves in person, or by others employed for that purpose, do their patrol duty regularly and successively according to the true intent and meaning of this act; and in case any captain or commanding officer shall omit or fail to subdivide and distinguish his company district in manner hereinbefore enjoined, or afterwards at any muster day, or within five days after such muster day, shall neglect to prick off the several patrols as is hereinafter directed, that then every such captain or commanding officer so failing shall respectively be subject to and pay the penalty of five pounds sterling, to be recovered by warrant of distress under the hand and seal of any justice of the peace for the parish where such offence shall be committed, and sale of the offender's goods; and which sum shall be paid to the commissioners of the roads within such parish, and be by them applied towards repairing the bridges and causeways within the same; and that the owners of settled plantations and inhabitants within each company district may the better know to what patrol division they severally belong, the captains and commanding officers as aforesaid, shall, within ten days after making out the same, cause copies thereof, signed by them, to be affixed at the church and meeting-house doors, or other public places, in their several districts, and shall cause another copy thereof to be entered in a book by the clerk of their company, that any person concerned may from time to time have recourse to the same. And as all persons, as well women as men, who are or may be owners of settled plantations in any parish or district, ought in justice to contribute to the service and security of such parish or district, Be it therefore enacted, That the captains or commanding officers of each company of foot militia shall in their districts make out, and keep from time to time, a special patrol list for every subdivided and distinct patrol division, in which list shall be inserted the names of all owners of settled plantations being within the same, as well women as men, and as well alarm men as others, as also the names of all the male white inhabitants. Provided, that every person having several plantations settled in this province shall not be subject to, or obliged to do patrol duty in those divisions where such plantations lie other than in such, in which he or she shall usually reside: Provided also, that the masters and employers of all white male servants, who by this act are obliged to do patrol duty, shall, and they are hereby directed and obliged, to furnish such servants with a horse and furniture for such service, and that under the penalty of one pound, to be recovered and applied in like manner as the penalties on captains or commanding officers in this act before mentioned.

2. Sec. II. All persons, male or female,* whose names shall be enlisted as aforesaid, shall be liable to perform the patrol duty of their respective divisions, severally, successively, and in turns; and on every muster day, the captains or commanding officers of the several companies of foot militia shall, out of every patrol list made out as aforesaid, prick off the names of any number not exceeding ten persons, as well women as men, inhabitants and owners of, and residing upon plantations as aforesaid, all of whom shall, by themselves or others employed and provided for that purpose, severally and respectively do and perform the patrol duty herein directed, from such muster day until the next ensuing muster day, regularly, equally, and successively, the said captains or commanding officers as aforesaid, always choosing, and they are hereby directed to choose the nearest set of inhabitants set down in the patrol list as aforesaid; to do the duty together, that they may be enabled to meet and assemble with the better conveniency and expedition: Provided always, that it shall and may be lawful for Captains, &c. failing to comply with this section, shall forfeit five pounds. How to be recovered and applied.

3. Sec. IV. The captain or commanding officer* of every company shall have power in their several districts, from time to time, to appoint one good and discreet person from among the persons so pricked off to do patrol duty as aforesaid to be their commander, as soon as their names shall be so pricked off as aforesaid;†—and that the commander of every patrol may have the better authority to keep them in good order and demeanor during their time and term of duty, it shall and may be lawful to and for every such patrol commander, and they are hereby directed, empowered, and required, on any default or misbehavior or neglect of duty, of any patrol man, to inflict a fine upon him not exceeding the sum of ten shillings sterling, for the use of the patrols respectively, in which such neglect, default, or misbehavior, shall be committed, to be levied by distress and sale of the offender's goods, by virtue of a warrant for that purpose, directed to the constable of the district, or sergeant of such company, under the hand and seal of the captain or commander of the company from which such patrol, where such neglect, default, or misdemeanor may happen or be committed, shall be pricked off, which constable, or sergeant, shall be obliged, and are hereby severally authorized and empowered to execute the same, and shall be allowed for executing the warrant the sum of one shilling, and mileage as is hereinbefore directed;‡ and every constable, or sergeant, refusing and neglecting to serve such warrant directed to him, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding the sum of forty shillings sterling.

And that the said patrols may be the better able to suppress any mischievous designs of negroes, and other slaves, during their time of service,

4. Sec. V. It is hereby further enacted, That every person pricked off or appointed, or undertaking as a proxy for any other person liable to serve in the said patrol in pursuance of, or by virtue of this act, shall provide for himself, and keep always in readiness, and carry with him on his patrol service, one good gun or pistol in order, with six cartridges suitable for such gun or pistol, and one good cutlass, under the penalty of a sum not exceeding ten shillings, for want of any such arms or ammunition, at such times and places as they shall be appointed by their respective commanders, in their several divisions, to whose orders they shall on all occasions be respectively obedient during their time of service, on pain of incurring a fine not exceeding twenty shillings, to be levied by warrant under the hand and seal of the captain or commanding officer of the company from which such patrols shall be pricked off, as is hereinbefore mentioned.

5. Sec. VI. Every patrol shall go to, and examine the several plantations in their divisions at such times as they in their discretion shall see fit, one night in fourteen at least, and may and shall take up all slaves which they shall see without the fences or cleared ground of their owners' plantations, who have not a ticket or letter, or other token, to show the reasonableness of their absence, or who have not

Sec. VII. [Never took effect. See Vol. I. 424.]

And whereas, many irregularities may arise by patrols drinking too much liquor before or during the time of their being on duty:

6. Sec. VIII. Be it further enacted, That any person whatever, who shall be drunk during the time of his service on the patrol, shall be subject to the penalty of a sum not exceeding ten shillings, to be recovered by warrant from any justice of the peace, upon oath first made thereof, the same to be applied to the use of the highways in the respective districts where the offence shall happen.

Sec. IX. [See Sec. VII. of this act.]

And for better enforcing the performance of the several duties required by this act,

7. Sec. XI.‡ Be it enacted, That the field officers of each respective regiment of foot militia within this province, or any of them, shall be, and they are hereby directed and empowered to give such directions and orders from time to time to the several captains and other officers commanding companies in the regiments to which such field officers belong, as they shall judge necessary for the more effectually doing and performing the several duties by this act required by them to be done and performed, and on failure thereof by the said several captains and officers commanding companies aforesaid, the said field officers, or any of them, are hereby directed and enjoined to cause the several fines and penalties mentioned in this act to be strictly levied, and applied in the manner hereinbefore mentioned.

Field officers to superintend the execution of this act.

8. Sec. XII. If any captain or other officer, constable, patrol man, or other person, shall be sued, arrested, or impleaded, for any matter or thing which he shall do, or cause to be done, by virtue of or in pursuance of this act, it shall and may be lawful for every such captain or other officer, constable, patrol man, or other person, to plead the general issue, and give this act, and the special matter in evidence on the trial; and if a verdict shall pass against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or that such plaintiff or plaintiffs shall suffer a nonsuit, or discontinue of Act for ordering and governing Slaves within this Province, and for establishing a Jurisdiction for the trial of offences committed by such Slaves, and other persons therein mentioned, and to prevent the inveighing and carrying away Slaves from their masters, owners, or employers.—Approved May 10, 1770. Vol. I. 426.

Whereas from the increasing number of slaves in this province, it is necessary as well to make proper regulations for the future ordering and governing such slaves, and to ascertain and prescribe the punishment of crimes by them committed, as to settle and limit, by positive laws, the extent of the power of the owners of such slaves over them, so that they may be kept in due subjection and obedience, and owners or persons having the care and management of such slaves, may be restrained from exercising unnecessary rigor or wanton cruelty over them :

11. Sec. I. Therefore be it enacted, That all negroes, Indians, mulattoes, or mustizoes, who now are, or hereafter shall be in this province, (free Indians in amity with this government, and negroes, mulattoes, or mustizoes, who now are or hereafter shall become free excepted,) and all their issue and offspring born, or to be born, shall be, and they are hereby declared to be, and remain forever hereafter absolute slaves, and shall follow the condition of the mother, and shall be taken and deemed in law to be chattels personal in the hands of their respective owners or possessors, and their executors, administrators, and assigns, to all intents and purposes whatsoever : Provided always, that if any person or persons whatsoever, on behalf of any negro, Indian, mulatto, or mustizoe, do apply to the chief justice, or justices of his majesty's general court, by petition, either during the sitting of said court, or before the chief justice or any of the justices of the same court, at any time in the vacation, the said chief justice, or any of the said justices, shall be, and he and they is and are hereby empowered to admit any such person, so applying, to be guardian for any negro, Indian, mulatto, or mustizoe, claiming his or her freedom, and such guardian shall be enabled, entitled, and capable in law, to bring an action of trespass, in the nature of ravishment of ward, against any person or persons who shall claim property in, or shall be in possession of any such negro, Indian, mulatto, or mustizoe ; and the defendant or defendants, shall and may plead the general issue on such action brought, and the special matter may and shall be given in evidence, and upon general or special verdict found, judgment shall be given according to the very right of the cause, without having any regard to any defect in the proceedings, either in form or substance, and if judgment shall be given for the plaintiff, a special entry shall be made, declaring that the ward of the plaintiff is free, and the jury shall assess damages which the plaintiff's ward hath sustained, and the court shall give judgment and award execution against the defendant for such damages, with full costs of suit, but in case judgment shall be given for the defendant, the said court is hereby fully empowered to inflict such corporeal punishment, not extending to life or limb, on the ward of the plaintiff, as they in their discretion shall think fit : Provided always, that in any action or suit, to be brought in pursuance of the direction of this act, the burthen of the proof shall lie on the plaintiff, and it shall always be presumed that every negro, Indian, mulatto, or mustizoe (except as before excepted) is a slave, unless the contrary can be made appear.

Negroes, &c. shall be slaves, and follow the condition of the mother, and be chattels personal. Slaves suing for their freedom, shall have guardians appointed for that purpose.

In such actions, defendant must produce the ward of the plaintiff.

guardian as aforesaid, appointed pursuant to the direction of this act, the defendant shall enter into a recognizance, with one or more sufficient sureties, to the plaintiff, in such sum as the said general court shall direct, with the condition that he shall produce the ward of the plaintiff at all times when required by the court, unless such defendant shall prove upon oath to the satisfaction of the said court, his inability to produce such ward, and that whilst such action or suit shall be depending and undetermined, the ward of the plaintiff shall not be abused or misused.*

No persons to permit their slaves to go out of the limits herein mentioned, without a ticket.

13. Sec. III. And for the better keeping slaves in due order and subjection, Be it further enacted, That no person whatsoever shall permit or suffer any slave under his or their care or management, and who lives or is employed in any town in this province, to go out of the limits of the said town or towns, or any such slave who lives in the country, to go out of the plantation to which such slave belongs, or in which plantation such slave is usually employed, without a ticket signed or subscribed by the master or other person having the care or charge of such slave, or by some other person by his or their order, direction, and consent: and every slave which shall be found out of any town in this province, if such slave lives or is usually employed there, or out of the plantation to which such slave belongs, or in which such slave is usually employed, if such slave lives in the country, without a ticket as aforesaid, or without a white person in his or her company, shall be punished with whipping on the bare back, not exceeding twenty lashes.

Penalty on persons giving tickets to slaves, without consent of their owners.

14. Sec. IV. If any person or persons shall presume to give a ticket or license to any slave, who is the property or under the care or charge of another, without the consent of the owner or other person having the charge of such slave, he, she, or they shall forfeit to the owner a sum not exceeding five pounds, over and above the damage that may accrue to such owner by the absence of such slave.†

Slaves out of the place where they belong, who refuse to be examined, how to be treated.

15. Sec. V. If any slave, who shall be out of the house or plantation where such slave doth live, or is usually employed, without some white person in company with such slave, shall refuse to submit to the examination of any white person, it shall be lawful for any such white person to pursue, apprehend, and moderately correct such slave.‡

whatsoever, and to bring them to speedy trial according to the direction hereafter given by this act :—And in case any constable or other person shall refuse to obey or execute any of the warrants or precepts of such justices, or any of them, within their several parishes, or shall refuse to assist the said justice, or constable, or any of them, when commanded and required, such person and persons shall forfeit and pay for every such offence a sum not exceeding five pounds sterling, to be recovered by a warrant under the hand and seal of any other justice of the peace.

Sec. VIII. [Superseded, Sec. 58, &c.]

17. Sec. IX. As soon as the justices and jury shall be assembled as aforesaid, in pursuance of the direction of this act, the said jury shall take the following oath : “I, A. B. do solemnly swear, in the presence of Almighty God, that I will truly and impartially try the prisoner or prisoners brought upon his, her, or their trial, and a true verdict give according to evidence to the best of my knowledge : So help me God.”

Oath of the jury.

18. Sec. X. And for preventing the concealment of crimes and offences committed by slaves, and for the more effectual discovery and bringing slaves to condign punishment, Be it further enacted, that the evidence of any free Indians, mulattoes, mustizoes, or negroes, or slaves, shall be allowed and admitted in all cases whatsoever, for or against another slave, accused of any crime or offence whatsoever ;† the weight of which evidence, being seriously considered and compared with all other circumstances attending the case, shall be left to the justices and jury.

to associate with him on a particular day, in said notice to be specified, not exceeding three days from the date of said notice, for the trial of such slave or slaves. And the justices so assembled, shall forthwith proceed to the examination of a witness or witnesses, and other evidence, and in case the offender or offenders shall be convicted of any crime not capital, the said justices, or a majority of them, shall give judgment for the inflicting any corporal punishment, not extending to the taking away life or member, as in their discretion may seem reasonable and just, and shall award and cause execution to be done accordingly. And in case it should appear to them after investigation, that the crime or crimes wherewith such slave or slaves stand or stands charged, is a crime or crimes for which he, she, or they ought to suffer death, such slave or slaves shall immediately be committed to the public jail of said county, if any, provided it should be sufficient, or to the custody of the sheriff of said county, or to the nearest sufficient jail thereto.

59. Sec. II. The said justices shall within three days next thereafter, give notice in writing to one of the justices of the inferior court of said county of such commitment, with the names of the witness or witnesses, and such justice of the inferior court shall within three days after the receipt thereof,* direct the sheriff of said county, whose duty it shall be, to summon a jury of twelve free white persons of said county, to be drawn in the manner hereinafter pointed out, to attend in like manner.

60. Sec. III. It shall be the duty of such justices, clerk, and jurors to attend accordingly, and the said court when so assembled, shall cause the clerk of said court to commit the charge or accusation alleged against such slave or slaves in writing, therein particularly setting forth the time and place of the offence, and the nature thereof. [Sec. 80.]

61. Sec. IV. The said court shall cause twelve persons of those summoned, to be empannelled and sworn (the usual oath on such occasions made and provided) as jurors, to whom the said charge or accusation in writing, and the evidence shall be submitted.

62. Sec. V. The said jurors by their verdict shall say whether such slave or slaves are guilty or not guilty, and if a verdict of guilty should be returned by such jury, the court shall immediately pronounce the sentence of death, by hanging or some other punishment not amounting to death. [The proviso respecting the time of execution repealed. See Sec. 71, 72, 79.]

63. Sec. VI. The said court so constituted as aforesaid shall immediately proceed to such trial, unless it should appear necessary for the said court, either for the want of sufficient proof, or any other sufficient reason to delay the same as in their judgment may seem for the furtherance of justice.

64. Sec. VII. It shall be the duty of the clerk to make a record of the proceedings against such slave or slaves, separate and distinct from other records of his office, and he shall also issue subpoenas and other writs necessary to procure the attendance of a witness or witnesses at the instance of either party, and that in all cases respecting the admission of evidence against people of color, the rules shall be the same as heretofore practised in this State.

65. Sec. VIII. The justices of the inferior court at their regular terms† shall draw in the manner pointed out by law, not more than thirty-six, nor less than twenty-six jurors, twenty-four of whom shall be Runaway slaves to be delivered to the constable within 48 hours.

23. Sec. XXIV. It shall and may be lawful for every person to take, apprehend, and secure, any runaway or fugitive slave, and they are hereby directed and required, within forty-eight hours after such taking, apprehending, and securing, (otherwise such person to be construed and taken as a harbinger of such runaway or fugitive slave,) to send such slave, if convenient, to the master or other person having the care and government of such slave, if the person taking up or securing such slave, knows, or can without difficulty be informed to whom such slave belongs, or such slave shall be delivered into the custody of the master of the workhouse of the parish, if any, but if none, to any constable of the said parish; and the master, or other person who has the care or government of such slave, shall pay for taking up such slave, whether by a free person or slave, the sum of five shillings sterling, and the master of the workhouse, or constable, upon receipt of every fugitive or runaway slave, is hereby directed and required to keep such slave in safe custody, until such slave shall be lawfully discharged, and shall, as soon as conveniently it may be, advertise such slave in the public gazette, and also in the most public place in the parish where such slave shall be taken up, with the best description he shall be able to give, first carefully viewing and examining such slave for any brand or mark, which he shall also advertise, to the intent the owner, or other person who shall have the care and charge of such slave, may come to the knowledge that such slave is in custody; and if such slave shall escape through negligence, and cannot be taken up in three months, the said person shall answer to the owner for the value of such slave, or the damages which the owner shall sustain by reason of such escape, as the case shall happen.*

Fugitive slaves to be maintained at the charge of the owners.

29. Sec. XXV. The said master of the workhouse, or constable, shall, at the charge of the owner of such slave, provide sufficient food, drink, clothing and covering, for every slave delivered into his custody, or on failure thereof, shall forfeit all his fees, and for each day after he shall neglect to advertise as before directed, the sum of three shillings.

Persons taking up slaves, entitled to two pence per mile.

Account to be given on the delivery of slaves to the constable.

30. Sec. XXVI. If any person shall take up any runaway slave, and shall deliver such slave either to the master, or other person having the care and charge of such slave, or to the constable of the parish, or the master of the workhouse, he shall be entitled to receive from the owner, or constable of the parish, or the master of the workhouse, two pence per mile for every mile such slave shall have been brought or sent, to be computed from the place where such slave was apprehended; and if such slave shall be delivered into the custody of the constable of the parish aforesaid, or the master of the workhouse, the person delivering such slave, shall give an account of his name, place of abode, and the time and place when and where such slave was apprehended; which account the said constable, or master of the workhouse shall enter down in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall give a receipt for any such slave which shall be delivered as aforesaid into his custody; and the said constable, or master of the workhouse, is hereby fully authorized and empowered to demand and receive from the owner or other person having the charge or care of any such slave, for negroes committed from the month of October to March, inclusive, for finding necessary clothing and covering, to be the property of the master's, any sum not exceeding eighteen shillings, and the several

And whereas it may be attended with ill consequences to permit a great number of slaves to travel together on the high roads without some white person in company with them :

37. Sec. XXXVIII. Be it therefore enacted, That no men slaves exceeding seven in number shall hereafter be permitted to travel together in any high road in this province, without some white person with them; and it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons, who shall see any men slaves exceeding seven in number, without some white person with them as aforesaid, travelling or assembled together in any high road, to apprehend all and every such slaves, and to whip them, not exceeding twenty lashes on the bare back.

Men slaves exceeding 7, not to travel the highway without a white person.

And whereas the having slaves taught to write, or suffering them to be employed in writing, may be attended with great inconveniences :

38. Sec. XXXIX. Be it therefore enacted, That all and every person and persons whatsoever, who shall hereafter teach, or cause any slave or slaves to be taught to write or read writing, or shall use or employ any slave as a scribe in any manner of writing whatsoever, every such person and persons shall, for every such offence, forfeit the sum of twenty pounds sterling.*

Penalty on persons teaching slaves to write, or read writing.

Sec. XL. [Superseded by the penal code. See Penal Laws, Sec. 296.]

* See Penal Laws, Sec. 304.

Penalty for making slaves labor on the Sabbath.

39. Sec. XLI. If any person shall on the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, employ any slave in any work or labor, (work of absolute necessity, and the necessary occasions of the family only excepted,) every person so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten shillings for every slave he, she, or they shall so cause to work or labor.

Sec. XLII. [As to killing slaves. Repealed by the constitution, and by the act on that subject. See Sec. 45.]

And whereas plantations settled with slaves, without any white man thereon, may be harbors for runaway and fugitive slaves :

Sec. XLIII. [Repealed by act of 1823. Vol. IV. 409.]

Persons sued for executing this act, may plead the general issue.

41. Sec. XLIV. If any person shall be at any time sued for putting in execution any of the powers contained in this act, such person shall and may plead the general issue, and give the special matter and this act in evidence; and if the plaintiff be non-suit, or a verdict pass for the defendant, or if the plaintiff discontinue his action, or enter a noli prosequi, or if upon demurrer judgment be given for the defendant, every such defendant shall have his full costs.

This act to be construed most beneficially for carrying the same into effect.

42. Sec. XLV. This act, and all the clauses therein contained, shall be construed most largely and beneficial for the promoting and carrying into execution this act; and for the encouragement and justification of all persons to be employed in the execution thereof; and that no record, warrant, precept, or commitment, to be made by virtue of this act, or the proceedings thereupon, shall be reversed, avoided, or any wise impeached by reason of any default in form.

State not to be liable to pay for slaves legally executed.

43. Sec. III. From and after the passing of this act, the State shall in no instance be answerable for, or liable to pay the owner any consideration whatever for any negro slave or slaves who may suffer death by the laws of this State.

Expenses in prosecuting slaves, how to be paid.

44. Sec. IV. All expenses and fees, chargeable by any of the public officers, for prosecuting any negro slave or slaves, convicted of any crime, not capital, against the laws of this State, shall be paid by the owner or owners of such slave or slaves. But in all cases where any slave shall be convicted of any crime whereby he, she, or they may suffer death, the expenses attending the trial and execution of such slave or slaves, shall be paid by the county where they shall be executed.

An Act to carry into effect the 12th Section of the 4th Article of the Constitution.—Approved Dec. 2, 1799. Vol. I. 443.

Sec. I. [Re-enacted by the penal code. See Penal Laws, 64.]

The same mode of prosecution, and measure of punishment for killing a slave as a white person.

45. Sec. II. If any person or persons whomsoever, shall maliciously deprive a slave or slaves of life, he, she, or they, so offending, shall be prosecuted by indictment in the superior court of the county in which such offence may have been committed, in like manner as if the person or persons charged had perpetrated a like offence on any free white person or persons whomsoever; and on all such trials the same rules of law and evidence shall obtain, as on other trials for murder. And if upon trial for such offence, any person or persons shall be found guilty of murder, he, she, or they shall suffer such punishment as would be inflicted in case the like offence had been committed on a free white person, that is to say, shall be hanged, without the benefit of clergy; and if found guilty of manslaughter, shall be punished by branding,* in like manner as is usual in cases where any person or persons is or are convicted of manslaughter, committed on a free white person or persons, except in case of insurrection by such slave, and unless such death should happen by accident in giving such slave moderate correction.

46. Sec. III. In all prosecutions for offences of this nature, committed by any white person or persons upon any slave or slaves, it shall be the duty of the solicitor or attorney general preferring and prosecuting such indictment or indictments, to charge the offence or offences to be contrary to the constitution and act of the general assembly of this State, in such case made and provided. And the judge or judges presiding on the trial or trials of such offender or offenders, shall be bound, upon conviction by a jury, to pronounce sentence in like manner as if the like offence had been committed on a free white person, so that such offender or offenders may be punished according to the true intent and meaning of the twelfth section of the fourth article of the constitution, and of this law.

Duty of sol. gen. in prosecuting for offences under this law.

Act prescribing the mode of Manumitting Slaves in this State.—Approved Dec. 5, 1801. Vol. II. 27.

47. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to manumit or set free any negro slave or slaves, any mulatto, mustizo, or any other person or persons of color, who may be deemed slaves at the time of the passing of this act, in any other manner or form, than by an application to the legislature for that purpose. [And see Sec. 94, &c.]

Slaves manumitted only by the legislature.

48. Sec. II. If any person or persons shall, after the passing of this act, set free any slave or slaves, in any other manner or form than the one prescribed herein, he shall forfeit for every such offence, $200, to be recovered by action of debt, or indictment, the one half of the said sum to be applied to the use of the county in which the offence may have been committed, the other half to the use of the informer or informers; and the said slave or slaves so manumitted and set free, contrary to the true meaning and intent of this act, shall be still to all intents and purposes, as much in a state of slavery as before they were manumitted and set free, by the party or parties offending. [And see Sec. 91, 94.]

Penalty for breach of this act.

49. Sec. III. It shall not be lawful for the clerks of the superior courts, or any other officer of the State, to enter on record in any book of record by them kept, any deed of manumission, or other paper which shall have for object the manumitting and setting free any slave or slaves, and the party offending herein, shall forfeit for every deed or other paper so recorded, the sum of $100, to be recovered by action of debt, or indictment in any court having cognizance thereof, the one half to be paid to the party who shall sue or prosecute for the same, and the other half to the use of the county, where the offender may reside. [But see Sec. 92.]

Deeds of manumission not to be recorded.

* For manslaughter see Penal Laws, 4th division of the Code, and see same division, Sect. of Penal Laws, 65 and 66, as to killing a slave.

to associate with him on a particular day, in said notice to be specified, not exceeding three days from the date of said notice, for the trial of such slave or slaves. And the justices so assembled, shall forthwith proceed to the examination of a witness or witnesses, and other evidence, and in case the offender or offenders shall be convicted of any crime not capital, the said justices, or a majority of them, shall give judgment for the inflicting any corporal punishment, not extending to the taking away life or member, as in their discretion may seem reasonable and just, and shall award and cause execution to be done accordingly. And in case it should appear to them after investigation, that the crime or crimes wherewith such slave or slaves stand or stands charged, is a crime or crimes for which he, she, or they ought to suffer death, such slave or slaves shall immediately be committed to the public jail of said county, if any, provided it should be sufficient, or to the custody of the sheriff of said county, or to the nearest sufficient jail thereto.

59. Sec. II. The said justices shall within three days next thereafter, give notice in writing to one of the justices of the inferior court of said county of such commitment, with the names of the witness or witnesses, and such justice of the inferior court shall within three days after the receipt thereof,* direct the sheriff of said county, whose duty it shall be, to summon a jury of twelve free white persons of said county, to be drawn in the manner hereinafter pointed out, to attend in like manner.

60. Sec. III. It shall be the duty of such justices, clerk, and jurors to attend accordingly, and the said court when so assembled, shall cause the clerk of said court to commit the charge or accusation alleged against such slave or slaves in writing, therein particularly setting forth the time and place of the offence, and the nature thereof. [Sec. 80.]

61. Sec. IV. The said court shall cause twelve persons of those summoned, to be empanelled and sworn (the usual oath on such occasions made and provided) as jurors, to whom the said charge or accusation in writing, and the evidence shall be submitted.

62. Sec. V. The said jurors by their verdict shall say whether such slave or slaves are guilty or not guilty, and if a verdict of guilty should be returned by such jury, the court shall immediately pronounce the sentence of death, by hanging or some other punishment not amounting to death. [The proviso respecting the time of execution repealed. See Sec. 71, 72, 79.]

63. Sec. VI. The said court so constituted as aforesaid shall immediately proceed to such trial, unless it should appear necessary for the said court, either for the want of sufficient proof, or any other sufficient reason to delay the same as in their judgment may seem for the furtherance of justice.

64. Sec. VII. It shall be the duty of the clerk to make a record of the proceedings against such slave or slaves, separate and distinct from other records of his office, and he shall also issue subpoenas and other writs necessary to procure the attendance of a witness or witnesses at the instance of either party, and that in all cases respecting the admission of evidence against people of color, the rules shall be the same as heretofore practised in this State.

65. Sec. VIII. The justices of the inferior court at their regular terms† shall draw in the manner pointed out by law, not more than thirty-six, nor less than twenty-six jurors, twenty-four of whom shall be directed by such justices of the court to be summoned as aforesaid, to attend at the day and place pointed out for the trial of such slave or slaves in manner aforesaid, and in case a sufficient number of those summoned should not attend, the said court shall direct the pannel to be made up by talesmen, and all defaulting jurors so summoned in the manner pointed out by this act, shall be fined as in other cases pointed out by law. [Proviso superseded. Sec. 77.]

66. Sec. IX. The owner or manager of such slave or slaves, shall have the right of challenging seven of the said number summoned, and the said court five on the part of the State, and the remaining twelve shall proceed to the trial of such slave or slaves. Challenges.

An Act to point out the mode of trial of offences committed by free persons of color.—Approved Nov. 23, 1815. Vol. III. 800.

An act passed at Milledgeville on the 16th day of December, 1811, entitled an act to establish a tribunal for the trial of slaves within this State; the court therein established is hereby made a tribunal for offences committed by free persons of color, to all intents and purposes, as if the words free persons of color had been inserted in the caption, and every section of the said act to establish a tribunal for the trial of slaves within this State. Act of 1811 extended to free colored persons.

An Act to compel Owners of old or infirm Slaves to maintain them.—Approved Dec. 12, 1815. Vol. III. 802.

67. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, it shall be the duty of the inferior courts of the several counties in this State, on receiving information on oath of any infirm slave or slaves being in a suffering situation from the neglect of the owner or owners of such slave or slaves, to make particular inquiries into the situation of such slave or slaves, and render such relief as they in their discretion may think proper. Infirm slaves may be relieved by the inf. court,

68. Sec. II. The said courts may, and they are hereby authorized, to sue for and recover from the owner or owners of such slave or slaves, the amount that may be appropriated for the relief of such slave or slaves, in any court having jurisdiction of the same; any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding. who may recover the amount from the masters.

An Act for the trial and punishment of Slaves, and free people of color.—Approved Dec. 19, 1816. Vol. III. 804.

69. Sec. I. The following shall be considered as capital offences, when committed by a slave or free person of color;—insurrection, or any attempt to excite it; poisoning, or attempting to poison; committing a rape, or attempting it, on a free white female; assaulting a free white person, with intent to murder or with a weapon likely to produce death; maiming a free white person;—burglary, or arson of any description, as contained in the penal code of this State; murder of another slave, or free person of color;—every, and each of these offences shall, upon conviction, be punished with death.* And if any free person of color commits the offence of inveigling, or enticing away any slave or slaves, for the purpose of, and with the intention to aid and assist such slave or slaves, leaving the service of his or their owner or owners, or in going to another State; such person so offending shall, for each and Certain crimes punishable with death.

every such offence, on conviction, be confined in the penitentiary at hard labor for one year, and at the expiration of their imprisonment, shall be sold to the highest bidder as a slave, for and during the term of their natural lives.

All other offences punishable at discretion.

70. Sec. II. All other offences committed by a slave, or free person of color, either against persons or property, or against another slave or person of color, shall be punished at the discretion of the court, before whom such slave or person of color shall be tried; such court having in view the principles of humanity in passing sentence, and in no case shall the same extend to life or limb.

Pardon in capital cases.

71. Sec. III. In every case of conviction, for a capital felony, the owner of the slave, or guardian of the free person of color convicted, may apply to the court, before which the conviction shall have taken place, and obtain a suspension of the execution of the sentence, for the purpose of applying to the governor for a pardon; and it shall be in the power of the governor to grant said pardon. [Remainder of this section repealed. Sec. 78.]

In other cases.

72. Sec. IV. On a conviction for any other offence not punishable with death, the court may at its discretion, grant a suspension of the execution of the sentence, for the purpose of enabling the owner of a slave, or guardian of a free person of color, to apply to the governor for a pardon, or commutation of the punishment in such manner, and upon such terms and conditions, as he may think proper to direct.*

Who may be witnesses.

73. Sec. V. On the trial of a slave, or free person of color, any witness shall be sworn, who believes in God and a future state of rewards and punishments. [And see Sec. 23.]

Arrests and trials to be in pursuance of the act of 1811, and of this act.

74. Sec. VI. Every slave or free person of color charged with any offence contained in this act shall be arrested and tried, pursuant to an act, entitled "an act to establish a tribunal for the trial of slaves within this State," passed the 16th day of December, 1811, and the 7th, 8th, and 9th sections of this act, and shall receive sentence agreeably to the requisitions contained in this act.

Notification to the court and clerk.

75. Sec. VII. From and after the first day of March next, when any justice of the inferior court shall have received notice of the commitment of any slave or slaves, or free person or persons of color (under the description of a free negro or negroes, mulatto, or mustizoe,) to jail, in pursuance of the second section of an act, entitled "an act to establish a tribunal for the trial of slaves in this State," passed the 16th day of December, 1811; it shall be the duty of the said justice of the inferior court within three days after the receipt thereof, to give notice in writing of such commitment to the justices of the inferior court, or a majority of them, together with the clerk of said court, requiring their attendance at the court-house of said county, where such slave or slaves, or person or persons of color as aforesaid, may have been committed, on a particular day in said notice, to be specified in writing, not exceeding ten days from the date of said notice. [See Sec. 59.]

Suspension of sentence.

76. Sec. VIII. Where any jury shall find a verdict of guilty against any such slave or slaves, or person or persons of color as aforesaid, in pursuance of the 5th section of the act referred to in the preceding section, it shall, and may be lawful for the said court, to suspend the passing sentence against such slave or slaves, or person or persons of color as aforesaid, for any term of time not exceeding two days.

115. Sec. IV. If any captain of a vessel, mariner, or other person or persons shall transport, entice, carry away, or inveigle, or shall attempt to transport, entice, carry away, or inveigle, or shall aid, abet, or in anywise assist or be instrumental in the transportation, removal, enticing, inveigling, or going, running, or carrying away out of the State of Georgia of any free person of color or any other person of color, claiming or pretending to claim to be free, who shall not have such genuine certificate of registry of freedom duly issued to him or her as aforesaid, such person or persons so offending shall be liable to be indicted as for a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the common jail of the county, at the discretion of the court; and such person or persons, and each and every one of them, shall also forfeit and pay the sum of $500 for each offence so committed, to be sued for or prosecuted by action of debt as on the case in the name of the State in any court having competent jurisdiction thereof, at any time within five years after the commission of the offence, one half of which forfeiture when recovered shall be for the use of the State, and the other half to the use of the informer; and it shall [be] the duty of the attorney general, or solicitor general, who shall be assigned or appointed to prosecute the pleas of the State in the county where the said action is cognizable, to sue and prosecute for said sum whenever he shall be informed of any such offence; Provided, nevertheless, that it shall and may be lawful for any such person to sue and prosecute for said sum, if such attorney or solicitor general shall not have previously sued, or prosecuted therefor.

Any captain of a vessel, or other person, transporting, enticing, or carrying, &c. out of the State any person of color without such genuine certificate of registry liable to pay $500 for each offence.

Duty of the attorney or solicitor general in relation thereto.

116. Sec. V. No colored seaman arriving from any port whatever (except from ports in South Carolina) shall be suffered to leave the vessel in which they have arrived, in any port in this State, from the hours of six o'clock in the evening until five o'clock in the succeeding morning; and it shall be the duty of every captain of a vessel having such seamen as aforesaid on board to report to the chief magistrate of the city or town where the vessel is, a particular description of the seamen and their names; and the said captain shall give bond with two securities in the sum of $100 for each seaman aforesaid, payable to the chief magistrate of the city or town where the vessel is, conditioned for the maintenance of each seaman, for the retaining each on board his said vessel, as is above required, and for the taking, removing, and carrying away each of said seamen when the vessel departs, whether by the articles entered into the said port of this State be a port of discharge or not.

No colored seaman allowed to leave the vessel in which they arrived within certain hours.

The duty of the captain and his obligations.

117. Sec. VI. If the said captain shall violate or omit to perform any of the provisions or conditions of said bond so entered into, it shall be the duty of the aforesaid chief magistrate to direct the solicitor general of the circuit court, or recorder of the city in which the vessel is, or employ any solicitor or attorney to sue the same in any court having competent jurisdiction; and the amount recovered on said bond shall be paid into the treasury of such town or city.

Captains violating their bonds liable to be sued.

Sec. VII. [General repealing clause.]

An Act more effectually to enforce the provisions of the statute of 1826, [last act.] so far as the same regards the arrival of persons of color in the several ports and waters of this State.—Approved Dec. 26th, 1827. Vol. IV. 412.

118. Whenever any vessel shall arrive in any of the ports or waters

On the arrival of any vessel the master to report the colored persons on board, and give bond. Penalty for omission.

of this State, it shall be the duty of the master or captain thereof to repair, within twenty-four hours after the arrival aforesaid, to the nearest city or town, and make a report to the mayor, intendant, or other chief magistrate thereof, of any colored persons on board of his said vessel, and give bond agreeably to the provisions of the fifth section of the act passed the twentieth day of December, 1826, under the penalty of one hundred dollars for every such person omitted to be so reported and bonded.

Penalty how sued for and recovered.

119. Sec. II. The said penalty shall be sued for and recovered in the same manner as is prescribed in the sixth section of the said act, passed on the 20th day of December, 1826, aforesaid, entitled "An Act to amend An Act, entitled An Act supplementary to An Act more effectually to enforce An Act, entitled An Act prescribing the mode of manumitting Slaves in this State; and also to prevent the inveigling and illegal carrying out of the State Persons of Color."

An Act to amend the Acts concerning the Guardianship of Free Persons of Color.—Approved Dec. 21, 1829. Vol. IV. 229.

120. Whereas, it frequently happens that the citizens of this State decline a permanent guardianship of free persons of color, by which the ends of justice are prevented;

Free persons of color may sue by their next friend.

Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passage of this act, free persons of color may exercise the right heretofore secured to them, of suing and being sued, pleading and being impleaded, answering and being answered unto, by the aid of a next friend as well as by a guardian.

Guardians may resign.

121. Sec. II. Guardians of free persons of color shall have the privilege, with the consent of the inferior courts, of resigning their appointments at any time they may wish to do so.

An Act to be entitled An Act to amend the several Laws now in force in this State regulating Quarantine in the several seaports of this State, and prevent the circulation of written or printed papers within this State calculated to excite disaffection among the colored people of this State, and to prevent said people from being taught to read or write; and to repeal the Act, assented to the 9th December, 1824, entitled An Act to repeal the Law of 1817, prohibiting the introduction of Slaves into this State.—Approved Dec. 22, 1829. Vol. IV. 413.

122. Whereas, it has become highly necessary and essential to the welfare and safety of the good people of this State, that merchant vessels or ships coming by sea from other States or countries with free persons of color acting as mariners or stewards, or in any other employment or capacity on board such vessel or vessels, should perform quarantine, and that means be adopted to prevent such persons of color from coming into this State, or from communicating with the colored people of this State;

Vessels having free persons of color on board, subject to a quarantine of 40 days.

Be it therefore enacted, &c. That all ships or vessels coming into any part of this State by sea from any port or place in any other State, or any foreign country, having on board any free negro or free person of color employed as a steward, mariner, or in any other capacity, or as a passenger, shall be subject to quarantine for the space of forty days; nor shall it be lawful for any negro or person of color residing in this State to go on board of such ship or vessel while riding quarantine, or to have communication with any such colored person on board of said vessel for any purpose whatever, while she is so riding quarantine.

123. Sec. III. If any free negro or person of color so coming in the said ship or vessel shall come on shore, or have any communication with any person of color residing in this State, while the said ship or vessel shall be riding quarantine as aforesaid, such negro or person of color shall be immediately apprehended and committed to the common jail of the county where he shall be apprehended; and the mayor or intendant of any city or town within this State, or any judge or justice of any superior or inferior court of this State, is hereby authorized and required to issue a warrant or warrants directed to any sheriff, or marshal, or constable of any city or town, or sheriff or lawful constable within this State, for the apprehension of such free negro or person of color, and to commit him or her to any common jail within this State as aforesaid, there to remain until the said ship or vessel shall be actually departing from the waters of this State, or shall be hauled off from the wharf and ready to proceed to sea, or until he or she shall be otherwise discharged by law.

Any free person of color who shall have communication with such on shore during the quarantine, to be arrested and imprisoned.

124. Sec. III. If any negro or person of color shall communicate with any free negro or person of color so coming into this State, while the said ship or vessel is riding quarantine as aforesaid, such negro or person of color so offending shall be forthwith arrested by a warrant, to be issued by the authorities and in the manner hereinbefore provided and directed, as is hereinbefore provided, and on conviction thereof [by] any mayor or intendant, judge or justice as aforesaid, before whom the said warrant shall be made returnable, shall be sentenced to be whipped not exceeding thirty-nine lashes.

Persons of color communicating with such on board liable to be arrested and whipped.

125. Sec. IV. When said vessel is ready to sail, the captain of the said vessel shall be bound to carry away the said free negro or person of color, and to pay the expenses of his detention; and in case such captain shall refuse or neglect to pay the said expenses and to carry away the said free negro or person of color he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred dollars, to be recovered by indictment in the superior court of the county where the said offence was committed, and shall, on conviction, suffer imprisonment in the common jail of the said county for any term not exceeding three months; Provided, that no part of this act shall be construed to extend to any negro or person of color employed on board of any steam-boat, or on board of any national vessel of war.

Captain bound to carry off said negroes or persons of color. Penalty for refusal to do so.

Provided.

126. Sec. V. Every free negro or person of color coming into this State as aforesaid, and who shall not depart the State, in case of the captain refusing or neglecting to carry him away, within ten days after the vessel in which he came has departed, shall be liable, on conviction before any magistrate of the county, to be whipped not exceeding thirty-nine lashes.

Any not so carried off, shall leave the State in ten days.

127. Sec. VI. All free negroes or persons of color and all other persons shall be exempted from the operation of this act where such free negroes and persons of color have arrived within the limits of this State by shipwreck or stress of weather, or other unavoidable accident; but such free negroes, and persons of color, and other persons shall nevertheless be subject to the penalties of this act, if the requisites of the same be not complied with within one month after such shipwreck, stress of weather, or other unavoidable accident.

Cases of shipwreck or stress of weather excepted.

128. Sec. VII. This act shall not be construed to extend to any free American Indian, free Moors, Lascars, or other colored subjects of the countries beyond the Cape of Good Hope, who may arrive in this State in any merchant vessel; but such persons only shall be

An Act to authorize the Sheriff of Jefferson county to sell a runaway slave, to apply the proceeds of said sale—and to authorize the sale of all runaway slaves after they have been confined and advertised twelve months; and to prescribe the time and place of advertising runaway slaves.—Approved Dec. 22, 1832. Pam. 172.

[The first two sections relate to a sale in Jefferson county.]

Jailors shall advertise runaway slaves.

140. When a runaway slave is committed to any jail in this State, it shall be the duty of the jailor to prepare a notice containing a fair description of the name, age and height, and complexion of said slave, together with the time of his commitment, and the name of the person to whom said slave reports himself to belong, which notice shall be published in one of the Milledgeville papers, and such other paper as said jailor may direct.

If not claimed shall be advertised by the sheriff.

141. If no person appears and claims said slave after he or she has been advertised as aforesaid—then it shall be the duty of said jailor to give notice thereof to the justices of the inferior court of said county, who shall cause said slave to be levied on by the sheriff of said county as a runaway slave, and advertised to be sold on the first Tuesday in the month—said advertisement to be published in the same paper, and for the same time that he advertises his sheriff sales.

If still unclaimed shall be sold by sheriff.

142. If no person appears to claim and prove property in said slave, then it shall be the duty of said sheriff to sell said slave for cash to the highest bidder, and after paying jail fees and all other expenses that may have been incurred on account of said slave, to pay over the balance to the clerk of the inferior court to become and used as county funds.

If an owner appears within a year, he shall have the net proceeds.

143. If any person should appear any time within one year after the sale of said slave and produce satisfactory testimony that he, she, or they were the rightful owner of said slave before the sale thereof, then it shall be the duty of the justices of the inferior court to have so much of the proceeds of the sale of said slave, as has been paid to the clerk of the inferior court to be paid over to the person or persons establishing their right thereto.

Sheriff to write to the owner.

144. It shall be the duty of the sheriff to write to the owner of such slave immediately on receiving him in jail.

An Act to establish an Infirmary for the relief and protection of aged and afflicted negroes, in the State of Georgia.—Approved Dec. 24, 1832. Pam. 177.

145. Whereas, Thomas F. Williams late of Chatham county deceased, did by his last will and testament, make therein certain bequests to the first incorporated body for the establishment of an Infirmary, within the State of Georgia, for the relief and protection of aged and afflicted negroes, residents of the State of Georgia—And whereas, no such incorporation hath heretofore been created, and the establishment of such a body is calculated to subserve the cause of humanity, and may be an inducement to the exercise [of] similar benevolence in others, Corporators named.

Be it therefore enacted, &c. That Jacob Wood of McIntosh county, Rev. C. C. Jones of Liberty county, James Barnard of Camden county, Thomas Clay of Bryan county, Rev. Joseph C. Stiles of McIntosh county, Richard F. Williams, Richard M. Williams, Ebenezer H. Williams, Rev. C. B. Jones, Abraham Harman, F. M. Stone, Patrick Houston, Edward Bourquin, David E. Adams, and Thomas F. Williams, all of Chatham county, and their successors be, and they are hereby constituted and appointed a body corporate to be located in the county of Chatham, under the name of the Georgia Infirmary for the relief and protection of aged and afflicted negroes.

146. Sec. II. The said [corporators] or a majority of them shall on the first Monday in January ensuing the passing of this act, and on the first Monday in every January thereafter, proceed to elect by ballot, a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, the last of whom shall give security in such amount as the said corporation, may by their by-laws direct; and the said corporation shall and may at such other time as they may, by resolution or by-law fix, proceed to elect by ballot all other officers and agents as may be by them deemed necessary, for carrying into full effect the object and intent of this act; and the said corporation or a majority of them, shall at each of their annual meetings held on the first Monday in January as directed by this act, designate such portion of their body as they may deem proper, to act as a standing committee, who shall have power to transact all the ordinary business connected with the institution for the year ensuing their appointment.

President and other officers.

Standing committee.

147. Sec. III. The said incorporated body or a majority of them shall have power, from time to time to fill all vacancies, which may occur by death, resignation, or otherwise among their said officers and agents, and in no case of failure of said corporation to elect their said officers and agents, in conformity with the provisions of this act, shall the said corporation be for that cause dissolved; but they shall thereafter proceed to elect the same, at such time and place, as shall be appointed by the president: Provided thirty days' notice of the time and place of such election be publicly given.

Vacancies.

Lapsed elections.

148. Sec. IV. The said corporation shall have full power and authority to take and receive into their said institution, and there maintain all such afflicted and aged negroes, residents in the State of Georgia, as they or a majority of them shall deem fit and proper objects for the exercise of benevolence: Provided nevertheless, That nothing herein contained shall be so construed, as to authorize said corporation to retain any slave or slaves against the consent of their [the] owner or owners of such slave or slaves.

149. Sec. V. The said corporation shall have authority, for such compensation as they may hereafter fix on by the by-laws, on the application of any owner or owners, of any such disabled or afflicted slave or slaves, to take and receive into their said institution such slave or slaves, for such compensation as aforesaid—Provided such compensation shall be applied to the support of the said institution.

May receive sick or disabled slaves.

Proviso.

150. Sec. VI. The said trustees under their said name of incorporation, shall have power to receive and apply the bequest of the said Thomas F. Williams deceased, to, and for the purpose set forth in his said will, and to receive and hold all such donations of real or personal estate, as may hereafter be given, granted or devised to them, for the benefit of said institution, to purchase and hold all such real estate as may be necessary to carry into full effect the object and intention of this act; to place at interest on real security all surplus capital; to sue and be sued; contract and be contracted with; to have a common seal; to appear by attorney, and to make all such by-laws and regulations for the government and benefit of said institution, as are not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this State, and as they or a majority of them shall deem necessary—Provided nevertheless, That the said corporation, shall on the first Monday in January in each and every year, make a return to the justices of the inferior court of Chat-

Powers of the corporation.

Shall make returns.

Sec. VII. [The usual repealing clause.]

An Act concerning free persons of color, their guardians, and colored preachers.—Approved Dec. 23d, 1833. Pam. 226.

[As to Sec. I. and II., see Sec. IX.]

Not to be credited but on order.

If insolvent may be bound out.

151. Sec. III. It shall not be lawful for any person to give credit to any free person of color, but on a written order of the guardian.

152. Sec. IV. If neither the guardian nor the ward have property to pay any penalty which may be awarded under this act, or any debt which may be contracted under the written order of the guardian, it may be lawful for the court to bind out such ward, and upon such terms as they may think proper to satisfy such penalty or debt.

Not to preach or exhort but with license.

153. Sec. V. No person of color, whether free or slave, shall be allowed to preach to, exhort or join in any religious exercise, with any persons of color, either free or slave, there being more than seven persons of color present. They shall first obtain a written certificate from three ordained ministers of the gospel of their own order, in which certificate shall be set forth the good, moral character of the applicant, his pious deportment, and his ability to teach the gospel; having a due respect to the character of those persons to whom he is to be licensed to preach, said ministers to be members of the conference, presbytery, synod, or association to which the churches belongs in which said colored preachers may be so licensed to preach, and also the written permission of the justices of the inferior court of the county, and in counties in which the county town is incorporated, in addition thereto, the permission of the mayor, or chief officer, or commissioners of such incorporation, such license not to be for a longer term than six months, and to be revocable at any time by the persons granting it. Any free person of color offending against this provision, to be liable on conviction, for the first offence, to imprisonment at the discretion of the court, and to a penalty not exceeding five hundred dollars, to be levied on the property of the person of color, if this is insufficient, he shall be sentenced to be whipped and imprisoned at the discretion of the court: provided, such imprisonment shall not exceed six months, and no whipping shall exceed thirty-nine lashes.

on pain of imprisonment, fine, and corporal punishment.

Indictment, quitam action.

154. Sec. VI. Each offence under this act, may be prosecuted by indictment in the superior court of the county in which the same shall have been committed, and the penalties shall be recoverable by quitam action in the superior or inferior court, one half to the use of the informer, and the other to the use of the county academy.

Not to carry fire-arms.

155. Sec. VII. From and after the passage of this act, it shall not be lawful for any free person of color in this State, to own, use, or carry fire-arms of any description whatever.

Offenders herein to be arrested and whipped,

156. Sec. VIII. Upon information given upon oath, to any justice of the peace of any county in this State, of any free person of color, owning, using, or carrying fire-arms as aforesaid, it shall be his duty to issue his warrant for the arrest of said free person of color to answer said charge before himself, or any other justice of the peace in the county, where said offence may be committed, and upon sufficient proof thereof, it shall be the duty of said justice, to order and adjudge, that the free person of color, so detected in owning, using, or carrying fire-arms, shall receive upon his bare back, thirty-nine lashes, and that the fire-arms so found in the possession of said free person of color, shall be exposed to public sale, after giving fifteen days' notice of the time and place thereof at three of the most public places in the district, and the money arising from the sale of said arms, shall be appropriated by said justice of the peace, to the payment of the cost, which may accrue in said prosecution, and the overplus, if any there be, to be delivered by said justice to the informer, against the offender.

and the arms sold.

Sec. IX. [Limits the first and second sections to Chatham county.]

Sec. X. [The common repealing clause.]

An Act more effectually to protect free persons of color, and to point out the mode of trying the right of freedom.—Approved Dec. 26th, 1835. Pam. 101.

157. Whereas, free persons of color are liable to be taken and held fraudulently and illegally in a state of slavery, by wicked white men, and to be secretly removed whenever an effort may be made to redress their grievances, so that due inquiry cannot be had into the circumstances of their detention and their right to freedom; for remedy whereof—

Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That it shall and may be lawful for any justice of the inferior court of any county of this State, upon the complaint of any free person of color, that he, she or they are fraudulently and illegally held in slavery, to make due inquiry into all the circumstances of the case; and if, upon such examination, the justice shall be satisfied that there is probable ground to believe that such complainant or complainants are improperly and illegally held in a state of slavery, it shall be his duty to order such person or persons into the custody of the sheriff of the county, until the pretended owner or owners shall enter into bonds with good security for double the value of such person or persons of color, not to remove or attempt to remove such free persons of color from the county where this examination is held before the cause is finally adjudicated, whereupon it shall be the duty of the sheriff to deliver such persons of color to such pretended owner; but if the persons claiming to be the owners or proprietors of such person or persons of color fail or refuse to give bond and security as aforesaid, the sheriff shall retain him, her or them in his possession.

Remedy for colored persons wrongfully held in slavery.

158. Sec. II. It shall be the duty of the justice of the inferior court, before whom the examination is had, to reduce the statement to writing, and to return the same to the clerk of the inferior court of the county, who shall docket the case, stating the names of the parties, &c., which shall stand for trial the first court after the same is docketed, unless either party for want of evidence or other sufficient cause, should move to continue the cause, which may be done for one term and [no] longer.

The case to be tried at the first term of inf. court.

159. Sec. III. The inferior court shall cause the parties to make up an issue involving the complainant's right to freedom, which shall be submitted to a jury, as in other cases; but either party being dissatisfied with the verdict, shall be permitted to appeal to the superior court, without giving bond and security, as in other cases.

Appeal to the superior court.

160. Sec. IV. Should the complainant, upon the final trial of the case, succeed in obtaining a verdict in his favor, the court shall order such person of color to be set at liberty, and a guardian to be appointed, as is now regulated by law.

If found free, shall be set at liberty.

An Act to amend the twenty-ninth section of an act entitled An Act for ordering and governing Slaves within this Province, and for establishing a jurisdiction for the trial of offences committed by such slaves and other persons therein mentioned, and to prevent the inveig-ling and carrying away slaves from their masters, owners or employers, passed 10th May, 1770.—Approved Dec. 26, 1835. Pam. 264.

161. Whereas the twenty-ninth section of said act does not make it penal with free persons of color to harbor, conceal or entertain any slave, who may be a runaway, but merely inflicts a fine on such free persons of color: for remedy whereof—

Free colored persons punishable as slaves for harboring.

Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the passage of this act, all free persons of color within this State who shall harbor, conceal or entertain a slave or slaves, who shall be charged or accused of any criminal matter, or shall be a runaway, shall, upon conviction, (in addition to the penalty already provided for in said section,) be subject to the same punishment as slaves are under said section of the above recited act.

Constables may search on suspicion.

162. Sec. II. Any lawful constable having reason to suspect that runaway slaves, or such negroes who may be charged or accused of any criminal offence, are harbored, concealed or entertained in the house or houses of such slaves or free persons of color, they or any of them are authorized to enter such house or houses, and make search for the said runaway or runaways, or accused criminal or criminals.

Sec. III. [Repeals all laws that conflict with this act.]

An Act to amend the several laws now in force in relation to Slaves and Free Persons of Color.—Approved Dec. 26, 1835. Pam. 265.

On what proof clerks may register or issue certificates of registry.

163. Sec. I. Be it enacted, That from and after the passing of this act, it shall not be lawful for the clerk of any county in this State to register as free persons of color, or to grant a certificate of such registry to any person of color, who shall not establish by proof, to the satisfaction of the inferior court of said county, that he or she, applying so to be registered, is bona fide and truly a free person of color, according to and under the laws of this State, or has been registered in this State, or has exercised all the privileges of a free person of color, for five years before the passing of this act. That it shall be the duty of such clerk to file in his office the evidence on which he shall grant such application, and that any clerk violating this law shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be subject to a fine of three hundred dollars, to be paid one half to the informer, the other half to county purposes.

No colored persons but slaves and registered free persons of color to remain in the State.

164. Sec. II. From and after the first day of June next, it shall not be lawful for any person of color, other than a slave, or a free person of color duly admitted to register in manner aforesaid, to remain in this State; and if any free person of color, other than as aforesaid, shall be found in this State after the said first day of June next, he or she shall be arrested and tried, and if convicted of a violation of this law, he or she shall pay a fine of $100, and in default of such payment, it shall be lawful for the court to bind them out as laborers until the fine is paid by the hire of such labor, and shall moreover be liable and subject to a repetition of such conviction, fine and punishment, at the end of thirty days after any such conviction and payment of such fine, until he or she shall actually depart this State, and that it shall be the duty of such [each] and every civil officer of this State to carry into effect this law.

Registered persons removing from the State and returning,

165. Sec. III. From and after the passage of this law, it shall not be lawful for any free person of color who shall leave this State, other than to go to an adjoining State, again to return to it; and any and every free person of color entitled under the laws of this State to registry, who shall after the passage of this law go out of this State to any place other than to an adjoining State, for a temporary or other purpose, he or she, so leaving this State, shall thereby for ever forfeit and lose his or her rights to registry as aforesaid, and all rights to reside in this State, and if thereafter found in this State, he or she shall be dealt with and subject to the pains and penalties described in the second section of this act.

shall lose the benefit of registration.

166. Sec. IV. When any person of color charged with a violation of this act, shall be claimed by any individual as a slave, such claimant, or his or her agent shall depose on oath, that such person of color is in law the slave of such claimant, and not nominally held as such, or in violation or evasion of the fourth section of the act of 1818, or other laws of this State, and in default of such oath, such person of color shall be deemed and adjudged liable to the pains and penalties described in the second section of this act.

Persons claiming to own such colored persons shall swear that the claim is bona fide.

167. Sec. V. From and after the passage of this act it shall not be lawful for any male slave who shall after the passage of this act have been in any State usually known as a non slave holding State, or in any foreign country, to come or be brought into this State by his owner, or any other person, and any and all male slaves who shall come or be brought into this State after the passage of this act, in violation thereof, shall on conviction thereof be forfeited and sold as a slave, and the net proceeds of such sale shall be paid, one half to the informer, the other half to county purposes. And the person or persons bringing or aiding such male slaves to come into this State, on indictment for misdemeanor and on conviction thereof, shall be fined and imprisoned, or either, at the discretion of the court.

No male slave shall be brought from a non-slave-holding State.

Slave forfeited, and owner fined and imprisoned.

168. Sec. VI. The inferior courts of the several counties of this State shall have jurisdiction of the several offences created or mentioned by this act, in all cases in which, by the constitution of the State, jurisdiction may be entertained by them.

Inf. courts to have jurisdiction.

169. Sec. VII. The provisions, prohibitions and penalties of this act shall not extend to any American Indian, free Moor or Lascar; but the burthen of proof in all cases of arrest of any person of color, shall be on such person of color to show him or herself exempt from the operations of this act.

Aborigines, Moors, and Hindoos excepted.

170. Sec. VIII. The inferior courts of the several counties in this State shall have power and discretion to refuse and deny to any free person of color of bad character the right to register his or her name; and such free person of color shall then, after such refusal, be deemed and held a free person of color in this State in violation of this law, and be liable and subject to the pains and penalties herein prescribed.

Inf. courts may deny registration.

An Act to be entitled An Act to prohibit the employment of Slaves and Free Persons of Color from compounding or dispensing of medicines in Druggists and Apothecaries' stores, and to compel Druggists and Apothecaries to keep arsenic and other dangerous poisons under lock and key, &c.—Approved Dec. 26, 1835. Pam. 268.

171. Sec. I. From and after the first day of January next, any person or persons having in his, her or their employment any slave or free person of color in any apothecary shop or druggist store in this State, in the apothecary branch of their business, in putting up, compounding or dispensing, purchasing or vending any drug or drugs, medicines of any description, kind or sort whatsoever, shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof in any court having cognizance of the same, shall be fined the sum of one hundred dollars for the first offence, and for every subsequent offence shall be fined in the sum of five hundred dollars, one half of said fine to go to the informer, and the other half into the county treasury for county purposes.

Poisonous drugs.

172. Sec. II. Every druggist or apothecary, or any other person or persons vending any medicines of a poisonous quality, shall not vend the same to any person or persons of color under the penalties aforesaid.

But may be otherwise employed by druggists.

173. Sec. III. Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent druggists and apothecaries from employing any negro or free person of color in that branch of their business which does not require them to open their drugs or medicines, or compound or dispense the same, but they may be permitted to employ said persons to perform the laborious part of their work under the immediate direction and control of some white person.

An Act repealing a portion of the laws respecting the introduction of Slaves in this State.—Approved Dec. 23, 1836. Pam. 254.

Restrictions
removed.

174. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act, so much of the existing law concerning the introduction of slaves into this State, as inhibits emigrants or persons professing a determination to settle in this State, the privilege of hiring or lending out their slaves within the period of one year after the removal of said slaves to this State, be and the same is hereby repealed, and that such actual or expected settler be exempt from all the restrictions and penalties heretofore imposed upon the act or the offer of hiring or lending such slaves within the time specified: Provided nevertheless, it shall be the duty of such new comer or person intending a residence in this State, to apply to some one duly authorized to administer an oath, and make affidavit that they have not introduced such slave or slaves with a view to speculation, but with the intent solely of being held to service by themselves personally or their legal heirs and representatives.

But they shall make oath of their intentions.

Sec. II. [Repeals all conflicting acts.]

RESOLUTIONS.

Responding to, and disapproving of a resolution from Ohio, on the subject of the abolition of slavery, Georgia insists on the constitutional guarantee; adverts to the origin of slavery at the South; regrets the unnecessary interference with the subject by a sister State, calculated to excite the hopes of the slave, and impel him to acts that must render his condition worse; and claiming the right in the Southern States, and in them alone, of moving this question whenever it shall be practicable. Dec. 7, 1824. [Vol. IV. p. 38 of Res.]

A report summing up some of the arguments against Federal constructive powers, and a resolution, "That the congress of the United States have no constitutional power to appropriate moneys to aid the American Colonization Society, or for objects to effect which, that society was established; and that this legislature representing the feelings and will of the people, and the sovereignty of the State of Georgia, denying the right, solemnly protest against the exercise or any attempt to exercise, such unconstitutional power by the congress of the United States." [Dec. 27, 1827. Ib. 82.]

Again denying the right in congress to aid or support the Colonization Society, and declaring among other things, as to slavery, that this State never can, and never will, so far compromise her interest on a subject of such vital concern to her self-preservation, as to suffer it to be brought into discussion. Report on the abolition question: adverting briefly to the origin, the principles, and the happy fruits thus far, of the Union; and deprecating the imminent danger of its severance, and all the horrors of civil commotion, if the attempts of the abolitionists are persevered in. They find, however, matter of heartfelt congratulation in "the general and spontaneous expression of feeling which has burst from the patriotism and intelligence of the North, [which] affords the cheering hope that her people are prepared 'to frown indignantly upon the first dawning of every attempt to alienate any portion of our country from the rest, or to enfeeble the sacred ties which now link together the various parts.'" And among other things resolving,

"That the perpetuity of this glorious Union, which has shed such blessings on us as a people, is only to be insured by a strict adherence to the letter of the constitution, which has guaranteed to us certain rights, with which we will suffer no power on earth to interfere; that it is deeply incumbent on the people of the North to crush the traitorous designs of the abolitionists; and that we look with confidence to such movements on their part as will effectually put an end to the impertinent, fanatical and disloyal interference with matters settled by the constitution."

"That we hail the sentiments expressed by the resolutions of some of the recent meetings at the North, upon the subject of abolition, as the evidence of the existence of a right spirit among the great mass of our northern brethren, and a determination on their part to discharge the duties imposed upon them by the constitution of their country and the exigencies of the time."

And resolving,

"That the District of Columbia and the several Territories of the United States are the common property of the people of these States; that the right of exclusive legislation in the former, and the power to make all needful rules and regulations for the government of the latter, which are vested in the congress of the United States, are derived from the constitution, which recognizes and guarantees the rights resulting from domestic slavery; and that any interference by that body with those rights, will be unauthorized by, and contrary to the spirit of that sacred charter of American liberty." SPECIFICS.

An act to ascertain and establish a certain and uniform mode of calculating the prices of specific articles in contracts between individual and individual in this State.—Approved Dec. 1, 1800. Vol. I. 39.

Whereas it doth frequently happen, that in the ordinary transactions between individuals of this State, contracts are entered into for the payment of specific articles, which contracts may have been either verbal or written; And whereas great difficulty and uncertainty has occurred in the trial of such cases in courts of justice, in ascertaining the time from which the prices of such specific articles should be calculated; for remedy whereof, and for the establishment of some precise mode of estimation in future:

BEEF, PORK, NAVAL STORES, &c.

An Act to prevent frauds and deceits, in selling beef, pork, pitch, tar, turpentine, and firewood.—Approved March 6, 1766. Vol. I. 245.

Whereas the preventing frauds and deceits in the packing of beef and pork, and in selling pitch, tar, turpentine, and firewood, will greatly increase the credit and repute of those commodities of this province, and also be for the particular benefit and emolument of the purchasers or exporters of the same :

Description of beef and pork casks.

1. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the first day of February next, all and every cask or casks, in which any beef or pork shall be packed and exposed to sale within this province, shall be made of sound, dry, and well seasoned white oak timber, free from sap, the heads as well as bodies of which casks shall be made tight so as to hold pickle, and the said casks shall be proved before the same shall be packed with any beef or pork, and shall gauge thirty gallons.†

Sec. II. [Repealed by sec. 12.]

To be inspected under penalty of twenty shillings.

2. Sec. III. From and after the said first day of February aforesaid, no merchant, factor, trader, or other person shall ship for exportation on board any ship or vessel whatever, any beef or pork for a foreign market, before the same be packed by some packer or inspector of the port or place where the same is intended to be shipped, and by the said packer and inspector branded, under pain of such person so shipping forfeiting the sum of twenty shillings sterling for every such cask so shipped, to be recovered and applied as hereinafter directed.

Barrels of pitch may be opened on suspicion of fraud.

4. Sec. V. If any fraud or abuse shall be suspected in any barrel or barrels of pitch, which shall be brought to market or exposed to sale, the person who shall treat for the purchase of such pitch shall be at liberty to cut open as many barrels of the same as he shall think

* It has been after much hesitation that these acts are retained : for though most of them have now, very little if any operation, they have never been repealed : and the editor cannot take upon himself to anticipate and pronounce which branches of the agricultural productions of the State, in her onward progress, will resume their activity, and which not. As to cotton, now in fact the main staple, there are no statutes concerning it. These acts are therefore, merely for convenience, suffered still to occupy this title where they have heretofore been found in the Digest, inappropriate as it has now become. If our export trade should not disturb any of them in future, it is presumed they may as well repose under this designation as under any other.

proper, which shall be liable to be viewed, judged, and forfeited, as hereinafter directed; and where any pitch shall be condemned as fraudulent by the person or persons empowered to view and judge the same, all such condemned pitch shall be forfeited and sold by the treasurer, and applied to such uses as are hereinafter directed, and the owner or person exposing such pitch to sale shall also forfeit the sum of five shillings sterling, for each barrel so fraudulently brought to market and exposed to sale, and the same may be recovered against him as is provided by the act for the more easy and speedy recovery of small debts and damages, and shall be applied to uses as hereinafter directed. Provided always, that when any pitch shall be ordered to be cut open as aforesaid, without the consent of the owner, or person offering or exposing the same to sale, the same shall be done at the risk of the person who shall cause such pitch to be so cut open; that is to say, if such pitch shall not be condemned as fraudulent by the person or persons empowered to view and judge the same, that then the person who caused the pitch to be so cut open and examined shall take to himself every such barrel so cut open which shall not be condemned as aforesaid, and shall pay to the owner or person offering the same to sale the current sum or price which good pitch shall then bear at that port or place, any thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

If condemned, shall be forfeited, and also five shillings per barrel penalty.

If not condemned, shall be taken by the opener at market price.

5. Sec. VI. Such persons as shall be appointed packers or inspectors, by ordinance or otherwise of the governor, council, and commons house of assembly, in general assembly met, shall be, and they are hereby directed, before they enter into the execution of their offices, severally and respectively, to take the following oath before some justice of the peace for the parish where such port shall be, who shall grant such packer and inspector a certificate thereof: "I, A. B. do solemnly swear, that I will faithfully and impartially execute the business and duty of a packer and inspector, in the town and port of —, to the best of my skill and judgment, without favor or prejudice, and without any delay, agreeable to the act of the general assembly of this province, entitled [see title of this act.] So help me God."

Inspectors to be sworn.

The oath.

6. Sec. VII. The packers and inspectors so to be appointed, shall receive for their trouble from the seller or owner of any beef, pork, pitch, tar, or turpentine, the sum of sixpence for every barrel of beef or pork, and the sum of two pence for every barrel of pitch, tar, or turpentine, which they shall view, inspect, mark, or brand as aforesaid. And the said packers and inspectors are hereby severally directed to have and make use of a separate brand, with the initial letters of the name of such packer and inspector, and in case of refusal or neglect to do and perform any of the duties by this act required to be done and performed by such packer and inspector, he or they so refusing or neglecting, after he or they shall have accepted such office, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of ten shillings.

Inspectors' and packers' fees.

Must brand all barrels with their initials, under penalty of 10 shillings.

7. Sec. VIII. If any packer or inspector shall mark or brand any beef, pork, pitch, tar, or turpentine, not weighing or containing the weights or measures directed by this act, such packer or inspector shall, for every barrel so marked or branded, forfeit the sum of forty shillings sterling, to be recovered and applied as hereinafter directed.

For marking improperly to forfeit forty shillings.

And whereas many frauds are committed in the sale of firewood,

8. Sec. IX. Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the first day of February aforesaid, every cord of firewood which shall be sold in this province, shall measure eight feet in length, four feet in height, and four feet in breadth, and in case any person or persons whatever, having any firewood sold and delivered them by the cord, as aforesaid, Firewood, size of the cord.

Persons selling less than a cord, forfeit ten shillings for every such cord.

Fines, how recovered and applied.

shall suspect a deficiency therein, every such person or persons shall and may apply to any of the packers and inspectors to be appointed as aforesaid, to cord and measure the same; and in case any deficiency shall appear, the person or persons selling the same shall, for every cord that shall be so deficient, forfeit the sum of ten shillings; and the packer and inspector measuring the same, shall be paid the sum of sixpence for every cord so measured by the seller thereof, in case of deficiency, and in case no deficiency shall appear, then to be paid the sum of sixpence by the person or persons applying.

9. Sec. X. All the fines and forfeitures by this act inflicted, shall be recovered, upon proof of the offence, before any justice of the peace for the parish where the same shall be committed, by warrant under the hand and seal of such justice, directed to any constable of the said parish, and be to the informer.

10. Sec. XI. This act shall continue and be in force for and during the term of three years, and from thence to the end of the next session of the general assembly, and no longer.*

An Act for amending the foregoing.—Approved December 24, 1768.
Vol. I. 248.

Whereas the act of the general assembly passed the sixth day of March, in the year of our Lord 1766, entitled, [see title of last act,] is found to be deficient in respect of the regulations therein directed, as to the packing and inspecting beef and pork, for remedy whereof, Barrels for beef and pork, how to be made, and their capacity.

11. Sec. I. Be it enacted, That from and after the first day of May next ensuing, every barrel in which beef or pork shall be packed and exposed for sale in this province, shall contain and gauge thirty-two gallons, and be made of seasoned timber, as directed by the said recited act, and shall have on each barrel not less than twelve sound and sufficient hoops.

What weight and description of meat in each barrel.

12. Sec. II. From and after the said first day of May, every barrel of beef, or pork, packed and sold in the province, shall contain 220 pounds weight, of wholesome well cured meat in the same, after being salted at least ten days, and carefully packed with a sufficient quantity of dry salt, and well pickled, and not more than one shank, half the neck, and no head, in each barrel of beef, and not more than two heads in each barrel of pork.

Must be branded with the name of the inspector, and of the parish at full length.

13. Sec. III. The brands to be used by the several packers and inspectors, according to the directions of the said act, shall have the name of the parish where the beef or pork is inspected under that of the province, and also the names of the inspectors at full length; and such inspectors and packers are hereby directed to furnish themselves with such brands, and to brand the several barrels of beef and pork by them inspected, on the head, according to the directions of, and under the penalty in the said act mentioned and inflicted.

Continuation of this act.

14. Sec. IV. The before-recited act and this act, shall continue and be in force for and during the term of three years, and from thence to the end of the then next session of the general assembly, and no longer, any thing contained in the said recited act to the contrary notwithstanding.*

TOBACCO.

An Act to regulate the inspection of Tobacco.—Approved Feb. 14, 1786. Vol. I. 544.

And whereas it is highly improper that the same person should be inspector and vender of tobacco :

* See Revival Act—Laws, Sec. 1.

15. Sec. XIV. Be it enacted, &c. That no person to be appointed inspector of tobacco by virtue of this act shall be allowed to sell tobacco as aforesaid,* unless the same shall be of the growth and manufacture of his own plantation or plantations, and then he shall produce a certificate signed by two or more of the inspectors to be appointed as aforesaid of its being so; and any person who shall sell in violation hereof, on conviction before the superior court of the county in which he shall reside, shall be discharged from acting as inspector, and the said court shall proceed to appoint another in his stead, and the persons so offending shall be liable to a fine not exceeding the sum of fifty pounds, which shall be sued for and recovered in any court of record in this State, and paid into the public treasury thereof; and the person or persons making information against such offender, shall be entitled to one half the amount of said fine.

Inspectors shall sell no tobacco, but such as they may raise themselves, on pain of dissolution, and fifty pounds fine.

How recovered and applied.

[All the rest of this act repealed or re-enacted by the following act of 1791.]

An Act for regulating the inspection of Tobacco.—Approved Dec. 23, 1791. Vol. I. 545.

Whereas it has been found by experience that the several laws now in force for regulating the inspection of tobacco throughout this State, are unequal to the purpose for which they were intended :

16. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and immediately after the passing of this act, no person shall put on board or receive into any ship, brigantine, schooner, sloop, bylander, boat, or other vessel, in order to be exported therein, any tobacco which shall not have been packed in hogsheads or casks, upon any pretence whatever, before the same shall have been viewed and inspected according to the directions of this act; that all tobacco whatever to be received or taken on board any ship, brigantine, schooner, sloop, bylander, or other vessel, and to be therein exported, or to be carried and put on board any other ship, brigantine, schooner, sloop, bylander, or other vessel for exportation as aforesaid, shall be received or taken on board at the several warehouses for that purpose hereinafter mentioned, or some or one of them, and at no other place or places whatsoever: And any master, mate, or boatswain of any ship or other vessel, which shall arrive in this State in order to load with tobacco during the continuance of this act, shall, before the said ship or vessel be permitted to take on board any tobacco whatever, make oath before the collector of the customs of the port where such ship or vessel shall arrive, which oath the said collector is hereby empowered and required to administer, that they will not permit any tobacco whatsoever to be taken on board their respective ships or other vessels, except the same be packed in hogsheads or casks, stamped by some inspector legally thereunto appointed, which oath they shall subscribe in a book to be kept for that purpose by the said collector. And if any master shall cause any person who is not really and bona fide mate or boatswain, to come on shore and take such oath, he shall for said offence forfeit and pay five hundred pounds; and if any commander or master of any ship or vessel shall take on board, or suffer to be taken on board the ship or vessel whereof he is master, any tobacco brought from any other place than such public place herein mentioned, or any hogshead or cask of tobacco not stamped by such lawful inspector, or shall suffer to be brought on board any tobacco except in hogsheads or casks stamped as aforesaid, every such commander or master, shall forfeit

No tobacco to be exported without inspection at some established warehouse.

The collectors of customs to administer all oaths to masters, &c. loading tobacco.

Masters of vessels causing improper persons to take this oath, to forfeit 500 pounds. And for putting on board tobacco contrary to this act, twenty pounds for each hogshead.

* Nor purchase, see Sec. 40.

and pay twenty pounds for each hogsheaf, one moiety thereof to the use of the informer, and the other moiety to the use of the State, to be recovered by bill, plaint, or information before any court of record.

Masters of vessels laden with tobacco, to deliver manifests thereof to the collector to be sent to the treasurer.

17. Sec. II. Every master of a ship or vessel wherein tobacco shall be laden, shall at the time of clearing out deliver to the collector a fair manifest of all the tobacco on board his ship or vessel, expressing the marks and numbers of every hogsheaf, and the tare and net weight stamped thereon, the person by whom shipped, and from what warehouse, and shall make oath thereto, that the same is a just and true account of the marks, numbers, tare, and net weight of each respective hogsheaf, as the same was taken down by the person or persons appointed by him to take the same, before the said tobacco was stowed away; and no ship or vessel shall be cleared by the collector before he shall have received such list or manifest, which shall by the said collector be transmitted to the treasurer of this State for the time being.

Sec. III. [The first part of this section is local, and the rest repealed by Sec. 47.]

Scales and weights to be provided by the proprietors of warehouses.

18. Sec. IV. There shall be kept at the several warehouses herein appointed, and all others hereafter to be appointed,* a good and sufficient pair of scales with weights sufficient to weigh 1,500 weight at least, and a set of small weights, the same that are or ought to be provided for the standard weights of each county, and that the proprietors of such warehouses provide the same.

Judges of the inf. court to appoint inspectors.

19. Sec. V. All tobacco brought to any of the public warehouses, shall be viewed, inspected, and examined by two persons thereunto appointed, who shall be called inspectors, which said inspectors shall be appointed in the following manner, that is to say: The judges of the inferior courts in the several counties in which inspectors are appointed† (except as hereinafter is excepted) shall at their county courts to be held between the first day of May and the first day of September in each year, nominate and appoint three fit and proper persons for inspectors at each of their several warehouses within their respective counties, who shall be commissioned by the governor, the two first in the nomination shall be considered as the acting inspectors for the ensuing year, and in case of sickness, death, or inability of either of the two first inspectors, the third shall act, and also on the disagreement of the said inspectors, the third shall be called in to decide on such hogsheaf or hogsheafs of tobacco, and the said judges shall have power on complaint in writing being lodged in the office of the clerk of the inferior court, and being duly notified thereof by such clerk, such justices or any three of them, shall within three days after such notice to them given, summon the inspector before them, first ordering a copy of the complaint to be served on him or them, and within five days thereafter, such justice shall consider such complaint, and may continue or dismiss from office him or them, as the court shall judge just; and such courts shall fill up all vacancies that may happen at any of their said courts to continue to the end of the then inspection: Provided always, and be it enacted, That the third inspector on the death or removal of any inspector in the same nomination shall be considered as inspector, and shall act accordingly: And provided nevertheless, That where the inferior courts shall fail to nominate persons for inspectors, the governor is hereby empowered to make such appointments, [exception as to Augusta repealed—see Sec. 39.] and that every person so appointed inspector by virtue of this

Third inspector to act in certain cases.

Inf. court may dismiss inspectors.

On death or removal of an inspector, the third inspector shall act.

Shall give bond and security in 500 pounds.

* For the acts locating warehouses, see Vol. I. 546, 553 to 559. Vol. II. 121, 246.
† But see Sec. 39.

act, shall before he enters on the execution of his office, give bond with security in the penalty of five hundred pounds payable to the governor for the time being, and his successors in office; conditioned for the true and faithful performance of his duty according to the directions of this act, and liable to be put in suit upon any neglect of duty, which bond shall be given or entered into before the inferior court, or any judge thereof, and lodged in the clerk's office of the county.

20. Sec. VI. All inspectors to be appointed by virtue of this act shall constantly attend their duty at the warehouse or warehouses under their charge, from the first day of October till the first day of August yearly, (except Sundays,) and the holy-days observed at Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide, or when hindered by sickness; and afterwards they, or one of them, shall constantly attend at the same, except Sundays, to deliver tobacco for exportation until all the tobacco remaining there the said first day of August be delivered, and no inspector shall be obliged to view any tobacco between the said first day of August and the said first day of October; and any inspector neglecting to attend as aforesaid shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved five shillings for every neglect, or shall be liable to an action to recover all such damages as he or they shall have sustained by occasion of every such neglect, together with his or their full costs, at the direction of such party; and that all persons having tobacco at the public warehouses may have equal justice, the inspectors shall enter into a book to be kept for that purpose the marks and owners' names of all tobacco brought to their respective warehouses for inspection, as the same shall be brought in, and shall view and inspect the same in due turn as it shall be entered in such book, without favor or partiality, and uncase and break every hogshead or cask of tobacco brought them to be inspected as aforesaid; and if they shall agree that the same is good, sound, well-conditioned, merchantable, and clear of trash, then such tobacco shall be weighed in scales with weights of the lawful standard, and the hogshead or cask shall be stamped in the presence of the said inspectors, or one of them, with the name of the warehouse at which inspected, and also the tare of the hogshead or cask, and quantity of net tobacco therein contained; and the inspectors at such warehouse shall issue a receipt for each hogshead of tobacco they shall pass, if required by the owner, if the same weighs 950, which receipt shall be in form following,—to wit:*

hereby expressed, he or they for such offence shall forfeit and pay twenty pounds, to be recovered with costs by any person who may sue for the same in any court within this State having cognizance thereof; which receipts as aforesaid shall be furnished by the proprietor of the warehouse; but if the said two inspectors shall at any time disagree concerning the quality of tobacco brought for their inspection to any warehouse under their charge, they shall, as soon as conveniently may be, call in an additional inspector appointed to attend such warehouse, who shall determine, and pass or reject such tobacco; and if he shall pass the same, his name shall be entered in a book kept by the inspectors appointed, opposite the mark, number, and weight of the hogshead by him passed, together with the name of the inspector at such warehouse who shall officiate with him: And the inspectors at each of the warehouses established by this act, shall constantly keep so many able hands at their respective warehouses, not less than two, for the purpose of taking care of all tobacco brought to such warehouse, and stowing it away after the same shall be inspected and stamped; and it shall be lawful for the inspectors to employ the said hands in the yard when not otherwise sufficiently employed by this act; and no inspector shall, by himself, his servant, or any other person, either directly or indirectly, be concerned in picking any refused tobacco (unless it be his own property) on any pretence whatever, under the penalty of being for ever thereafter disabled from holding the office of inspector.

23. Sec. IX. When any tobacco shall be refused by the inspector, the proprietor thereof shall be at liberty to separate the good from the bad; but if he refuses or neglects to do so within one month of such refusal, the inspectors shall employ one of the pickers attending to the warehouse, to pick and separate such refused tobacco, and give the owner credit for so much thereof as shall be found merchantable, after paying the pickers one-tenth part of the quantity saved. [The rest of the section directing refused tobacco to be burned, repealed. See Sec. 43.]

24. Sec. X. When any tobacco shall be brought to any warehouse for the discharge of any public or private debt or contract in bulk or casks, the inspectors, or one of them, after they have received, examined, and weighed the said tobacco according to the directions of this act, shall deliver to the person bringing the same as many receipts under the hands of the said inspectors, as shall be required for the full quantity of tobacco so received by them, in which shall be expressed whether the tobacco received be sweet scented, Oronoko leaf, or stemmed, which receipt shall be in the form following, to wit:

25. Sec. XI. From and after the passing of this act, if any inspector shall presume to deliver any tobacco in his warehouse without an order from the owner or proprietor of such tobacco, every inspector so offending, and being thereof duly convicted in the superior court or the inferior court of any county, shall be incapable of serving ever after as an inspector in this State, and shall moreover be liable to pay a penalty of fifty pounds, one half to the informer, and the other half to the use of the State, to be recovered by bill, plaint, or information.

Shall receive no additional fee on pain of 100 pounds.

26. Sec. XII. No inspector shall accept or receive, directly or indirectly, any gratuity, fee, or reward for any thing by him to be done in pursuance of this act, other than his said allowance or fees by this act allowed: such inspector, being thereof convicted, shall forfeit and pay one hundred pounds to be recovered with costs by any person who shall inform and sue for the same. And be it also enacted, That if any person hereafter shall make a fire within any of the public warehouses, or within fifty yards of such warehouse, other than in a room for the use of the inspectors, or in some house having a chimney, such person or persons shall, for every such offence, forfeit twenty pounds, to be recovered with costs by information, to the use of the informer; and if a servant or slave, he or she shall, by order of some justice of the peace, receive on his or her bare back twenty-five lashes for every such offence.

Sec. XIII. [Inflicting penalties for forging receipts, stamps, &c. of inspectors; superseded by the penal code. See Penal Laws, 11 div. of the code.]

Sec. XIV. [Also superseded by the penal code.]

27. Sec. XV. If any inspector's receipt be actually lost, mislaid, or destroyed, the person or persons entitled to receive the tobacco by virtue of any such receipt, shall make oath before any justice of the peace of the county where the same is payable, to the number and date of every such receipt, to whom and where payable, and for what quantity of tobacco the same was given, and that such receipt is lost, mislaid, or destroyed, and that he, she, or they, at the time such receipt was lost, mislaid, or destroyed, was lawfully entitled to receive the tobacco therein mentioned; and shall take a certificate thereof from such justice, and upon producing a certificate thereof, the inspectors who signed such receipt and lodging the same with them, the inspectors shall and they are hereby required and directed to pay and deliver to the person obtaining such certificate the tobacco for which any such receipt was given, if the same or any part thereof shall not have been before by them paid by virtue of the said receipt, and shall be thereby discharged from all actions, suits, and demands on account of such receipt, and if any person shall be convicted of making a false oath, or producing a forged certificate, in the case aforesaid, such person shall suffer as in case of wilful and corrupt perjury or forgery as the case may be.

Lost receipts, how established.

28. Sec. XVI. The inspectors at the several warehouses, except Call's, Richmond,* and Augusta,* shall be and they are hereby entitled to receive for each hogshead of tobacco by them inspected, the sum of two shillings, which shall be paid the inspectors by the merchants, or other persons to whom the same shall be delivered. [For the oath of the inspectors, see Sec. 46.]

Inspectors' fees.

29. Sec. XVII. The inspectors at the different warehouses in this State shall, and they are hereby required to prize up all such parcels of transfer tobacco as shall or may be lodged in their respective warehouses, into crop hogsheads to contain 950 pounds net, or upwards each, within two months after the date of the receipt passed or given by the inspectors for such tobacco, and the said inspectors shall keep a book to be called a transfer book, in which an exact and particular account of all such parcels of tobacco shall be kept; and where any person or persons holding such transfer receipts to the amount of 950 pounds, and producing the same to such inspectors, they shall deliver to such owner or proprietor a crop hogshead or hogsheads of tobacco to the amount of such receipts, first deducting from such receipts the sum of eight per centum, for cask, shrinkage, and prizing the same, for which they shall pass their receipts or notes; and the several inspectors at each of the warehouses within this State, shall proceed to

30. Sec. XVIII. Every hogshead of tobacco shall have at least six good hoops, and the owner or owners of such tobacco failing to have his, her, or their tobacco in such state, shall be obliged to pay the inspectors for finding such hoop or hoops the sum of twopence per hoop, before the delivery of such tobacco: And the inferior court of the county in which such tobacco inspections may be, is hereby directed to appoint some fit and discreet person or persons to examine the weights at the different inspections on the first Mondays in October and January in each year, and regulate the same agreeably to the standard of this State.

31. Sec. XIX. Every proprietor or owner of a warehouse shall keep the same in repair, and shall always have a sufficient shelter or house-room to secure all tobacco which shall be brought to the same, the doors to be well secured by good locks, bolts, or bars; in default whereof the owner or proprietor shall be accountable, and pay to the person or persons whose tobacco shall be lost or damaged, all damages and costs, which may be recovered by action in either of the superior or inferior courts: And the courts of the several counties within this State wherein any warehouse for the inspection of tobacco now is, or may hereafter be established, shall, and they are hereby required at their first meeting annually to appoint three of their number to examine from time to time into the state and condition of such warehouses, and whether they are built and secured according to this act, and the justices so appointed, or any two or more of them, finding that the said warehouses are not in good and sufficient repair, shall within ten days give notice in writing to the proprietor or proprietors of such warehouse or warehouses to repair the same, and if such proprietor or proprietors, having notice as aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect so to do within two months from the time of such notice, it shall and may be lawful for the justices so appointed, or any two or more of them, to let such repairs to the lowest bidder, taking bond with sufficient security of the undertaker, in double the sum to be paid him for such repairs conditioned for the due performance thereof; and the inspectors at any warehouse wanting repairs as aforesaid, are hereby empowered and directed to stop in their hands the amount of the sum so to be paid for such repairs, out of the moneys arising on storage, which money so stopped as aforesaid shall be paid into the hands or to the order of the justices letting such repairs, to be by them paid to the undertaker thereof.

32. Sec. XX. From and after the passing of this act, any person or persons bringing to any of the aforesaid warehouses, any hogshead or hogsheads of tobacco, and the inspectors on weighing the same shall judge it good and merchantable according to the directions of this act, and under 950 pounds net, such tobacco shall be kept by the inspector marked in their transfer book as light crop tobacco, but no receipt or note shall be given for the same in less than two months, except the owner or proprietor thereof shall require the same, and the owner or proprietor of any such hogshead may at any time within two months prize into such light hogshead so much other tobacco as will make the same 950 pounds net or upwards, in which case the inspectors shall pass their receipt for the same as crop tobacco, and mark it on their books as such : And if the owner or proprietor of such tobacco shall neglect or refuse to prize the same within two months, the inspectors shall and may consider the same as transfer, and shall be allowed the same per centum thereon as on other transfer tobacco; and whenever from the situation and condition of any hogshead of tobacco the inspectors find it necessary, they shall have the same repacked, and for every such hogshead the pickers shall be entitled to receive for their services, in prizing and coopering the same, the sum of five shillings, except it be done by the owner of such tobacco.

Allowance to pickers.

33. Sec. XXI. No person shall attend any warehouse to pick refused tobacco, or act as a cooper, except he shall have been appointed by the court and approved of by a majority of the inspectors at such warehouse. [Their oath, Sec. 41.] And the pickers and coopers so appointed shall be under the directions of the inspectors: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the planter from picking or coopering his own tobacco; and the planters shall at all times have the free use of prizes for that purpose.

Pickers and coopers to be appointed by the court.

But the owner may pick and cooper his own tobacco.

34. Sec. XXII. The several inspectors appointed by this act shall be obliged to deliver each hogshead to the person shipping the same, well coopered, with at least six good hoops; and every hogshead of tobacco, before it be removed from any warehouse within this State, shall be branded with the word "GEORGIA," in letters of one inch long, which brand shall be provided at the expense of the owner or owners of each respective warehouse.

Hogsheads to be well coopered, and branded with the word "Georgia."

35. Sec. XXIII. From and after the first day of October next, the coopers at each of the several warehouses shall have and receive for each hogshead by them coopered, and for finding nails, the sum of one shilling and sixpence, and no more, to be paid by the owner thereof; and if any cooper or coopers shall demand or receive any greater fee or reward for such services, he or they shall for every such offence forfeit and pay fourfold to the party aggrieved, to be recovered before a justice of the peace in the county where such offence is committed; and on being convicted thereof, shall be rendered incapable of acting as a cooper at any of the warehouses thereafter.

Coopers' fees.

Penalty for over charge.

36. Sec. XXIV. From and after the passing of this act, the pickers at the several warehouses shall have and receive for their trouble in picking any refused tobacco, one-tenth part of all such tobacco by them saved. [The rest of this section repealed. See Sec. 38.]

Pickers' compensation.

Sec. XXV. and XXVI. [Repealed by act of 1793. See Vol. I. 555.]

Sec. XXVII. [Repeals all laws repugnant to this.]

An Act to establish an inspection of Tobacco on the Savannah River, at the mouth of Lightwood-Log Creek.—Approved Dec. 19, 1793. Vol. I. 555.

37. Sec. IV. The inspectors at the warehouses, known by the name of Richmond and Augusta warehouses, shall be entitled to receive the same price for each hogshead of tobacco by them inspected, as are allowed by law to the inspectors of other warehouses within this State,* which shall be paid at the time of shipment.

Inspectors of Richmond and Augusta to have customary fees.

Sec. V. The weights at the several warehouses within this State shall be adjusted in the manner pointed out in a former law regulating the inspection of tobacco, on the first Monday in January and October annually.† [The rest of the act local.]

of the net proceeds thereof, without waste or embezzlement, to my knowledge; and that I will not purchase any tobacco during the time that I am appointed picker; and that I will not be concerned in the manufacturing of tobacco, either directly or indirectly: So help me God."

Sec. III. [Warehouse fees—superseded, Sec. 47.]

42. Sec. IV. The inspectors of warehouses shall be liable for any loss, damage, or injury, which the owner of any hogshead of tobacco deposited in the warehouse may sustain, at the suit of the party injured, unless it shall be made appear by the defendant that the loss, damage, or injury was sustained by unavoidable accident. And if any loss, damage, or injury shall be suffered or sustained by the inspectors from any neglect or omission by the proprietors in not providing good and secure houses for the safe keeping of all tobacco deposited, the said proprietors shall be liable for such loss, damage, or injury to the inspectors.

Inspectors liable for loss or injury of tobacco.

An Act to regulate the inspection of Tobacco in this State.—Approved Nov. 30, 1815. Vol. III. 334.

43. Sec. I. From and after the first day of January next, it shall not be lawful for any inspector of tobacco in this State to burn or cause to be burned any tobacco, in pursuance of any law heretofore passed in this State.

Refused tobacco shall not be burned.

44. Sec. II. From and after the first day of January next, it shall be the duty of the inspectors of tobacco within this State to inspect any hogshead or hogsheads, cask or casks of tobacco brought to the warehouse, at which they are already, or may hereafter be appointed inspector or inspectors, by qualities; to wit, first, second, third, and fourth qualities; which qualities shall be fairly expressed in the face of the receipt or manifest, which shall be given by the inspector who may inspect such tobacco.

The inspectors shall in their receipts distinguish the quality of the tobacco as 1st, 2d, 3d, or 4th quality.

45. Sec. III. It shall be the duty of the inspectors aforesaid respectively, at or before the issuing such receipt or manifest, fairly and plainly to mark or stamp on each head of each hogshead or cask so inspected as aforesaid the quality of the tobacco contained in such hogshead or cask; and it shall also be the duty of the said inspectors fairly and plainly to mark or stamp on each hogshead and cask as aforesaid the number, tare, and net weight, together with the initials of the name of the owner.

vided the said tobacco does not lie longer in such warehouse than twelve months, and for every month after, the proprietor or owner of such tobacco shall pay at the rate of twelve and a half cents per month ; which duty or storage shall be paid to the several inspectors before the same be removed from the said warehouse, who shall be answerable to the owner or proprietor thereof, for the full amount of each storage by them received.

Sec. VI. [Repeals all acts repugnant to this.]

LUMBER.

An Act to regulate the Admeasurement and Inspection of Lumber, Staves, Shingles, and for other purposes therein mentioned.—Approved Dec. 16, 1794. Vol. I. 345.*

What kind deemed merchantable.

48. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, ranging timber, scantling, and boards, shall be deemed merchantable only when made, shaped, formed, and conditioned as is hereinafter directed, that is to say, all ranging timber, scantling, and boards, shall have square edges, be sound, and without decay ; Nevertheless, if any scantling or boards to be measured and inspected under and by virtue of this act, shall be split, decayed, or fractured more than two feet, and less than six feet from the end thereof, in that case, such split, decayed, or fractured part shall be left out, and not counted in the said measurement.

Split, decayed, &c. not to be counted in measurement.

What kind of heading and shingles merchantable.

49. Sec. II. [The first part of the section repealed. See Sec. 57.] Heading to be two and a half feet long, six inches broad, an inch thick on one edge, and not less than three quarters of an inch thick on the other side, sound and free from decay, worm, or knot holes ; shingles to be twenty-two inches long, not less than three and a half inches wide, a half inch thick at the thicker end, not decayed, free from worm or knot holes.

Sec. III. IV. V. and VI. [Repealed by the act of 1799.]

Inspectors to be sworn and give bond and security. Inspectors' oath.

50. Sec. VII. Persons appointed to be inspectors and admeasurers of lumber as aforesaid, shall, before they enter on the duties of their office, take the oath or affirmation following, viz. " I, A. B. in the presence of Almighty God, do solemnly swear, or affirm that I will fairly and honestly to the best of my skill and judgment, execute the office of inspector and admeasurer, according to law. So help me God." And shall each enter into bond, with sufficient security, before his excellency the governor, or two or more of the justices of the inferior court of the county in which such inspector shall reside, in the sum of five hundred pounds, for the due and faithful performance of his said trust, which shall be lodged in the clerk's office of such court.

No other person to inspect lumber on pain of 500 dollars.

And no person or persons shall be permitted to inspect or admeasure lumber as aforesaid, except those appointed by the legislature ; and if any person or persons shall attempt to inspect and admeasure as aforesaid (except those hereinbefore excepted) every such person or persons shall, for every such offence, forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred dollars, one-third to the informer, and the remaining two-thirds to the use of this State.

An Act for the better regulating the Admeasurement of Lumber within this State.—Approved Dec. 5, 1799. Vol. I. 346.

Whereas it has been found by experience, that that part of the law

* So far as respects the admeasurement of lumber, this act is repealed by that of 1799, and amended by that of 1832. See Sec. 56.

for appointing lumber measurers, will by no means answer the purpose intended by the legislature,

51. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That from and immediately after the passing of this act, all persons qualified to measure lumber, may admeasure and give certificates as is usual in such cases, and receive such compensation as shall be agreed upon by the seller, purchaser, and person measuring the same.

Any person who is qualified may measure lumber.

And whereas raft-men and other persons have long been in the habit of taking up drifted lumber of all descriptions, and disposing of the same, and converting of the profits to their own use,

Therefore be it further enacted, That if any raft-man or men, or other person or persons, shall attempt to dispose of any drifted lumber so taken up by him or them within this State, he or they shall be liable to pay a fine not exceeding 500 dollars for every such offence, to be recovered in any court having jurisdiction of the same, one-half for the benefit of the informer or prosecutor, and the remaining moiety to the use of the county wherein such offence shall be committed, or to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding eight months.

Penalty for taking up and selling drift lumber.

And whereas it has been a custom too long established in the city of Savannah, to purchase lumber of all descriptions of raft-men and other persons :

52. Sec. III. Therefore enacted, That from and immediately after the passing of this act, if any person or persons in the city of Savannah or elsewhere, shall be detected in purchasing of lumber of the above description, except from factors or lumber cutters, he or they shall be liable to pay a fine not exceeding fifty dollars for each and every such offence, to be recovered in any court having jurisdiction of the same, or to be imprisoned for a time not exceeding eight months : Provided nevertheless, that nothing contained in this act shall prevent, or be construed to prevent, raft hands or other persons from taking up drifted lumber, and receiving a reasonable compensation from the owner or owners of such lumber, on their delivering the same to the rightful owner, or to their factor.

Persons purchasing such lumber from raft-men, to forfeit fifty dollars, or be imprisoned. Proviso.

53. Sec. IV. In all seaport towns in this State, where lumber is brought for exportation or otherwise, all hewed pine timber as well as scantling and boards, shall be admeasured, and the bills made out in superficial measurement ; any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

Superficial measurement.

54. Sec. V. Any inspector who shall either admeasure or make out a bill not in conformity to this act, shall be liable to pay a fine, for every such offence, not exceeding thirty dollars, to be recovered in any court having jurisdiction of the same, one half for the benefit of the informer or prosecutor, and the remaining moiety for the use of the county wherein such offence shall be committed.

Penalty on inspectors who shall not conform to this act, 30 dollars.

55. Sec. VI. All live oak and cedar timber shall be measured by the solid foot, and the measurers shall be allowed eighty cents per thousand feet for measurement.

Live oak to be solid measure. Fees.

56. Sec. VII. After the passing of this act, all inspectors of lumber shall be appointed by the legislature, who shall receive for every thousand feet of superficial lumber twenty-five cents. [But see next act.]

Inspectors to be appointed by the legislature. Their fees.

Sec. VIII. All laws heretofore passed, so far as respects the admeasurement of lumber, are hereby repealed.

An Act to alter and amend an act entitled an act, for the better regulating the admeasurement of Lumber in this State ; passed Dec. 5, 1799 ; and for other purposes.—Approved Dec. 20, 1832. Pam. 130.

Whereas, it has been found by experience that the provisions of the first section of the above recited act, for want of competition among the lumber factors, are insufficient; for remedy whereof, Fees of lumber measurers.

Be it enacted, That from and immediately after the passage of this act, it shall not be lawful for any person, appointed and qualified as measurer and inspector of lumber, to receive more than twenty-five cents per thousand feet of ranging timber, nor more than thirty cents per thousand feet of scantling or boards; one half to be taxed in the bill of charges, and paid by the seller, and the balance to be paid by the purchaser of such lumber.

Penalty.

Sec. II. Any person or persons violating the provision of the above act, shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars for each offence, one half to the informer, and the balance to the incorporation if any, if not, to the inferior court of the county in which said offence may be committed—Any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Act to amend an Act to regulate the admeasurement and inspection of Lumber, Staves, Shingles, and for other purposes therein mentioned.—Approved Dec. 18, 1816. Vol. III. Pam. 46.

Quality and dimensions of merchantable lumber.

57. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, sawed scantling and boards, pipe, hogshead, and barrel staves, shall be considered merchantable only when made, formed, shaped, and conditioned in manner following, to wit: all sawed scantling shall have three square edges, sound and without decay; pipe staves to be at least fifty-four inches in length, three inches in breadth, and one inch thick on the thin edge; hogshead staves to be forty-two inches long, three inches broad, and not less than three-quarters of an inch thick on the edges, sound and free from worm or knot holes; barrel staves to be two and a half feet long, three inches wide, and not less than three quarters of an inch on their edge, sound and free from worm or knot holes.

Sec. II. [Repeals all conflicting acts.]

FLOUR.

*An Act to establish and regulate the inspection of Flour.—Approved Nov. 22, 1814. Vol. III. 329.

Whereas experience has shown, that the establishment of flour inspections, under proper regulations, will advance and promote the interest of this State:

Inspections established.

58. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That there shall be a flour inspection established in the town of Petersburg, and cities of Augusta and Savannah.

Inspectors to be appointed by the inf. courts.

59. Sec. II. The inferior courts in the several counties aforesaid, at the first term of said courts after the passing of this act, and biennially thereafter, shall appoint one person of good repute, and a skilful judge of the quality of flour, to be inspector of flour at the beforementioned places,—that is to say, the inferior court of the county of Elbert shall appoint one inspector for the town of Petersburg; the inferior court for the county of Richmond, one inspector for the city of Augusta; and the inferior court of Chatham county, one for the city of Savannah.

Vacancies, how filled.

60. Sec. III. In case of the death of any person so appointed, or

* The act of 1801, Vol. II. 27, was repealed by that of 16th Dec. 1811, [Vol. III. 326.] This last was repealed on the 9th Dec. 1812, [Vol. III. 329,] which reinstated the act of 1801, from the date of the last act, (9th Dec. 1812,) to six months after the date of this.

in the event of his refusing or neglecting to act, the justices of the inferior court of said county shall, as soon as conveniently may be thereafter, meet and appoint some other suitable person to fill such vacancy, who shall execute the duties of inspector until the succeeding election; and if the inferior court shall neglect to make appointments, it shall and may be lawful for the city council or corporation of the before-mentioned counties to appoint an inspector.

If the court fails to appoint, the corporations may do it. What shall be merchantable quality.

61. Sec. IV. All bolted wheat flour, and every cask thereof, brought to the places before mentioned for sale or exportation, shall be made by the miller or manufacturer thereof merchantable, and of due fineness, and without mixture of coarser flour, or the flour of any other grain than wheat.

62. Sec. V. All flour barrels, packed with flour, brought to the before-mentioned places for sale or exportation, shall be well made, and of good materials, twenty-seven inches in length, tightened with at least ten hoops, and sufficiently nailed, with the tare plainly marked on the head thereof; and every miller or bolter shall put into a barrel the full quantity of 196 pounds of flour, and shall put into every half barrel the quantity of 98 pounds of flour; and on failure thereof, shall forfeit and pay the sum of four dollars, to be recovered by any informer before any justice having jurisdiction thereof; one-half of which shall belong to the informer, and the other half to the county.

Barrels, how made and marked.

To contain 196 lbs half barrels 98 lbs. Penalty.

63. Sec. VI. All barrels or casks of flour brought to the places aforesaid for exportation shall be submitted to the view and examination of the inspector, who shall expeditiously inspect the same by boring into the barrel from head to head with an instrument of not more than three quarters of an inch in diameter, to be by him provided for that purpose; and if he shall judge the same well packed and merchantable, according to the directions of this act, he shall plug up the hole and brand the barrel with the name of the place at which he shall be inspector with a public brand mark, to be by him provided for that purpose, and approved of by the inferior court, city council, or corporation, as the case may be; and shall also mark the degree of fineness which he shall determine the flour to be on inspection, which degree shall be distinguished as follows: superfine, fine, middling, and ship stuff; for which trouble the inspector shall have and receive from the owner six and a quarter cents per barrel.

Shall be inspected, in what manner, and how branded.

The several qualities. Inspectors' fees.

64. Sec. VII. If any person or persons shall pack flour in old barrels which have been marked and branded agreeably to this act, and which shall still have the brand of the inspector thereon, such person or persons shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by any informer before any justice of the peace having jurisdiction thereof, one half of which shall belong to the informer, and the other half to the miller or manufacturer who has been injured by such false packing.

Packing flour uninspected, in barrels ready branded, penalty 20 dollars.

65. Sec. VIII. It shall not be lawful for any inspector directly or indirectly to purchase any flour by him condemned as unmerchantable, or any other flour whatever, other than for his own and family use and consumption, under the penalty of thirty dollars for every barrel by him purchased, to be recovered upon information by any informer, before any justice of the peace having jurisdiction thereof; one half of which shall belong to the informer, and the other half to the county.

Inspector to purchase no flour except for his own use. Penalty, 30 dollars per barrel.

66. Sec. IX. If any person shall export from the place aforesaid, any flour without inspection as aforesaid, he, she, or they shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars for each barrel of flour so exported, to be recovered upon information by any informer before any justice of

An act to amend an act entitled "an act further explaining and defining the duties and powers of the comptroller general," passed the 5th day of December, 1799; also more particularly to define and prescribe the duties of the treasurer of this State.—Approved Dec. 25, 1821. Vol. IV. 295.

3. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, it shall be the duty of the comptroller general to report to the legislature, within the first week of each annual session, an account of all balances of appropriations remaining unexpended at the close of each political year.

To report annually all unexpended appropriations.

4. Sec. II. It shall not be lawful for the comptroller, in executing the duties prescribed to him in the aforesaid, or any other act, to accept, sanction, or pass any order, draft, or warrant, drawn on or payable out of any appropriated fund that may have been exhausted or covered by orders, drafts, or warrants of antecedent date or acceptance; nor shall the treasurer pay money to any draft or warrant, (except president or speaker's warrants,) until the comptroller general shall first have approved and accepted the same, pursuant to the provisions of said act; nor out of any other fund or appropriation than that on which the said draft or warrant is legally chargeable.

Over-drafts not to be sanctioned, or paid.

5. Sec. III. The said comptroller general and treasurer shall be respectively accountable for the amount of all orders, drafts, or warrants by them accepted, approved, passed, or paid, contrary to the provisions of this act; to be recovered in any court having competent jurisdiction, by action of debt, prosecuted in the name and for the use of the State, against said comptroller general and treasurer, respectively, and their securities.

demands of whatsoever description, during each preceding political year; and the several items of expenditure incurred for the same period; the salaries and pay of all officers and agents employed in the civil and military service of the State; the incidental expenses of the legislature, executive, and judicial departments of the government, and all sums paid or due to individuals by special contract; and at the time of making such annual report the comptroller shall annex, as a part thereof, a statement of the amount of taxes and dues with which the inhabitants of each county in the State stand charged in the digest returned to his office by the several receivers of tax returns in this State; the names of all debtors, delinquents, collectors, and depositors of public moneys, and the several sums in the payment of which they have made default.

Shall recommend improvements in the revenue laws.

8. Sec. VI. It shall be the duty of the comptroller general to accompany his said annual report with a recommendation of such changes or amendments of the revenue laws of the State, as in his opinion may tend to ensure their more prompt and faithful execution, and to curtail the expenses of collection.

Banks to pay the comptroller's draft.

9. Sec. VII. All banks of discount and deposite, corporations and companies of whatever kind or description, by which moneys are or may hereafter become payable to the treasury of this State, shall be exclusively subject to the draft of the comptroller general for the sums which may, from time to time, become due, who is hereby directed, immediately on the accrual of such dues and demands, to issue his drafts for the same, ordering the payment thereof to be made to the treasurer of this State.

How far gov. may suspend collection of taxes.

10. Sec. VIII. It shall not hereafter be lawful for the executive department of government to interfere with, or in any manner to suspend the collection of taxes, debts, or dues which may be legally demanded by the comptroller or treasurer for the use of the State, for a longer period than till the meeting of the next legislature after the suspension; to which he shall communicate the case in which the suspension was had, and the particulars upon which it was granted.

Executions for taxes.

11. Sec. IX. All executions for the collection of taxes due this State shall hereafter be issued by the comptroller general only; any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Act further to define the duties of comptroller general, solicitors and attorney generals, collectors, and sheriffs; and for other purposes.—Approved Dec. 22, 1823. Vol. IV. 296.

All debts to be deposited in the comptroller general's office.

12. From and after the passing of this act all the evidences of debt now due, or which may hereafter become due to the State, shall be deposited in the office of the comptroller general, whose duty it shall be to call for and receive from the treasurer all such evidences as now are in the treasury, to open and keep separate and distinct accounts of every description of debt against the treasurer, charging him with all sums paid in thereon, as in the accounts of the general tax, and to perform all the duties in the collection of debts due the State which have hitherto been performed by the treasurer.

How the accounts shall be kept.

Comp. to furnish the Atto. and Sol. Gen. each with a list of executions vs. tax collectors, who shall make annual statements.

13. Sec. II. The comptroller general is hereby directed to furnish the attorneys and solicitors general each with a list of all the executions which have hitherto issued, or which may hereafter issue against defaulting tax collectors within their respective circuits, whose duty it shall be to report to the comptroller general annually, on or before the meeting of the general assembly, the situation of said execution, what prospect there is of collecting the money, and any other circumstances of importance to be known relative thereto.

14. Sec. III. The comptroller general is hereby required to issue executions against all defaulting tax collectors and their securities (if any), immediately after the tax which they were appointed to collect shall have become due; and in the event of the death of the collector, or either of them, or all of his securities, the execution shall issue against the survivors and the legal representatives of the deceased.

To issue executions against defaulting tax collectors.

15. Sec. IV. The comptroller general shall not in future approve any warrant unless the same is legally chargeable to the fund upon which it is drawn.

An Act to alter and amend the additional oath required by law to be taken by all officers, civil and military, to prevent the offence of duelling.—Approved Dec. 19, 1823. Vol. IV. 297. [Is repealed by the first section of]

An Act [Passed Dec. 22, 1832.] entitled an act, to repeal an act, entitled an act, to alter and amend the additional oath required by law to be taken by all officers, civil and military, to prevent the offence of duelling, and also to repeal an act, passed 19th day of December, 1818, requiring all officers civil and military who may be appointed after the first day of January, 1819, in this State, to take an oath therein prescribed, and to relieve all those who have violated the provision of said acts, from the disabilities thereby incurred.

[The remaining section, making duelling punishable in the penitentiary, is superseded by the code of 1833. See Penal Laws, sec. 219, et seq.]

An Act to regulate the auditing and payment of accounts against the State.—Approved Dec. 26, 1836. Pam. 38.

Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, all accounts exhibited against this State shall be audited by the comptroller general and certified by him to be correct.

All accounts against the State to be audited.

Sec. II. When accounts, so audited and certified by the comptroller general, shall be presented to the governor, it shall be his duty to order the same to be paid, by a warrant on the treasury: Provided, that the governor shall have the right, in any particular case, to withhold his approval of any account certified and approved by the comptroller general.

The governor may withhold payment of audited accounts.

Sec. III. All laws and parts of laws militating against this act, are hereby repealed.

RESOLUTIONS.

29. Resolved, That his excellency the governor be, and he is hereby authorized and required, to appoint some fit and proper person to act as military store keeper for the State, at Milledgeville, with a salary of three hundred dollars per annum, to be paid quarter annually, out of the contingent fund, whose duty it shall be to keep the arms, and ammunition, and other stores intrusted to him, in a military manner; and make an annual report to the legislature; and the muskets, and other military stores, be kept in such a situation as to enable the military committee to inspect them particularly.

Approved, December 22d, 1821. [Vol. IV. 16 of Res.]

30. Resolved, That in future when the attorney general, or any solicitor general, shall make application to the legislature for commissions for money collected, or compensation for any service rendered the State, they shall specially set forth from what persons the money has been collected, and what trouble they have been at, and what labor they have bestowed in and about the said collections or services for which they charge, in order that the legislature may have such information as will enable them to do justice both to said officers and the State.

Approved, December 20th, 1824. [Ibid. 43.]

31. Resolved, That the treasurer who may be hereafter elected shall give bond to his excellency the governor, with good and sufficient security, in the penalty of two hundred thousand dollars for the faithful performance of the duties of his office.

Approved, November 24th, 1825. [Ibid. 55.]

32. Resolved, That his excellency the governor, withhold the issuing of the warrant for the last quarter's salary of the state house officers until he shall be satisfied that all their books are brought up, and what by law they are required to do, has been done in their respective offices, in relation to the recording of papers and keeping their office books.

Approved, December 22d, 1826. [Ibid. 69.]

33. Resolved, That it is the duty of the comptroller general hereafter to keep a receipt book (or book of entry), in which he shall take the receipt of attorneys and solicitors for all evidences of debts placed in their hands for collection; and when moneys are paid in for and on account thereof, he shall enter it in said book, stating the time and amount paid, who by, and on what account; and that to said book he shall affix an index. The committee find receipts given by attorneys and solicitors for debts placed in their hands for collection, some of which are of long standing and yet unaccounted for: they therefore recommend the following resolution:

34. Resolved, That when an attorney or solicitor general shall pay money into the treasury, he shall inform the treasurer on what account the same is paid particularly; and it shall be the duty of the treasurer to state the same in the certificate he gives him; and the comptroller general shall enter the said sum to the account specified in said certificate.

Approved, Dec. 20, 1828. [Ib. 113.]

35. Be it resolved, That it shall be the duty of the comptroller general, in his annual report to the legislature, to state particularly the amount collected by the attorney general, and by each of the solicitors general, and on what demands, and the amount retained by each for commissions.

Approved, Dec. 18, 1829. [Ibid. 145.]

36. Resolved, That the officers of the several departments in the state house be required to arrange, classify, and properly endorse such papers and documents of ancient date and little immediate use as may be in their respective offices, and deposit them in some safe place in the basement story of the state house, for safe keeping, and ready access, that the offices themselves may be no longer encumbered by them.

Approved, Dec. 7, 1833. [Pam. 394.]

37. Resolved, That the surveyor general be required strictly to exclude all persons from handling any records on file in his office, unless under the immediate inspection of himself or one of his clerks.

Approved, Dec. 24, 1835. [Pam. 321.]

Reports of committee of Finance, vol. iv. 70, 109, 113, (directing search to be made for the evidences of $21,013, of reverted confiscated property none of which they could find.) Ib. 113, 114, 146. Pam. of 1830, (recommending to purchase the individual stock of the Bank of Darien and add it to that of the Central Bank.) 269. Pam. of 1832, 237, stating advances to the treasury by the Central Bank of $91,350. Pam. of 1833, 361: Pam. of 1834, 324, directing certain counterfeit bills, and of paper medium to be burned. Pam. of 1835, 301, making State stock of $42,500 advanced to the treasury by the Central Bank.

Resolved, That the secretary of senate, and clerk of the house of representatives, hereafter make annually an index to the respective journals of each house.

Approved, December 22d, 1823.

SURPLUS REVENUE.

An Act to authorize and empower the treasurer of the State of Georgia, to receive the proportion of the surplus revenue of the United States, payable to this State, and to sign and deliver certificates of deposit therefor.—Approved Dec. 26, 1836. Pam. 264.

1. Whereas, the congress of the United States, has passed an act, to deposit the surplus funds of the general government of the United States, with the several States, providing that should the portion allotted to any one State, be refused by such State, the same shall be deposited with the other States: and whereas, a part of said fund has been accumulated by an excessive tariff, unconstitutional and impolitic; and whereas, whilst the legislature of Georgia protests against the unnecessary accumulation of revenue to be deposited with, or distributed amongst the several States, it is deemed proper under the circumstances, that Georgia shall receive her portion of the surplus fund, accumulated, or may accumulate under the existing laws of the United States; and whereas, under this conviction, this general assembly would unequivocally refuse to receive any part of such money, if the further provisions contained in said part recited section, (to wit.) That if any State declines to receive its proportion of the surplus aforesaid, on the terms before named, the same shall be deposited with the other States, agreeing to accept the same, in the proportion aforesaid, did not constrain the acceptance; and whereas, the said act of congress requires the appointment of some authority under this State, to receive what is payable to the State, under said act.

Be it enacted, &c. That the treasurer of the State of Georgia, who shall be in office at any time, when any money is to be received by this State, under the provisions of the 13th section of the said act of congress, be, and he is hereby authorized and fully empowered, for and in behalf of the State of Georgia, to receive any such money, and to sign, execute and deliver to the secretary of the treasury of the United States, for the time being, certificates of deposits, in such form as may be prescribed by the said secretary of the treasury, and by such certificates to pledge the faith of the State of Georgia for the safe keeping and re-payment thereof, and every part thereof, from time to time, whenever the same shall be required by the secretary of the treasury, for the purpose of defraying any wants of the public treasury.

Treasurer authorized to receive it, and execute the proper certificates.

Report of the joint committee on the state of the republic, and resolution of the legislature concerning the surplus revenue, pam. of 1836, p. 18 of Res.

An Act to direct such of the deposits of the surplus revenue of the United States, as shall be deposited with the State of Georgia, under an act of Congress, entitled an act to regulate the deposits of the public money.—Approved Dec. 28, 1836. Pam. 262.

2. Sec. I. Whereas, the before recited act of congress making distribution of the surplus revenue, provides that the same may be called for, and therefore should be so deposited or loaned at interest, that it will produce a revenue to the State, and be called in when required,

Be it therefore enacted, &c. That so much of the surplus revenue of the United States, as shall be deposited from time to time, with the State of Georgia, under an act to regulate the deposits of the public monies, shall be deposited by the treasurer of this State, in the Central Bank of Georgia, and it shall be the duty of the president and directors of the said Central Bank, to loan to the citizens of this State, the said money, under the same rules and regulations that are now prescribed by law, for discounting notes in said bank; and should there not be applications to said bank, within the time as now prescribed by law, to discount notes to the amount of money they receive on deposit, then, and in that case, the president and directors of said Central Bank, shall be authorized to loan the said money to any of the chartered banks of this State, that they may deem in a sound condition, in which the State is a stockholder, under the conditions provided in the next section of this act.

This State's share of the surplus to be deposited in the Central bank and loaned to the people or to certain banks.

3. Sec. II. The condition on which any such loan shall be made to any of the said banks, shall be, that the money so lent or any part thereof, shall be re-paid in sixty days' notice, under the penalty of twenty-five per cent. damages, besides legal interest, and in the event of the demand of the same, or any part thereof, and a failure to pay the same on sixty days' notice, the whole amount due by such institution, shall be immediately payable with damages, at the rate of twenty-five per cent., and on the further condition, that on such failure to pay, after such demand, it shall, and may be lawful for the said Central Bank, on the oath of its president, as to the amount due, to take out a writ of execution against such defaulting bank, from the superior court of the county where such institution shall be located, for the amount so sworn to be due; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of such court, on the application of the president of the said Central Bank, to issue such execution, and it shall be the duty of the sheriff of any county to whom the same shall be delivered to be executed, to levy the same on the property of the defendant bank, in such execution named, and make the amount of such execution, unless some officer of such defendant bank, shall make oath that the warrant sworn to, or some part thereof, is not due and owing, and shall moreover give good and sufficient security, to pay the amount which shall be found due on an issue to be made on such affidavit before the superior court of said county at its next session, to be there tried by special jury: Provided nevertheless, that no greater sum than one fourth of the whole amount deposited in any one bank, shall be drawn out at any one time, except in the case of the apprehended failure of said bank, or that the same should be required from the State, by the authority of the general government.

4. Sec. III. Should a call be made at any time by the United States' authority, under the provisions of the act of congress, making deposits of the surplus revenue aforesaid, or any congress call for that portion of the same, deposited with the State of Georgia, the president of the Central Bank, having notice of the same, shall give notice in the public gazettes of this State, to the borrowers of that fund, of such reduction as will be required to meet the demand above what is required, on the reductions annually, as now prescribed by law at said bank, and the debtors to the same, shall be required to reduce their notes accordingly, or pay the whole amount if required.

5. Sec. IV. The interest arising from said surplus revenue, shall be applied and disposed of, as a future legislature, may by law, order and direct.

TAVERNS.

An Act for regulating taverns, and reducing the rates of tavern license.

Approved December 24, 1791. Vol. I. 445.

1. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, any person or persons wishing to keep a tavern or house of entertainment, shall petition the justices of the inferior court held for the county where such petitioner resides; and the court to whom such petition shall be exhibited, shall thereupon consider the convenience of such place intended for a tavern, and having regard to the ability of such petitioner to keep good and sufficient accommodations for travellers, their horses, and attendants, may, at their discretion, grant a license to such person or persons for the term of one year next ensuing the date of such license, and from thence to the next inferior court held for the said county, and no longer; which license, upon petition, may be renewed from year to year, if the court think proper: Provided always, that before issuing such license, the court shall cause the petitioner to enter into bond, with sufficient security to be approved of by the court, in the sum of fifty pounds, conditioned for their keeping an orderly and decent house, with good and sufficient accommodations for travellers, their horses, and attendants; which bond shall be filed in the clerk's office, and subject to be put in suit upon any breach thereof.

Tavern licenses, how to be granted persons obtaining them.

Bond and security.

2. Sec. II. The justices of every inferior county court at the first term in every year shall fix and establish the rates and prices to be paid at taverns for liquors, diet, lodging, provender, stabling, and pasturage; and every tavern-keeper shall, within one month after the rates so established, obtain of the clerk of the said court a fair table of such rates, which shall be openly set up in the public entertaining room in every tavern, and there kept throughout the year until the rates shall be fixed or altered again by the court, and then a copy thereof shall be again so obtained and kept from time to time, under a penalty of ten pounds on every tavern-keeper failing so to do; and if any tavern-keeper shall demand and receive any greater price for any liquor, diet, lodging, provender, stabling, or pasturage, than by such rate shall be allowed, he, she, or they so offending, shall forfeit and pay the sum of two pounds over and above the sum extorted, for every such offence, to the informer, recoverable with cost before any justice of the peace in the county where such tavern shall be.

Tavern rates to be fixed by the court.

Shall be put up at taverns.

Penalty for over charging.

Sec. III. and IV. [Retailing without license. Repealed by the penal code.]

4. Sec. V. All acts heretofore made respecting any thing within the purview of this act, shall be, and the same are hereby repealed: Provided always, that the corporation of the city of Savannah and Augusta shall have the sole regulation and power of governing and directing taverns and granting licenses, within their several jurisdictions.

Savannah and Augusta.

An Act to regulate the rates of tavern license in this State.—Approved December 15, 1809. Vol. II. 563.

The rates of tavern license shall be 5 dollars.

5. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, each person obtaining tavern license, shall pay for such license the sum of five dollars; any law to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided nothing in this act shall be construed to control the rates which now are, or may be established by the corporations of Savannah and Augusta, or any other incorporated town in this State.

Persons complying with this act may retail spirits.

6. Sec. II. Any person on application, and complying with this law, may have license to retail spirituous liquors, without being obliged to keep other public entertainment; provided such person shall give bond and sufficient security to the inferior court in the sum of five hundred dollars, to keep an orderly house; and provided also, that if they do keep a house of entertainment, they shall not be allowed any other pay than agreeable to tavern rates.

TAX.

The tax law of 1804 revives no former act; and as it is the last that is systematic and detailed in its provisions; and was the next year made perpetual; it stands now as that general law to which all subsequent amendments refer. Its second perpetuation in 1807, and the annual clause of revival since, are certainly superfluous as respects either the principal acts or any of its amendments. The following syllabus of the annual tax acts will show the order and connection of the revivals. The acts marked thus (†) are enough to deduce the continuous existence and operation of the act of 1804 down to the present time; but the other annual acts are noted in their order, as being more complete, and to render it easier, whenever it may be necessary, to ascertain what amendments have been in force at any particular time.

High river swamp on the Ogechee.

On all oak and hickory lands as aforesaid, from the mouth of Buck-

United States; and whereas, under this conviction, this general assembly would unequivocally refuse to receive any part of such money, if the further provisions contained in said part recited section, (to wit.) That if any State declines to receive its proportion of the surplus aforesaid, on the terms before named, the same shall be deposited with the other States, agreeing to accept the same, in the proportion aforesaid, did not constrain the acceptance; and whereas, the said act of congress requires the appointment of some authority under this State, to receive what is payable to the State, under said act.

Be it enacted, &c. That the treasurer of the State of Georgia, who shall be in office at any time, when any money is to be received by this State, under the provisions of the 13th section of the said act of congress, be, and he is hereby authorized and fully empowered, for and in behalf of the State of Georgia, to receive any such money, and to sign, execute and deliver to the secretary of the treasury of the United States, for the time being, certificates of deposits, in such form as may be prescribed by the said secretary of the treasury, and by such certificates to pledge the faith of the State of Georgia for the safe keeping and re-payment thereof, and every part thereof, from time to time, whenever the same shall be required by the secretary of the treasury, for the purpose of defraying any wants of the public treasury.

Treasurer authorized to receive it, and execute the proper certificates.

Report of the joint committee on the state of the republic, and resolution of the legislature concerning the surplus revenue, pam. of 1836, p. 18 of Res.

An Act to direct such of the deposits of the surplus revenue of the United States, as shall be deposited with the State of Georgia, under an act of Congress, entitled an act to regulate the deposits of the public money.—Approved Dec. 28, 1836. Pam. 262.

2. Sec. I. Whereas, the before recited act of congress making distribution of the surplus revenue, provides that the same may be called for, and therefore should be so deposited or loaned at interest, that it will produce a revenue to the State, and be called in when required,

Be it therefore enacted, &c. That so much of the surplus revenue of the United States, as shall be deposited from time to time, with the State of Georgia, under an act to regulate the deposits of the public monies, shall be deposited by the treasurer of this State, in the Central Bank of Georgia, and it shall be the duty of the president and directors of the said Central Bank, to loan to the citizens of this State, the said money, under the same rules and regulations that are now prescribed by law, for discounting notes in said bank; and should there not be applications to said bank, within the time as now prescribed by law, to discount notes to the amount of money they receive on deposit, then, and in that case, the president and directors of said Central Bank, shall be authorized to loan the said money to any of the chartered banks of this State, that they may deem in a sound condition, in which the State is a stockholder, under the conditions provided in the next section of this act.

This State's share of the surplus to be deposited in the Central bank and loaned to the people or to certain banks.

3. Sec. II. The condition on which any such loan shall be made to any of the said banks, shall be, that the money so lent or any part thereof, shall be re-paid in sixty days' notice, under the penalty of twenty-five per cent. damages, besides legal interest, and in the event of the demand of the same, or any part thereof, and a failure to pay the same on sixty days' notice, the whole amount due by such institution, shall be immediately payable with damages, at the rate of twenty-five per cent., and on the further condition, that on such failure to pay,

Conditions of the loan to banks—when to be re-paid.

Penalty for default.

28. Sec. XXIX. [This section re-enacted by act of 1816, Vol. III. 887, in the following words, viz.] "It shall be lawful for any agent to return any property to the receiver of tax returns, and pay the taxes due thereon to the tax collector of the county in which such agent resides."

Agents may make their returns in the county where they reside.

29. Sec. XXX. It shall be the duty of the sheriffs in each county, to receive from the tax collector therein, all executions that may be tendered to him for taxes, and to levy and collect the same, and to make due returns to the said collector within thirty days after the receipt of each execution, where personal property is levied on, and where it shall be real estate, sixty days; for which the said sheriff shall receive such pay as by law is directed in cases of tax collectors' executions, levies, and sales, and in case of default or neglect of duty, the justices of each inferior court shall from time to time, on the application of the tax collector, make such rules and regulations as shall cause a due execution of the collection of the general and county tax in each county as aforesaid.*

Duty of sheriffs as to executions delivered to them by collectors; and their fees in such cases.

Duty of the inferior court in carrying into effect this law.

An Act to continue in force the foregoing.—Approved Dec. 4, 1805.
Vol. II. 254.

30. Sec. II. Clerks of the superior courts shall not be at liberty to receive any return of taxable property as directed in the before-recited act; but it shall be the duty of the clerks of the inferior courts in the different counties, at any time before a digest of the taxes shall be completed, (and not after,) on application on oath, which shall be the same and administered by the said clerk, as pointed out in the act aforesaid, and shall keep a regular list of the names and property of the person or persons so giving in, and by him to be returned in the digest deposited in his office, and a certified copy to the receiver of tax returns, by him to be entered in the books to be put in the hands of the collector, and deposited in the comptroller's office.

Clerks of the inf. courts to receive returns. His duty therein.

Sec. III. [Relating to bank stock—superseded.]

31. Sec. IV. The collectors of taxes for the counties of Wayne, Wilkinson, and Baldwin, shall give bond and sufficient security as follows: For the county of Wayne, in the sum of $1,000; Wilkinson, $4,000; and Baldwin, $5,000; and shall subscribe and take the oath, as laid down by the said tax act; and the receivers of tax returns for the said counties shall give bond and sufficient security in the sum of $2,000, to be taken by the justices of the inferior courts of their respective counties; and all lands lying within the said counties shall be subject to the said taxes as other lands of the same quality in the adjacent counties.†

Collectors and receivers shall give security in Wayne, Wilkinson, and Baldwin.

* As to the power of the justices of the inferior court to issue executions for county tax, see sec. 46, 75.

† And see sec. 37. For the 1st section of this act, and the other clauses and acts of mere revival, see note prefixed to this title.

*Act of 1807.—Approved December 10, 1807. Vol. II. 392.Sec. I. [Perpetuates the act of 1804.]

taxes, and pay the same over to the treasurer of this State on or before the day of closing his accounts of that year.*

41. Sec. II. There shall be levied and collected, five per centum on the amount of sales of all lottery tickets in lottery schemes of other States, sold or disposed of in this State, for which the person or persons making sale of tickets shall be answerable.†

Lottery tickets out of the State taxed five per cent.

42. Sec. III. It shall be the duty of clerks of the several courts where property shall have been or may hereafter be returned by defaulters, to transmit a copy thereof to the comptroller general, on or before the first day of October in each and every year; and also to furnish the tax collector for the time being, with a copy of all such returns as have been made and not heretofore transmitted, as well as those which may hereafter be made; and it shall be the duty of the collector for the time being, to receive and pay over as aforesaid, all such moneys as may appear to be due on such returns; any law to the contrary notwithstanding. Provided, such property has not been assessed with double tax, or noted by the proper officers as being in default. And provided also, that such returns and payment of taxes shall not be construed to affect any seizure or sale that has been, or hereafter may be made.

Returns of property made to the clerk to be transmitted by him to the comptroller general.

Duty of the collector.

Provisoes.

43. Sec. IV. The said clerks shall be entitled to receive the sum of fifty cents for each year on every return so to be made as aforesaid, to be paid by such defaulter.

Act amendatory.—Approved Dec. 8, 1810. Vol. II. 601.

44. Sec. I. From and after the passing of this act, all the property of the tax collector and his security or securities, as well for the county as State tax, shall be bound from the time of signing such bond. [And see sec. 66.]

Property of collector and sureties, how bound.

45. Sec. II. When any execution may be issued against any tax collector for taxes due this State, or any county within this State, and when the sheriff shall levy the same on property claimed by any person not a party to said execution, the same proceedings shall be had thereon, as for the trial of the right of real or personal property within this State: Provided nevertheless, that all such trials shall be had before the superior court of such county wherein such levy was made.

Illegal levy, how tried.

46. Sec. III. It shall and may be lawful for any three or more justices of the inferior court of each county within this State, to issue in their own names, for the use of the county, executions against any tax collector and his security or securities, who may be in default for county tax. [Re-enacted with amendments in 1825, and defaulting collectors made liable to twenty-five per cent. See sec. 91. Act of 10th December, 1812. Vol. III. 144.

Duty of sheriffs as to treasury executions.

49. Sec. I. The several sheriffs within this State, who have or may hereafter have in their possession any execution or executions issued by the treasurer of this State, against any tax collector, shall, and they are hereby required to levy the same, and collect the amount or amounts thereof, in the same manner as pointed out by law for the collection of executions issuing out of the superior or inferior courts of this State.

50. Sec. II. If any sheriff as aforesaid, shall fail to levy and collect the amount of any execution so issued as aforesaid, or to account with, or pay over the same to the treasurer when thereunto required, then and in that case, it shall be the duty of the attorney or solicitor general within the several judicial circuits of this State, at the request of the treasurer, to apply to the judge of the superior court during the session of the said superior court, or in vacation, of the district wherein such delinquent sheriff may reside, for a rule against such delinquent sheriff, to show cause why an attachment should not be obtained against him, on the usual terms, for neglect of duty. [See sec. 80.]

the sup. court to make an order to compel payment.

51. Sec. III. It shall be the duty of the judges of the superior courts on application to grant such rule, and make such order as in their opinion is best calculated to compel the payment of any moneys collected or to be collected by sheriffs as aforesaid; and that all moneys collected under and by virtue of this act, shall be paid into the hands of the attorney or solicitor general appointed for the circuit, when the said moneys have or shall be collected, and be by them respectively transmitted to the treasurer of this State. § Annually.

|| See resolution of 6th Dec. 1813, (Vol. III. 1121,) requesting the governor to put in suit the bonds of delinquent receivers, and executions to issue against collectors. And see also a strong resolution of Dec. 1819, (ib. 1234,) which seems dictated by a spirited determination to reform the prevailing abuses, and get in the numerous arrearages. It directs the comptroller and treasurer to issue executions against defaulting collectors, informing the attorney and solicitor generals thereof, and also to furnish them with a list of those against whom executions had previously issued. Declaring it the duty of the attorney and solicitor generals to take the most efficient legal steps to enforce the object of the resolution. Directing moreover, that they shall report to the treasurer what has been done, and the future prospects therein, and account with him for money they may have received, and that the treasurer shall report to the legislature any of those law officers who may not have done their duty as therein directed.

Returns to be received until the 1st of August.

Receivers to deliver their digests by the first Monday in November.

Fonfold tax commuted for one third part thereof.

55. Sec. V. The receivers of returns of taxable property shall, on or before the first day of August, 1813,* deliver to the collectors a digest of the taxable property of the counties for which they are respectively appointed, under the penalty of incurring the fine for non-performance of that duty, imposed by the act herein first recited;† and the collectors may immediately on the receipt of such digest, provided they have been duly commissioned, and have given bond and qualified agreeably to law, proceed to collect the tax therein assessed, giving however the notices required by the said first-recited act;‡ and the time of advertising the collectors' sales, and the days on which they shall take place, shall be the same as are prescribed by law for sheriffs' sales—provided, that such collector in all cases where they, or either of them, shall levy or distrain on any personal property, for the collection of a poll tax only,§ that it shall be his duty to advertise the property so levied upon as aforesaid in three of the most public places in the captain's district, at least fifteen days previous to such intended sale, wherein such defaulter resides or may have resided at the time of giving in his return to the tax receiver, and his property shall be sold under the same restrictions as are heretofore pointed out by the tax law now in force.

56. Sec. VI. No tax collector shall proceed to collect any tax due from any individual which he was authorized to collect agreeable to law, by virtue of his appointment, after the expiration of two years—provided sufficient property can be found in the county to satisfy such tax due by any individual or individuals.

57. Sec. VII. When the collector shall have his insolvent list credited, it shall be the duty of the grand jury to retain a copy of such list, and direct the collector to issue executions for the same, and place them in the hands of some constable of the county for collection, who shall be entitled to the same fees as he is entitled to for other executions, and two and one half per centum, and the balance shall be paid by the constable to the clerk of the inferior court, whose duty it shall be to transmit the same to the treasurer.

58. Sec. VIII. No tax collector shall be allowed his insolvent list after execution shall have issued against him, unless he will come before the comptroller general, and have the same fairly adjusted.

Act of 6th December, 1813. Vol. III. 875.

59. Sec. I. From and after the passage of this act, the receivers of returns of taxable property shall continue to receive the returns aforesaid of all persons liable to pay tax until the first day of August in each year.

60. Sec. II. The receiver of returns of taxable property shall, on or before the first Monday in November in each year, deliver the several digests, and perform all other duties required of them according to the requisitions of the before-recited act;§ Provided said requisitions be not repugnant to this act.

62. Sec. IV. From and after the passage of this act, the receivers of tax returns shall give at least twenty days' notice at the muster ground in each captain's district of the time of expiration for receiving of said lists, together with the names of persons who have not then given in their lists; and immediately after said time has expired, they shall make out a fair list of the persons in default, and advertise the same at each captain's muster ground, which shall supersede the necessity of advertising defaulters in the public gazettes.

Receivers duty advertising for returns, and in advertising defaulters at each muster ground.

63. Sec. V. The provisions in the before-recited act, so far as respects the receivers assessing a fourfold tax in cases of default,* be, and the same are hereby repealed; and that the receivers of tax returns shall proceed to assess a double tax in cases of default as prescribed by the tax law, passed 10th December, 1812,* raising a tax for the political year 1813.

Fourfold tax repealed, and a double tax substituted.

64. Sec. VII.† Nothing in the before-recited act, authorizing the inferior courts to remit fourfold tax on defaulters,* shall be so construed as to authorize them to remit more than three-fourths of the tax charged on the receivers' books, or any greater part of said tax than shall reduce the same to a less sum than his, her, or their ordinary annual tax.

Inferior court not to remit the whole of a fourfold tax.

65. Sec. IX.‡ The receivers of returns of taxable property and collectors of taxes, who may hereafter be appointed and qualified agreeably to law, be, and they are hereby authorized and required to receive the returns of taxable property, and to collect the taxes thereon for all former years since 1800 inclusive, where any county is in default for not having made their returns as required by law: Provided that the taxes shall be assessed in conformity to the laws in force at the time such default happened.

Taxes to be collected for former years in counties where no returns have been made.

68. Sec. VI. No collector shall hereafter be allowed an insolvent list, if he do not obtain the same at some term of the superior court prior to the day on which he may be required to close his account at the comptroller general's office—Provided, he shall not have been prevented from obtaining his insolvent list by reason of a failure of the courts. [And see sec. 72.]

Act of 22d November, 1815. Vol. III. 881.

The amount of insolvent lists refunded to collectors in certain cases.

69. Sec. I. If any tax collector in this State shall have closed or may hereafter close his account at the comptroller general's office, by paying into the treasury the amount due by him, without having been allowed an insolvent list, and shall thereafter obtain an insolvent list duly certified by the grand jury of the county for which he is collector, and produce the same to the comptroller general, it shall be the duty of the said comptroller general, to give such collector a certificate setting forth that he had filed in his office an insolvent list, duly certified, and that his account as collector had been previously settled and closed, without his having been allowed the amount of said insolvent list, which certificate being presented to the executive, the said collector shall be entitled to a warrant on the treasurer from the governor, payable out of the contingent fund, for the amount of his insolvent list, as expressed in the aforesaid certificate of the comptroller general.

Any other over payments to be refunded.

70. Sec. II. If from any cause whatever, it shall have happened, or may hereafter happen, that a tax collector shall pay into the treasury a greater amount than that with which he is charged in the comptroller general's office, and ought to have paid after having been allowed all his proper credits, it shall be the duty of the comptroller general to certify the same to the executive, and thereupon such collector shall be entitled to a warrant on the treasurer, from the governor, payable out of the contingent fund, for the amount so certified to have been overpaid by him.

There must be separate insolvent lists as to the state tax and county tax.

71. Sec. III. In any county where there shall be a county tax levied, it shall be the duty of the grand jury in examining the insolvent list, to deliver to the collector a list of the amount allowed him on account of the general tax, and also a separate list, containing the amount allowed him on account of the county tax.

In failure of courts, the treasurer is to wait with collectors for insolvent lists.

Proviso.

72. Sec. IV. In future, the treasurer is hereby authorized and required, to wait with the tax collectors, who now are, or may hereafter be in this State, for the amount of their insolvent lists, claimed by them, where they shall be prevented from having the same allowed by the grand jury of the county for want of a session of the superior court—Provided, that the said tax collector or collectors shall pay into the treasury the full amount of money due from them or him to the State, with the above exception.

Within what time such collectors must return such lists to the treasurer.

73. Sec. V. The tax collectors aforesaid shall, within thirty days after the next session of the superior courts of their respective counties, after the time prescribed by law for their settlement with the treasurer, return to the comptroller general's office their insolvent lists, approved according to law by the grand jury of their respective counties, or in default thereof, or of payment of the amount, execution shall issue for the same as in other cases of executions against defaulting tax collectors.

74. Sec. VI. If the insolvent lists or list should be approved by the grand jury for a smaller sum than was claimed by the tax collector in his settlement with the treasurer, he shall return it as herein directed, and pay the difference at the same time into the treasury, or execution shall issue as herein pointed out.

If the jury do not allow all he claims, he must pay the difference.

75. Sec. VIII.* In all cases where there may be a county or poor tax levied by any law, or the justices of the inferior court of any county, and collected by the tax collector of any county, and not paid over to the proper authority in each county, the justices of the inferior court, or a majority of them in each county be, and they are hereby authorized to issue execution against any tax collector and his securities so neglecting or refusing to pay over the county and poor tax.†

Justices of inf court may issue executions for county tax.

76. Sec. IX. In all cases where free persons of color shall fail or refuse to pay the taxes charged against them, and shall have no property on which to levy, the collector may levy on and hire out said free person of color, for such price as will produce the amount due the State.

Free persons of color may be hired out for their taxes.

Act of 8th December, 1815. Vol. III. 401.

77. Sec. I. In all cases where any person shall have regularly listed and paid his tax in the county where he resides, and be returned as a defaulter in another or different county for the same tax, then and in that case the grand jury of the county claiming such default tax, shall, on application being made by the collector of said county, certify to the fact, and request the comptroller general to countersign the same, so that it may serve as a sufficient voucher to authorize the treasurer of the State to credit the collector by the same amount, as though it had been a part of his insolvent list.

Where persons who have paid tax in one county are returned as defaulters in another, how relieved.

78. Sec. II. When any collector, after being furnished with the receipts of the receiver and collector of the county where the aforesaid tax has been paid, shall fail to apply to the grand jury for a certificate as aforesaid, and shall proceed to execute or have executed the property of the person so returned as a defaulter, for each and every such offence he shall pay the sum of fifty dollars, to be applied to county purposes.

If the collector executes the property of such person, he shall forfeit fifty dollars.

- justice of the inferior court or of the peace, in which shall be stated the amount of the capital stock actually paid in on the first day of January preceding the time of making such return, and on or before the first day of December in each year, cause to be paid into the treasury, free of any cost or deduction whatever, the said sum of thirty-one and a quarter cents on every hundred dollars of capital stock returned in manner aforesaid; and it shall be the duty of the president and directors, managers or proprietors of every other bank, office of discount and deposit, or office of discount only, now in operation, or which may be established or go into operation, within this State, to cause the cashier thereof to transmit annually to the treasurer of this State, a return sworn to by him in the manner above pointed out, in which shall be stated the amount of capital stock actually employed or operated upon by such bank, office of discount and deposit, or office of discount only, on the first day of January preceding the time of making such return, and on or before the first day of December in each year, cause to be paid into the treasury, free of any cost or deduction whatever, the said sum of thirty-one and a quarter cents on every hundred dollars of capital stock, returned in manner aforesaid.
- And on neglect or refusal of any bank, office of discount and deposit, or office of discount only, except the offices of the bank of the State of Georgia, (a return of the capital stock of which shall be made in manner aforesaid by the principal cashier of said bank,) to make return or to pay the tax in the manner herein pointed out, it shall be lawful for the treasurer of the State, and it is hereby made his duty, immediately after the first day of December in each year, to issue his execution against the president and directors, managers or proprietors of any bank, office of discount and deposit, or office of discount only, so neglecting or refusing to make return or pay the tax aforesaid, which execution shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which such defaulting bank, office of discount and deposit, or office of discount only, shall be; and shall be issued for an amount equal to thirty-one and a quarter cents on every hundred dollars of the capital stock actually subscribed for in the bank of the State of Georgia. And if any sheriff, to whom any execution issued by virtue of the provisions of this act, may be directed, cannot find property whereon to levy belonging to the bank, office of discount and deposit, or office of discount only, against the president and directors, managers or proprietors, of which such execution may have issued, it shall be lawful for such sheriff, and it is hereby made his duty to levy the same on the individual property of all or any of the directors, managers, or proprietors, against whom such execution may be; and to sell such property, or so much thereof as will satisfy such execution, and pay all cost that may be incurred in consequence thereof.
80. Sec. III. If any sheriff to whom an execution, issued as herein required, may be directed, shall fail to collect the same by the time therein specified, and pay the amount thereof into the treasury, or deposit the same in such bank as the treasurer may direct, subject to the order of said treasurer, it shall be lawful for, and it is hereby made the duty of any judge of the superior courts of this State, to whom the treasurer shall make written application for that purpose during the recess of the courts, to cause such measures to be taken to compel an immediate payment by such sheriff of the amount of such execution, and such other proceedings to be had thereon, as would be authorized if a rule were obtained against such sheriff in term time.

UNIVERSITY.

An Act for the more full and complete establishment of a public Seat of Learning in this State.—Approved Jan. 27, 1785. Vol. I. 560.

1. As it is the distinguishing happiness of free governments that civil order should be the result of choice and not necessity, and the common wishes of the people become the laws of the land, their public prosperity, and even existence, very much depends upon suitably forming the minds and morals of their citizens. When the minds of the people in general are viciously disposed and unprincipled, and their conduct disorderly, a free government will be attended with greater confusions and evils more horrid than the wild uncultivated state of nature: It can only be happy where the public principles and opinions are properly directed, and their manners regulated. This is an influence beyond the stretch of laws and punishments, and can be claimed only by religion and education. It should therefore be among the first objects of those who wish well to the national prosperity to encourage and support the principles of religion and morality, and early to place the youth under the forming hand of society, that by instruction they may be moulded to the love of virtue and good order. Sending them abroad to other countries for their education will not answer these purposes, is too humiliating an acknowledgment of the ignorance or inferiority of our own, and will always be the cause of so great foreign attachments, that upon principles of policy it is inadmissible.

This country, in the times of our common danger and distress, found such security in the principles and abilities which wise regulations had before established in the minds of our countrymen, that our present happiness, joined to the pleasing prospects, should conspire to make us feel ourselves under the strongest obligation to form the youth, the rising hope of our land, to render the like glorious and essential services to our country.

And whereas, for the great purpose of internal education, divers allotments of land have at different times been made, particularly by the legislature at their sessions in July, 1783, and February, 1784,* all of which may be comprehended and made the basis of one general and complete establishment: Therefore enacted,

2. Sec. I. That the general superintendence and regulation of the literature of this State, and in particular of the public seat of learning, shall be committed and entrusted to one board, denominated "The Board of Visitors,"† hereby vested with all the powers of visitation, to see that the intent of this institution is carried into effect; and [13 persons named] who shall compose another board, denominated "The Board of Trustees." These two boards united, or a majority of each of them, shall compose the "Senatus Academicus of the University of Georgia." Composition and powers of the senatus academicus as first formed.

3. Sec. II. All statutes, laws, and ordinances, for the government of the university, shall be made and enacted by the two boards united, or a majority of each of them, subject always to be laid before the general assembly as often as required, and to be repealed or disallowed as the general assembly shall think proper. Statutes to be laid before the general assembly.

4. Sec. III. Property vested in the university shall never be sold without the joint concurrence of the two boards, and by an act of the legislature; but the leasing, farming, and managing of the property of the university for its constant support, shall be the business of the board of trustees: For this purpose they are hereby constituted a body corporate and politic, by the name of "The Trustees of the University of Georgia;" by which they shall have perpetual succession, and shall and may be a person in law, capable to plead, and be impleaded, defend, and be defended, answer, and be answered unto, also to have, take, possess, acquire, purchase, or otherwise receive lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods, chattels, or other estates, and the same to lease, use, manage, or improve, for the good and benefit of said university; and all property given or granted to or by the government of this State for the advancement of learning in general, is hereby vested in such trustees in trust as herein described. Property of the university, how alienated. Trustees incorporated.

5. Sec. IV. As the appointment of a person to be the president and head of the university is one of the first and most important concerns on which its respect and usefulness greatly depend, the board of trustees shall first examine and nominate; but the appointment of the president shall be by the two boards jointly, who shall also have the power of removing him from office for misdemeanor, unfaithfulness, or incapacity. [For vacancies, see Sec. 33.] President, how appointed and removed.

6. Sec. V. There shall be a stated annual meeting of the senatus academicus at the university, or at any other place or time to be appointed by themselves, at which the governor of the State, or, in his absence, the president of the council shall preside; their records to be kept by the secretary of the university. [See Sec. 22.] Senatus academicus to meet annually. Records.

7. Sec. VI. As the affairs and business of the university may make more frequent meetings of the trustees necessary, the president and two of the members are empowered to appoint a meeting of the board, notice always to be given to the rest, or letters left at the usual places of their abode, at least fourteen days before the said meeting; seven ‡ of the trustees thus convened shall be a legal meeting. In case of the death, absence, or incapacity of the president, the senior trustee shall preside: The majority of the members present shall be considered a vote of the whole; and where the members are divided, the president shall have a casting vote: Provided always, that nothing done at these special meetings shall have any force or efficacy after the rising of the then next annual meeting of the trustees.

Filling of vacancies at the board, and appointment of officers.

8. Sec. VII. The trustees shall have the power of filling up all vacancies of their own board, and appointing professors, tutors, secretary,* treasurers,* stewards, or any other officers which they may think necessary, and the same to discontinue or remove as they may think fit; but not without seven† of their number, at least, concurring in such act. [But see Sec. 21, 31, 36.]

Trustees shall regulate the course of public studies, and fix salaries.

9. Sec. VIII. The trustees shall prescribe the course of public studies, appoint the salaries of the different officers, form and use a public seal, adjust and determine the expenses, and adopt such regulations, not otherwise provided for, which the good of the university may render necessary. [See Sec. 29.]

All officers to be of the Christian religion, and take an oath.

10. Sec. IX. All officers appointed to the instruction and government of the university shall be of the Christian religion; and within three months after they enter upon the execution of their trust, shall publicly take the oath of allegiance and fidelity, and the oaths of office prescribed in the statutes of the university; the president, before the governor or president of the council; and all other officers before the president of the university.

Military duty.

11. Sec. X. The president, professors, tutors, students,‡ and all officers and servants of the university, whose office require their constant attendance, shall be, and they are hereby excused from military duty, and from all other such like duties and services; and all lands and other property of the university|| is hereby exempted from taxation.

Religious sentiments to be no disqualification.

12. Sec. XI. The trustee shall not exclude any person of any religious denomination whatsoever from free and equal liberty and advantages of education, or from any of the liberties, privileges, and immunities of the university in his education, on account of his, her, or their speculative sentiments in religion, or being of a different religious profession.

President and trustees shall have power to confer degrees, &c.

13. Sec. XII. The president of the university, with the consent of the trustees, shall have power to give and confer all such honors, degrees, and licenses, as are usually conferred in colleges or universities, and shall always preside at the meeting of the trustees, and at all the public exercises of the university. [And see Sec. 23.]

Senat academicus, how to exercise its superintendence of literature in this State.

14. Sec. XIII. The senatus academicus at their stated annual meetings shall consult and advise, not only upon the affairs of the university, but also to remedy the defects, and advance the interests of literature through the State in general. For this purpose it shall be the business of the members, previous to their meeting, to obtain an acquaintance with the state and regulations of the schools and places of education in their respective counties, that they may be thus possessed of the whole, and have it lie before them for their mutual assistance and deliberation. Upon this information they shall recommend what kind of schools and academies shall be instituted, agreeably to the constitution, in the several parts of the State, and prescribe what branches of education shall be taught and inculcated in each. They shall also examine, and recommend the instructors to be employed in them, or appoint persons for that purpose. The president of the uni-and vested with the powers given in the charter.

[Sec. I. and II. Obsolete—Sec. III. Repealed. See Sec. 20.]

Appropriation Act of 27th November, 1802. Vol. II. 79.

18. Sec. III. The sum of 5,000 dollars,† be and the same is hereby appropriated as a loan to the trustees of the university, in aid of the funds of the said institution, for erecting the collegiate buildings, the said trustees first giving bond with security to be approved by his excellency the governor, to return the said sum of money into the public treasury, within five years, with lawful interest thereon: Provided, that the trustees of the said university shall previous to receiving the said money, or any part thereof, cause to be deposited in the executive office, a full, complete, and unconditional relinquishment from Daniel Easley, of all claims or title whatever, to the lands conveyed by him to John Milledge, Esq. for the use and benefit of the university of this State, against him the said Daniel Easley, his heirs, executors, and administrators, for ever.

5,000 dollars loaned to the university.

Provide on Easley's relinquishment.

Act of 10th December, 1803. Vol. II. 142.

19. The trustees of the University of Georgia be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to sell and dispose of, in such manner as they may deem most for the benefit of the institution, the tract of land belonging to the said university, situate in the county of Hancock, and to appropriate the moneys arising from the sale, in such manner as in their judgment will most advance the beneficial purposes of the said university; and that they also have full power and authority to sell and dispose of, in like manner, and for the same purpose, all such lots and land, situate in, and adjoining the site of the university, as they think proper, reserving nevertheless, the quantity of thirty-seven acres of land for the college yard.‡

Trustees authorized to sell certain land.

* As to foreign education, see Foreigners, Sec. 4.

† See Sec. 35, 41, 52, 55, 68, 69.

‡ The next act in order of time, is that of Nov. 1806, (Vol. II. 308,) allowing a lottery, obsolete: and the next is of Dec. 1808, (ibid. 456,) which is superseded in all its provisions by subsequent acts.

of the said university, and the most advantageous disposition of said lands:—Provided nevertheless, that said lands shall be sold by lots of one hundred acres* each at public outcry, and to the highest bidder.

at public outcry.

25. Sec. II. The proceeds of the sale of said lands, shall in no wise or manner be used by the said trustees, to pay off debts, or to make any purchases, except as hereinafter directed, but shall be by them reserved for the purpose of being vested in some profitable stock, for the use of the university.

The proceeds to be vested in stock.

26. Sec. III. If the said trustees should dispose of the lands aforesaid upon a credit, the bonds given by the purchasers for the same, shall be secured by good personal security, together with a mortgage upon the land so purchased; and the said bonds and mortgages, when collected, shall be applied by the said trustees to the subscription for stock in any banks now in this State, in case further subscriptions should be by them opened, or any bank which may hereafter be established by the State or the United States; if any subscriptions should be opened by any of the banks aforesaid, at a time when the bonds and mortgages should be uncollected or not due, and a failure to obtain stock on that account would ensue, the trustees of said university, by depositing the whole amount of said bonds and mortgages in the treasury of the State, and producing to his excellency the governor the treasurer's certificate of the same, shall obtain from the governor a warrant on the treasury for whatever sum, not exceeding two-thirds of the amount of said bonds and mortgages, that may be necessary for subscribing for such number of shares as the proceeds of said bonds if collected, would authorize them to subscribe for: Provided always, that the governor shall direct the collection of the said bonds and mortgages as they become due, and the principal and interest thereof shall be paid into the treasury of the State, as a reimbursement for the advance made by the State to the said trustees.

The bonds and mortgages may be pledged to the government on certain contingencies.

27. Sec. IV. The said trustees shall never dispose of the stock by them subscribed for as aforesaid, unless by the consent of the legislature of Georgia, or make use of it in any manner whatever; but the proceeds or dividends therefrom, shall be drawn by them, and used in such manner as the various demands and necessities of the said university may require, and as will be most likely to insure the objects of its establishment.

The stock not to be sold, but the dividends only.

28. Sec. V. That [ten persons] be, and they are hereby appointed additional trustees to the university aforesaid, and that any five of the trustees of the said university, shall form a board, and be competent to proceed to business.

Ten additional trustees appointed.

29. Sec. VI. It shall and may be lawful for said board of trustees to dispense with the services of such of its officers, or make such reduction in the fees or salaries of officers, as will enable them with the funds of the institution to meet their disbursements, nor shall any salary or compensation be allowed said trustees or any of them, for their or any of their services.

Five to form a board for business. Trustees may curtail the expenditures.

Act of 18th December, 1816. Vol. III. 1060.

30. Sec. I. All sales of land heretofore made or hereafter to be made by the trustees of said university, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, notwithstanding the same may have been, or hereafter may be sold in lots over and above, or under, one hundred acres each—any thing in the above recited [last preceding] act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sales ratified though not in tracts of 100 acres each.

An Act to provide for the permanent endowment of the university; and to appropriate moneys for the erection of a new collegiate edifice at Athens.*—Approved Dec. 21, 1821. Vol. IV. 487.

41. Sec. I. The permanent endowment of the university shall consist of a sum not less than eight thousand dollars per annum; and that when it shall so happen that the dividends furnished by the bank stock granted to the university shall not be equal to the sum aforesaid, the treasurer of this State is required to make up the deficiency semi-annually out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. Permanent endowment $8,000 per annum.

42. Sec. II. The trustees of Franklin College be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to collect and retain the sum of ten thousand dollars from the fund arising from the sale of fractional surveys previous to the year of 1821; and for this purpose the governor, treasurer, and solicitor general of the Ocmulgee circuit are required to afford all the information and aid in their power to such agent or attorney as the said trustees may appoint. Trustees authorized to retain $10,000 from the sale of fractions.

43. Sec. III. The treasurer of this State be, and he is hereby required to pay to the treasurer of the university the sum of fifteen thousand dollars out of the first moneys which may be paid into the treasury, for and on account of the purchases made at the sale of the university lands; which said two sums last mentioned shall be applied, $15,000 out of the college lands to build a new college edifice.

University of Georgia by an act of the general assembly of this State, passed on the 16th day of Dec. 1815, the said trustees did cause the several tracts of land then belonging to the university to be surveyed and divided into lots for the purpose of sale, according to the directions of said act; and whereas, in some cases the maps of such surveys and division into lots have been recorded, without being authenticated by the oath of the surveyor or surveyors who made the same, and in other cases such maps and division into lots have been lost without being recorded, whereby the purchasers of such lands have been put to great inconvenience in establishing the locality and boundaries of the several lots purchased by them; for remedy whereof,

Be it enacted, That in cases where any of the maps of the survey and division of the university lands into lots for the purposes of sale, according to the authority of the before-recited act, shall have been preserved and recorded either in the office of the clerk of the superior court, or of the county surveyor of the county where such lands are situated, such original map or record thereof shall be admitted as evidence of the locality and original boundaries of the several lots of land thereon designated, in the several courts of law and equity in this State; Provided, that the said original map or maps, or the record thereof, shall be authenticated by the affidavit of one or more of the surveyors who made the same; to be taken before any judge of the superior court, or justice of the inferior court of the county where the lands are situated (and which affidavit shall be recorded in the same office with such map), in the following form :

Original maps of university lands or records thereof to be admitted as evidence.

Proviso.

Georgia, } I, _____, do solemnly swear, that County. { according to the best of my knowledge, recollection, and belief, the above map (or in case the same is recorded, the above record of a map) contains a true representation of the survey and division into lots of a tract of land, situate on the waters of _____, in the county of _____, originally belonging to the trustees of the university of Georgia, made by me for the purpose of selling the same, according to authority vested in the said trustees by an act of the general assembly of this State, passed on the 16th day of Dec. 1815.

49. Sec. II. In all cases where such original maps have been lost without being recorded, the governor or board of trustees of the university shall be, and hereby are authorized to employ the person or persons, to wit, Hezekiah Luckie and Thomas Mitchell, who originally surveyed and divided into lots the university lands for the purposes of sale as aforesaid, to make a duplicate map or maps of such survey and division into lots, either from their field notes, if preserved, or if not by actual resurvey, giving twenty days' notice of each resurvey by advertisement at the most public place on or near the lands to be resurveyed, and each duplicate map or maps so made shall be authenticated by the affidavit of the surveyor making the same, according to the directions of the first section of this act, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county where the lands are situated; after which the said map or maps, or the record thereof, shall be received and admitted in the several courts of law and equity in this State, as evidence of the boundaries and locality of the several lots of land thereon designated.

Provision where the original maps have been destroyed without being recorded.

50. Sec. III. The expenses to be incurred in the execution of this act, shall be paid out of the proceeds of the sales of the university lands received, or to be received in the treasury of this State.

Expenses of resurvey how to be paid.

An Act to appoint eleven additional trustees of the University of Georgia, and to provide a permanent additional fund for the support of the same, and to declare the number of trustees which shall be necessary to form a board, and to authorize a loan of ten thousand dollars to the board of trustees of said university, and to provide for the education of certain poor children therein mentioned.—Approved 21st Dec. 1830. Pam. 4.

51. Whereas, it is believed that the interests of the University of Georgia will be promoted by the appointment of an additional number of trustees, so as to increase the board to the number of twenty-eight.

And whereas, the late fire in Athens, which destroyed the new college edifice, the library and many of the mathematical and other instruments, necessary for the purposes of instructing youth, has placed the college in such a situation as to be of little use or benefit to the State, or the people, unless legislative aid is afforded, to enable the board of trustees to rebuild the edifice, and replace the library and instruments.

And whereas, also, it is necessary and proper that the University of Georgia, should have a regular and ample income for the purpose of meeting at all times the exigencies and necessities which time and circumstances may produce in that institution, so that it may be enabled fully to accomplish the ends and purposes contemplated by the State in its foundation.

trustees.

Be it therefore enacted, That from and after the passing of this act, the board of trustees of the University of Georgia, shall consist of the number of twenty-eight, and that the following persons, to wit :

Thomas W. Murray, Angus M. D. King, James C. Watson, Zachariah Williams, David A. Reese, Daniel Hook, Jacob Wood, Wilson Lumpkin, Howell Cobb, Stephens Thomas, and James Tinsley be, and they are hereby appointed trustees of the same, in addition to the number at present constituting the said board.

Endowment of $6,000 per annum.

52. Sec. II. The sum of six thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby annually appropriated to the University of Georgia, as a fund for the use of said institution, for the purpose of enabling the board of trustees to rebuild the college edifice, and replace the library and instruments which were destroyed by the late fire at Athens, and for the purpose of defraying the annual expenses of said college.

How to be

53. Sec. III. The said sum shall, and may be drawn from the Central Bank, from the interest accruing upon the capital of the stock of said bank, by the treasurer of the board of trustees, by producing to the said bank, the resolution of the board to that effect, which said sum shall be drawn in the following manner, to wit :

The sum of three thousand dollars on the first day of May, and the sum of three thousand dollars on the first day of November, annually, and every year, until this act shall be repealed.

56. Whereas a majority of the trustees of the University of Georgia did not attend, on the second Monday in November at Milledgeville, the meeting of the Senatus Academicus ; in consequence of which the Senatus Academicus was not organized, and no meeting of that body was held ; but in order that the business connected with the college should be transacted, and that the university should not be embarrassed by the non-attendance of a quorum of the board of trust, the board of visitors, together with such of the trustees of the university as were in attendance, did organize themselves into a body and informally transact the business connected with the college, the county academies, and poor schools, ordinarily devolving upon the Senatus Academicus ; and whereas the acts of said body have not the force and effect of law, therefore—

Be it enacted, That all acts done, and proceedings had, by the senate of the State of Georgia as a board of visitors, together with a minority of the board of trustees of the University of Georgia, on the second Monday in November, 1834, at Milledgeville, in relation to the interests and affairs of the University of Georgia and the poor schools and academies of this State be, and they are hereby declared to be valid, and of as full force and effect in law as if said acts and proceedings were had by the Senatus Academicus, regularly organized and in session according to law.

57. Sec. II. From and immediately after the passing of this act all grants held by any person or persons, which grants were signed and registered under the signature of Hamilton B. Gaither as deputy secretary of state, or Hamilton B. Gaither for Wm. A. Tennille, secretary of state, shall be good and valid in law and equity, and receivable in evidence in the several courts of justice in this State.

NOTE.

Extract from the Minutes of the Senatus Academicus of the University of Georgia, November 12, 1831.

Resolved, That the Senatus Academicus appoint, annually, fifteen persons as a board of visitors, to attend the examinations of the classes in the university, preceding the annual commencement, the duty of any three or more of whom it shall be, to report to the ensuing meeting of this board—whereupon,

Ordered, That the president of the Senatus Academicus, the president of the senate, and speaker of the house of representatives, be requested to make such appointment.

60. Sec. III. The said board of trustees shall have authority to confer literary degrees.

May hold all kinds of property.

61. Sec. IV. The said board of trustees shall be capable of holding all manner of property, both real and personal; and shall be invested with all the rights, privileges and immunities, which now belong or appertain, or shall hereafter be granted or conveyed to said institution, or to either of them, to have and to hold the same, for the proper use and benefit of said institutions.

No shops to sell any article shall be kept within certain limits.

62. Sec. V. It shall not be lawful for any person to establish, keep or maintain any store or shop of any description, for vending any species of merchandize, groceries or confectionaries, of any kind whatever, within the following limits, viz. on the south side of Fishing creek, in a direction between the sites of the edifices of the said university and manual labor institute, and Milledgeville, nor within a mile and a half of the sites of either of said edifices, in any other direction. Any person violating the prohibitions contained in this section, shall be liable to be indicted as for a misdemeanor; and on conviction, shall be fined in a sum not less than five hundred dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars; the said fine to be appropriated to the benefit of said university.

Offices and incumbents to be subject to Hopewell presbytery.

63. Sec. VI. The term of office of the members of the said board of trustees, shall be determined and regulated, and all vacancies in any manner occurring therein, shall be filled by Hopewell Presbytery, or by such body or assembly as may receive from Hopewell Presbytery its authority over said institutions, in such manner as the body so authorized shall think proper.

An Act to incorporate the Southern Baptist College, at Washington, Wilkes county.—Approved Dec. 29th, 1836. Pam. 98.

RESOLUTIONS.

88. A general view of the Education fund, and of the situation and prospects of the University "If," says the legislature, "the will of the people deliberately expressed should at all times have due weight and influence on a legislature who are their immediate representatives, we are led to the conclusion that the present legislature are under the strongest obligations to patronize, and encourage by a liberal policy, the advancement of education in this State. That it is the wish of the people is incontrovertible, when we take into view the individual exertion exercised in the establishment of so great a number of respectable schools in different parts of the State, without the smallest aid or patronage from the government. The example set by the citizens of some of the counties of this State, to promote schools, are in the opinion of your committee worthy of the imitation of all, whether in public or private situations." Dec. 1820. Vol. IV. 7 of Res.

89. A history of the endowment of the University and a view of the present state of the Poor school fund. Dec. 1826. Ib. 79.

IN SENATE, December 17th, 1829.

The joint committee on public education and Free schools, to whom was referred the resolution of senate, with instructions to examine and report their opinion as to the propriety of publishing the whole or any part of the copy of the minutes of the board of trustees of Franklin college, furnished to the secretary of senate under a resolution of the Senatus Academicus, have had the same under consideration, and recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the minutes of the board of trustees, and laws of Franklin college, with the minutes of the Senatus Academicus, be published with the journals of the senate.

Approved, December 19th, 1829.

90. Mathematical instruments of the late board of public works turned over to the university, [Dec. 1830, pam. 285.]

91. The report adopted by the legislature in December 1831, [Pam. 284] takes an elevated and comprehensive view of the vital necessity of education in common schools and in colleges. I venture to extract the following passages so honorable to the body who adopted them.

In our country every man ought to prepare himself for taking a part in her public business. Should he never aspire to a seat in her state or national councils, he yet owes it as a duty to himself and his posterity, to let any talent he may possess appear at least in her primary assemblies.

If this view of our duty be correct, and it is believed it cannot be controverted, the committee feel warranted in considering the subject of education, the noblest and most important that can engage the attention of the lawgiver, it lies, in truth, at the basis of the whole social system. It affects not only the individual happiness, the character and the usefulness of those who are its objects, but it exerts a most powerful and irresistible influence upon the government, the laws, and the liberties of communities. No nation when the majority of the people is well educated, can remain enslaved; no nation when the great mass is ignorant can retain its freedom. In proportion to the general intelligence will be the force, the wealth, and the influence of a State, and it will be respected in the exact ratio of the instructed talent it can bring into its negotiations.

* * * * *

Franklin college, the fondly cherished institution, should continue to receive the fostering aid of the legislature. Notwithstanding the many reverses which have visited the institution, it has now an organization which promises to fulfil most of the purposes of a solid and extensive education. The committee have the most satisfactory assurances, the contributions and appropriations from time to time made by the legislature, have been faithfully and profitably expended.

An education afforded by a college or university, should not stop at mere elements. Higher studies should be introduced to occupy the time that intervenes between youth and manhood, between the years when parental caution would exclude the pupil from too close a contact with the world, and those in which a professional novitiate can be entered upon with advantage, or the society of men enjoyed. Among such studies stand pre-eminent Grecian literature and the higher branches of mathematics. The former opens the door to the most perfect literature the world has ever known, to the finest models of style, and exquisite instances of taste.—The latter are boundless in their applications, and so much a matter of liberal knowledge, that an acquaintance with them may fairly be considered indispensable in every scheme of finished education.

The committee beg leave respectfully to suggest the importance of a thorough acquaintance of the higher branches of mathematics to the single subject of internal improvement, a subject in which we should all be concerned. We should feel an interest in the investigation of any and every scheme calculated to monopolize any of the advantages resulting from great undertakings, which may tend to defraud us of our just proportions of their advantages. In the application of science to the researches of this character, the advantages ultimately to be derived from machines whether propelled by animal, by steam or any other power, on railways, ordinary roads, canals or other water courses:—the subject for investigation, as in all other departments of science, is the accurate ascertainment of the relation which must always exist between an effect, and the cause producing it; in this enquiry must be ascertained the relation existing between the mass to be transported over a certain distance in a given time, and the cause producing that effect. Various circumstances may modify these results, and these circumstances no less than the general principles themselves, can be estimated with any accuracy and precision by mathematical science alone.

92. Whereas, by the existing law of this State, the trustees of the University of the State of Georgia, have from time to time received from the treasury of this State, large sums of money and they are now by the laws of this State entitled to receive from year to year, considerable sums of money from the State treasury.

Be it therefore resolved, That the trustees of the University of Georgia, be required to lay before the next legislature, at its next annual session, a full plain and detailed account of the annual revenue of that institution, and the sources from which said revenue is derived, and that they also make a full and detailed statement how that revenue has been appropriated and expended for the years 1832, and 1833; and that they also make a report of the condition of the buildings of said institution. Approved, Dec. 24, 1832. [Pam. 249.]

93. The committee to whom was referred an account of the receipts and disbursements of the University of Georgia, from the 1st of November, 1831, to the 1st of November, 1833, inclusive, have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report, That on a careful perusal of said report, they find the respective debts and credits in said account appear fair and explicit, and furnish a distinct detail of the fiscal concerns of that institution. This seminary of learning has long enjoyed the generous patronage of the legislature of this State, and has evidently, within a short period, made rapid advances in public estimation.

It is an institution that requires ample supplies, because the disbursements necessary to keep it in successful operation, are great; but so long as the funds provided are both judiciously and economically applied, it will receive the approbation of the people of Georgia. But to insure the future countenance of the State, the strongest evidence should be given, by those employed in carrying it forward, that the interest of the whole people, and not of a part, is strictly attended to. The pursuit of literature alone, can secure the confidence of the public; and both teacher and student will find it to be their interest, to devote their attention exclusively to this great object. Let it be seen by action, not profession, that a generous emulation prevails among all those directly or indirectly connected with the university, to raise its character to a pitch of elevation, that may make it an ornament, and honor to the State. This is the only remuneration that she requires; and in fact imperiously demands.

Your committee deem these cursory remarks necessary to satisfy public expectation, and admonitory to the university, of the true course it ought to pursue. They, therefore, beg leave to submit the following resolutions.

Resolved, That the disbursements of the funds of the university, as submitted by their detailed account, appear fair, and honestly applied for the benefit of the institution.

Resolved, That the intention manifested by the trustees, to repay the State, in a progressive manner, the sum loaned to the college, after it was burned, evinced a desire to perform their duty, and ought strictly to be adhered to, until the whole sum is fully paid. Approved, Dec. 21, 1833. [Pam. 349.]

94. The committee to whom was referred the memorial of John J. Flournoy, praying the establishment of an institution for the education of the deaf and dumb, having had the same under consideration, respectfully report,

That whether aimed as a literary composition from the pen of one taught at such a school, or as a powerful appeal to the best feelings of our nature in behalf of an unfortunate and neglected portion of our fellow-creatures, the memorial presents strong claims to the consideration of the legislators of an enlightened and benevolent people.

In the absence of fact and materials necessary to a full investigation of the subject, as well as in the want of time now to make it, your committee respectfully submit the following resolution :

Resolved, That the memorial of John J. Flournoy, praying the institution of a school for the education of the deaf and dumb be referred to his excellency the governor, for the purpose of obtaining the information necessary to a full investigation of the subject, by the ensuing general assembly. Approved, Dec. 21, 1833. [Pam. 363.]

By the act of 1836, pam. 30, $10,000 is appropriated for a geological survey of the State, in pursuance of a resolution.

The resolution on that subject, directs that, his excellency the governor, or his successor in office, be, and he is hereby authorized to employ, as soon as convenient, one or more suitable and well qualified persons to undertake the work, of a careful and scientific geological survey of all the counties in Georgia, under his direction and advice.

That the geologist so appointed, shall keep an office at the seat of government, where he shall preserve for the use of the State, the various specimens connected with the survey, and shall remain at the seat of government during the greatest part of the session of the legislature. He shall make an annual report of the progress of the work, to the governor, and at the termination of his survey, he shall prepare from his journals and reports, a consolidated report for publication, to be handed over to the governor, and the copy right secured to the State, and make returns semi-annually to the governor. Pam. of 1836, p. 21 of Res.

95. Deaf and Dumb. An intelligent and satisfactory report on this subject in December 1834, [Pam. 281] states the proportion of deaf and dumb to the whole population as far as ascertained in Europe and America, to be one person to about every 2,000. That among the white population of Georgia there appears by the census of 1830 to have been 145 of this description ; 50 of which were under the age of fourteen, 44 over twenty-five years ; and 51 between those ages. It mentions the commencement of the education of mutes by the Abbé L'Epée, its great improvement by the Abbé Sicard, and its progress at Hartford, Connecticut, and elsewhere in the United States. On the ascertained ratio, the number in this State will not be so large as to justify the great expense of a separate institution. Assuming twenty-five as the probable number needing the aid of the government, and $150 as the annual expense of each, the committee recommend, and the legislature resolve

That the sum of $3,000 be, and it is hereby appropriated for the education of the indigent deaf and dumb of this State between the ages of twelve and twenty years, in such manner as the general assembly may deem best calculated to effect the benevolent object of the appropriation.

That our senators and representatives in congress be requested to make every effort for the purpose of procuring for each State a township of the public land, or such other quantity as they may be able to obtain, with a view of creating a fund in each State, the interest of which shall be appropriated to the education of the indigent deaf and dumb.

That this State will appropriate the sum of $10,000, so soon as two or more of her neighboring States will co-operate with her, and contribute in a ratio proportioned to the number of their free white inhabitants, for the purpose of endowing a Southern institution for the education of the deaf and dumb, to be located at such place and organized in such manner as may hereafter be determined on when such proposition is adopted. Approved, Dec. 20, 1834. [Pam. 281.]

96. Appropriation act of 1834, Pam. 27.

That the sum of $3,000 be appropriated for the education of the deaf and dumb, agreeably to a concurred resolution.

97. By resolutions of the same date, but originating in the other branch, (the representatives,) it was

Resolved, That his excellency the governor for the time being, shall appoint one commissioner, who shall be authorized to draw for the fund appropriated annually, as it may be needed for the purposes of the trust, for the support of the indigent deaf and dumb of this State;—and whose duty shall be to receive applications for the benefit of said appropriation, and to judge of their claims, to be placed on the list of beneficiaries according to the intention and meaning of these resolutions.

That said commissioner shall, and he is hereby required to keep a list of all such persons that he may receive as beneficiaries, designating the names, places of residences, and age of each; and also to keep a fair and correct account of his receipts and expenditures, together with all the vouchers for his expenditures, and to make a full and particular report of the same, together with all such information as may be called for by the legislature from time to time touching his trust.

That it shall be the duty of the said commissioner to make all necessary arrangements for conveying such of the indigent deaf and dumb of this State, to the American Asylum at Hartford, Connecticut, and for their expenses at said institution, having at the same time watchful care that they be placed on the most economical scale.

That said commissioner be required to give bond, with good and sufficient security, to be made payable to the governor and his successors in office; and which bond his excellency is hereby required to take for the faithful performance of the duties of said commissioner during his continuance in office, and which commissioner shall be entitled to and receive such compensation for his services as each legislature may judge to be reasonable and right. [Pam. of 1834, 307.]

Report of the commissioner for 1836, pam. of that year, page 1 of Res.

98. By Report of Dec. 1835 [Pam. 330] it appears that six boys had been sent to the Asylum, at Hartford, Connecticut, by Mr. Sinclair, the agent, at the expense of $933 86, leaving unexpended the residue of the $3,000 appropriated last year. The committee recommend, and the legislature resolved, to appropriate annually the further sum of $4,450, being what was deemed sufficient to educate twenty-six students at that seminary at about $250 per annum. But it was not inserted in the appropriation act. They, however, appropriated $750 for the services of the commissioner, and allowed a discretion to select, under certain circumstances, children under the age of ten years.

99. Appropriation of $400 to J. V. Bevan for collating, arranging, and publishing all papers relating to the original settlement or political history of this State, now in the executive or secretary of state's office, [Dec. 1824. Vol. IV. 48 of Res.] The justices of the inferior court of the several counties requested to furnish to the gov. for the use of Mr. Bevan "information generally respecting their several counties, and particularly as to the following points: 1. The soil, together with the nature, quality, and quantity of its produce. 2. Trade and manufactures. 3. Natural history, in a comprehensive sense. 4. Natural and artificial curiosities. 5. Internal improvements from one period of time to another. 6. Peculiar settlements, their origin and subsequent history. 7. Academies and other schools, together with the state of learning generally. 8. Various sects of religion, removed or existing. 9. Manners, habits, and amusements of the people." And requested to associate with them in their respective counties, such distinguished citizens as they may deem proper. Res. of Dec. 1825. Ib. 54. [Mr. Bevan did not live to make any progress in the undertaking. Ed.]

100. Resolved, That the senators and representatives of this State in the congress of the United States, be requested to use their exertions to procure the passage of an act of congress, providing for copying the documents and papers in the plantation office, and other public officers in England relating to the early history of Georgia. Nov. 1827. Ib. 89.]

101. In the report accompanying a bill to establish a State library the legislature (having adopted the report) say, that "The convenience, benefit and usefulness of an extensive and well selected library at the seat of government, seem too obvious to admit of doubt. The want of one, is a reproach which should no longer exist." "It is believed that Georgia is the only one of the original confederacy, and the only one except three, of the twenty-four States, which does not profit by the benefits and facilities of a State library, or an institution of equivalent advantages." Dec. 1831. [Pam. 290]

But the bill was not passed.

VAGRANTS.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act for the punishment of Vagabonds and other idle and disorderly persons." Passed the 29th day of Feb. 1764.*—Approved Feb. 1, 1788. Vol. I. 568.

Sec. I. and II. [Superseded by the Penal Code—see Penal Laws, sec. 189.]

And whereas it may be that some evil disposed persons, after having committed some felonious crime against the laws and good order of some one of the States of the union, and after being apprehended and found guilty of the charge, so far as to be committed to jail, or to have been bound in a recognizance to appear before any court of record for further trial, and have since either broke jail or from the custody of the officer, or have forfeited their recognizance, and have fled from the laws of the State where the crime was committed, and have come to this State for refuge, to the great prejudice of the same:

Sec. III. Be it enacted, &c. That any person now within the limits of this State, or that may hereafter come within the same, who may have been found guilty of any felonious crime prior to his coming within this State, so far as to have been committed to jail for the same, or to have been bound in a recognizance to appear before any court of record for further trial, and has since broke jail or from the custody of the officer, or have forfeited their recognizance, and fled from the laws of the State where the crime was committed and done, in any such case the said person or persons shall be deemed and adjudged vagrants, and subject to all the pains and penalties expressed in this law, and shall be confined in jail until applied for by the executive authority of the State where the crime was committed, or until the executive of this State shall find it convenient to send such offender or offenders under a safe guard to the State where the crime was committed and done.

VICE AND IMMORALITY.

An Act for preventing and punishing Vice, Profaneness, and Immorality, and for keeping holy the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday.—Approved March 4, 1762. Vol. I. 410.

Whereas there is nothing more acceptable to God than the true and sincere worship and service of him, according to his holy will, and that the keeping holy the Lord's day is a principal part of the true service of God, which in this province is too much neglected by many:

Sec. I. [Compels all persons to attend worship—repugnant to the present constitution.]

Persons working on Sunday shall forfeit ten shillings.

1. Sec. II. No tradesman, artificer, workman, laborer, or other person whatsoever, shall do or exercise any worldly labor, business, or work of their ordinary callings, upon the Lord's day,† or any part thereof, (works of necessity or charity only excepted,) and that every person being of the age of fifteen years or upwards offending in the premises, shall for every such offence forfeit the sum of ten shillings. And that no person or persons whatsoever, shall publicly cry, show forth, or expose to sale, any wares, merchandises, fruit, herbs, goods, or chattels whatsoever, upon the Lord's day, or any part thereof, upon pain that every person so offending shall forfeit the same goods so cried, or showed forth, or exposed to sale, or pay ten shillings.

* The act here referred to, see Watk. 98, (except what is re-enacted by this,) relates to settlers on unlocated land, and is rendered obsolete by various later laws.

No goods to be sold on that day.

Sec. III. [Restrains travelling on Sunday—obsolete.]

2. Sec. IV. No public sports or pastimes, as bear-baiting, bull-baiting, foot-ball playing, horse-racing, shooting, hunting, or fishing, interludes, or common plays, or other games, exercises, sports, or pastimes whatsoever, shall be used on the Lord's day by any person or persons whatsoever; and that all and every person and persons offending in any of the premises shall forfeit, for every such offence, the sum of five shillings sterling.

All games and sports forbidden, penalty five shillings.

3. Sec. V. No vintner, innholder, or other person keeping any public house of entertainment, shall entertain, or suffer any person or persons, (except strangers or lodgers,) in such houses or out-houses, to abide or remain; nor shall they suffer any person or persons whatsoever, in their said houses, or out-houses, yards, orchards, or fields, to abide or remain drinking, or in any manner idly spending their time on the Lord's day, upon the pains and penalties of five shillings for every person offending, payable by themselves respectively, that shall be found so drinking or abiding in any such public house, or dependencies thereof as aforesaid; and the like sum of five shillings, to be paid by the keeper of such house, for every person entertained by them.

Public houses to be kept shut on Sundays.

4. Sec. VI. And for the better keeping of good order on the Lord's day, Be it enacted, That the church-wardens and constables of each parish respectively, or any one or more of them, shall once in the forenoon and once in the afternoon, in the time of divine service, walk through the town of Savannah, and the respective townships of this province, to observe, suppress, and apprehend all offenders whatsoever, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act; and they shall have power, and are hereby authorized and empowered to enter into any public house, or tippling house, to search for any such offenders; and in case they are denied entrance, shall have power, and are hereby authorized and empowered to break open, or cause to be broke open, any of the doors of the said house, and enter therein; and all persons whatsoever are strictly commanded and required to be aiding and assisting to any constables or other officers in their execution of this act, on the penalty of ten shillings sterling for every refusal.

Constables, &c. to examine tippling-houses that day, and to use force if denied entrance.

5. Sec. VII. For better execution of all and every the foregoing orders, every justice of the peace within his county or parish shall have power and authority to convene before him any person or persons whatsoever who shall offend in any of the particulars before-mentioned, and upon his own view, or confession of the party, or proof of any one or more witnesses upon oath, which the said justices are by this act authorized to administer, the said justice or justices shall give a warrant, under his or their hand and seal, to the constables or church-wardens, or either or any of them, of the parish or parishes where such offence shall be committed, to seize the said goods, cried, showed forth, or put to sale, as aforesaid, and to sell the same; and as to other penalties and forfeitures, to impose the fine and penalty for the same, and to levy the said forfeitures and penalties by way of distress, and sale of goods, of every such offender, returning the overplus, (if any there be,) after reasonable charges allowed for the distress and sales. And in case of default of such distress, or in case of insufficiency or inability of the said offender to pay the said forfeiture or penalties, that then the party offending be set publicly in the stocks for the space of two hours, and all and singular the forfeitures or penalties aforesaid shall be employed and converted to the use of the poor of the parish where the said offences shall be committed, and be delivered into the hands of the church-wardens or overseers of the poor for that end; saving only, that it shall and may be lawful to and for any such justice or justices, out of the said penalties or forfeitures, to reward any person or persons that shall inform of any offence against this act, according to his or their discretion, so as such reward exceed not the third part of the forfeitures or penalties. Provided that nothing in this act contained shall extend to the prohibiting of dressing of meat in families, or dressing or selling of meat in inns, victualling-houses, or other public houses, for such as cannot be otherwise provided; nor to the buying or selling of milk and fish, before nine of the clock in the morning, and milk after four of the clock in the afternoon: Provided also, that no person or persons shall be impeached, prosecuted, or molested for any offence before-mentioned in this act, unless he or they be prosecuted for the same within ten days after the offence committed.

treble costs, for which he or they shall have the like remedy as in any case where costs by law are given to the defendant.

Sec. X. [Directing that this act shall be read at places of public worship—obsolete.]

An Act to regulate Taverns, and to suppress Vice and Immorality.—
Approved August 14, 1786. Vol. I. 255.

[Repealed by the act of 1791, Vol. I. 445, and by the Penal Codes of 1817 and 1833.]

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

An Act to regulate Weights and Measures in this State.—Approved
December 10, 1803. Vol. II. 134.

1. Sec. I. The standard of weights and measures established by the corporations of the cities of Savannah and Augusta, and now in use within the said cities, shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be the fixed standard of weights and measures within this State; and all persons buying and selling, shall buy and sell by that standard, until the congress of the United States shall have made provision on that subject.

Weights and measures of Savannah and Augusta to be the standard for the present.

2. Sec. II. It shall be the duty of the justices of the inferior courts, or a majority of them, in their respective counties, by their clerk, or some other person specially authorized by them for that purpose, to obtain from the said corporations, or one of them, to be paid out of the county funds, the standard of weights and measures as fixed by them, within six months from the passing of this act. And that the said justices, or a majority of them, shall, so soon as they obtain the standard of such weights and measures, give thirty days' notice thereof at the court-house, and three other public places in the county. And if any person or persons whosoever, shall sell or attempt to sell any article or thing by any other or less weight or measure than that so established, he, she, or they so offending, shall forfeit and pay three times the value of the articles so sold or attempted to be sold, to be recovered before any justice of the peace, if it should not amount to more than thirty dollars, and if above that sum, before any judge of the superior court or the justices of the inferior court, by action of debt; one half whereof shall be for the use of the informer or person bringing the action, and the other for the use of the county in which such act or offence may happen.

Inferior courts to procure such standards, and when got, to advertise the same 30 days at the court-house and 3 other places.

Penalty for selling by any other than the lawful standard.

3. Sec. III. It shall be the duty of the justices of the inferior court, or a majority of them, of the respective counties of this State, to procure a marking instrument, seal, or stamp, for the purpose of marking, sealing, or stamping all weights and measures within their several counties, which marking instrument, seal, or stamp shall remain in the clerk's office of the inferior court, by him to be affixed to any weight or measure which he may find to correspond with, or not less than the standards established by said corporations of Savannah and Augusta.

Weights and measures to be marked by the clerk of the inferior court.

4. Sec. IV. The said clerks of the inferior courts shall receive six and one-fourth cents for each and every weight or measure by them so marked, sealed, or stamped, to be paid by the person obtaining the same.

Clerks' fees.

An Act to regulate the weighing of Cotton, and other commodities in this State.—Approved December 8, 1806. Vol. II. 346.

Fee for weighing.

5. Sec. I. [The first part of the section re-enacted, see sec. 8.] Nor shall it be lawful for any person to ask, demand, or receive more than six and a quarter cents for weighing any such bale, bag, or package of cotton, tierce, or half tierce of rice, box or barrel of indigo.

No persons in Savannah and Augusta to weigh certain articles, unless previously sworn.
The oath.

6. Sec. II. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons in the cities of Savannah and Augusta to weigh any bale, bag, or package of cotton, tierce or half tierce of rice, box or barrel of indigo, without first taking and subscribing the following oath before some one of the justices of the inferior court, or justice of the peace of the said counties: I, A. B. do solemnly swear or affirm, (as the case may be,) that I will justly, and without partiality, weigh all bales, bags, or packages of cotton, tierces or half tierces of rice, boxes or barrels of indigo, that may be brought to me for that purpose, and mark the true weight thereon, without any deduction whatever, and render a true and accurate account thereof to the parties concerned, if required: So help me God.

Penalty for breach of this law.

7. Sec. III. Each and every person who shall offend against the provisions of this act, shall forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of twenty dollars for each bale, bag, or package of cotton, tierce or half tierce of rice, box or barrel of indigo, to be recovered in any court having jurisdiction thereof; one moiety thereof to the party injured or the informer, and the other to the county.

An Act to regulate the manner of weighing with Scales or Steelyards, throughout the State of Georgia.—Approved Dec. 16, 1815. Vol. III. 1076.

Whereas it is customary to deduct for every draft or turn of the scale or steelyards, a certain number of pounds in proportion to the weight of the article weighed, which custom is evidently contrary to every principle of justice or propriety; for remedy whereof,

No deduction from the true weight to be allowed.

8. Sec. I. Be it enacted, &c. That immediately from and after the first day of January next, it shall not be lawful to make any such deduction from the true weight of any article or articles for or on account of the draft or turn of the scale or steelyards.

500 dollars penalty for offending against this act.

9. Sec. II. Any purchaser or weigher of any article or articles whatever, who shall require or make the deduction or deductions intended to be provided against by the foregoing section, shall forfeit and pay for each and every such offence the sum of $500, to be recovered by action of debt before any court having competent jurisdiction to take cognizance thereof, one moiety of which forfeiture shall go to the use and for the benefit of the county in which such offence shall have happened, and the other to the informer.

Sec. III. [Repeals all repugnant laws.]

APPENDIX.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES,

AS PUBLISHED UNDER THE INSPECTION OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE IN PURSUANCE OF AN ORDER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

1. WE, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, ensure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION I.

2. All legislative power herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives.

SECTION II.

3. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year, by the people of the several States; and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislature.

4. No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States; and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

5. Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts, eight; Rhode Island and Providence plantations, one; Connecticut, five; New York, six; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, eight; Delaware, one; Maryland, six; Virginia, ten; North Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia, three.

6. When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

7. The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SECTION III.

- Senate, how chosen. 8. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.
- Senators classed. 9. Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided, as equally as may be, into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year; so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.
- Vacancies, how filled.
- Senators' qualification. 10. No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.
- Vice-president. 11. The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.
- Senate to choose officers. 12. The senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.
- Try impeachments. 13. The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments: when sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.
- Judgment on impeachment. 14. Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend farther than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit, under the United States; but the party convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment, according to law.

SECTION IV.

- Elections, how held. 15. The times, places, and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof; but the congress may, at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.
- Congress assemble annually. 16. The congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall, by law, appoint a different day.

SECTION V.

- Elections, how judged. 17. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members; and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.
- Quorums in senate and house of rep.
- Rules. 18. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.
- Journals of a house. 19. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may, in their judgment, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house, on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal. Yeas and nays.

20. Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting. Adjournment.

SECTION VI.

21. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place. Compensation. Privileges.

22. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office. Members not eligible to office.

SECTION VII.

23. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills. Revenue bills.

24. Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate shall, before it become a law, be presented to the president of the United States: If he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But, in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays; and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days, (Sundays excepted,) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law. Passing bills. Veto.

25. Every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary, (except on a question of adjournment,) shall be presented to the president of the United States; and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill. Resolutions, &c how passed.

SECTION VIII.

The congress shall have power—

26. To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises; to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence, and general welfare of Powers of congress. Taxes.

the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises, shall be uniform throughout the United States :

- Loans. 27. To borrow money on the credit of the United States :
- Commerce. 28. To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes :
- Naturalization. Bankruptcies. Coin. weights and measures. 29. To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies, throughout the United States :
- Punish counterfeiting. 30. To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures :
- Post offices, &c. Science and arts. 31. To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States :
32. To establish post-offices and post-roads :
33. To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries :
- Courts. Punish piracy, &c. 34. To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court : (10.) to define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations :
- Declare war. 35. To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water :
- Raise armies. 36. To raise and support armies : (but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years :) :
- Navy. 37. To provide and maintain a navy :
- Military law. 38. To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces :
39. To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions :
- Organize militia. 40. To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States ; reserving to the States respectively the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia, according to the discipline prescribed by congress :
- Exclusive jurisdiction. 41. To exercise exclusive legislation, in all cases whatsoever, over such district, (not exceeding ten miles square,) as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of congress, become the seat of government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings : And,
- Make all laws necessary, &c. 42. To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SECTION IX.

- Importation of slaves after 1808. 43. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the congress prior to the year eighteen hundred and eight ; but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.
- Habeas corpus. 44. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.
- Attainder. 45. No bill of attainder, or ex post facto law, shall be passed.
- Tax. 46. No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

47. No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State. No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one State over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one State, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another. No exportation duty.

48. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time. Money, how drawn.

49. No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign State. Titles of nobility not allowed.

SECTION X.

50. No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts; or grant any title of nobility. Limitations of the powers of the individual States.

51. No State shall, without the consent of the congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any State on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the congress. No State shall, without the consent of congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in a war unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION I.

52. The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice-president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows: Executive power.

53. Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the State may be entitled in the congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector. Manner of electing the president and vice-president. But see amendments, article 12.

54. [The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose, by ballot, one of them for president; and, if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said house shall, in like manner, choose the president. But, in choosing the president, the vote shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote: a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice-president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the vice-president.]

55. The congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

Who may be elected president.

56. No person, except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In what cases the vice-president to act as president.

57. In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice-president; and the congress may, by law, provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the president and vice-president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected.

President's
tion.

58. The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

His oath.

59. Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm,) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the constitution of the United States."

SECTION II.

President
U. States' powers.

60. The president shall be commander in chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States: He may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

Make treat-ties.

Appoint officers.

61. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

62. The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session. Vacancies.

SECTION III.

63. He shall from time to time give to the congress information of the state of the union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient: He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States. President's duties.

SECTION IV.

64. The president, vice-president, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors. Officers removable by impeachment.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION I.

65. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the congress may, from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office. Judicial powers and tenure of judges.

SECTION II.

66. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States, between a State and citizens of another State, between citizens of different States, between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States, and between a State or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens, or subjects. Jurisdiction, extent of.

67. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, and those in which a State shall be a party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions, and under such regulations, as the congress shall make. Whether original or appellate.

68. The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed. Trials by jury.

SECTION III.

69. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid Treason.

and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

Attainder. 70. The congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION I.

Acts and records of the States.

71. Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SECTION II.

Citizens' privileges.

72. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

Fugitives from justice.

73. A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

From service.

74. No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SECTION III.

New States admitted.

75. New States may be admitted by the congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State; nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States, or parts of States, without the consent of the legislature of the States concerned, as well as of the congress.

76. The congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

SECTION IV.

Republican form.

77. The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and, on application of the legislature, or of the executive, (when the legislature cannot be convened,) against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

Amendments, how attained.

78. The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of this constitution when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress: Provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year 1808 shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no State without its consent shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

79. All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution as under the confederation. Prior debts of government.

80. This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby; any thing in the constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding. Constitution and treaties are the supreme law.

81. The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States. Oath to the constitution. No religious test.

ARTICLE VII.

82. The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the States so ratifying the same. Ratification.

Done in convention, by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our names.

AMENDMENTS.

First Congress. First Session.—March 4, 1789.

- Rights of conscience, freedom of the press, &c. 83. Art. I. Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.
- Of the right to bear arms. 84. Art. II. A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.
- Of quartering troops. 85. Art. III. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.
- Of searches, seizures, and general warrants. 86. Art. IV. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.
- Of indictments, punishments, &c. 87. Art. V. No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject, for the same offence, to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.
- Of trial in criminal cases, and the rights of a defendant. 88. Art. VI. In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to have the assistance of counsel for his defence.
- Of trial in civil cases. 89. Art. VII. In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved; and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.
- Of bail and fines. 90. Art. VIII. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.
- Of rights reserved. 91. Art. IX. The enumeration in the constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.
- Powers not delegated. 92. Art. X. The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

Third Congress. Second Session.—Dec. 2, 1793.

- Of the judicial power. 93. Art. XI. The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another State, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign State.

Eighth Congress. First Session.—Oct. 17, 1803.

94. Art. XII. The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for president and vice-president, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves : They shall name in their ballots the person voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as vice-president ; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as president, and of all persons voted for as vice-president, and of the number of votes for each ; which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted ; the person having the greatest number of votes for president shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed ; and if no person have such majority, then, from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as president, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the president. But, in choosing the president, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote ; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. And if the house of representatives shall not choose a president, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the vice-president shall act as president, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the president.

electing the president and vice-president.

95. The person having the greatest number of votes as vice-president shall be the vice-president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed ; and if no person have a majority, then, from the two highest numbers on the list, the senate shall choose the vice-president : a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators ; and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice.

96. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of president, shall be eligible to that of vice-president of the United States.

[The following amendments, proposed to the States, have not been ratified by the number of States required by the fifth article of the constitution, and are therefore no part of that instrument.]

First Congress. First Session.—March 4, 1789.

After the first enumeration required by the first article of the constitution, there shall be one representative for every 30,000 until the number shall amount to 100 ; after which the proportion shall be so regulated by congress, that there shall be not less than 100 representatives, nor less than one representative for every 40,000 persons, until the number of representatives shall amount to 200 ; after which the proportion shall be so regulated by congress, that there shall not be less than 200 representatives, nor more than one representative for every 50,000 persons.

No law varying the compensation for the services of the senators and representatives shall take effect until an election of representatives shall have intervened.

Eleventh Congress. Second Session.—Nov. 27, 1809.

If any citizen of the United States shall accept, claim, receive, or retain any title of nobility or honor, or shall, without the consent of congress, accept and retain any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind whatever, from any emperor, king, prince, or foreign power, such person shall cease to be a citizen of the United States, and shall be incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under them, or either of them.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF GEORGIA, AS AMENDED.

ARTICLE I.

Departments to be kept distinct.

97. Sec. I. The legislative, executive, and judiciary departments of government shall be distinct, and each department shall be confided to a separate body of magistracy; and no person, or collection of persons, being of one of those departments, shall exercise any power properly attached to either of the others, except in the instances herein expressly permitted.

Legislative power.
Style.

98. Sec. II. The legislative power shall be vested in two separate and distinct branches, to wit: a senate and house of representatives, to be styled the General Assembly.

Senate elected annually.

99. Sec. III. The senate shall be elected annually on the first Monday in November, until such day of election be altered by law; and shall be composed of one member from each county, to be chosen by the electors thereof.

Qualifications of senators.

100. Sec. IV. [As amended by the act passed Dec. 1834, Pam. 69, and 1835, Pam. 52.] No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and have been nine years a citizen of the United States, and three years an inhabitant of this State; and shall have usually resided within the county for which he shall be returned, at least one year immediately preceding his election, except persons who may have been absent on lawful business of this State or of the United States.*

Election of president.

101. Sec. V. The senate shall elect by ballot a president out of their own body.

Senate to try all impeachments.

102. Sec. VI. The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present; judgment in cases of impeachment, shall not extend further than removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit, within this State; but the party convicted, shall nevertheless be subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment, according to law.

Extent of
therein.

* The following is the property qualification dropped by the amendment:—"And is and shall have been possessed in his own right of a settled freehold estate of the value of five hundred dollars, or of taxable property to the amount of one thousand dollars, within the county, for one year preceding his election; and whose estate shall on a reasonable estimation be fully competent to the discharge of his just debts over and above that sum."

103. Sec. VII. The house of representatives shall be composed of members from all the counties which now are, or hereafter may be included within this State, according to their respective numbers of free white persons, and including three-fifths of all the people of color: the actual enumeration shall be made within two years, and within every subsequent term of seven years thereafter, at such time, and in such manner, as this convention may direct; each county containing three thousand persons, agreeably to the foregoing plan of enumeration, shall be entitled to two members; seven thousand, to three members, and twelve thousand to four members; but each county shall have at least one, and not more than four members. The representatives shall be chosen annually, on the first Monday in November, until such day of election be altered by law*—Until the aforesaid enumeration shall be made, the several counties shall be entitled to the following number of representatives, respectively: Camden, two; Glynn, two; Liberty, three; M'Intosh, two; Bryan, one; Chatham, four; Effingham, two; Scriven, two; Montgomery, two; Burke, three; Bulloch, one; Jefferson, three; Lincoln, two; Elbert, three; Jackson, two; Richmond, three; Wilkes, four; Columbia, three; Warren, three; Washington, three; Hancock, four; Green, three; Oglethorpe, three; and Franklin, two.

Composition of the house of representatives.

Time of election.

104. Sec. VIII. [As amended in 1835. Pam. 52.] No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-one years, and have been a citizen of the United States seven years, and three years an inhabitant of this State; and have usually resided in the county in which he shall be chosen, one year immediately preceding his election, unless he shall have been absent on the public business of this State or of the United States.†

Qualification of the members.

105. Sec. IX. The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers.

106. Sec. X. They shall have solely the power to impeach all persons who have been, or may be in office.

Impeachment.

107. Sec. XI. No person holding any military commission or other appointment having any emolument or compensation annexed thereto, under this State, or the United States, or either of them, (except justices of the inferior courts, justices of the peace, and officers of the militia,) nor any person who has had charge of public moneys belonging to the State, unaccounted for and unpaid, or who has not paid all legal taxes or contributions to the government required of him, shall have a seat in either branch of the general assembly; nor shall any senator or representative be elected to any office or appointment by the legislature, having any emoluments or compensation annexed thereto, during the time for which he shall have been elected, with the above exceptions, unless he shall decline accepting his seat, by notice to the executive, within twenty days after he shall have been elected; nor shall any member after having taken his seat, be eligible to any of the aforesaid offices or appointments during the time for which he shall have been elected.

What shall disqualify a member of either house.

Members ineligible to offices of profit.

108. Sec. XII. The meeting of the general assembly shall be annual on the second Tuesday in January, until such day of meeting be altered by law; * a majority of each branch shall be authorized to proceed to

Gen. assembly to meet annually. Quorum.

* First Monday in October. See Elections, Sec. 1.

† The property qualification of members before the amendment, was the following:—"And shall be possessed, in his own right, of a settled freehold estate of the value of two hundred and fifty dollars, or of taxable property to the amount of five hundred dollars, within the county, for one year preceding his election; and whose estate shall, on a reasonable estimation, be competent to the discharge of his just debts, over and above that sum."

business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of their members in such manner as each house shall prescribe.

Each house to judge of the elections and qualifications of its members, and punish contempt.

109. Sec. XIII. Each house shall be judges of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, with powers to expel or punish by censuring, fining, and imprisoning, or either, for disorderly behavior, and may expel any person convicted of any felonious or infamous offence; each house may punish by imprisonment, during session, any person not a member, who shall be guilty of disrespect, by any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in its presence, or who during session, shall threaten harm to the body or estate of any member, for any thing said or done in either house, or who shall assault any of them therefor; or who shall assault or arrest any witness in going to or returning therefrom, or who shall rescue any person arrested by order of either house.

Members free from arrest in civil cases.

Freedom of debate.

110. Sec. XIV. No senator or representative shall be liable to be arrested during his attendance on the general assembly, or for ten days previous to its sitting, or for ten days after the rising thereof, except for treason, felony, or breach of the peace; nor shall any member be liable to answer for any thing spoken in debate, in either house, in any court or place elsewhere; but shall nevertheless be bound to answer for perjury, bribery, or corruption.

Journals.

Yeas and nays.

111. Sec. XV. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and publish them immediately after their adjournment; and the yeas and nays of the members on any question shall, at the desire of any two members, be entered on the journals.

Revenue bills.

112. Sec. XVI. All bills for raising revenue or appropriating moneys shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate shall propose or concur with amendments as in other bills.

Rules for passing bills.

113. Sec. XVII. Every bill shall be read three times and on three separate days, in each branch of the general assembly, before it shall pass, unless in cases of actual invasion or insurrection; nor shall any law or ordinance pass containing any matter different from what is expressed in the title thereof; and all acts shall be signed by the president in the senate, and the speaker in the house of representatives: no bill or ordinance which shall have been rejected by either house, shall be brought in again during the session, under the same or any other title, without the consent of two-thirds of each branch.

Members to be sworn.

Canvassing prohibited.

114. Sec. XVIII. Each senator and representative, before he be permitted to take his seat, shall take an oath or make affirmation that he hath not practised any unlawful means, either directly or indirectly, to procure his election, and every person shall be disqualified from serving as a senator or representative for the term for which he shall have been elected, who shall be convicted of having given or offered any bribe or treat, or canvassed for such election, and every candidate employing like means and not elected, shall on conviction be ineligible to hold a seat in either house, or to hold any office of honor or profit for the term of one year, and to such other disabilities or penalties as may be prescribed by law.

Oath of the members.

115. Sec. XIX. Every member of the senate or house of representatives shall, before he takes his seat, take the following oath or affirmation, to wit: "I, A. B. do solemnly swear, or affirm, (as the case may be,) that I have not obtained my election by bribery, treats, canvassing, or other undue or unlawful means, used by myself, or others by my desire or approbation, for that purpose; that I consider myself constitutionally qualified as a senator or representative; and that on all questions and measures which may come before me, I will give my vote, and so conduct myself, as may, in my judgment, appear most conducive to the interest and prosperity of this State; and that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; and to the utmost of my power and ability observe, conform to, support, and defend the constitution thereof."

116. Sec. XX. No person who hath been, or may be convicted of felony, before any court of this State, or any of the United States, shall be eligible to any office or appointment of honor, profit, or trust, within this State.

General disqualification from office.

117. Sec. XXI. Neither house, during the session of the general assembly shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place, than that at which the two branches shall be sitting; and in case of disagreement between the senate and house of representatives with respect to their adjournment, the governor may adjourn them.

Adjournment of the legislature.

118. Sec. XXII. The general assembly shall have power to make all laws and ordinances which they shall deem necessary and proper for the good of the State, which shall not be repugnant to this constitution.

Powers of the general assembly.

119. Sec. XXIII. They shall have power to alter the boundaries of the present counties, and to lay off new ones, as well out of the counties already laid off, as out of the other territory belonging to the State; but the property of the soil, in a free government, being one of the essential rights of a free people, it is necessary, in order to avoid disputes, that the limits of this State should be ascertained with precision and exactness; and this convention composed of the immediate representatives of the people, chosen by them to assert their rights, and to revise the powers given by them to the government, and from whose will all ruling authority of right flows, doth assert and declare the boundaries of this State to be as follows: That is to say, the limits, boundaries, jurisdictions, and authority of the State of Georgia, do, and did, and of right ought to extend from the sea, or the mouth of the river Savannah, along the northern branch or stream thereof, to the fork or confluence of the rivers now called Tugalo and Keowee, and from thence along the most northern branch or stream of the said river Tugalo, till it intersects the northern boundary line of South Carolina. If the said branch or stream of Tugalo extends so far north, reserving all the islands in the said rivers Savannah and Tugalo to Georgia; but if the head spring or source of any branch or stream of the said river Tugalo does not extend to the north boundary line of South Carolina, then a west line to the Mississippi to be drawn from the head spring or source of the said branch or stream of Tugalo river, which extends to the highest northern latitude; thence down the middle of the said river Mississippi, until it shall intersect the northernmost part of the thirty-first degree of north latitude; south by a line drawn due east from the termination of the line last mentioned, in the latitude of thirty-one degrees north of the equator, to the middle of the river Apalachicola or Chattahoochee; thence along the middle thereof to its junction with Flint river, thence straight to the head of St. Mary's river, and thence along the middle of St. Mary's river to the Atlantic Ocean; and from thence to the mouth or inlet of Savannah river, the place of beginning. Including and comprehending all the lands and waters within the said limits, boundaries, and jurisdictional rights, and also all the islands within twenty leagues of the sea coast. And this convention doth further declare and assert, that all the territory without the present temporary line and within the limits aforesaid, is now of right the property of the free citizens of this State, and held by them in sovereignty, inalienable but by their consent: Provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to prevent a sale to, or contract with the United States, by the legislature of this State, of and for all or any part of the western territory of this State, laying westward of the river Chatahoochee, on such terms as may be beneficial to both parties; and may procure an extension of settlement, and an extinguishment of Indian claims in and to the vacant territory of this State, to the east and north of the said river Chatahoochee, to which territory such power of contract or sale, by the legislature, shall not extend: And provided also, the legislature may give its consent to the establishment of one or more governments westward thereof; but monopolies of land by individuals being contrary to the spirit of our free government, no sale of territory of this State, or any part thereof, shall take place to individuals or private companies, unless a county or counties shall have been first laid off, including such territory, and the Indian rights shall have been extinguished thereto.

120. Sec. XXIV. The foregoing section of this article having declared the common rights of the free citizens of this State in and to all the territory without the present temporary boundary line, and within the limits of this State thereby defined, by which the contemplated purchases of certain companies of a considerable portion thereof are become constitutionally void; and justice and good faith require that the State should not detain a consideration for a contract which has failed; the legislature, at their next session, shall make provision by law for returning to any person or persons who has or have bona fide deposited moneys for such purchases in the treasury of this State: Provided that the same shall not have been drawn therefrom in terms of the act passed the 13th day of Feb. 1796, commonly called the rescinding act, or the appropriation laws of the years 1796, and 1797: nor shall the moneys paid for such purchases ever be deemed a part of the funds of this State, or be liable to appropriation as such; but until such moneys be drawn from the treasury, they shall be considered altogether at the risk of the persons who have deposited the same. No money shall be drawn out of the treasury, or from the public funds of this State, except by appropriation made by law, and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public moneys shall be published from time to time. No vote, resolution, law, or order shall pass the general assembly, granting a donation or gratuity in favor of any person whatever, but by the concurrence of two-thirds of the general assembly.

121. Sec. XXV. It shall be the duty of the justices of the inferior court, or any three of them, in each county respectively, within sixty days after the adjournment of this convention, to appoint one or more fit persons in each county, not exceeding one for each battalion district, whose duty it shall be to take a full and accurate census or enumeration of all free white persons and people of color residing therein, distinguishing, in separate columns, the free white persons from persons of color; and return the same to the clerks of the superior courts of the several counties, certified under their hands, on or before the first day of December next; the persons so appointed being first severally sworn before the said justices, or either of them, duly and faithfully to perform the trust reposed in them; and it shall be the duty of the said clerks to transmit all such returns, under seal, directed to the speaker of the house of representatives, at the first session of the legislature thereafter; and it shall be the duty of the general assembly, at their said first session, to apportion the members of the house of representatives among the several counties, agreeably to the plan prescribed by this constitution, and to provide an adequate compensation for the taking of the said census. Every person whose usual place of abode shall be in any family on the first Monday in July next, shall be returned as of such family; and every person, occasionally absent at the time of taking the enumeration, as belonging to that place in which he usually resides. The general assembly shall, by law, direct the manner of taking such census or enumeration, within every subsequent term of seven years, in conformity to this constitution.* And it is declared to be the duty of all officers, civil and military, throughout this State, to be aiding and assisting in the true and faithful execution thereof. In case the justices of the inferior courts should fail to make such appointments, or if there should not be a sufficient number of such justices in any county, then the justices of the peace, or any three of them, shall have and exercise like powers and authority respecting the said census; and if the census or enumeration of any county shall not be so taken and returned, then, and in that case, the general assembly shall apportion the representation of such county, according to the best evidence in their power, relative to its population.

ARTICLE II.

122. Sec. I. The executive power shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office during the term of two years, and until such time as a successor shall be chosen and qualified: He shall have a competent salary established by law, which shall not be increased or diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; neither shall he receive, within that period, any other emolument from the United States, or either of them, or from any foreign power.

Governor chosen for two years.

123. Sec. II. [As amended by act passed Dec. 1823, and Nov. 1824. Vol. IV. 116.] "The governor shall be elected by the persons qualified to vote for members of the general assembly, on the first Monday in October, in the year of our Lord 1825; and on the first Monday in October in every second year thereafter, until such time be altered by law; which election shall be held at the place of holding general elections, in the several counties of this State, in the same manner as is prescribed for the election of members of the general assembly. The returns for every election of governor shall be sealed up by the presiding justices, separately from other returns, and directed to the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives, and transmitted to his excellency the governor, or the person exercising the duties of governor for the time being, who shall, without opening the said returns, cause the same to be laid before the senate, on the day after the two houses shall have been organized, and they shall be transmitted by the senate to the house of representatives. The members of each branch of the general assembly shall convene in the representative chamber, and the president of the senate, and the speaker of the house of representatives, shall open and publish the returns in presence of the general assembly; and the person having the majority of the whole number of votes given in, shall be declared duly elected governor of this State: but if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the two highest number of votes who shall be in life, and shall not decline an election at the time appointed for the legislature to elect, the general assembly shall elect immediately a governor by joint ballot; and in all cases of election of a governor by the general assembly, a majority of the votes of the members present shall be necessary for a choice. Contested elections shall be determined by both houses of the general assembly, in such manner as shall be prescribed by law."

office.

130. Sec. IX. When any office shall become vacant by death, resignation, or otherwise, the governor shall have power to fill such vacancy; and persons so appointed shall continue in office until a successor is appointed agreeably to the mode pointed out by this constitution, or by the legislature.

His power in making laws.

131. Sec. X. He shall have the revision of all bills passed by both houses, before the same shall become laws, but two-thirds of both houses may pass a law notwithstanding his dissent;† and if any bill should not be returned by the governor within five days after it hath been presented to him, the same shall be a law, unless the general assembly, by their adjournment, shall prevent its return.

and passing resolutions.

132. Sec. XI. Every vote, resolution, or order, to which the concurrence of both houses may be necessary, except on a question of adjournment, shall be presented to the governor; and before it shall take effect, be approved by him, or being disapproved, may be repassed by two-thirds of both houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill.

ARTICLE III.

136. Sec. I. [As amended in 1811, and again in 1818, and again in 1835.] The judicial powers of this State shall be vested in a supreme court for the correction of errors, a superior, inferior and justices' courts, and in such other courts as the legislature shall, from time to time, ordain and establish. The supreme court shall consist of three judges, who shall be elected by the legislature for such term of years as shall be prescribed by law, and shall continue in office until their successors shall be elected and qualified, removable by the governor on the address of two-thirds of both branches of the general assembly for that purpose, or by impeachment and conviction thereon. The said court shall have no original jurisdiction, but shall be a court alone for the trial and correction of errors in law and equity from the superior courts of the several circuits, and shall sit at least once a year, at a time to be prescribed by law, in each of five judicial districts to be hereafter laid off and designated by the legislature for that purpose, at the most central point in such judicial district, or at such other point in each district as shall by the general assembly be ordained, for the trial and determination of writs of error from the several superior courts included in such judicial districts. And the said court shall, at each session in each district dispose of and finally determine each and every case on the docket of such court at the first term after such writ of error brought; and in case the plaintiff in error in any such case shall not be prepared, at such first term of such court, after error brought to prosecute the same, unless precluded by some providential cause from such prosecution, it shall be stricken from the docket, and the judgment below shall stand affirmed. The judges of the superior court shall be elected for the term of four years, and shall continue in office until their successors shall be elected and qualified, removable by the governor on the address of two-thirds of both branches of the general assembly for that purpose, or by impeachment and conviction thereon. The superior court shall have exclusive jurisdiction in all criminal cases (except as relates to people of color, and fines for neglect of duty and for contempt of court, for violations against road laws, and for obstructing water courses, which shall be vested in such judicature or tribunal as shall be or may have been pointed out by law, and except in all other minor offences committed by free white persons, and which do not subject the offender or offenders to loss of life, limb or member, or to confinement in the penitentiary; in all such cases corporation courts, such as now exist or may hereafter be constituted in any incorporated city, being a sea-port town and a port of the voters of such county, may meet under the direction of any three justices of the peace thereof, in the nearest county, not in a state of alarm, and proceed to an election, without having paid such tax so required of electors, and the persons elected thereat, shall be entitled to their seats.

Elections by the general assembly to be by ballot.

148. Sec. II. All elections, by the general assembly, shall be by joint ballot of both branches of the legislature; and when the senate and house of representatives unite for the purpose of electing, they shall meet in the representative chamber, and the president of the senate shall in such cases preside, receive the ballots, and declare the person or persons elected. In all elections by the people, the electors shall vote viva voce,* until the legislature shall otherwise direct.

Militia officers, how elected and commissioned.

149. Sec. III. The general officers of the militia shall be elected by the general assembly, and shall be commissioned by the governor.† All other officers of the militia shall be elected in such manner as the legislature may direct, and shall be commissioned by the governor; and all militia officers now in commission, and those which may be hereafter commissioned, shall hold their commissions during their usual residence within the division, brigade, regiment, battalion, or company, to which they belong, unless removed by sentence of a court-martial, or by the governor, on the address of two-thirds of each branch of the general assembly.

Appointments to fill vacancies.

150. Sec. IV. All persons appointed by the legislature to fill vacancies, shall continue in office only so long as to complete the time for which their predecessors were appointed.

The press, trial by jury, ex post facto.

151. Sec. V. Freedom of the press and trial by jury, as heretofore used in this State, shall remain inviolate; and no ex post facto law shall be passed.

Defaulting collectors, &c. not eligible to office.

152. Sec. VI. No person who heretofore hath been, or hereafter may be a collector, or holder of public moneys, shall be eligible to any office in this State, until such person shall have accounted for, and paid into the treasury, all sums for which he may be accountable or liable.

Insolvent debtors.

153. Sec. VII. The person of a debtor, where there is not a strong presumption of fraud, shall not be detained in prison after delivering bona fide all his estate, real and personal, for the use of his creditors, in such manner as shall be hereafter regulated by law.

Amnesty as to impeachments.

154. Sec. VIII. Convictions on impeachments, which have heretofore taken place, are hereby released, and persons lying under such convictions, restored to citizenship.

Habeas corpus.

155. Sec. IX. The writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in case of rebellion, or invasion, the public safety may require it.

Freedom of conscience.

156. Sec. X. No person within this State shall, upon any pretence, be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshipping God in a manner agreeable to his own conscience, nor be compelled to attend any place of worship, contrary to his own faith and judgment, nor shall he ever be obliged to pay tithes, taxes, or any other rate, for the building or repairing any place of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry, contrary to what he believes to be right, or hath voluntarily engaged to do. No one religious society shall ever be established in this State in preference to another, nor shall any person be denied the enjoyment of any civil right merely on account of his religious principle.

* Mode of voting altered by act of 1799, Vol. I. p. 203.

† An amendment of this section was proposed by the act of 1832, pam. 45, making those officers elective by the people of the respective divisions and brigades subject to militia duty; but it was not passed at the ensuing session.

157. Sec. XI. There shall be no future importation of slaves into this State from Africa, or any foreign place, after the first day of October next. The legislature shall have no power to pass laws for the emancipation of slaves, without the consent of each of their respective owners previous to such emancipation. They shall have no power to prevent emigrants, from either of the United States to this State, from bringing with them such persons as may be deemed slaves by the laws of any one of the United States.

No importation of slaves.

Slaves not to be emancipated without the consent of their owners.

158. Sec. XII. Any person who shall maliciously dismember or deprive a slave of life, shall suffer such punishment as would be inflicted in case the like offence had been committed on a free white person, and on the like proof, except in case of insurrection by such slave, and unless such death should happen by accident in giving such slave moderate correction.

Punishment for murdering a slave.

159. Sec. XIII. The arts and sciences shall be promoted in one or more seminaries of learning, and the legislature shall, as soon as conveniently may be, give such further donations and privileges to those already established as may be necessary to secure the objects of their institution; and it shall be the duty of the general assembly at their next session to provide effectual measures for the improvement and permanent security of the funds and endowments of such institutions.

Promotion of arts and sciences.

160. Sec. XIV. All civil officers shall continue in the exercise of the duties of their several offices, during the periods for which they were appointed, or until they shall be superseded by appointments made in conformity to this constitution: And all laws now in force shall continue to operate, so far as they are compatible with this constitution, until repealed; and it shall be the duty of the general assembly to pass all necessary laws and regulations for carrying this constitution into full effect.

Continuance of persons in office.

This constitution to be carried into effect by the legislature.

161. Sec. XV. No part of this constitution shall be altered, unless a bill for that purpose, specifying the alterations intended to be made, shall have been read three times in the house of representatives, and three times in the senate, on three several days in each house, and agreed to by two-thirds of each house respectively; and when any such bill shall be passed in manner aforesaid, the same shall be published at least six months previous to the next ensuing annual election for members of the general assembly; and if such alterations, or any of them so proposed, shall be agreed to in their first session thereafter by two-thirds of each branch of the general assembly, after the same shall have been read three times on three separate days in each respective house, then, and not otherwise, the same shall become a part of this constitution.*

How this constitution is to be altered.

We the underwritten delegates of the people of the State of Georgia, chosen and authorized by them to revise, alter, or amend the powers and principles of their government, do declare, ordain, and ratify the several articles and sections contained in the six pages hereunto prefixed, as the constitution of this State; and the same shall be in operation from the date hereof.

In testimony whereof, we, and each of us respectively, have hereunto set our hands, at Louisville, the seat of government, this thirtieth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, and in the twenty-second year of the independence of the United States of America; and have caused the great seal of the State to be affixed thereto.

STATUTE OF FRAUDS.

29TH CHARLES II. CH. 3.

An Act for prevention of Frauds and Perjuries.

163. Sec. I. For prevention of many fraudulent practices, which are commonly endeavored to be upheld by perjury, and subornation of perjury: Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the 24th day of June, which shall be A. D. 1677, all leases, estates, interests of freehold, or terms of years, or any uncertain interest of, in, or out of any messuages, manors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, made or created by livery and seisin only, or by parol, and not put in writing, and signed by the parties so making or creating the same, or their agents thereunto lawfully authorized by writing, shall have the force and effect of leases or estates at will only, and shall not either in law or equity be deemed or taken to have any other or greater force or effect; any consideration for making any such parol leases or estates, or any former law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

Parol leases and interest of freehold shall have the force of estates at will only.

164. Sec. II. Except nevertheless all leases not exceeding the pursued, are almost as numerous as the acts themselves; but by the resolution of 16th Dec. 1811, [Vol. III. 1089.] the opinion is expressed, "that the governor's signature is not intended in the passage of any bill upon which both houses had exercised their constitutional right of two-thirds," and adopting as a rule in future, "That when an alteration or amendment to the constitution has passed during one session of the legislature, the same bill, with the seal of state thereunto affixed, shall be introduced for its final passage at the next, and that no other bill be received in lieu thereof."

term of three years from the making thereof, whereupon the rent reserved to the landlord, during such term, shall amount unto two-third parts at least of the full improved value of the thing demised.

Except leases not exceeding three years, &c.

165. Sec. III. And moreover, that no leases, estates, or interests, either of freehold or terms of years, or any uncertain interest, not being copyhold, or customary interest, of, in, to, or out of any messuages, manors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall at any time after the said 24th day of June, be assigned, granted, or surrendered, unless it be by deed, or note in writing, signed by the party so assigning, granting, or surrendering the same, or their agents, thereunto lawfully authorized by writing, or by act and operation of law.

No leases or estates of freehold shall be granted by word.

166. Sec. IV.* No action shall be brought whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any special promise, to answer damages out of his own estate; or whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriages of another person; or to charge any person upon any agreement made upon consideration of marriage; or upon any contract or sale of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any interest in or concerning them; or upon any agreement that is not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof; unless the agreement upon which such action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof shall be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or some other person thereunto by him lawfully authorized.

Promises and agreements by parol by executors and administrators. Debt of another. Marriage. Lands. Agreements for more than a year.

167. Sec. V. All devises and bequests of any lands, or tenements, devisable either by force of the statute of wills, or by this statute, or by force of the custom of Kent, or by force of the custom of any borough, or any other particular custom, shall be in writing, and signed by the party so devising the same, or by some other person in his presence, and by his express directions, and shall be attested and subscribed in the presence of the said devisor by three or four credible witnesses, or else they shall be utterly void, and of none effect.

Devises of lands shall be in writing, and attested by 3 or 4 witnesses.

168. Sec. VI. And moreover, no devise in writing of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any clause thereof, shall at any time be revocable, otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing declaring the same, or by burning, cancelling, tearing, or obliterating the same, by the testator himself, or in his presence, and by his directions and consent; but all devises and bequests of lands and tenements shall remain and continue in force until the same be burnt, cancelled, torn, or obliterated by the testator, or his directions, in manner aforesaid, or unless the same be altered by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing of the devisor, signed in the presence of three or four witnesses, declaring the same, any former law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

How wills shall be revocable.

169. Sec. VII. All declarations or creations of trusts or confidences of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall be manifested and proved by some writing signed by the party, who is by law enabled to declare such trust, or by his last will in writing, or else they shall be utterly void and of none effect.

All declarations or creations of trusts shall be in writing.

170. Sec. VIII. Provided always, that where any conveyance shall be made of any lands or tenements by which a trust or confidence shall or may arise or result by the implication or construction of law, or be transferred or extinguished by an act or operation of law, then, and in every such case, such trust or confidence shall be of the like force and effect as the same would have been if this statute had not Trusts by implication of law excepted.

* The clause which occurs here, and in many of the succeeding sections, fixing, after the 24th of June, 1677, for the commencement of the operation of the act, is omitted.

been made ; any thing hereinbefore contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Assignments of trusts shall be in writing.

171. Sec. IX. All grants and assignments of any trust or confidence, shall likewise be in writing, signed by the party granting or assigning the same by such last will or devise, or else shall likewise be utterly void and of none effect.

Lands, &c. shall be liable to executions against cestuy que trust.

172. Sec. X. It shall and may be lawful for every sheriff, or other officer, to whom any writ or precept is or shall be directed, at the suit of any person or persons, of, for, and upon any judgment, statute, or recognizance, hereafter to be made, or had, to do, make, and deliver execution unto the party in that behalf suing, of all such lands, tenements, rectories, tithes, rents, and hereditaments, as any other person or persons be in any manner of wise seized or possessed, or hereafter shall be seized or possessed in trust for him against whom execution is so sued, like as the sheriff or other officer might or ought to have done, if the said party against whom execution hereafter shall be so sued, had been seized of such lands, tenements, rectories, tithes, rents, or other hereditaments, of such estate as they be seized of in trust for him at the time of the said execution sued ; which lands, tenements, rectories, tithes, rents, and other hereditaments, by force and virtue of such execution, shall accordingly be held and enjoyed, freed and discharged from all incumbrances of such person or persons as shall be so seized or possessed in trust for the person against whom such execution shall be sued. And if any cestuy que trust hereafter shall die, leaving a trust in fee simple to descend to his heir, there, and in every such case, such trust shall be deemed and taken, and is hereby declared to be assets by descent, and the heir shall be liable to, and chargeable with the obligation of his ancestors for and by reason of such assets, as fully and amply as he might or ought to have been, if the estate in law had descended to him in possession in like manner as the trust descended ; any law, custom, or usage to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

And held free from incumbrances of the person who was seized in trust.

Trust estate shall be assets in the hands of the heirs of cestuy que trust.

But no heir shall become chargeable out of his own estate by reason of this act.

173. Sec. XI. Provided always, that no heir that shall become chargeable by reason of any estate or trust made assets in his hands by this law, shall by reason of any kind of plea, or confession of the action, or suffering judgment by nient dedire, or any other matter, be chargeable to the condemnation out of his own estate ; but executions shall be sued of the whole estate so made assets in his hands by descent, in whose hands soever it shall come, after the writ purchased, in the same manner as it is to be at, and by the common law, where the heir at law, pleading a true plea, judgment is prayed against him thereupon ; any thing in this present act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Estates for the life of another shall be devisable, and shall be assets in the heir's hands, and where there is no special occupant, shall go to the executors.

174. Sec. XII. And for the amendment of the law in the particulars following ; Be it further enacted, &c. That from henceforth any estate pur autre vie shall be devisable by will in writing, signed by the party so devising the same, or by some other person in his presence, and by his express directions, attested and subscribed in the presence of the devisor by three or more witnesses ; and if no such devise thereof be made, the same shall be chargeable in the hands of the heir, if it shall come to him by reason of a special occupancy, as assets by descent, as in case of lands in fee simple ; and in case there be no special occupant thereof, it shall go to the executors or administrators of the party that had the estate thereof by virtue of the grant, and shall be assets in their hands.

[Sec. XIII. XIV. XV. and XVI. direct, that judgments shall be dated, and they shall bind lands from such date, and personal property from the delivery of the execution to the sheriff.—Superseded by the provisions of our judiciary law.]

175. Sec. XVII. No contract for the sale of goods, wares, and merchandise, for the price of ten pounds sterling, or upwards, shall be allowed to be good, except the buyer shall accept part of the goods so sold, and actually receive the same, or give something in earnest to bind the bargain, or in part of payment, or that some note or memorandum in writing of the said bargain be made and signed by the parties to be charged by such a contract, or their agents thereunto lawfully authorized.

Contracts for sale of goods for 10 pounds or more.

Sec. XVIII. [Relates to recognizances in the nature of statutes staple.—Not allowed by the judicial acts of this State.]

176. Sec. XIX. And for prevention of fraudulent practices, in setting up nuncupative wills, which have been the occasion of much perjury: Be it enacted, &c. That no nuncupative will shall be good, where the estate thereby bequeathed shall exceed the value of thirty pounds, that is not proved by the oaths of three witnesses* (at the least) that were present at the making thereof; nor unless it be proved that the testator, at the time of pronouncing the same, did bid the persons present, or some of them, bear witness that such was his will, or to that effect; nor unless such nuncupative will were made in the time of the last sickness of the deceased, and in the house of his or their habitation or dwelling, or where he or she hath been resident for the space of ten days, or more, next before the making of such will, except where such person was surprised or taken sick, being from his own home, and died before he returned to the place of his or her dwelling.

Nuncupative wills.

177. Sec. XX. After six months passed after the speaking of the pretended testamentary words, no testimony shall be received to prove any will nuncupative, except the said testimony, or the substance thereof, were committed to writing within six days after the making of the said will.

Nuncupative wills must be reduced to writing.

178. Sec. XXI. No letters testamentary, or probate of any nuncupative will, shall pass the seal of any court, till fourteen days at least after the decease of the testator be fully expired; nor shall any nuncupative will be at any time received to be proved, unless process have first issued to call in the widow, or next of kindred to the deceased, to the end they may contest the same, if they please.

Probate of nuncupative wills.

179. Sec. XXII. No will in writing concerning any goods or chattels, or personal estate, shall be repealed, nor shall any clause, devise, or bequest therein, be altered or changed by any words, or will by word of mouth only, except the same be in the lifetime of the testator committed to writing, and after the writing thereof, read unto the testator, and allowed by him, and proved to be so done by three witnesses at the least.

How written wills of personalty may be revoked.

180. Sec. XXIII. Provided always, that notwithstanding this act, any soldier being in actual military service, or any mariner or seaman being at sea, may dispose of his movables, wages, and personal estate, as he or they might have done before the making of this act.†

Soldiers and mariners' wills excepted.

Sec. XXIV. [Saves the jurisdiction of the archbishops' and other ecclesiastical courts.]

181. Sec. XXV. And for the explaining one act of this present parliament, entitled "An Act for the better settling of Intestates' Estates;" Be it declared, That neither the said act, nor any thing therein contained, shall be construed to extend to the estates of feme coverts that shall die intestate, but that their husbands may demand and have 25TH GEORGE II.—13TH AND 27TH ELIZ.

Abstract of the Act of 25th Gen. II. Ch. 6, explanatory of the foregoing.—[See Rob. on Frauds, 474.]

Legatees are competent witnesses to wills, but their legacies void.

182. Sec. 1st. Reciting that doubts had arisen who were to be deemed legal witnesses within the meaning of the foregoing act, enacts, that if any person shall attest the execution of any will or codicil, to whom any beneficial devise, legacy, estate, interest, or gift, or appointment of or affecting any real or personal estate, except charges on real estate, (for payment of debts,) such devise, &c. shall be void as respects such devisee; and he shall be admitted as a witness.

Or if he has been paid or has refused the legacy he is competent.

183. Or if (sec. 3.) any legacy shall be given to a subscribing witness, (whether charged on real estate or not,) and before he gives his testimony, he "shall have been paid, or have accepted, or released, or shall have refused to accept, such legacy or bequest, upon tender made thereof," he shall be a competent witness: Or if (sec. 5.) he should die before such acceptance or refusal, his attestation to the will shall be held valid: And (sec. 4.) in case of such acceptance of the legacy, he shall retain it whether the will is established or not; and in case of refusal, he shall be for ever barred. And shall not (sec. 7.) after having testified, receive the same, or any benefit thereof, or compensation therefor, on any pretence whatsoever.

The interest of creditors go to

184. And (sec. 2.) where any creditor whose debt is charged on the real estate is a subscribing witness, he shall be allowed to testify notwithstanding.

their credit only.

185. But (sec. 6.) the credit of every such witness, under all the circumstances of the case, shall be subject to the consideration of the court or jury as in other cases.

186. Sec. 8 and 9. Relate to possession under, or contest of wills, previous to 6th May, 1751. Sec. 10 and 11 declare that the act shall extend to any of the American colonies, where by act of assembly or by usage the statute, 29th Charles II. is received as law, or the attestation and subscription of witnesses are made necessary to the validity of devises of real estate.

Abstract of the 13th and 27th Eliz. against Conveyances to defraud Creditors and Purchasers.

Bonds, executions, &c. to defraud creditors void as against such creditors.

187. The 13th Eliz. chap. 5th,† for the protection of creditors, enacts, that every conveyance of real or personal estate by writing or otherwise, and every bond, suit, judgment, and execution, that shall be had or made to delay or defraud creditors and others of their debts and other rights, shall be void as against such creditors, &c. and them only. But that the act shall not extend to any conveyance on good consideration, and bona fide to persons without notice of the fraud.

Conveyances to defraud purchasers, void as against such purchasers.

188. The 27th Elizabeth, chap. 4,† for the protection of purchasers, enacts, that every conveyance of real estate, with the intent to defraud and deceive any person who previously or afterwards purchased the same, shall be void as against such other purchasers, and them only.

* And see Executors, Administrators, &c. Sec. 107.

† For the words of these statutes, which in their unmerciful verbosity exceed most acts even of that period, see Bac. Abr. Fraud, C.; Roberts on Fraudulent Conveyances, 2, n.

But the act shall not extend to any conveyance made for good consideration, and bona fide.

189. And (paragraph 5.) if any person shall make any conveyance of real estate with any clause of future revocation or alteration thereof at his pleasure, and shall afterwards bargain or convey the same estate to any person for a good consideration, (without revoking the first conveyance,) this first conveyance shall be void as relates to the said estate, and as against the second purchasers, and all claiming under them: Provided that no lawful mortgage made bona fide upon good consideration shall be affected by that act.

HABEAS CORPUS.

190. To include "all acts relating to writs of habeas corpus," as the law on this subject, by the terms of it, requires,* would be to devote, perhaps, the greater part of the volume to that title alone. The statute of the 31st of Charles II. here published, extends only to cases of illegal confinement on a criminal charge. To this the compiler, after a few introductory remarks, has prefixed a very brief outline of the law as to the other uses of this important writ. Thus much at least he feels bound to do, and he can do no more consistently with the plan of the work.

The liberty of the subject, which has been so long, and at some periods so justly the favorite theme of British lawyers and historians, may be defined, for the present purpose, to be his privilege not to be imprisoned, but according to the laws of the land. This right they claim as coeval with the foundation of their government, or at least to have existed from a very high and indefinite antiquity; magna charta being only declaratory of the common law. If this right did exist in theory, it was long confined for the most part to the higher orders of the state, the people at large enjoying as little of the benefit of this as of any other law: Being, as every thing else then was, subject to every vicissitude of force, fraud, and corruption, it never, until a date comparatively modern, deserved the name of a settled principle of government. From the great charter, which is the earliest record we have of its formal recognition, it was as fluctuating as the temper of the princes, and the fortune of their arms. It survived the outrages of faction, to be set at nought by absolute despotism, or to be beckoned to silence by a lofty prerogative. And whatever of the practical enjoyment of this right was left by an unprincipled bench, was afterwards perverted by the wildest fanaticism.†

During this period of more than four hundred years, from magna charta to the act of settlement in 1688, when a guarantee of personal liberty for the first time assumed the dignity even of an unbiassed act of legislation, there occur nearly forty statutes, more the result of force than of compact, to which it is not here necessary even to refer. If the English, with a parliament municipally omnipotent, can be justly said to have a constitution, it takes its date from this epocha. In the period succeeding this, the principles of civil liberty became more generally understood than they ever had been before, and more perfectly enjoyed

* See title "Laws," Sec. 16.

† It can hardly be necessary to remind the most cursory reader of English history of the contests of the roses; the reigns of the 8th Henry, of Elizabeth, and of Charles; of the profligacy of the bench while dependent on the crown; of the character of the commonwealth-times, and of other eras here referred to.

than they ever have been by the English people since. It was in this, the best age of English liberty, that the emigrants to America transplanted it hither.

191. The writ of habeas corpus ad subjiciendum, by which this right is practically enforced, is a very ancient writ at common law,—Cro. Car. 466, 2 Hale, 144–5,—though it appears from 2 Mod. 198, and many other cases, that until the time of James I. it was used almost exclusively for the benefit of privileged persons.

192. But besides this writ, which goes for no other purpose but to inquire into the cause of imprisonment, there are several others not within the purview of 31 Charles II. which are frequently used in England, and some of which may be used here for other purposes; and are distinguished from each other by their subject matter.

193. These are 1st, the writ of habeas corpus ad faciendum et recipiendum, or as it is more commonly called, cum causa, which issues in favor of a person who is sued and imprisoned in a civil action in some inferior jurisdiction, and is desirous to remove the cause into a superior court.^a In such case the record of the cause is removed by certiorari, and the body of the prisoner by this writ.^b I am not aware of any case likely to arise under the judicial system of this State, as at present constituted, where this writ would apply. But if an inferior court should proceed against the law, in any matter of which the superior court has exclusive cognizance, and therein should commit a person to prison, he may be discharged by this writ.^c 2d. Habeas corpus ad respondendum. 3d. Habeas corpus ad satisfaciendum. These two writs are allowed in England for removing prisoners^d from one to another of their multiplied jurisdictions; ^e the former to charge him with bail process,^f the latter to take him in execution;^g and this, as Sir William Blackstone says, [3 Comm. 129.] for the more easy administration of justice. Many of the courts in England have their peculiar prisons and ministerial officers; and a person while in the prison, or in the custody of the officers of one of these courts, cannot be arrested by the process of another, unless brought into such other court by habeas corpus for that purpose.^h But as all persons legally imprisoned in this State are in the county jail, a prison common to the authority of all the courts, and are in the custody of an officer subject to the committing process of every magistrate known to our law, these writs are never heard of in practice. Whether a prisoner in the custody of a city marshal can be charged in mesne process or in execution by a sheriff, or vice versa, without a habeas corpus, has probably not been decided in this State since the recent establishment of our city courts. As to the allowance of a hab. corp. by a State court for a prisoner confined by the authority of the United States, I am referred to 5 Benney, 512; 9 Johns. Rep. 239. Bail may by this writ (ad respond.) bring up their principal from another prison, and surrender him; on which he is immediately committed until hab. corp. comes from the former court to remand him back.ⁱ Where a prisoner is removed to be charged with another action, the first plaintiff proceeds nevertheless in the court where he began. Barnes, 384. Defendant cannot be removed into a superior court to be charged with another action for the same cause. Cowp. 116. If the prisoner is removed to be charged in execution on several judgments, there must be a hab. corp. for each. 2 Barnes, 179.

194. 4. Habeas corpus ad prosequendum, which issues to bring up a person to prosecute; or 5. Hab. corp. ad deliberandum, to be prosecuted criminally,^{*} in the proper county; or 6. Hab. corp. ad testificandum, to testify, either in a civil[†] or criminal[‡] cause. By these writs the courts in England frequently direct their own officers to bring up prisoners from their own peculiar prisons. (Salk. 359.) Our courts have not in general considered a writ necessary in such cases, and they are not in practice. I recollect but one instance, which was that of a testificandum. The usage is to send the sheriff for the prisoner, if in the same county, by a verbal direction from the bench. Among other, and perhaps better reasons for this practice, may be this, that a prisoner in the custody of its own officer is considered to be, like the officers themselves, always present in court. [Per Justice Dennisson, 2 Burr, 1051-2.] But where the prisoner is confined on civil process in another circuit or county, or as before suggested, in the prison of a corporation,[§] or of an United States' jurisdiction, this reason at least will not apply: And as such case is not provided for by the following act, a hab. corp. at common law may be necessary.

195. 7. The great writ of habeas corpus ad subjiciendum. The purpose of this writ is to inquire into the lawfulness of the imprisonment complained of. But the act of 31 Char. II. relates only to cases where the prisoner is confined for some criminal or supposed criminal matter. The variety of other cases of unlawful confinement that may occur in the multiplied relations of society can be easily imagined. In 1757 a bill was brought into parliament to extend the provisions of the statute to all other cases of illegal confinement. It passed the commons, but was thrown out by the house of lords. While the bill was before the lords, ten questions were propounded to the judges with the view of ascertaining the extent and operation of the statute, 31 Ch. II. and how the law stood previously. Their answers are of course interesting and important to show how the law stands as to cases not embraced by that statute.

To the first question the ten judges answered unanimously that in cases not within the act of 31 Ch. II. writs of habeas corpus subjiciendum ought not to issue of course but upon probable cause supported by affidavit.

To the second, also unanimously, that such writs may in such cases issue in the vacation by fiat from a judge of the court of king's bench. One of them adding "returnable before himself."

The third question was waived at the request of the judges.

Their answers to the fourth question go to show the commencement of the practice of issuing these writs in vacation.

To the fifth they answered, that at the common law and before the statute the judges were not bound to issue such writs in time of vacation: Eight concurred in this opinion; one contra, and one indefinite. Two of the judges extended their answer to the present time. One of these (Adams) holding that the judges are now bound to issue such writs in vacation; the other (Wilmot) that they are not.

The references in italics, here and elsewhere, are to books that I have not got; and of course are given at second hand.

[§] See 1 Mod. 20, as to local actions.

In answer to the sixth question, they all concur that they were not bound to make them returnable immediate—two of them further observing that they might make them returnable thus or to the next term. As to whether the judges can enforce obedience to them when made returnable immediate, six think they have no power whatever; four, that they have none in vacation.

To the seventh they answer, (dissentient Smyth,) that if before the statute a judge had refused to grant such writ, the prisoner had no remedy against him.

To the eighth they all answer, that before the statute the party might have stood out an alias and pluries hab. corp. All but two of them adding, that at this time the court will by attachment enforce obedience to the first writ returnable immediate, whether it be at common law, or under the statute.

To the ninth they all answer, that the statute 31 Ch. II. does not relieve against any cases of imprisonment or restraint whatsoever except cases of commitment for criminal or supposed criminal matters.

In answer to the tenth they all except one, hold that as to cases out of the statute, they (the judges) are not so bound by the return to the writ but that they may discharge the prisoner if it should appear by the most manifest proof that his detainer is most unwarrantable and in direct violation of law. Four of them however proceed further to say in substance that by this proof they mean the finding of a jury, or the decision on demurrer of an action for a false return. If in this action the return should be falsified, a second or alias hab. corp. would then issue, which would be enforced by attachment. [See 6 Bac. Abr. Dublin ed. 1793, 602.]

196. The following are some of the cases in which the writ at common law has issued. For a young lady decoyed away from her father.¹ For a wife confined by her husband.² At the instance to have his wife brought up who is in the custody of some other person,³ although there may be articles of separation between them, but not to put her in his possession.⁴ And if she is so confined that she cannot make affidavit, the writ shall go without affidavit to bring her up that she may make it.⁵ At the instance of a father for his son in the custody of his aunt,⁶ and at the instance of a father for his daughter aged 18, who was a kept mistress.⁷ Where it was alleged that the prisoner was mad, the court ordered an inspection, by her nearest relation, her attorney, and a physician; and also judged from its own view in court.⁸

197. The writ, whether under the statute or at common law, must be directed to whoever has the person in confinement, whether it be an officer or a private person.⁹ It runs into any county and into any peculiar jurisdiction.¹⁰ It must not be in the disjunctive as to the sheriff or jailer.¹¹ If directed to the sheriff of A. who before the return ceases to be sheriff, he and his successor should join in the return; the first, stating that he has had the body and delivered it to his successor; and the new sheriff must return the present situation of the prisoner.¹² It is no excuse for not bringing up a prisoner that he did not tender the fees, but the court will not turn him over until the jailer's fees are paid.^c Upon the return of the habeas corpus, the cause of the imprisonment ought to appear as specifically and certainly to the judges before whom it is returned, as it did to the person authorized to commit.^d The return may be amended before it is filed.^e On a hab. corp. granted by a judge in vacation returnable immediate before himself at his chambers, the party may be brought into court in term time.^f Or if on a writ so returnable, is brought up before him, he may if he deems it advisable adjourn the return and direct him to be brought into court the first day of the term.^g Provided it would seem, that as to cases within the statute the term is not more than two days, or in cases out of the statute, not more than three days distant. And if the court should be in doubt, they may remand the prisoner, or may bail him from day to day, (by the petition of right not exceeding three days,) until they determine.^h The truth of the return cannot in general be controverted, though it may be confessed and avoided.ⁱ But the court will sometimes hear explanatory affidavits.^j

198. Since the statute, a writ under the act, (and by the practice and in favor of liberty, it is apprehended in other cases also,) may be demanded by any person whatsoever, but according to the law which governs each kind respectively. Any superior or inferior court will grant it in term time at discretion, as they do any other judicial act: and it is the duty of any judge or justice of either court, to grant it in vacation, and on pain of £500 if the case is within the stat. 31 Ch. II.^k If a return is not made to the first writ an attachment will go without rule to return.^l The court or judge on the return of the writ will not determine in that summary manner inter partes any rights of guardianship,^m or any martial rights,ⁿ when these are contested. And therefore will not say whose custody the person shall be in, leaving that to be regularly tried: generally telling the prisoner to go where he pleases.^o And if a female, sometimes sending an officer to protect her to the place where she wishes to go.^p But a child so young as to be incapable of exercising any judgment of its own, was delivered into the custody of the legal guardian appointed by its father's will.^q The court will in some cases it seems exercise a discretion on this point, and on good cause shown, as that the person is a lunatic confined by her nearest relations, the court will enlarge the time to return the writ so as to allow them to obtain the legal guardianship.^r

Persons set at large not to be recommitted but by order of court.

204. VI. And for the prevention of unjust vexation by reiterated commitments for the same offence : Be it enacted, &c. That no person or persons which shall be delivered or set at large upon any habeas corpus, shall at any time hereafter be again imprisoned or committed for the same offence by any person or persons whatsoever other than by the legal order and process of such court, wherein he or they shall be bound by recognizance to appear, or other court having jurisdiction of the cause ; and if any other person or persons shall knowingly, contrary to this act, recommit, or imprison, or knowingly procure, or cause to be recommitted or imprisoned, for the same offence or pretended offence, any person or persons delivered or set at large as aforesaid, or be knowingly aiding or assisting therein, then he or they shall forfeit to the prisoner or party grieved the sum of five hundred pounds ; any colorable pretence or variation in the warrant or warrants of commitment notwithstanding, to be recovered as aforesaid.

Persons committed for treason or felony, shall be indicted the next term or let to bail.

205. VII. Provided always, and be it further enacted, That if any person or persons shall be committed for high treason or felony, plainly and specially expressed in the warrant of commitment, upon his prayer or petition in open court the first week of the term, or first day of the sessions of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, to be brought to his trial, shall not be indicted some time in the next term, sessions of oyer and terminer or general jail delivery, after such commitment : It shall and may be lawful to and for the judges of the court of king's bench and justices of oyer and terminer or general jail delivery, and they are hereby required, upon motion to them made in open court the last day of the term, sessions or jail delivery, either by the prisoner or any one in his behalf, to set at liberty upon bail, unless it appear to the judges and justices, upon oath made, that the witnesses for the king could not be produced the same term, sessions or general jail delivery ; and if any person or persons committed as aforesaid, upon his prayer or petition in open court the first week of the term or first day of the sessions of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery, to be brought to his trial, shall not be indicted and tried the second term, sessions of oyer and terminer or general jail delivery, after his commitment, or upon his trial shall be acquitted, he shall be discharged from his imprisonment.*

And shall be tried the second term from his commitment or be discharged.

Proviso.

206. VIII. Provided always, that nothing in this act shall extend to discharge out of prison any person charged in debt or other action, or with process in any civil cause, but that after he shall be discharged of his imprisonment for such his criminal offence, he shall be kept in custody according to law for such other suit.

Prisoners not to be removed from one prison to another, costs, besides damages, which damages so to be given, shall not be less than five hundred pounds; in which action no delay, stay, or stop of proceeding by rule, order, or command, nor no injunction, protection, or privilege whatsoever, nor any more than one imparlance shall be allowed, excepting such rule of the court wherein the action shall depend, made in open court, as shall be thought in justice necessary, for special cause to be expressed in the said rule; and the person or persons who shall knowingly frame, contrive, write, seal, or counter-sign any warrant for such commitment, detainer, or transportation, or shall so commit, detain, imprison, or transport any person or persons contrary to this act, or be any ways advising, aiding, or assisting therein, being lawfully convicted thereof, shall be disabled from thenceforth to bear any office of trust or profit within the said realm of England, dominion of Wales, or town of Berwick upon Tweed, or any of the islands, territories, or dominions thereunto belonging; and shall incur and sustain the pains, penalties, and forfeitures limited, ordained, and provided in and by the statute of provision and præmunire made in the sixteenth year of King Richard the Second; and be incapable of any pardon from the king, his heirs, or successors, of the said forfeitures, losses, or disabilities, or any of them.

Exceptions.
Person contracting for,

211. XIII. Provided always, That nothing in this act shall extend to give benefit to any person who shall by contract in writing agree with any merchant or owner of any plantation, or other person whatsoever, to be transported to any parts beyond the seas, and receive earnest upon such agreement, although that afterwards such person shall renounce such contract.

or convicts transportation.

212. XIV. Provided always, and be it enacted, That if any person or persons lawfully convicted of any felony, shall in open court pray to be transported beyond the seas, and the court shall think fit to leave him or them in prison for that purpose, such person or persons may be transported into any parts beyond the seas; this act, or any thing therein contained, to the contrary notwithstanding.

XV. [Fixes the commencement of the operation of the act at the 1st day of June, 1679.]

Offenders may be sent to be tried where their offences were committed.

213. XVI. Provided also, That if any person or persons at any time resident in this realm, shall have committed any capital offence in Scotland or Ireland, or any of the islands, or foreign plantations of the king, his heirs, or successors, where he or she ought to be tried for such offence, such person or persons may be sent to such place, there to receive such trial, in such manner as the same might have been used before the making of this act, any thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Prosecutions for offences, time to be made.

214. XVII. Provided also, and be it enacted, That no person or persons shall be sued, impleaded, molested, or troubled for any offence against this act, unless the party offending be sued or impleaded for the same within two years at the most after such time wherein the offence shall be committed, in case the party grieved shall not be then in prison; and if he shall be in prison, then within the space of two years after the decease of the person imprisoned, or his or her delivery out of prison, which shall first happen.

After the assizes proclaimed, no prisoner to be removed but before the judge of assize.

215. XVIII. And to the intent no person may avoid his trial at the assizes or general jail delivery, by procuring his removal before the assizes, at such time as he cannot be brought back to receive his trial there; Be it enacted, That after the assizes proclaimed for that county where the prisoner is detained, no person shall be removed from the common jail upon any habeas corpus granted in pursuance of this act, but upon any such habeas corpus shall be brought before the judge of assize in open court, who is thereupon to do what to justice shall appertain.

216. XIX. Provided nevertheless, That after the assizes are ended, any person or persons detained, may have his or her habeas corpus according to the direction and intention of this act.

217. XX. If any information, suit, or action shall be brought or exhibited against any person or persons for any offence committed, or to be committed against the form of this law, it shall be lawful for such defendants to plead the general issue, that they are not guilty, or that they owe nothing, and to give such special matter in evidence to the jury that shall try the same, which matter being pleaded had been good and sufficient matter in law to have discharged the said defendant or defendants against the said information, suit, or action, and the said matter shall be then as available to him or them, to all intents and purposes, as if he or they had sufficiently pleaded, set forth, or alleged the same matter in bar or discharge of such information, suit, or action.

218. XXI. And because many times persons charged with petty treason or felony, or as accessaries thereunto, are committed upon suspicion only, whereupon they areailable, or not, according as the circumstances making out that suspicion are more or less weighty, which are best known to the justices of the peace that committed the persons, and have the examinations before them, or to other justices of the peace in the county; Be it therefore enacted, that where any person shall appear to be committed by any judge or justice of the peace, and charged as accessary before the fact, to any petty treason or felony; or upon suspicion thereof, or with suspicion of petty treason or felony, which petty treason or felony shall be plainly and specially expressed in the warrant of commitment, that such person shall not be removed or bailed by virtue of this act, or in any other manner than they might have been before the making of this act.

In suits for offences against this law, the defendants may plead the general issue, &c.

Persons committed as accessaries before the fact to petty treason or felony, shall not be removed or bailed by virtue of this act.
